Launch RKO Radio Meet Here Today

Stolkin Due in; Expect Management Decisions

With Ralph Stolkin, head of the syndicate which last week purchased the controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes, scheduled to arrive here today from Chicago, preparations were made yesterday for a full-scale meeting of company heads with the new owners today and tomorrow.

Presumably the meetings will be of an executive nature inasmuch as no notice of a meeting of the board of directors had gone out up to last night. One explanation offered was that the new owners, under their purchase agreement with Hughes, will not have voting rights to the stock until early next week—two weeks after the closing of the deal.

Nevertheless, an RKO Pictures spokesman indicated yesterday that a statement probably will be issued following the close of the meeting tomorrow.

Meanwhile, unofficial reports con-

STARR'S AIM: ONE EXHIBITOR 'FORUM'

'Because,' 'Loves,' 'Widow' Open Strong At B'way 1st-runs

Strong openings for "Because You're Mine," "Somebody Loves Me" and "The Merry Widow" featured this week's grosses at New York first-run theatres.

At Radio City Music Hall, a fine $145,000 is forecast for the first seven days of "Because You're Mine," while a solid $90,000 is indicated in the initial week of "Somebody Loves Me" at the Roxy. Both the Hall and Roxy feature stage shows.

"The Merry Widow" at Loew's State is expected to hit a healthy

Says Films Ignore Vast Patronage

The industry is overlooking a "gold mine" by not acting to get an estimated 25,000,000 persons in towns with populations under 200,000 to attend theatres, Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America president, said here yesterday. He said these persons are in the "over age 30" group.

They are the kind of persons, Starr said, who seem to be unable to determine whether pictures showing in their

Says He Will Meet With Allied Leaders Soon to Discuss Exhibitor Unity

Alfred Starr, newly-elected Theatre Owners of America president, yesterday said he will take steps to bring about the formation of a single, all-embracing exhibitor organization or "forum."

Here from Nashville, where he makes his business headquarters, Starr told trade press reporters in his first interview since his election on Sept. 15 that the day when exhibitors are thus united for the purpose of solving common problems "can't come too soon."

The TOA chief executive indicated that the first step he will take in the direction of achieving this goal will be to confer with such Allied leaders as Abram F. Myers, board chairman; Wilbur Snaper, president, and Trueman T. Rembusch, ex-president.

Starr said he expected to be invited to attend Allied's national convention

Film Anti-Trust Cases on the Rise

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Henry P. Chandler, director of the administrative office of the Federal courts, noted in his annual report that the number of private anti-trust suits increased to the greatest figure in recent years and "a considerable proportion of private cases were brought against motion picture companies."

Chandler cited a study in the Yale Law Review of June-July which shows the large percentage of film industry private anti-trust suits.

DECIDE NOT TO ASK N. Y. TRIAL OF 16mm. SUIT

Production-distribution company defendants in the government's anti-trust suit to compel the licensing of 16mm. feature films to television and other non-theatrical users have decided not to ask for a change of venue which would transfer trial of the suit from the Los Angeles Federal District court, where it was filed, to the New York Federal court, in whose jurisdiction the defendants have their principal places of business.

The matter has been under study by the defendants since the filing of the suit last July. A much earlier trial of the government action is now in prospect as a result of the decision not to request the transfer. The Federal court docket in New York is the most congested of any in the country and predictions had been made that the case might not be tried for several years if it were to be transferred here.

While there are no reliable estimates of when the case might come to trial in Los Angeles, it is generally believed that it might be anywhere from a year to two years earlier than in New York.

TOA Poll on 16mm. Suit Starts Soon

TOA within a week will send its member units a bulletin asking them to vote on whether the organization should seek defendant status in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, Alfred Starr, president, said here yesterday. The complaint dubbed TOA a "co-conspirator."

Disney to Represent Independent Artists

Frederick Brisson and Roy Disney have completed negotiations whereby Walt Disney Productions will be the world sales representatives for Brisson's Independent Artists Pictures, Inc.

"Never Wave at A WAC," which producer Brisson has just completed, with Rosalind Russell, Marie Wilson and Paul Douglas, will be the first of the Independent Artists films to be handled by the Disney organization. The arrangement marks the first time Disney has accepted the sales representation for an independent. RKO Radio is distributing "Never Wave at A WAC."

Construction Controls Cut Pushed Back to May 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — National Production Authority officials have made a surprise decision to push back to May 1 the proposed relaxation of theatre construction curbs.

Earlier, this relaxation had been promised for April 1. NPA was supposed to issue tomorrow the order making this relaxation official. Now the date for issuing the order is Friday, and NPA officials said one reason for the delay was that the effective date has been shoved back and this required some last-minute changes in the order.

The May 1 date is still tentative, and it might be April 1 again by the time the order is isued. But NPA officials said they doubted this. They declared that the reason for pushing the date back was that they felt it better to be safe and put the proposed relexation further off, and then move it up later, rather than to put it too early and have to postpone it later.

They pointed out that a meeting of construction industry officials has been called for Oct. 29, and that this meeting might recommend an earlier relaxation of theatre construction curbs, possibly as early as Jan. 1 or Feb. 1.

Under the proposed relaxation, persons planning to build theatres could self-authorize—write their own priorities—for limited amounts of steel, copper and aluminum, and would stand a far better chance of getting NPA allotments of even larger amounts.

AMPA Class In Larger Quarters

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers classes on advertising and promotion has been required to find larger quarters for the weekly sessions. Tomorrow evening's class will meet at six o'clock at the 20th Century-Fox Little Theatre.

Paul N. Lazarus, Jr., Columbia executive, will discuss the home office advertising and publicity operations of a motion picture company at this second lecture in the ten-week course.

Small, Todd to Make Second Joint Film

"Sodom and Gomorrah," to be filmed in color, has been chosen as the second of three pictures which Edward Small and Mike Todd will make in association abroad for United Artists release, UA announced.

The film is on the producers' combined slate for late in 1953, after completion of "The Vikings," their first joint color picture for which Todd is now in Europe organizing facilities.

First Drive for Audio

Audio Pictures has started its first sales drive, during which it will honor its president, Arthur Gottlieb. The drive is to run through Dec. 11, and has as its goal a quota of $150,000 in screen advertising rentals for the 400 theatres with which Audio holds agreements.

Cinerama Process Found Impressive

"This Is Cinerama" premiered before a packed audience of notables at the Broadway Theatre here last night and revealed itself as an amazing process capable of capturing audiences hitherto untouched or television-bound.

At its best in breath-taking panoramas and startling close-ups, this process enrapts an audience with its three-dimensional effect. The color by Technicolor film opened with a roller coaster ride that elicited excited murmurs and spontaneous applause, as did the sequences that followed.

The two-hour program included films of a prologue by Lowell Thomas; a dance of the priestesses from "Aida"; a helicopter view of Niagara Falls; the Long Island Choral Society singing Handel's "The Messiah"; Venetian boatmen in gondolas; the Gathering of the Clans in Scotlan; a bullfight and native dances in Spain; the triumphal march from "Aida," performed by the La Scala Opera Company in Milan; the Vienna Boys Choir singing; a tour of the Tyrol in Wolfgang; the Water Carnival at Cypress Gardens in Florida; and "America the Beautiful," sung by the Salt Lake City Tabernacle Choir while an aerial tour of U. S. A. landmarks is shown.

For the special process William Lescaze Associates, architects, designed mechanical construction for the Broadway Theatre. Three projection booths were set into the balcony, each projector filling one third of the Cinerama screen, which is 51 feet wide and 26 feet high. The curved screen was specially designed by Fred Waller, inventor of the process, and is not one great sheet, but consists of 1,100 vertical strips of perforated tape set at angles like louvres of a sideways Venetian blind. The stereophonic sound effect is obtained with the placement of five speakers behind the screen, one on each sound wall, and one at the rear of the theatre. These speakers convey the sounds as recorded at similar positions by the same number of microphones during the original shooting.

William R. Latady, vice-president of Cinerama, Inc., expects that in future theatre design the projection booths can be built directly into the balcony. Estimates of installation costs vary from $35,000 to $70,000 with an average of about $50,000. All equipment is designed to be portable and plug-in, and will be leased to theatre owners by Cinerama. The second Cinerama camera has been completed and projection equipment is ready for installation in theatres in the United States and England.

Kearney Promoted

The appointment of Don L. Kearney as national sales manager of American Broadcasting Co.'s television stations was announced by Slocum Chapin, vice-president.

Three 20th-Fox Films Set for Roxy Here

Three of 20th Century-Fox's top color in Technicolor productions of the year have been dated into the Roxy Theatre, it was revealed by the company yesterday.

The pictures, which will be shown at the house starting in late October or early November, are "Way of A Gaucho," produced by Philip Dunne and directed by Jacques Tourneur; Damon Runyon's "Bloodhounds of Broadway," produced by George Jessel and directed by Harmon Jones, and "Pony Soldier," produced by Samuel G. Engel and directed by Joseph M. Newman.

Aylesworth

as president of NBC beginning in 1926. Aylesworth left RKO to join the Scripps-Howard newspapers management and was named publisher of the World-Telegram in 1938. He was a lawyer by profession but was active for most of his life in radio, motion pictures and public utilities.

From 1934 to 1945 he was board chairman of Radio City Music Hall. In 1941 he was appointed chief of the radio section of the Office of the Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs and its executive consultant. Aylesworth was the first to lease a theatre for the "live" presentation of radio programs before an audience.

From 1914-18 he was chairman of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission and then was executive vice-president of the Utah Power & Light Co. Later he was managing director of the National Electric Light Association and toward the close of his career was chairman of the executive committee of Ellington & Co., Inc., an advertising firm.

Mrs. Gala Levy, 84

Mrs. Gala Levy, 84, mother of Joel Levy of Loew's Theatres film booking department here, died Monday after a long illness. The funeral, held yesterday, was private.

RKO Meeting

cerning the company's future executive set-up increased by the hour. One, widely circulated, but lacking confirmation, was that Arnold Grant, one of the attorneys who acted for the Stolkin group in the purchase negotiations, would become chairman of the board; Stolkin would assume the presidency and Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, would head the studio.

Earlier reports were that Stolkin would be named board chairman and Ned E. Depinet would continue as president. Queried yesterday, Depinet said he had no information concerning the plans of the new owners.

Arrived Yesterday

Arriving here yesterday from the Coast for the sessions were Grant, Sidney Korshak and Gordon Youngman, Hollywood attorneys who represented the Stolkin group in the negotiations. Arriving today in addition to Stolkin will be Corwin and Greg Bautzer, the latter also of counsel for Stolkin.

Advance reports on the meetings included one that RKO Pictures' financing will be given extended and immediate attention by the new owners. The company has a $5,000,000 revolving credit with Bankers Trust Co. here, which reportedly is shared by the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh. Re-negotiation of the credit by the new owners may be necessary, according to one report. In this connection, Hughes confirmed last week that if called upon to do so by the new owners, he is committeed to making an $8,000,000 loan to RKO Pictures.

Milton Pickman, vice-president of Wald-Krasna Prod., arrived here from the Coast yesterday in connection with an approach made to Jerry Wald by Corwin for the former to head production at the RKO Pictures studio. Pickman returned to the Coast last night. Before his departure he indicated that it was premature to discuss such a deal at this time but might return here later, pending future developments.

W.C. Stober Leaves General Register

W. C. Stober, general sales manager of General Register Corp. for the past six years, has resigned as of today. Saul Hammer, officer of the General Register Corp. for many years, now heads the sales department.

Stober has accepted a position with the Burroughs Adding Machine in the transportation division. He plans to reside in Chicago, and have headquarters there.

All of Stober's employment has been in the theatre equipment field beginning in 1934 as shipping clerk for National Theatre Supply Co.'s Seattle branch.

N.Y. Grosses

$35,000 for its first week. At the Rivoli, a strong $68,000 was indicated for the second week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro."

"Son of Paleface" opens today at the Paramount Theatre and the premiere will be highlighted throughout the day by personal appearances of Bob Hope, who recently returned from Europe. The second and final week of "Big Jim McLane" at the Paramount was due to hit $53,000.

The second inning of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is forecast to hit an excellent $27,000, while a nice $36,000 is seen for the sixth week of "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol. "Lure of the Wilderness" replaces "You for Me" on Friday at the Globe, which is expected to register a rather weak $8,500 for its seven-day engagement.

'Noon' in 10th Week

A good $17,500 is indicated for the 10th week of "High Noon" at the Mayfair. "World in His Arms" bows there Oct. 9. For the sixth stanza of "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" a nice $15,000 is forecast by the Astor. "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria is expected to hit a more than satisfactory $13,000 for its ninth week.

Among off-Broadway houses, "The Magic Box" opened to a healthy $10,400 for its first seven days at the Normandie. Still doing well is "Ivory Hunter" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux, where $5,200 is seen for the picture's sixth week. At the Park Avenue, a robust $6,000 is estimated for the third inning of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre."

The long-standing hold-over, "Man in the White Suit," at the Sutton is expected to do a fine $5,400 for its 26th week, while the seventh round of "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is due to register a nice $4,000.

"This is Cinerama" opened last night at the Broadway Theatre to a capacity audience and the advance two-a-day sale of tickets indicates an eight-week sell-out. The advance sale for "Limelight," which will open on a roadshow basis at the 60th Street Trans-Lux on Oct. 23, was described yesterday as "excellent."

'Andersen'

in effect for the premiere engagements. While terms were not disclosed, it was reported that the highest guarantees ever given a picture by comparable Broadway houses are involved. In the case of the Paris, for example, the guarantee is understood to be a minimum of $150,000, with provisions which could boost the producer's take well above that amount.

Prior commitments of Radio City Music Hall left it with no open date earlier than around Jan. 15. With Goldwyn aiming for a pre-Christmas premiere, a Music Haill engagement had to be ruled out.

"Andersen," in color by Technicolor, stars Danny Kaye, with Jeanmaire and Farley Granger co-starred. Moss Hart wrote the screenplay in conjunction with Frank Loesser, who composed the musical score. Charles Vidor directed. Goldwyn told a press conference here last week that the picture will have to gross $8,000,000 to break even.

TV Cost Data

Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

MPAA and NETTC have been prodding A. T. and T. for months for detailed transmission cost figures, for use in the coming Federal Communications Commission hearings on theatre television. The A. T. and T. people have been saying that all their cost data is based on a four megacycle transmission band, and that they can't supply financial information on the 10 mc band that the film industry wants to use.

The meeting was set up today to try and work out a middle ground, and was apparently successful. Participants said the session, held at MPAA headquarters, had been "very pleasant" and that "a very helpful exchange of ideas on engineering problems" had taken place. The upshot of the meeting was that the A. T. and T. people said they would "make every effort" to have ready by Dec. 31 the financial data sought by the film industry.

Industry officials said the delay in getting information from the phone company would not interfere with plans to start the FCC hearings on Oct. 20. They pointed out that the FCC had specified that the week or so of hearings starting Oct. 20 was to be devoted to a presentation of the film industry's own engineering and cost plans, and that the phone company testimony could well come later, in the lengthier hearings scheduled to start Jan. 12.

No Further Meetings

No further meetings are scheduled at this time between the two groups, officials said.

The A. T. and T. delegation consisted of six men, headed by Ernest North, general counsel of the long lines division, and Frank A. Cowan, top engineer for the division. NETTC was represented by attorney Marcus Cohn and engineer Stuart Bailey. MPAA was represented by attorneys James L. Fly and Vincent Welch, engineering adviser Andrew Inglis, Ed Cooper of the MPAA staff, Earl Sponable of 20th Century-Fox, Frank Cahill of Warner Brothers, Lester Isaac of Loew's and Richard Hodson of Paramount.

Schlanger Returns

Ben Schlanger, New York theatre architect, and William A. Hoffberg, engineer associated with him, have returned here from a six-week visit to Europe where many installations of their synchronous-surround motion picture screen are in progress. RCA Photophone, Ltd., recently took over distribution of the screen in Europe, marketing it, as RCA does in the U. S., under the name of "Synchro-Screen."

Milland Air Promotion

Ray Milland will make a series of three taped broadcasts for the U. S. State Department's "Voice of America" series about his latest starring vehicle, "The Thief," for Central Europe and Germany. "The Thief" will have its world premiere at the New York Roxy Theatre following the current feature, "Somebody Loves Me."

National Pre-Selling

COSMOPOLITAN for October faces a strong four-color, full-page advertisement for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" opposite Louella Parson's equally strong praise for "Hemingway's Magic Touch," with a following page of pictures and argument to support her theory. She says, "All the romance, poetry, and thrilling action of one of the great stories of our time is faithfully translated to the screen." Continuing, she gives caption credit to "A musical comedy —'Just for You'," "an operatta, 'The Merry Widow'," and "the inspiring story of a miracle, 'The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima'," which are rated this month's best . . . Redbook has a fine cover portrait of Kathryn Grayson, and the caption, "the story of an amazing girl who has solved all her problems but one—men." And, inside Redbook, a color spread in which she says, "I don't have dates with men; I marry them"—an unusual statement from an unusual girl. Movie editor Florence Somers' selection as Redbook's Picture-of-the-Month is "Sudden Fear."

American Legion Magazine* for October tells the story of how the Reds made a sucker of Edward G. Robinson, and gives the screen star's view-point to its 3,600,000 readers: "If any man is accused of Communism falsely, he owes it to himself and the nation to make a statement of his true position. If he will not do so, I for one would take the charges against him seriously." Life carries a striking two-color ad from RKO Radio on "The Lusty Men"—"a fast buck, a fast bronc, a fast thrill." And another feature article on "The Shrinking of Jose Ferrer," showing how the actor is shortened 15 inches to play the dwarfed Lautrec, a role that will be more talked about than "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Ruth Harbert in Good Housekeeping's November issue tells why history teachers are going to have a tall job explaining when "Plymouth Adventure" comes to both city and town theatres. Helen Deutsch, who wrote the screenplay after two years of research here and in England, has challenged many of our favorite fables about passengers on the Mayflower's heroic voyage. You'll be stunned to learn what caused the loudest complaints during the damp, 96-day journey over the winter seas! It's not surprising that Dore Schary, producer of the picture, says that 102 passengers and 33 sailors were "Men and Women of flesh and blood, with just the same outlooks and foibles as we have today."

Life is giving interesting coverage on the "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" in its issue coming up this Friday, and for the first time in history, Wide World Photos, the syndicated picture service originating with the New York Times, is servicing a total of six photographs taken at the world premiere, to its syndicate list of 1,100 newspapers. . . . Stars of two RKO pictures will appear on two covers of the New York Sunday News rotogravure color magazine, first, Janis Carter, and next week, Gloria Grahame.

WALTER BROOKS

Films Ignore

towns are of the intellectual quality they demand. He said they are potential film-goers who would enjoy "High Noon" while disdaining an ordinary Western. But, he asked, how are they to know that "High Noon" is not an ordinary Western? They are not persons who necessarily would patronize "art" pictures, Starr emphasized.

'Pet Project'

The job of educating this potential audience to the existence of intelligent, artistically significant product, Star said, is one for distributors, exhibitors, small city film critics and any others who can be recruited for the task. He described the job as his own "pet project."

These 25,000,000 non-film goers, Starr held, are individuals who are not to be seduced by television, the comics, or other such media of entertainment. They are people who read good books and lean to other intellectual pursuits, he said.

Could Achieve Improvement

Starr believes also that the difficulties that distributors experience in supplying prints can be solved by "mathematical algebraic logic" as performed by outside independent analysts. A 20 per cent improvement in the print situation could be achieved by such analysts, he claimed. A survey "wouldn't cost the distributors a nickel," he said. Starr, who is reputed to be a "mathematical genius," had trade press reporters straining to understand his theory.

One Exhibitor Forum

in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, thus implying that he would broach the subject to Allied leaders at that time.

Commensurate with his visions of a single, nationwide exhibitor organization, or "forum," or "conference" (he appeared to regard the terms as interchangeable), Starr said he is "banking on greatly improved exhibitor-distributor relations" in the not-too-distant future.

Such improved relations, he contended, would be inherent in an industry system of arbitration. But, he reminded, arbitration, "which can result in an entirely new era for the industry," must be built "on the good faith of all sides." He added: "We all are in the same industry, and we know we can't succeed in the job unless all segments cooperate."

Starr and Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, who sat in on the interview, told the reporters that the arbitration draft amending work currently being done by distributor lawyers was approved by both Myers and Levy at the recent arbitration parley in Washington among distributor, Allied, and TOA officials.

The lawyers' task, it was determined yesterday, will be completed in time to allow the presidents of the distribution companies to act on the amendments at a meeting around the middle of next week. Upon approval by the presidents, the draft will be turned over to Allied and TOA for action, Levy assumed.

Starr, who told the TOA convention he was optimistic about the establishment of an arbitration system that would be universally satisfactory, repeated this opinion yesterday. He said that no exhibitor or distributor could expect to see a workable system if he seeks to get "undue advantage" in proceedings. He said that arbitration can minimize the number of industry suits, not do away with them entirely. The exercise of goodwill, he added, will spell the success of a system.

Starr credited Myers with having made many valuable contributions to the establishment of an arbitration system.

The conciliation provisions of the arbitration plan have been approved by all parties, Starr said. He reminded that conciliation first will be essayed before any case goes to arbitration.

Will Not Take Action

TOA will not take any action on the General Mills Corp. proposal at the convention to give away theatre passes along with distribution of free samples of the company's products. Levy interjected that it was likely that individual exhibitor members of TOA may try out the idea.

Herman Hunt, Cincinnati theatre owner, has indicated to Starr that he will sponsor a luncheon of Southern Ohio exhibitors in that city with a view to forming a Southern Ohio TOA unit. Starr said that this TOA convention development is expected to bear fruit "in a few weeks." Both Starr and Levy said TOA has opened its doors to any Western Theatre Owners units who wish to join. WTO is leaderless at present.

Starr left here last evening by plane for Kansas City. He will attend the meeting next week in St. Louis of the MPTO of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. Starr said he will attend many TOA regional and unit meetings during the coming months.

Walcott Bout Set Attendance Record

An all-time paid attendance record for any sporting event was set by the recent Walcott-Marciano bout, according to figures compiled by Theatre Network Television, the agency which booked the bout for theatre television.

Over 120,000 fight fans saw the heavyweight title bout in 50 TV-equipped theatres stretched across the country, while 41,000 persons were at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, the site of the match, bringing the total attendance for the event to 161,000, according to TNT. The old attendance record, TNT stated, was set by the second Dempsey-Tunney match in Philadelphia more than two decades ago, which attracted 122,000 persons.

TNT added that the total theatre TV gross, including Federal admission taxes, was in excess of $400,000, with an average gross of $8,000 per theatre.

Crouse Suit Goes To Federal Judge

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—The suit of William Crouse of Eveleth, Minn., charging Minnesota Amusement Co. and distributors with conspiracy, has been transferred from a slated jury trial to judgment by the Federal District Court here.

Crouse charges the Maco circuit conspired with film companies to keep product away from his Eveleth theatres in favor of Maco's nearby Virginia, Minn., houses.

Stan Kane is counsel for Crouse, while David Shearer represents the distributors, except Paramount, which is represented along with Maco by Mandt Torrison.

Cite Ornstein Stories

Four of the 20 stories which William Ornstein, M-G-M home office trade press liaison, included in his book, "Ma and Me," just published by Story Book Press of Dallas, are given "Distinctive Mention" by Martha Foley in the 1952 edition of "Best American Short Stories." The four originally were published in the American Jewish Times Outlook and are as follows: "The Apprentice," "Eventide Song," "Badge of Honor" and "Tea on Wednesday." In addition to this group, Miss Foley also mentions in her anthology six other stories by the same author: "The Crime of These Corners," "Fun, Fast and Feast," "Harold (The Shamus) Klein," "Ocarina Nocturne," "Family Tree" and "Same Line, Old Tune."

"Captive Women"

(RKO Pictures)

DEMOLISHED New York City, in the post-Atomic war year of 3,000 A.D., is the setting of this minor entry that has ample exploitation features. The populace lives mostly in caves underground and is divided into three groups: the evil Uprivermen, led by power-mad Stuart Randall, the devil-worshipping Norms, led by Robert Clarke in exile when Randall overthrows the Norm leadership by treachery, and the Mutations who are physically disfigured from the atomic radiation let loose in the 20th Century, led by Ron Randell.

There is a three-minute documentary introduction in which a serious voiced narrator warns that this is what might occur in the future while familiar footage of the United Nations building, the atomic explosions, and Hiroshima is used. The film is on the familiar melodramatic level and the title is derived from the attempts of the Mutations to propagate healthy children by stealing Norm women.

Clarke and aide Robert Bice flee Randall and are caught by Ron Randell and the Mutations who force them to live across the river. William Schallert, a Mutation seeking Randell's throne, stirs up discontent and has a fight for the leadership with Randell. When defeated, he is allowed to leave and deserts to Stuart Randall, giving him the secret of the under-river cave which had guaranteed the Mutations' safety. Randell is captured by Randall but later freed by Clarke and Bice while the pursuing Uprivermen are destroyed when the Mutations flood the under river cave. All ends happily when one of the Norm women, agrees to marry Randell out of love, and thus the God-worshipping Mutations are assured of a healthy propagation.

Margaret Field and Gloria Saunders provide the feminine attraction. This was written and produced by Aubrey Wisberg and Jack Pollexfen.

Running time, 65 minutes. General audience classification. Release date not set.

Program Completed For St. Louis Meet

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Hotel reservations and banquet ticket sales indicate a record annual meeting for the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois when the organization gathers Monday and Tuesday at the Chase Hotel here.

General chairman Tom Edwards, and co-chairmen William H. Waring, Jr., and Bill Williams, along with the program committee have laid out a busy schedule for the gathering.

Open Forums Featured

Open forums will be featured throughout the sessions. Speakers will include: Herman Levy, general counsel, Theatre Owners of America, on "Industry Arbitration," "The 16-mm. Lawsuit" and "Possibilities of Tax Reduction in the Next Congress"; Ray Colvin, executive director, Theatre Equipment Dealers Association of St. Louis, on "The Motion Picture Industry as a Business, Art and Social Force"; Leon Bamberger, RKO Radio, on "Public Relations and Your Public"; Herb Bennin, M-G-M manager, St. Louis, on "Movietime U.S.A. in 1952-53."

Also, Jack Keiler of the Columbia Amusement Co., Paducah, Ky., on "Exploitation and Publicity"; Al Reynolds of Claude Ezell and Associates, Dallas, on "Drive In Concesions and Operations"; Pat Magee, Denver, on "COMPO and the 16-mm. Anti-Trust Suit"; Larry W. Davee, Century Projector, New York City, "Third Dimensional Projection"; Senn Lawler, Fox Midwest, Kansas City, "Publicity That Produces."

The program will also include trailers of top pictures to be released during the coming season with explanatory talks by advertising and publicity representatives of film companies. The latest developments in theatre equipment, appliances and supplies will be on display at the trade show to be conducted in conjunction with the meeting.

High Attendance Marks K-MTA Meet

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30.—The 34th annual convention of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Association opened today with registration like that of the best attended meetings of recent years.

The afternoon was devoted to presentations by branch managers of current and new product. Several showed trailers and some talked on product, explaining the background of the pictures or phases of them that offered particularly good exploitation values. It was noted that the exhibitors responded to the trailers and to special stunts with spontaneous exclamations much as the patrons in their theatres are likely to do.

C. E. Cook, president of the Association, opened the convention.

There will be further product presentations tomorrow, as well as the business session with elections, addresses and discussions.

The convention ends with the banquet tomorrow night, honoring R. R. Biechele.

Hold Shipboard Bow of 'Gaucho'

The shipboard world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's "Way of A Gaucho" was held here last night aboard the Moore-McCormack liner, the S.S. Argentina, before an invited audience of 500 guests.

The notables, which included officials of New York City, the United Nations and Argentina, in addition to newspapermen, were met at the pier by 20th-Fox representatives and the vessel's captain.

The evening's entertainment featured a fashion show, the staging of a King Neptune ceremony, and a special drawing among newspapermen for a free South American cruise. There were also deck games, dancing and a buffet dinner.

Sharp Decrease in Tax Collections for August Reported

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — General admission tax collections for August, reflecting July box-office business, were $6,000,000 below those for Aug., 1951, the Bureau of Internal Revenue reported today.

Most industry officials had expected these figures to show a large increase, reflecting a box-office upturn that reportedly started in July. The Bureau's figures indicate one of two things: either reports of the motion picture box-office upturn were exaggerated, or admission tax returns are no longer very good indicators of theatre business. This latter would be due to the fact that theatre taxes might be accounting for a smaller percentage of the total general admission taxes, and that taxes on admissions to such events as ball games and prize fights might be throwing a proportionately greater weight in the total.

The Bureau's figures put general admission tax collections for August at $28,067,623, compared to $34,142,531 for the previous August.

The August figures were down slightly from collections in the previous month, when the total was $28,369,934. However, in recent years, collections have risen seasonally from July to August, frequently by large amounts.

The drop from August this year against last August was the sharpest drop compared with 1951 for any month this year.

General admission tax collections include taxes on admissions to sports events, concerts, legitimate theatre and other general entertainment events, as well as to motion picture theatres.

Lasky, Blaustein, Kramer to Lecture

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—Jesse Lasky, Julian Blaustein and Stanley Kramer have been named the first three Screen Producers Guild members to deliver lectures, which will be photographed on sound film before the Cinema Department of the University of Southern California. Lasky will tee off the series Thursday evening, with "A History of the Film Industry" as his topic. Blaustein will speak on Oct. 16 on "The Basic Idea" (the film subject followed from its inception to its final screenplay). Kramer follows next on Oct. 30 with a discussion of "Pre-Production and Its Problems."

Top SMPTE Award To Kodak's Crabtree

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—John I. Crabtree, Eastman Kodak research chemist, has been named as the 1952 recipient of the "Progress Medal" award of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers.

Crabtree was selected for his contributions in the fields of photographic chemistry, motion picture film processing and film processing equipment. He will receive the award at a dinner during the Society's annual convention in Washington next week.

The Progress Medal is the Society's highest award. It is given annually to the individual whose work has resulted in significant advances in the development of motion-picture technology.

Launch RKO Radio Meet Here Today

Stolkin Due in; Expect Management Decisions

With Ralph Stolkin, head of the syndicate which last week purchased the controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes, scheduled to arrive here today from Chicago, preparations were made yesterday for a full-scale meeting of company heads with the new owners today and tomorrow.

Presumably the meetings will be of an executive nature inasmuch as no notice of a meeting of the board of directors had gone out up to last night. One explanation offered was that the new owners, under their purchase agreement with Hughes, will not have voting rights to the stock until early next week—two weeks after the closing of the deal.

Nevertheless, an RKO Pictures spokesman indicated yesterday that a statement probably will be issued following the close of the meeting tomorrow.

Meanwhile, unofficial reports con-

STARR'S AIM: ONE EXHIBITOR 'FORUM'

Says He Will Meet With Allied Leaders Soon to Discuss Exhibitor Unity

Alfred Starr, newly-elected Theatre Owners of America president, yesterday said he will take steps to bring about the formation of a single, all-embracing exhibitor organization or "forum."

Here from Nashville, where he makes his business headquarters, Starr told trade press reporters in his first interview since his election on Sept. 15 that the day when exhibitors are thus united for the purpose of solving common problems "can't come too soon."

The TOA chief executive indicated that the first step he will take in the direction of achieving this goal will be to confer with such Allied leaders as Abram F. Myers, board chairman; Wilbur Snaper, president, and Trueman T. Rembusch, ex-president.

Starr said he expected to be invited to attend Allied's national convention

Says Films Ignore Vast Patronage

The industry is overlooking a "gold mine" by not acting to get an estimated 25,000,000 persons in towns with populations under 200,000 to attend theatres, Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America president, said here yesterday. He said these persons are in the "over age 30" group.

They are the kind of persons, Starr said, who seem to be unable to determine whether pictures showing in their

DECIDE NOT TO ASK N. Y. TRIAL OF 16mm. SUIT

Production-distribution company defendants in the government's anti-trust suit to compel the licensing of 16mm. feature films to television and other non-theatrical users have decided not to ask for a change of venue which would transfer trial of the suit from the Los Angeles Federal District court, where it was filed, to the New York Federal court, in whose jurisdiction the defendants have their principal places of business.

The matter has been under study by the defendants since the filing of the suit last July. A much earlier trial of the government action is now in prospect as a result of the decision not to request the transfer. The Federal court docket in New York is the most congested of any in the country and predictions had been made that the case might not be tried for several years if it were to be transferred here.

While there are no reliable estimates of when the case might come to trial in Los Angeles, it is generally believed that it might be anywhere from a year to two years earlier than in New York.

NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.--Private anti-trust suits increased to the greatest figure in recent years with "a considerable portion" of these cases brought against the motion picture companies, Henry P. Chandler, director of the administrative office of the Federal courts, noted in his annual report.

Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America president, said here yesterday that within a week TOA will send its member units a bulletin asking them to vote on whether the organization should seek defendant status in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit. TOA was dubbed a "co-conspirator."

Disney to Represent Independent Artists

Frederick Brisson and Roy Disney have completed negotiations whereby Walt Disney Productions will be the world sales representatives for Brisson's Independent Artists Pictures, Inc.

"Never Wave at A WAC," which producer Brisson has just completed, with Rosalind Russell, Marie Wilson and Paul Douglas, will be the first of the Independent Artists films to be handled by the Disney organization. The arrangement marks the first time Disney has accepted the sales representation for an independent. RKO Radio is distributing "Never Wave at A WAC."

Construction Controls Cut Pushed Back to May 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — National Production Authority officials have made a surprise decision to push back to May 1 the proposed relaxation of theatre construction curbs.

Earlier, this relaxation had been promised for April 1. NPA was supposed to issue tomorrow the order making this relaxation official. Now the date for issuing the order is Friday, and NPA officials said one reason for the delay was that the effective date has been shoved back and this required some last-minute changes in the order.

The May 1 date is still tentative, and it might be April 1 again by the time the order is isued. But NPA officials said they doubted this. They declared that the reason for pushing the date back was that they felt it better to be safe and put the proposed relexation further off, and then move it up later, rather than to put it too early and have to postpone it later.

They pointed out that a meeting of construction industry officials has been called for Oct. 29, and that this meeting might recommend an earlier relaxation of theatre construction curbs, possibly as early as Jan. 1 or Feb. 1.

Under the proposed relaxation, persons planning to build theatres could self-authorize—write their own priorities—for limited amounts of steel, copper and aluminum, and would stand a far better chance of getting NPA allotments of even larger amounts.

AMPA Class In Larger Quarters

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers classes on advertising and promotion has been required to find larger quarters for the weekly sessions. Tomorrow evening's class will meet at six o'clock at the 20th Century-Fox Little Theatre.

"Sodom and Gomorrah," to be filmed in color, has been chosen as the second of three pictures which Edward Small and Mike Todd will make in association abroad for United Artists release, UA announced.

The film is on the producers' combined slate for late in 1953, after completion of "The Vikings," their first joint color picture for which Todd is now in Europe organizing facilities.

First Drive for Audio

Audio Pictures has started its first sales drive, during which it will honor its president, Arthur Gottlieb. The drive is to run through Dec. 11, and has as its goal a quota of $150,000 in screen advertising rentals for the 400 theatres with which Audio holds agreements.

Cinerama Process Found Impressive

"This Is Cinerama" premiered before a packed audience of notables at the Broadway Theatre here last night and revealed itself as an amazing process capable of capturing audiences hitherto untouched or television-bound.

At its best in breath-taking panoramas and startling close-ups, this process enrapts an audience with its three-dimensional effect. The color by Technicolor film opened with a roller coaster ride that elicited excited murmurs and spontaneous applause, as did the sequences that followed.

The two-hour program included films of a prologue by Lowell Thomas; a dance of the priestesses from "Aida"; a helicopter view of Niagara Falls; the Long Island Choral Society singing Handel's "The Messiah"; Venetian boatmen in gondolas; the Gathering of the Clans in Scotlan; a bullfight and native dances in Spain; the triumphal march from "Aida," performed by the La Scala Opera Company in Milan; the Vienna Boys Choir singing; a tour of the Tyrol in Wolfgang; the Water Carnival at Cypress Gardens in Florida; and "America the Beautiful," sung by the Salt Lake City Tabernacle Choir while an aerial tour of U. S. A. landmarks is shown.

For the special process William Lescaze Associates, architects, designed mechanical construction for the Broadway Theatre. Three projection booths were set into the balcony, each projector filling one third of the Cinerama screen, which is 51 feet wide and 26 feet high. The curved screen was specially designed by Fred Waller, inventor of the process, and is not one great sheet, but consists of 1,100 vertical strips of perforated tape set at angles like louvres of a sideways Venetian blind. The stereophonic sound effect is obtained with the placement of five speakers behind the screen, one on each sound wall, and one at the rear of the theatre. These speakers convey the sounds as recorded at similar positions by the same number of microphones during the original shooting.

William R. Latady, vice-president of Cinerama, Inc., expects that in future theatre design the projection booths can be built directly into the balcony. Estimates of installation costs vary from $35,000 to $70,000 with an average of about $50,000. All equipment is designed to be portable and plug-in, and will be leased to theatre owners by Cinerama. The second Cinerama camera has been completed and projection equipment is ready for installation in theatres in the United States and England.

as president of NBC beginning in 1926. Aylesworth left RKO to join the Scripps-Howard newspapers management and was named publisher of the World-Telegram in 1938. He was a lawyer by profession but was active for most of his life in radio, motion pictures and public utilities.

From 1934 to 1945 he was board chairman of Radio City Music Hall. In 1941 he was appointed chief of the radio section of the Office of the Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs and its executive consultant. Aylesworth was the first to lease a theatre for the "live" presentation of radio programs before an audience.

From 1914-18 he was chairman of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission and then was executive vice-president of the Utah Power & Light Co. Later he was managing director of the National Electric Light Association and toward the close of his career was chairman of the executive committee of Ellington & Co., Inc., an advertising firm.

RKO Meeting

cerning the company's future executive set-up increased by the hour. One, widely circulated, but lacking confirmation, was that Arnold Grant, one of the attorneys who acted for the Stolkin group in the purchase negotiations, would become chairman of the board; Stolkin would assume the presidency and Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, would head the studio.

Earlier reports were that Stolkin would be named board chairman and Ned E. Depinet would continue as president. Queried yesterday, Depinet said he had no information concerning the plans of the new owners.

Arrived Yesterday

Arriving here yesterday from the Coast for the sessions were Grant, Sidney Korshak and Gordon Youngman, Hollywood attorneys who represented the Stolkin group in the negotiations. Arriving today in addition to Stolkin will be Corwin and Greg Bautzer, the latter also of counsel for Stolkin.

Advance reports on the meetings included one that RKO Pictures' financing will be given extended and immediate attention by the new owners. The company has a $5,000,000 revolving credit with Bankers Trust Co. here, which reportedly is shared by the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh. Re-negotiation of the credit by the new owners may be necessary, according to one report. In this connection, Hughes confirmed last week that if called upon to do so by the new owners, he is committeed to making an $8,000,000 loan to RKO Pictures.

Milton Pickman, vice-president of Wald-Krasna Prod., arrived here from the Coast yesterday in connection with an approach made to Jerry Wald by Corwin for the former to head production at the RKO Pictures studio. Pickman returned to the Coast last night. Before his departure he indicated that it was premature to discuss such a deal at this time but might return here later, pending future developments.

W.C. Stober Leaves General Register

W. C. Stober, general sales manager of General Register Corp. for the past six years, has resigned as of today. Saul Hammer, officer of the General Register Corp. for many years, now heads the sales department.

Stober has accepted a position with the Burroughs Adding Machine in the transportation division. He plans to reside in Chicago, and have headquarters there.

All of Stober's employment has been in the theatre equipment field beginning in 1934 as shipping clerk for National Theatre Supply Co.'s Seattle branch.

$35,000 for its first week. At the Rivoli, a strong $68,000 was indicated for the second week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro."

"Son of Paleface" opens today at the Paramount Theatre and the premiere will be highlighted throughout the day by personal appearances of Bob Hope, who recently returned from Europe. The second and final week of "Big Jim McLane" at the Paramount was due to hit $53,000.

The second inning of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is forecast to hit an excellent $27,000, while a nice $36,000 is seen for the sixth week of "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol. "Lure of the Wilderness" replaces "You for Me" on Friday at the Globe, which is expected to register a rather weak $8,500 for its seven-day engagement.

'Noon' in 10th Week

A good $17,500 is indicated for the 10th week of "High Noon" at the Mayfair. "World in His Arms" bows there Oct. 9. For the sixth stanza of "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" a nice $15,000 is forecast by the Astor. "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria is expected to hit a more than satisfactory $13,000 for its ninth week.

Among off-Broadway houses, "The Magic Box" opened to a healthy $10,400 for its first seven days at the Normandie. Still doing well is "Ivory Hunter" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux, where $5,200 is seen for the picture's sixth week. At the Park Avenue, a robust $6,000 is estimated for the third inning of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre."

The long-standing hold-over, "Man in the White Suit," at the Sutton is expected to do a fine $5,400 for its 26th week, while the seventh round of "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is due to register a nice $4,000.

"This is Cinerama" opened last night at the Broadway Theatre to a capacity audience and the advance two-a-day sale of tickets indicates an eight-week sell-out. The advance sale for "Limelight," which will open on a roadshow basis at the 60th Street Trans-Lux on Oct. 23, was described yesterday as "excellent."

in effect for the premiere engagements. While terms were not disclosed, it was reported that the highest guarantees ever given a picture by comparable Broadway houses are involved. In the case of the Paris, for example, the guarantee is understood to be a minimum of $150,000, with provisions which could boost the producer's take well above that amount.

"Andersen," in color by Technicolor, stars Danny Kaye, with Jeanmaire and Farley Granger co-starred. Moss Hart wrote the screenplay in conjunction with Frank Loesser, who composed the musical score. Charles Vidor directed. Goldwyn told a press conference here last week that the picture will have to gross $8,000,000 to break even.

TV Cost Data

Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

MPAA and NETTC have been prodding A. T. and T. for months for detailed transmission cost figures, for use in the coming Federal Communications Commission hearings on theatre television. The A. T. and T. people have been saying that all their cost data is based on a four megacycle transmission band, and that they can't supply financial information on the 10 mc band that the film industry wants to use.

The meeting was set up today to try and work out a middle ground, and was apparently successful. Participants said the session, held at MPAA headquarters, had been "very pleasant" and that "a very helpful exchange of ideas on engineering problems" had taken place. The upshot of the meeting was that the A. T. and T. people said they would "make every effort" to have ready by Dec. 31 the financial data sought by the film industry.

Industry officials said the delay in getting information from the phone company would not interfere with plans to start the FCC hearings on Oct. 20. They pointed out that the FCC had specified that the week or so of hearings starting Oct. 20 was to be devoted to a presentation of the film industry's own engineering and cost plans, and that the phone company testimony could well come later, in the lengthier hearings scheduled to start Jan. 12.

No Further Meetings

No further meetings are scheduled at this time between the two groups, officials said.

The A. T. and T. delegation consisted of six men, headed by Ernest North, general counsel of the long lines division, and Frank A. Cowan, top engineer for the division. NETTC was represented by attorney Marcus Cohn and engineer Stuart Bailey. MPAA was represented by attorneys James L. Fly and Vincent Welch, engineering adviser Andrew Inglis, Ed Cooper of the MPAA staff, Earl Sponable of 20th Century-Fox, Frank Cahill of Warner Brothers, Lester Isaac of Loew's and Richard Hodson of Paramount.

Schlanger Returns

Ben Schlanger, New York theatre architect, and William A. Hoffberg, engineer associated with him, have returned here from a six-week visit to Europe where many installations of their synchronous-surround motion picture screen are in progress. RCA Photophone, Ltd., recently took over distribution of the screen in Europe, marketing it, as RCA does in the U. S., under the name of "Synchro-Screen."

Milland Air Promotion

Ray Milland will make a series of three taped broadcasts for the U. S. State Department's "Voice of America" series about his latest starring vehicle, "The Thief," for Central Europe and Germany. "The Thief" will have its world premiere at the New York Roxy Theatre following the current feature, "Somebody Loves Me."

American Legion Magazine* for October tells the story of how the Reds made a sucker of Edward G. Robinson, and gives the screen star's view-point to its 3,600,000 readers: "If any man is accused of Communism falsely, he owes it to himself and the nation to make a statement of his true position. If he will not do so, I for one would take the charges against him seriously." Life carries a striking two-color ad from RKO Radio on "The Lusty Men"—"a fast buck, a fast bronc, a fast thrill." And another feature article on "The Shrinking of Jose Ferrer," showing how the actor is shortened 15 inches to play the dwarfed Lautrec, a role that will be more talked about than "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Ruth Harbert in Good Housekeeping's November issue tells why history teachers are going to have a tall job explaining when "Plymouth Adventure" comes to both city and town theatres. Helen Deutsch, who wrote the screenplay after two years of research here and in England, has challenged many of our favorite fables about passengers on the Mayflower's heroic voyage. You'll be stunned to learn what caused the loudest complaints during the damp, 96-day journey over the winter seas! It's not surprising that Dore Schary, producer of the picture, says that 102 passengers and 33 sailors were "Men and Women of flesh and blood, with just the same outlooks and foibles as we have today."

Life is giving interesting coverage on the "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" in its issue coming up this Friday, and for the first time in history, Wide World Photos, the syndicated picture service originating with the New York Times, is servicing a total of six photographs taken at the world premiere, to its syndicate list of 1,100 newspapers. . . . towns are of the intellectual quality they demand. He said they are potential film-goers who would enjoy "High Noon" while disdaining an ordinary Western. But, he asked, how are they to know that "High Noon" is not an ordinary Western? They are not persons who necessarily would patronize "art" pictures, Starr emphasized.

'Pet Project'

The job of educating this potential audience to the existence of intelligent, artistically significant product, Star said, is one for distributors, exhibitors, small city film critics and any others who can be recruited for the task. He described the job as his own "pet project."

These 25,000,000 non-film goers, Starr held, are individuals who are not to be seduced by television, the comics, or other such media of entertainment. They are people who read good books and lean to other intellectual pursuits, he said.

Could Achieve Improvement

Starr believes also that the difficulties that distributors experience in supplying prints can be solved by "mathematical algebraic logic" as performed by outside independent analysts. A 20 per cent improvement in the print situation could be achieved by such analysts, he claimed. A survey "wouldn't cost the distributors a nickel," he said. Starr, who is reputed to be a "mathematical genius," had trade press reporters straining to understand his theory.

One Exhibitor Forum

in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, thus implying that he would broach the subject to Allied leaders at that time.

Commensurate with his visions of a single, nationwide exhibitor organization, or "forum," or "conference" (he appeared to regard the terms as interchangeable), Starr said he is "banking on greatly improved exhibitor-distributor relations" in the not-too-distant future.

Such improved relations, he contended, would be inherent in an industry system of arbitration. But, he reminded, arbitration, "which can result in an entirely new era for the industry," must be built "on the good faith of all sides." He added: "We all are in the same industry, and we know we can't succeed in the job unless all segments cooperate."

Starr and Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, who sat in on the interview, told the reporters that the arbitration draft amending work currently being done by distributor lawyers was approved by both Myers and Levy at the recent arbitration parley in Washington among distributor, Allied, and TOA officials.

The lawyers' task, it was determined yesterday, will be completed in time to allow the presidents of the distribution companies to act on the amendments at a meeting around the middle of next week. Upon approval by the presidents, the draft will be turned over to Allied and TOA for action, Levy assumed.

Starr, who told the TOA convention he was optimistic about the establishment of an arbitration system that would be universally satisfactory, repeated this opinion yesterday. He said that no exhibitor or distributor could expect to see a workable system if he seeks to get "undue advantage" in proceedings. He said that arbitration can minimize the number of industry suits, not do away with them entirely. The exercise of goodwill, he added, will spell the success of a system.

Starr credited Myers with having made many valuable contributions to the establishment of an arbitration system.

The conciliation provisions of the arbitration plan have been approved by all parties, Starr said. He reminded that conciliation first will be essayed before any case goes to arbitration.

Will Not Take Action

TOA will not take any action on the General Mills Corp. proposal at the convention to give away theatre passes along with distribution of free samples of the company's products. Levy interjected that it was likely that individual exhibitor members of TOA may try out the idea.

Herman Hunt, Cincinnati theatre owner, has indicated to Starr that he will sponsor a luncheon of Southern Ohio exhibitors in that city with a view to forming a Southern Ohio TOA unit. Starr said that this TOA convention development is expected to bear fruit "in a few weeks." Both Starr and Levy said TOA has opened its doors to any Western Theatre Owners units who wish to join. WTO is leaderless at present.

Starr left here last evening by plane for Kansas City. He will attend the meeting next week in St. Louis of the MPTO of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. Starr said he will attend many TOA regional and unit meetings during the coming months.

vice-president. The latter was re-elected first vice-president.

Other officers elected for the next two years are: Samuel Rosen, board chairman; Robert Weitman, second vice-president, and Russell V. Downing, treasurer. Oscar A. Doob was reelected chairman of the executive committee for a fourth successive term. D. John Phillips continues as executive director.

New Executive Committee

The new executive committee includes: Samual Rinzler, Rosen, Sol Schwartz, Strausberg and Weitman. The board for the next two years will consist of Herman Becker, Leo Brecher, Doob, Downing, Harry Goldberg, Julius Joelson, David C. Katz, Rinzler, Fred J. Boston, Sept. 30.—American Theatres Corp. will sponsor a radio program to promote current attractions at all of its Greater Boston theatres. The program will be in the form of a "movie bulletin of the air" and will be called "Movie Tonight." It will be broadcast over Station WHDH five times a week, Monday - through - Friday, at 3:55 to 4:00 P.M., effective tomorrow. The program will run indefinitely.

Walcott Bout Set Attendance Record

An all-time paid attendance record for any sporting event was set by the recent Walcott-Marciano bout, according to figures compiled by Theatre Network Television, the agency which booked the bout for theatre television.

Over 120,000 fight fans saw the heavyweight title bout in 50 TV-equipped theatres stretched across the country, while 41,000 persons were at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, the site of the match, bringing the total attendance for the event to 161,000, according to TNT. The old attendance record, TNT stated, was set by the second Dempsey-Tunney match in Philadelphia more than two decades ago, which attracted 122,000 persons.

TNT added that the total theatre TV gross, including Federal admission taxes, was in excess of $400,000, with an average gross of $8,000 per theatre.

Crouse Suit Goes To Federal Judge

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—The suit of William Crouse of Eveleth, Minn., charging Minnesota Amusement Co. and distributors with conspiracy, has been transferred from a slated jury trial to judgment by the Federal District Court here.

Crouse charges the Maco circuit conspired with film companies to keep product away from his Eveleth theatres in favor of Maco's nearby Virginia, Minn., houses.

Stan Kane is counsel for Crouse, while David Shearer represents the distributors, except Paramount, which is represented along with Maco by Mandt Torrison.

Cite Ornstein Stories

Four of the 20 stories which William Ornstein, M-G-M home office trade press liaison, included in his book, "Ma and Me," just published by Story Book Press of Dallas, are given "Distinctive Mention" by Martha Foley in the 1952 edition of "Best American Short Stories." The four originally were published in the American Jewish Times Outlook and are as follows: "The Apprentice," "Eventide Song," "Badge of Honor" and "Tea on Wednesday." In addition to this group, Miss Foley also mentions in her anthology six other stories by the same author: "The Crime of These Corners," "Fun, Fast and Feast," "Harold (The Shamus) Klein," "Ocarina Nocturne," "Family Tree" and "Same Line, Old Tune."

(RKO Pictures)

DEMOLISHED New York City, in the post-Atomic war year of 3,000 A.D., is the setting of this minor entry that has ample exploitation features. The populace lives mostly in caves underground and is divided into three groups: the evil Uprivermen, led by power-mad Stuart Randall, the devil-worshipping Norms, led by Robert Clarke in exile when Randall overthrows the Norm leadership by treachery, and the Mutations who are physically disfigured from the atomic radiation let loose in the 20th Century, led by Ron Randell.

There is a three-minute documentary introduction in which a serious voiced narrator warns that this is what might occur in the future while familiar footage of the United Nations building, the atomic explosions, and Hiroshima is used. The film is on the familiar melodramatic level and the title is derived from the attempts of the Mutations to propagate healthy children by stealing Norm women.

Clarke and aide Robert Bice flee Randall and are caught by Ron Randell and the Mutations who force them to live across the river. William Schallert, a Mutation seeking Randell's throne, stirs up discontent and has a fight for the leadership with Randell. When defeated, he is allowed to leave and deserts to Stuart Randall, giving him the secret of the under-river cave which had guaranteed the Mutations' safety. Randell is captured by Randall but later freed by Clarke and Bice while the pursuing Uprivermen are destroyed when the Mutations flood the under river cave. All ends happily when one of the Norm women, agrees to marry Randell out of love, and thus the God-worshipping Mutations are assured of a healthy propagation.

Margaret Field and Gloria Saunders provide the feminine attraction. This was written and produced by Aubrey Wisberg and Jack Pollexfen.

Running time, 65 minutes. General audience classification. Release date not set.

Program Completed For St. Louis Meet

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Hotel reservations and banquet ticket sales indicate a record annual meeting for the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois when the organization gathers Monday and Tuesday at the Chase Hotel here.

General chairman Tom Edwards, and co-chairmen William H. Waring, Jr., and Bill Williams, along with the program committee have laid out a busy schedule for the gathering.

Open Forums Featured

Open forums will be featured throughout the sessions. Speakers will include: Herman Levy, general counsel, Theatre Owners of America, on "Industry Arbitration," "The 16-mm. Lawsuit" and "Possibilities of Tax Reduction in the Next Congress"; Ray Colvin, executive director, Theatre Equipment Dealers Association of St. Louis, on "The Motion Picture Industry as a Business, Art and Social Force"; Leon Bamberger, RKO Radio, on "Public Relations and Your Public"; Herb Bennin, M-G-M manager, St. Louis, on "Movietime U.S.A. in 1952-53."

Also, Jack Keiler of the Columbia Amusement Co., Paducah, Ky., on "Exploitation and Publicity"; Al Reynolds of Claude Ezell and Associates, Dallas, on "Drive In Concesions and Operations"; Pat Magee, Denver, on "COMPO and the 16-mm. Anti-Trust Suit"; Larry W. Davee, Century Projector, New York City, "Third Dimensional Projection"; Senn Lawler, Fox Midwest, Kansas City, "Publicity That Produces."

The program will also include trailers of top pictures to be released during the coming season with explanatory talks by advertising and publicity representatives of film companies. The latest developments in theatre equipment, appliances and supplies will be on display at the trade show to be conducted in conjunction with the meeting.

High Attendance Marks K-MTA Meet

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30.—The 34th annual convention of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Association opened today with registration like that of the best attended meetings of recent years.

The afternoon was devoted to presentations by branch managers of current and new product. Several showed trailers and some talked on product, explaining the background of the pictures or phases of them that offered particularly good exploitation values. It was noted that the exhibitors responded to the trailers and to special stunts with spontaneous exclamations much as the patrons in their theatres are likely to do.

C. E. Cook, president of the Association, opened the convention.

There will be further product presentations tomorrow, as well as the business session with elections, addresses and discussions.

The convention ends with the banquet tomorrow night, honoring R. R. Biechele.

Hold Shipboard Bow of 'Gaucho'

The shipboard world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's "Way of A Gaucho" was held here last night aboard the Moore-McCormack liner, the S.S. Argentina, before an invited audience of 500 guests.

The notables, which included officials of New York City, the United Nations and Argentina, in addition to newspapermen, were met at the pier by 20th-Fox representatives and the vessel's captain.

The evening's entertainment featured a fashion show, the staging of a King Neptune ceremony, and a special drawing among newspapermen for a free South American cruise. There were also deck games, dancing and a buffet dinner.

Sharp Decrease in Tax Collections for August Reported

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — General admission tax collections for August, reflecting July box-office business, were $6,000,000 below those for Aug., 1951, the Bureau of Internal Revenue reported today.

Most industry officials had expected these figures to show a large increase, reflecting a box-office upturn that reportedly started in July. The Bureau's figures indicate one of two things: either reports of the motion picture box-office upturn were exaggerated, or admission tax returns are no longer very good indicators of theatre business. This latter would be due to the fact that theatre taxes might be accounting for a smaller percentage of the total general admission taxes, and that taxes on admissions to such events as ball games and prize fights might be throwing a proportionately greater weight in the total.

The Bureau's figures put general admission tax collections for August at $28,067,623, compared to $34,142,531 for the previous August.

The August figures were down slightly from collections in the previous month, when the total was $28,369,934. However, in recent years, collections have risen seasonally from July to August, frequently by large amounts.

The drop from August this year against last August was the sharpest drop compared with 1951 for any month this year.

General admission tax collections include taxes on admissions to sports events, concerts, legitimate theatre and other general entertainment events, as well as to motion picture theatres.

Lasky, Blaustein, Kramer to Lecture

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—Jesse Lasky, Julian Blaustein and Stanley Kramer have been named the first three Screen Producers Guild members to deliver lectures, which will be photographed on sound film before the Cinema Department of the University of Southern California. Lasky will tee off the series Thursday evening, with "A History of the Film Industry" as his topic. Blaustein will speak on Oct. 16 on "The Basic Idea" (the film subject followed from its inception to its final screenplay). Kramer follows next on Oct. 30 with a discussion of "Pre-Production and Its Problems."

Top SMPTE Award To Kodak's Crabtree

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—John I. Crabtree, Eastman Kodak research chemist, has been named as the 1952 recipient of the "Progress Medal" award of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers.

Crabtree was selected for his contributions in the fields of photographic chemistry, motion picture film processing and film processing equipment. He will receive the award at a dinner during the Society's annual convention in Washington next week.

The Progress Medal is the Society's highest award. It is given annually to the individual whose work has resulted in significant advances in the development of motion-picture technology.

Universal Net Up $625,290, To $1,752,472

39-Week Profit Equal To $1.63 Per Share

A $625,290 increase in profit for Universal Pictures and subsidiary companies was reported yesterday for the 39 weeks ended Aug. 2, on consolidated net earnings of $1,752,472.

The net was after provision of $2,650,000 for estimated Federal income and excess profits taxes and after provision of $250,000 for contingencies, the company stated, comparing the net with consolidated earnings of $1,127,182 for the corresponding 39 weeks of the previous fiscal year, after provision of $1,675,000 for estimated Federal taxes and after provision of $400,000 for contingencies.

After deducting dividends on the preferred stock, consolidated net earnings for the 39 weeks ended Aug. 2 are equivalent to $1.63 per share on the 961,698 shares of common stock outstanding. For the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year,

Continue to Work Through COMPO: Myers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States Association, said today exhibitor organizations should continue to work on common problems through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, rather than attempt to set up new exhibitor groups.

This was Myers' comment on the proposal made yesterday in New York by Alfred Starr, president of the Theatre Owners of America, who suggested that a single unified exhibitor

Cinerama Is Big Question For Industry

Executives Wonder If It Has Commercial Future

By C. L. FRANKE

Cinerama, the triple-projection, huge screen, three-dimensional "effect" system which made its public debut at the Broadway Theatre here Wednesday evening, has left the impress of a big question mark on the motion picture industry.

The enthusiastic respect for Cinerama's achievement both visually and sound-wise which was voiced yesterday by industry executives was tempered somewhat by their acknowledged inability to speculate on the system's commercial possibilities.

Some industry leaders who were present at the Broadway's "This Is Cinerama" premiere, such as Louis B. Mayer, were enthusiastic in general terms about the innovation's commercial future. Others who have seen it said they were overwhelmed by its accomplishments, but had reservations concerning its possible impact in a

'Flat Top' Promotion Gets Navy Support

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Navy approval has been given for collaboration with Allied Artists in promoting "Flat Top," Walter Mirisch production filmed in cooperation with the Navy, highlighted by a world premiere aboard the U.S.S. Princeton off San Diego on Armistice Day, it was disclosed here today by Capt. Lewis S. Parks, USN.

In addition, Navy recruiting stations throughout the country will aid directly in exploiting the film by the use of banners and full line accessories, at no cost to the Navy. Naval and military dignitaries, civil leaders and state officials, in addition to the press, will attend the premiere.

Following the premiere, the picture, which co-stars Sterling Hayden and Richard Carlson, will open day and date in three Fox-West-Coast theatres in San Diego.

Aylesworth Services Set for Tomorrow

Funeral services for Merlin Hall Aylesworth, who died here Tuesday, will be conducted at 11 A. M. tomorrow in the Frank E. Campbell Funeral Home, Madison Ave. and 81st Street.

Aylesworth, former president and chairman of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. and Radio Pictures, Inc., first president of National Broadcasting, and a former publisher of the New York World Telegram, is survived by the widow, Caroline, and two children by his first wife.

Grace Goldberg Barber

Half of Mexican Screen Time Must Now Go to Home Films

The Mexican Congress yesterday passed a new film industry law that requires every Mexican theatre to devote at least half of its annual screen time to Mexican-made films, according to news reports from that country.

The law would affect particularly theatres in Mexico City and other large cities which feature American films almost exclusively all year.

American film spokesmen in Mexico immediately described the law as "discriminatory."

The law placed all phases of the industry under Federal Government regulations and established the Minister of the Interior as the industry's boss, with what was described by an American spokesman as "enough power to put us out of business in a week."

Rogers 'Salute' to Open on Nov. 1

The annual "National Christmas Salute" to the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital will open on Nov. 1 and continue through Jan. 1, Abe Montague and R. J. O'Donnell, president and chairman, respectively, of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital Fund board, disclosed yesterday.

During the "Christmas Salute" members of the amusement industry will sign the five-mile-long Christmas greeting to patients at the hospital at Saranac Lake, N. Y., and will contribute toward its support. The goal of the 1952 "Salute" is 150,000 signers and $200,000 in contributions.

Jack L. Warner Leaves Academy

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—Jack L. Warner has tendered his personal resignation from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences which he had maintained since the organization's inception.

He said, in a statement, "I have resigned from the Academy because the demands of my production duties and my efforts on behalf of various charities leave me no time to maintain active membership. When such active membership is no longer possible, I do not believe in membership in any organization just for sake of belonging."

Italian Film Group Meets Impellitteri

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri will meet top executives of the Italian film industry today at City Hall and officially proclaim Oct. 6-12 as "Salute to Italian Films Week." Included in the delegation will be Dr. Renato Gaulino, general director of Italian Films Export; Dr. Emanuele Cassuto, managing director of Unitalia; E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of I.F.E.; and Jonas Rosenfield, Jr., executive director of "Salute Week."

'Solomon' First UA Small Film in '53

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—United Artists announced today that Edward Small's 1953 production program will be headed by "King Solomon's Wives," a "color spectacle" to be filmed in this country. Six black-and-white productions remain on Small's 1952 program of which "Kansas City Confidential," is completed, and "Bandits of Corsica" is nearly completed.

"King Solomon's Wives" is independent of Small's arrangement with Mike Todd to film "The Viking" in Europe, where Todd is currently making preparations for production.

The remaining films on Small's 1952 program are "Barbarossa," "Johnny Ringo," "Crosstown," and "Screening Eagles."

Reelect Cook

the following are new on the board: Glen Hall, Don Burnett, and Stanley Durwood.

Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America, president, the main speaker, emphasized the desperate need for organization in the motion picture industry lest its hostile critics destroy it entirely.

He said: "It is a crying shame that other industries are able so effectively to protect and publicize their interests while the motion picture industry continues to be the target of crackpots and self aggrandizing publicity seekers."

'Free Riders'

He characterized as "free riders" those exhibitors who make no financial contribution of any kind to their regional or national trade association even though it is obvious that no single exhibitor is in a position to defend himself and his industry.

Several speakers emphasized the value of projects and proposals emanating from the experience of exhibitors in the several regions, for their own advancement and for guidance of national groups. In discussions of public relations, proposals were developed and put into specific outline by Senn Lawler of Fox Midwest. He quoted several proposals made in a Chicago conference four years ago, and then set up these fields of effort: one, an exhibit; two, visits to communities by industry representatives, including actors who have been briefed carefully by a representative committee for talks and interviews; three, a centrally located source of information from which anybody in the industry might get promptly desired material for meeting a trend against films or for promoting a project benefiting the industry; four, a series of industry newspaper advertisements; five, transcriptions on the industry for local use with local theatre managers adding comment or mention of current programs; six, a nation-wide radio and perhaps a television show, by and for the industry, as a whole, with it doing for itself what several prominent commercial sponsored programs have done.

Wolfbergs, UA Named in Suit

DENVER, Oct. 1—Suit for $100,000 damages, to be trebled if won, has been filed in U. S. District Court by Kar-Vue Theatres, headed by Lem Lee, against United Artists and theatre companies headed by Harris and John Wolfberg, father and son. The suit alleges that Kar-Vue was unable to buy a proper run at proper prices of United Artists films for the Monaco drive-in, Denver.

The Wolfbergs have six theatres in Denver, including four drive-ins. They recently won a $300,000 judgment against RKO Radio, Loew's and 20th-Fox and have another suit pending asking for $1,000,000 from the same companies for alleged inability to buy films at proper runs and prices for the Broadway.

RKO Pictures

O'Hara and J. Miller Walker. The new board will include members of the Ralph Stolkin purchasing syndicate and their representatives.

The preponderance of opinion in trade and financial circles yesterday was that Depinet will be reelected president and that RKO Pictures' management will be left intact. Stolkin is expected to become chairman of the board.

It was learned yesterday that the Stolkin syndicate under its stock purchase agreement with Hughes can acquire the 1,050,000-share block for $6.50 per share by completing payment in less than the two years allotted to it. The $7 per share price remains if the purchasing group avails itself of the full two-year period.

No Conversations Held

Meanwhile, officials of Bankers Trust Co. here stated that no conversations whatever had been held with the Stolkin group concerning financing for RKO Pictures. The statement was in reply to reports that a first order of business for the new owners might be the re-negotiation of the company's revolving credit with Bankers Trust and the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh.

The new owners have scheduled a reception for members of the new board and of management at the 21 Club here today, following the election meeting. Tomorrow, they will meet with press representatives at Toots Shor's restaurant.

At yesterday's meeting in addition to Stolkin were A. L. Koolish, Sherrill Corwin, E. J. Burke, Ray Ryan, Greg Bautzer, Arnold Grant, Gordon Youngman, Sidney Korshak, all of the purchasing group, and representatives of management and Hughes.

RULES FOR THE $7,500 CONTEST ON "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS"

ENTRY DATE: All entries must be postmarked on or before midnight of February 21, 1953.

THE JUDGING: Judging will be based upon the best and most productive advertising, exploitation and publicity campaigns for "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS."

In judging winners, consideration will be given to the nature of the run, the class of house, its location and business produced, in order to permit equal competition between small town theatres, neighborhood houses and downtown de luxe theatres.

HOW TO ENTER: 1. Submit a written summary of the advertising,exploitation and publicity campaign you stage for your engagement of "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS," documented with newspaper tear sheets, photos and other specimens.

This summary may be in any form you elect, whether letter, memo, scrapbook, folder, etc., and may be of any length or dimension. However, judging will be done solely on the basis of the factors outlined in these Rules. Elaborateness of campaign books or of presentations will have no bearing whatever on the decision of the judges.

2. This summary must in all instances include the following specific information, in addition to an outline of the campaign activities themselves:

a. Size of theatre (seats)_____

b. Population_____
and type of community_____

c. Run given "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS"

d. Percentage of normal business_____

e. Receipts for engagement (optional)_____

organization. Disney said his firm was "marking time" on future commitments with RKO Pictures, pending clarification of the new management's policy. "Peter Pan" marks the last feature commitment under the present pact between Disney and RKO Pictures, while Disney's last short to be distributed by RKO Pictures under the current contract is due in May of next year.

"We have a great admiration for RKO distribution personnel," said Disney, "and everything else being equal, we would like to stay with them." He added that the Disney organization at this time was not shopping around for any new distribution outlets.

Here 2 or 3 Weeks

Disney said he expected to remain in New York about two or three weeks to set up a sales policy for "Peter Pan" and co-ordinate the extensive advertising, publicity and tie-in campaign. He would not comment whether advanced admission prices would be sought for the pre-release engagements.

Disney, although he saw the use of the TV medium for exploitation purposes, reiterated his belief that TV offers a very poor market for theatrical films and motion picture theatres are the best medium for such films. He said the same views apply to subscription home television, adding that home TV interests "would fall down dead" if they had to pay $4,000,000 for such a film as "Peter Pan."

It was also disclosed that a new True-Life Adventure film, the first one described to be "on the comic side," will be released about the same time as "Peter Pan." Its title is "Bear Country."

Plans for an extensive "Peter Pan" advertising campaign, to be launched Nov. 17 in Look magazine, were also disclosed.

go to Paris to resume negotiations for a Franco-American film pact. The first effort at negotiation collapsed a few weeks ago.

The Japanese licenses for the first half of the year, numbering 63, were shared by the companies as follows: Loew's, nine; 20th-Fox, eight; Paramount, seven; Warner, seven; Columbia, six; RKO Radio, six; Universal, six; Republic, five; United Artists, five, Allied Artists, four. The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers companies will share 15, the same number they received for the first half.

The MPEA companies agreed at the time they divided the first half's allotment that the ratio was not to become a precedent for the second half's allocations. Last Sept. 24 they failed at a special meeting to reach an agreement, but resolved that each company be permitted to release two pictures in Japan pending the final decision on the allocation by the presidents today.

MPEA unsuccessfully opposed Japan's formula based on the number of domestically-produced pictures in the fiscal year 1951, which signified only 59 permits for the MPEA companies for the second half of this year.

Cinerama A Question

However, it was evident that the scores of top industry executives who attended private demonstrations of Cinerama at the Oyster Bay, L. I., experimental laboratories during the past 18 months, and whose opinions of it ranged from strong interest to enthusiasm at the time, now are doubly interested in the system in light of the favorable audience reaction at the Broadway.

Sol Schwartz, RKO Theatres president, said yesterday that the public reception given Cinerama did not surprise him. The question now, he added, is not whether a circuit could afford the $50,000 to put Cinerama in a theatre—"it can." Rather, the question is whether it will be advisable for the entire theatre industry to invest millions of dollars in converting from conventional projection to Cinerama, Schwartz said.

Schwartz said he would have been more than willing to have the Cinerama premiere at one of the RKO theatres here, if only for the sake of the showmanship it represented. He described Cinerama as "a very exciting thing." But, he wondered, "will it become reality" for the industry?

This is what Mayer had to say following the premiere: "I consider Cinerama a more important advancement than either the advent of sound or color. This is the 'shot in the arm' that the motion picture business so badly needs. This is not simply a new kind of motion picture—it is a revolution!"

The commercial possibilities of Cinerama have been studied by major film companies over the past 18 months following the demonstrations by the inventor, Fred Waller, at Oyster Bay. J. Robert Rubin, Loew's vice-president, told company stockholders last spring that Loew's engineers who examined the process, did not think that it was economically feasible for theatres at that time. About a month ago, Paul Raibourn, Paramount vice-president, commented that he was "impressed" with Cinerama, but that its economic feasibility for the industry has to be proven

Neither Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's vice-president and general manager of its theatres, nor Harry M. Kalmine, president and general manager of Warner Theatres, have seen Cinerama, they acknowledged yesterday. Leonard Goldenson, United Paramount Theatres president, who is in New York, could not be reached at his office for comment on Cinerama.

Adolph Zukor, Paramount Pictures board chairman, was quoted as having remarked following the premiere that it would be profitable to make Cinerama films for distribution to only 40 or 50 theatres throughout the country, "because they would run almost indefinitely."

There appeared to be general agreement in the industry that Cinerama exceeds in many respects the achievements of Magnascreen and other earlier large screen and tri-dimensional processes. But a question raised by many was: "Is Cinerama good for all types of films or just special kinds, like action or panoramic pictures?" Another was: "Is Cinerama for one or two big, or small, theatres to each city, or for all theatres?"

Obviously, Lowell Thomas and Merian C. Cooper, who head the firm sponsoring the system, will have to supply the answers to all the questions before the shrewd minds of most industry leaders are convinced that Cinerama is commercially practicable. In the meantime, it is virtually certain that enthusiasm, however qualified, will continue to be expressed concerning the process as it now stands.

Let Ad Men Advise

papers, he believes that "if the subject matter of a picture represents an advertising problem, then that picture should not be made unless the particular company can offord to make it for the sake of making it."

He added: "Let us keep in mind that solvency in our business depends upon mass acceptance of our pictures. If we can make sufficient commercial succeses, then we can afford to gamble on selective subjects. Whether we like it or not, the cultural level of the motion picture can only be raised in ratio to the profit level. 'Red Badge of Courage' and 'Bright Victory' were box-office failures, but thank goodness, Metro and Universal could afford such glorious failures."

Bergman and Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA persident, who presided at the luncheon, praised the pro-industry efforts of the film critics, who were represented by Kate Cameron, Daily News; Jim O'Connor, Journal-American; Leo Mishkin, Morning Telegraph; Milton Shapiro, The Compass, and Oscar Goodman, Times.

McWilliams, in a financial report on AMPA's showmanship courses, said tuition receipts totaled $1,700. General expenses were $300, rent for hotel "classroom" space came to $60, and $100 has been paid to 20th Century-Fox for the use of its screening room.

organization be created or, if this could not be done, that at least a working arrangement be set up among exhibitor groups to handle common problems.

"COMPO was created," Myers said, "as the medium of cooperation among all elements in the industry on those matters in which all had an interest. Trueman Rembusch, Col. H. A. Cole and other Allied leaders are doing their utmost to make COMPO the success it deserves to be. Until all others in the industry match their zeal in the common cause, I do not think anything would be gained by planning additional organization."

UA Tribute to Cohen

Cinerama Future, Box-office, Strong

Cinerama, the newest motion picture invention that some believe may create a boxoffice resurgence, marked a milestone in film history Tuesday with the opening of "This Is Cinerama," a Lowell Thomas-Merian C. Cooper presentation, at the Broadway Theatre, now showing on a two-a-day reserved seat basis at advanced prices. Press, radio and television reviews roused the public which stood in line yesterday from 10 A. M. until evening purchasing tickets, so that there is a sell out for approximately the next eight weeks.

The process is still being perfected and the enthusiastic premiere audience occasionally noticed the merging of the three images thrown on the oversized curved screen by the three projectors. A slight, vertical shadow gap appeared at the joining point of the images but Cinerama experts advised that this is a since-remedied condition inherent in the original camera and was not due to the projection equipment.

Aside from the different size equipment including reels, sprockets, camera, projectors and screen, Cinerama offers a technical challenge to the industry. While its visual range is almost as far as the human eye and the illusion of depth is greatly enchanced thus making for unsurpassed panorama views, it will require discretion and skill for the depiction of dramatic continuity with human beings instead of mountains as the objects viewed.

Best Moments

In "This Is Cinerama" the best moments were those in which vast landscapes or spectacles were shown or in which the camera "participated" in thrilling atcion. Thus, the final sequence viewing such scenic beauties of the United States as Crater Lake, Yellowstone National Park, Bridal Veil Falls, Yosemite National Park, and including a thrilling airplane ride through Zion National Park, was the best.

The opening roller-coaster ride was most realistic and the Saragossa bull fight with the roaring crowd sound enveloping the audience was extremely effective. On the other hand, the Vienna Boys Choir singing showed to no especial advantage as they just stood and sang. An airplane landing and a speedboat going through a sheet of flame pointed up the value of rapid motion.

Therefore, it could be that eventually outdoor adventure pictures, musicals and westerns could be made in Cinerama, and any spectacle would be greatly effective. Sporting events and musical pagents in the new process would have an immense presence of reality. However, it remains to be seen how this process would be used in dramas.

Universal Net Up $625,290, To $1,752,472

39-Week Profit Equal To $1.63 Per Share

A $625,290 increase in profit for Universal Pictures and subsidiary companies was reported yesterday for the 39 weeks ended Aug. 2, on consolidated net earnings of $1,752,472.

The net was after provision of $2,650,000 for estimated Federal income and excess profits taxes and after provision of $250,000 for contingencies, the company stated, comparing the net with consolidated earnings of $1,127,182 for the corresponding 39 weeks of the previous fiscal year, after provision of $1,675,000 for estimated Federal taxes and after provision of $400,000 for contingencies.

After deducting dividends on the preferred stock, consolidated net earnings for the 39 weeks ended Aug. 2 are equivalent to $1.63 per share on the 961,698 shares of common stock outstanding. For the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year,

Continue to Work Through COMPO: Myers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States Association, said today exhibitor organizations should continue to work on common problems through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, rather than attempt to set up new exhibitor groups.

This was Myers' comment on the proposal made yesterday in New York by Alfred Starr, president of the Theatre Owners of America, who suggested that a single unified exhibitor

Cinerama Is Big Question For Industry

Executives Wonder If It Has Commercial Future

By C. L. FRANKE

Cinerama, the triple-projection, huge screen, three-dimensional "effect" system which made its public debut at the Broadway Theatre here Wednesday evening, has left the impress of a big question mark on the motion picture industry.

The enthusiastic respect for Cinerama's achievement both visually and sound-wise which was voiced yesterday by industry executives was tempered somewhat by their acknowledged inability to speculate on the system's commercial possibilities.

Some industry leaders who were present at the Broadway's "This Is Cinerama" premiere, such as Louis B. Mayer, were enthusiastic in general terms about the innovation's commercial future. Others who have seen it said they were overwhelmed by its accomplishments, but had reservations concerning its possible impact in a

Detroit Exhibitors Happy About Quality

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—Detroit showmen are enthusiastic about the number and quality of top-flight pictures available from Hollywood for the coming year.

"Under long-range production planning, the studios have announced a record lineup of scripts already assigned to producers, designed to carry through 1953," said Earl J. Hudson, president of United Detroit Theatres, member of the Detroit exhibitor committee surveying future prospects.

"This will further stimulate the upward box-office trend which has been in evidence in recent months. In some studios the percentage of films to be made in color is as high as 82 per cent, and in no major instance is it less than 50 per cent."

Anti-Admission Tax Buffalo Meet Oct. 6

BUFFALO, Oct. 1.—George Gammel, president of the Motion Pictures Theatre Owners of Western N. Y., has called a directors meeting Monday to discuss plans for aiding the fight to abolish the 20 per cent U. S. admission tax.

'Flat Top' Promotion Gets Navy Support

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Navy approval has been given for collaboration with Allied Artists in promoting "Flat Top," Walter Mirisch production filmed in cooperation with the Navy, highlighted by a world premiere aboard the U.S.S. Princeton off San Diego on Armistice Day, it was disclosed here today by Capt. Lewis S. Parks, USN.

In addition, Navy recruiting stations throughout the country will aid directly in exploiting the film by the use of banners and full line accessories, at no cost to the Navy. Naval and military dignitaries, civil leaders and state officials, in addition to the press, will attend the premiere.

Following the premiere, the picture, which co-stars Sterling Hayden and Richard Carlson, will open day and date in three Fox-West-Coast theatres in San Diego.

Aylesworth Services Set for Tomorrow

Funeral services for Merlin Hall Aylesworth, who died here Tuesday, will be conducted at 11 A. M. tomorrow in the Frank E. Campbell Funeral Home, Madison Ave. and 81st Street.

Aylesworth, former president and chairman of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. and Radio Pictures, Inc., first president of National Broadcasting, and a former publisher of the New York World Telegram, is survived by the widow, Caroline, and two children by his first wife.

Grace Goldberg Barber

Funeral services were held at Riverside Memorial Chapel here Sunday for Grace Goldberg Barber, wife of Frank C. Barber of the Music Publishers Holding Corp., who died at her home on Friday. For the past 20 years Mrs. Barber had been assistant at the Warner Brothers story department here.

Half of Mexican Screen Time Must Now Go to Home Films

The Mexican Congress yesterday passed a new film industry law that requires every Mexican theatre to devote at least half of its annual screen time to Mexican-made films, according to news reports from that country.

The law would affect particularly theatres in Mexico City and other large cities which feature American films almost exclusively all year.

American film spokesmen in Mexico immediately described the law as "discriminatory."

The law placed all phases of the industry under Federal Government regulations and established the Minister of the Interior as the industry's boss, with what was described by an American spokesman as "enough power to put us out of business in a week."

Rogers 'Salute' to Open on Nov. 1

The annual "National Christmas Salute" to the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital will open on Nov. 1 and continue through Jan. 1, Abe Montague and R. J. O'Donnell, president and chairman, respectively, of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital Fund board, disclosed yesterday.

During the "Christmas Salute" members of the amusement industry will sign the five-mile-long Christmas greeting to patients at the hospital at Saranac Lake, N. Y., and will contribute toward its support. The goal of the 1952 "Salute" is 150,000 signers and $200,000 in contributions.

Jack L. Warner Leaves Academy

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—Jack L. Warner has tendered his personal resignation from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences which he had maintained since the organization's inception.

He said, in a statement, "I have resigned from the Academy because the demands of my production duties and my efforts on behalf of various charities leave me no time to maintain active membership. When such active membership is no longer possible, I do not believe in membership in any organization just for sake of belonging."

Italian Film Group Meets Impellitteri

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri will meet top executives of the Italian film industry today at City Hall and officially proclaim Oct. 6-12 as "Salute to Italian Films Week." Included in the delegation will be Dr. Renato Gaulino, general director of Italian Films Export; Dr. Emanuele Cassuto, managing director of Unitalia; E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of I.F.E.; and Jonas Rosenfield, Jr., executive director of "Salute Week."

'Solomon' First UA Small Film in '53

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—United Artists announced today that Edward Small's 1953 production program will be headed by "King Solomon's Wives," a "color spectacle" to be filmed in this country. Six black-and-white productions remain on Small's 1952 program of which "Kansas City Confidential," is completed, and "Bandits of Corsica" is nearly completed.

"King Solomon's Wives" is independent of Small's arrangement with Mike Todd to film "The Viking" in Europe, where Todd is currently making preparations for production.

The remaining films on Small's 1952 program are "Barbarossa," "Johnny Ringo," "Crosstown," and "Screening Eagles."

Reelect Cook

the following are new on the board: Glen Hall, Don Burnett, and Stanley Durwood.

Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America, president, the main speaker, emphasized the desperate need for organization in the motion picture industry lest its hostile critics destroy it entirely.

He said: "It is a crying shame that other industries are able so effectively to protect and publicize their interests while the motion picture industry continues to be the target of crackpots and self aggrandizing publicity seekers."

'Free Riders'

He characterized as "free riders" those exhibitors who make no financial contribution of any kind to their regional or national trade association even though it is obvious that no single exhibitor is in a position to defend himself and his industry.

Several speakers emphasized the value of projects and proposals emanating from the experience of exhibitors in the several regions, for their own advancement and for guidance of national groups. In discussions of public relations, proposals were developed and put into specific outline by Senn Lawler of Fox Midwest. He quoted several proposals made in a Chicago conference four years ago, and then set up these fields of effort: one, an exhibit; two, visits to communities by industry representatives, including actors who have been briefed carefully by a representative committee for talks and interviews; three, a centrally located source of information from which anybody in the industry might get promptly desired material for meeting a trend against films or for promoting a project benefiting the industry; four, a series of industry newspaper advertisements; five, transcriptions on the industry for local use with local theatre managers adding comment or mention of current programs; six, a nation-wide radio and perhaps a television show, by and for the industry, as a whole, with it doing for itself what several prominent commercial sponsored programs have done.

Wolfbergs, UA Named in Suit

DENVER, Oct. 1—Suit for $100,000 damages, to be trebled if won, has been filed in U. S. District Court by Kar-Vue Theatres, headed by Lem Lee, against United Artists and theatre companies headed by Harris and John Wolfberg, father and son. The suit alleges that Kar-Vue was unable to buy a proper run at proper prices of United Artists films for the Monaco drive-in, Denver.

The Wolfbergs have six theatres in Denver, including four drive-ins. They recently won a $300,000 judgment against RKO Radio, Loew's and 20th-Fox and have another suit pending asking for $1,000,000 from the same companies for alleged inability to buy films at proper runs and prices for the Broadway.

RKO Pictures

O'Hara and J. Miller Walker. The new board will include members of the Ralph Stolkin purchasing syndicate and their representatives.

The preponderance of opinion in trade and financial circles yesterday was that Depinet will be reelected president and that RKO Pictures' management will be left intact. Stolkin is expected to become chairman of the board.

It was learned yesterday that the Stolkin syndicate under its stock purchase agreement with Hughes can acquire the 1,050,000-share block for $6.50 per share by completing payment in less than the two years allotted to it. The $7 per share price remains if the purchasing group avails itself of the full two-year period.

No Conversations Held

Meanwhile, officials of Bankers Trust Co. here stated that no conversations whatever had been held with the Stolkin group concerning financing for RKO Pictures. The statement was in reply to reports that a first order of business for the new owners might be the re-negotiation of the company's revolving credit with Bankers Trust and the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh.

The new owners have scheduled a reception for members of the new board and of management at the 21 Club here today, following the election meeting. Tomorrow, they will meet with press representatives at Toots Shor's restaurant.

RULES FOR THE $7,500 CONTEST ON "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS"

ENTRY DATE: All entries must be postmarked on or before midnight of February 21, 1953.

THE JUDGING: Judging will be based upon the best and most productive advertising, exploitation and publicity campaigns for "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS."

In judging winners, consideration will be given to the nature of the run, the class of house, its location and business produced, in order to permit equal competition between small town theatres, neighborhood houses and downtown de luxe theatres.

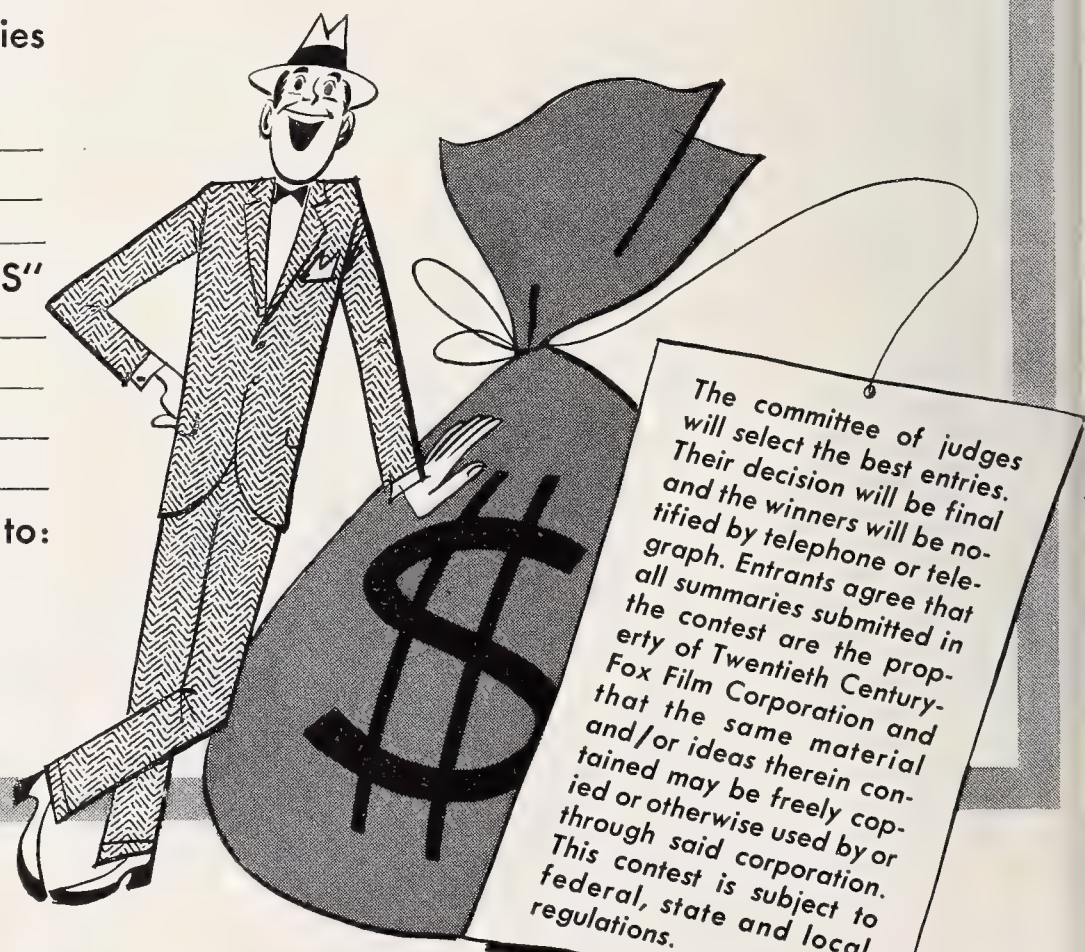
HOW TO ENTER: 1. Submit a written summary of the advertising,exploitation and publicity campaign you stage for your engagement of "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS," documented with newspaper tear sheets, photos and other specimens.

This summary may be in any form you elect, whether letter, memo, scrapbook, folder, etc., and may be of any length or dimension. However, judging will be done solely on the basis of the factors outlined in these Rules. Elaborateness of campaign books or of presentations will have no bearing whatever on the decision of the judges.

2. This summary must in all instances include the following specific information, in addition to an outline of the campaign activities themselves:

a. Size of theatre (seats)_____

b. Population_____
and type of community_____



c. Run given "SOMETHING FOR THE BIRDS"

d. Percentage of normal business_____

e. Receipts for engagement (optional)_____

organization. Disney said his firm was "marking time" on future commitments with RKO Pictures, pending clarification of the new management's policy. "Peter Pan" marks the last feature commitment under the present pact between Disney and RKO Pictures, while Disney's last short to be distributed by RKO Pictures under the current contract is due in May of next year.

"We have a great admiration for RKO distribution personnel," said Disney, "and everything else being equal, we would like to stay with them." He added that the Disney organization at this time was not shopping around for any new distribution outlets.

Here 2 or 3 Weeks

Disney said he expected to remain in New York about two or three weeks to set up a sales policy for "Peter Pan" and co-ordinate the extensive advertising, publicity and tie-in campaign. He would not comment whether advanced admission prices would be sought for the pre-release engagements.

Disney, although he saw the use of the TV medium for exploitation purposes, reiterated his belief that TV offers a very poor market for theatrical films and motion picture theatres are the best medium for such films. He said the same views apply to subscription home television, adding that home TV interests "would fall down dead" if they had to pay $4,000,000 for such a film as "Peter Pan."

It was also disclosed that a new True-Life Adventure film, the first one described to be "on the comic side," will be released about the same time as "Peter Pan." Its title is "Bear Country."

Plans for an extensive "Peter Pan" advertising campaign, to be launched Nov. 17 in Look magazine, were also disclosed.

go to Paris to resume negotiations for a Franco-American film pact. The first effort at negotiation collapsed a few weeks ago.

The Japanese licenses for the first half of the year, numbering 63, were shared by the companies as follows: Loew's, nine; 20th-Fox, eight; Paramount, seven; Warner, seven; Columbia, six; RKO Radio, six; Universal, six; Republic, five; United Artists, five, Allied Artists, four. The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers companies will share 15, the same number they received for the first half.

The MPEA companies agreed at the time they divided the first half's allotment that the ratio was not to become a precedent for the second half's allocations. Last Sept. 24 they failed at a special meeting to reach an agreement, but resolved that each company be permitted to release two pictures in Japan pending the final decision on the allocation by the presidents today.

MPEA unsuccessfully opposed Japan's formula based on the number of domestically-produced pictures in the fiscal year 1951, which signified only 59 permits for the MPEA companies for the second half of this year.

Cinerama A Question

However, it was evident that the scores of top industry executives who attended private demonstrations of Cinerama at the Oyster Bay, L. I., experimental laboratories during the past 18 months, and whose opinions of it ranged from strong interest to enthusiasm at the time, now are doubly interested in the system in light of the favorable audience reaction at the Broadway.

Sol Schwartz, RKO Theatres president, said yesterday that the public reception given Cinerama did not surprise him. The question now, he added, is not whether a circuit could afford the $50,000 to put Cinerama in a theatre—"it can." Rather, the question is whether it will be advisable for the entire theatre industry to invest millions of dollars in converting from conventional projection to Cinerama, Schwartz said.

Schwartz said he would have been more than willing to have the Cinerama premiere at one of the RKO theatres here, if only for the sake of the showmanship it represented. He described Cinerama as "a very exciting thing." But, he wondered, "will it become reality" for the industry?

This is what Mayer had to say following the premiere: "I consider Cinerama a more important advancement than either the advent of sound or color. This is the 'shot in the arm' that the motion picture business so badly needs. This is not simply a new kind of motion picture—it is a revolution!"

The commercial possibilities of Cinerama have been studied by major film companies over the past 18 months following the demonstrations by the inventor, Fred Waller, at Oyster Bay. J. Robert Rubin, Loew's vice-president, told company stockholders last spring that Loew's engineers who examined the process, did not think that it was economically feasible for theatres at that time. About a month ago, Paul Raibourn, Paramount vice-president, commented that he was "impressed" with Cinerama, but that its economic feasibility for the industry has to be proven

Neither Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's vice-president and general manager of its theatres, nor Harry M. Kalmine, president and general manager of Warner Theatres, have seen Cinerama, they acknowledged yesterday. Leonard Goldenson, United Paramount Theatres president, who is in New York, could not be reached at his office for comment on Cinerama.

Adolph Zukor, Paramount Pictures board chairman, was quoted as having remarked following the premiere that it would be profitable to make Cinerama films for distribution to only 40 or 50 theatres throughout the country, "because they would run almost indefinitely."

There appeared to be general agreement in the industry that Cinerama exceeds in many respects the achievements of Magnascreen and other earlier large screen and tri-dimensional processes. But a question raised by many was: "Is Cinerama good for all types of films or just special kinds, like action or panoramic pictures?" Another was: "Is Cinerama for one or two big, or small, theatres to each city, or for all theatres?"

Obviously, Lowell Thomas and Merian C. Cooper, who head the firm sponsoring the system, will have to supply the answers to all the questions before the shrewd minds of most industry leaders are convinced that Cinerama is commercially practicable. In the meantime, it is virtually certain that enthusiasm, however qualified, will continue to be expressed concerning the process as it now stands.

papers, he believes that "if the subject matter of a picture represents an advertising problem, then that picture should not be made unless the particular company can offord to make it for the sake of making it."

He added: "Let us keep in mind that solvency in our business depends upon mass acceptance of our pictures. If we can make sufficient commercial succeses, then we can afford to gamble on selective subjects. Whether we like it or not, the cultural level of the motion picture can only be raised in ratio to the profit level. 'Red Badge of Courage' and 'Bright Victory' were box-office failures, but thank goodness, Metro and Universal could afford such glorious failures."

Bergman and Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA persident, who presided at the luncheon, praised the pro-industry efforts of the film critics, who were represented by Kate Cameron, Daily News; Jim O'Connor, Journal-American; Leo Mishkin, Morning Telegraph; Milton Shapiro, The Compass, and Oscar Goodman, Times.

McWilliams, in a financial report on AMPA's showmanship courses, said tuition receipts totaled $1,700. General expenses were $300, rent for hotel "classroom" space came to $60, and $100 has been paid to 20th Century-Fox for the use of its screening room.

organization be created or, if this could not be done, that at least a working arrangement be set up among exhibitor groups to handle common problems.

"COMPO was created," Myers said, "as the medium of cooperation among all elements in the industry on those matters in which all had an interest. Trueman Rembusch, Col. H. A. Cole and other Allied leaders are doing their utmost to make COMPO the success it deserves to be. Until all others in the industry match their zeal in the common cause, I do not think anything would be gained by planning additional organization."

Cinerama Future, Box-office, Strong

Cinerama, the newest motion picture invention that some believe may create a boxoffice resurgence, marked a milestone in film history Tuesday with the opening of "This Is Cinerama," a Lowell Thomas-Merian C. Cooper presentation, at the Broadway Theatre, now showing on a two-a-day reserved seat basis at advanced prices. Press, radio and television reviews roused the public which stood in line yesterday from 10 A. M. until evening purchasing tickets, so that there is a sell out for approximately the next eight weeks.

The process is still being perfected and the enthusiastic premiere audience occasionally noticed the merging of the three images thrown on the oversized curved screen by the three projectors. A slight, vertical shadow gap appeared at the joining point of the images but Cinerama experts advised that this is a since-remedied condition inherent in the original camera and was not due to the projection equipment.

Aside from the different size equipment including reels, sprockets, camera, projectors and screen, Cinerama offers a technical challenge to the industry. While its visual range is almost as far as the human eye and the illusion of depth is greatly enchanced thus making for unsurpassed panorama views, it will require discretion and skill for the depiction of dramatic continuity with human beings instead of mountains as the objects viewed.

Best Moments

In "This Is Cinerama" the best moments were those in which vast landscapes or spectacles were shown or in which the camera "participated" in thrilling atcion. Thus, the final sequence viewing such scenic beauties of the United States as Crater Lake, Yellowstone National Park, Bridal Veil Falls, Yosemite National Park, and including a thrilling airplane ride through Zion National Park, was the best.

The opening roller-coaster ride was most realistic and the Saragossa bull fight with the roaring crowd sound enveloping the audience was extremely effective. On the other hand, the Vienna Boys Choir singing showed to no especial advantage as they just stood and sang. An airplane landing and a speedboat going through a sheet of flame pointed up the value of rapid motion.

Therefore, it could be that eventually outdoor adventure pictures, musicals and westerns could be made in Cinerama, and any spectacle would be greatly effective. Sporting events and musical pagents in the new process would have an immense presence of reality. However, it remains to be seen how this process would be used in dramas.

Stolkin Succeeds Depinet As RKO Radio President

Arnold Grant Is New Board Chairman and General Counsel; Sherrill Corwin, Vice President in Charge of Studio; Board Named

The resignation of Ned E. Depinet as president and member of the board of directors of RKO Radio Pictures Corp. was accepted yesterday by the Ralph Stolkin syndicate, which last week acquired the controlling stock interest in the company from Howard Hughes. Stolkin, the syndicate's head, took over the presidency.

The action by the new owners came as a shock to the industry which had regarded such a move earlier as unlikely to occur. Depinet, one of the best liked and most experienced executives in the industry, likewise had not been apprised in advance that the action was contemplated, although rumors to that effect had circulated in the trade on Tuesday and were reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Wednesday. It was stated that Depinet will act as "consultant and adviser to the corporation."

Ralph Stolkin

The other executive changes announced yesterday at the conclusion of two days of meetings of the new controlling group were, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY Wednesday: Arnold Grant, attorney for the new group, becomes chairman of the board, succeeding Noah Dietrich, and also was named general counsel of the company; Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the syndidate, was named vice-president and will supervise studio operations.

Corwin will not head production. The new group still is looking over the field for a new head of production and this week approached Jerry Wald and William Dozier, among others, for that post.

The new members of the RKO Pictures board elected yesterday are: Stolkin, Corwin, Grant, Edward Burke and A. L. Koolish, members of

Depinet Resignation Stirs Widespread Regret in Industry

Expressions of surprise and regret throughout the industry met the announcement yesterday that Ned E. Depinet's resignation as president of RKO Pictures Corp. had been accepted by the new owners of the controlling stock interest in the company.

SAYS SALE OF RKO FILMS TO TV IS NOW MATTER FOR STUDY

Reversing the positive statement it made in Hollywood last week that it had no intention of releasing RKO Radio films to television, the Ralph Stolkin syndicate in control of the company yesterday stated that the matter will be determined "with unprejudiced minds which will seek solutions looking to the future unbound by any dedication to the past."

"Solutions which seem the best answer for the benefit of the corporation will be adopted," the statement continued. "Speculation as to the ultimate results of such approach is futile. There has been no pre-determination thereof."

The statement issued by the Stolkin group in Hollywood last week on closing the deal for the purchase of the Howard Hughes controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures was:

"We want to make it clear that at this time we have no intention of releasing any of the studio's stock of films for the use of television. Such a move is a part of a much broader economic question involving a tremendous investment on the part of theatre owners, and it is our intention to assist exhibitors in every way possible to protect such investments."

New RKO Owners to 'Screen' Executives

The new RKO Pictures owners announced yesterday that they would begin an immediate "screening" of all executives in the distribution operations of the company, including exchanges, with the hope that it could be completed "in the very near future."

Thereafter, it was stated, a similar screening of studio executives will be undertaken.

Johnston Foregoes Trips Until Issue Is Settled

Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, yesterday told distributor company presidents that he plans to forego overseas trips pending the arrival at a final exhibition-distribution agreement on the question of arbitration. Johnston said arbitration is the number one subject on his agenda.

The company presidents, who met at MPAA headquarters here with Johnston and foreign managers, have scheduled a meeting on arbitration for next Wednesday. At that time they will act on distributor attorneys' proposals for changes in the draft of a projected industry system.

Attendance of U. S. Films Abroad Attains New Peak

Despite certain trade obstacles that still exist, the foreign market has not reached its full potential yet and global theatre expansion and worldwide attendance of American films have reached new highs during the past year, it was disclosed in the annual "The World Market" section of the Motion Picture Herald issue out today. It further revealed that production in many countries is returning to pre-war levels and in some cases exceeding them despite rising costs and high taxes.

"The World Market" appraises motion picture activities for the past year and the future prospects in the important nations in the world in text and photographs by Herald correspondents. Special attention has been devoted to Italian Films Export and Italian films, currently of considerable significance in the United States. The usual thorough listing of supply dealers is included.

Among the many countries reported on are: Great Britain by Peter Burnup; France by Henry Kahn; Italy by Argeo Santucci; Germany by Bolkmar Zuehlsdorff; Belgium by Marc Turfkruyer; Scandinavia by Lars-Eric Svensson; Switzerland by Arthur Goepfert; Holland by Philip De Schaap; Spain by Joseph E. Dorrell; India by V. Doraiswamy; Australia by Frank O'Connell; New Zealand by R. A. Usmar; Japan by Joseph Webster; Mexico by Louis Becerra Celis; Brazil by R. Ekerman; Argentina by Natalio Bruski; Venezuela by Mona London Caldwell; and South Africa by S. M. Kirsch.

Included in the feature articles are: a pictorial display on "Production Around the World"; a picture and text feature on "New Theatres Abroad"; "Equipment Abroad"; a feature saluting Italian Films containing an Eric A. Johnston statement in which he greets the Italian motion picture industry on the occasion of "Salute to Italian Films Week," Oct. 6-12; and the "World Market Buyers Index," a classified directory of manufacturers and distributors who are leading sources of motion picture equipment and supplies.

Chaplin 'Must Meet Re-entry Standards'

Washington, Oct. 2. — Attorney-General James P. McGranery said today that if Charles Chaplin can satisfy the immigration authorities that he can "meet the standards for re-entry" to this country, he will be admitted on his return from Europe.

McGranery told a press conference that when the public knows the facts on Chaplin "my action will be justified." He said Chaplin has been accused "in the newspapers" of Communism and "of grave moral charges."

Memphis Censors Ban 'Limelight'

MEMPHIS, Oct. 2.—The refusal of a permit for even an exhibitors' trade screening in Memphis of Charlie Chaplin's new picture, "Limelight," was disclosed here today. Lloyd T. Binford is chairman of the Memphis and Shelby County Board of Censors. Any public screening of the film was also banned.

In his decision, Binford excoriated Chaplin personally. In past rulings, Binford had made his views on Chaplin clear by banning the comedian's "Monsieur Verdoux" in 1947 and a revival of his "City Lights" in 1951.

A second action by the board resulted in the shift of a film from one theatre to another.

Refusal of the censors to permit white and Negro patrons to see at the same showing newsreels of the recent Rocky Marciano-Joe Walcott heavyweight championship fight resulted in the film being shown at the theatre which offered the second highest bid—but had no seating arrangement for Negroes.

Carroll Beasley, manager of the Strand, where the fight films were shown, and James McCarthy, manager of the high-bidding but unsuccessful Warner (which has a Negro gallery), agreed that the Warner outbid the Strand, and that the Warner's Negro gallery was the reason its bid was rejected.

Harold Cohen, 51, Dies

Harold Cohen, 51, Warner Brothers home office projectionist for the past 28 years, died here yesterday at Beth David Hospital. Services will be held today at the Parke West Memorial Chapel.

'Thief' Will Premiere At Roxy Oct. 15

Depinet

dustry, Depinet's friends in every branch and nook of the industry, throughout the country and around the world, are legion. He is highly respected by those in modest as well as high positions and is as well known for his untiring efforts on behalf of the industry as a whole as he is for his many years of distinguished service to his company.

Depinet, who sold his own stock, some 36,000 shares, to the Ralph Stolkin syndicate, along with Howard Hughes last week, will continue as adviser and consultant to the company, the new owners said yesterday.

Depinet's most recent service to the improvement of internal and external industry welfare was the leadership he gave to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, whose president he was for the first three years of its existence. Only recently he was chosen toastmaster to preside at the annual Picture Pioneers dinner here next month.

All of Depinet's business life has been spent in the industry. He started in 1907 with Imported Film & Supply Co. as New Orleans booker and salesman immediately upon leaving high school. Now 62 years old, Depinet became Southern division manager when his company was taken over by General Film. He joined Universal Pictures in 1911 and in 1924 was made one of the company's three home office sales directors. Later he joined First National as a member of its sales cabinet, soon becoming general sales manager.

With First National's merger with Pathe, he became identified with the company and, through it, with RKO. He was elected president of RKO Distributing Corp. in 1934; vice-president of RKO Radio and Pathe News in 1937; executive vice-president and vice-chairman of the board of RKO, the parent company, and in 1942 was named president of that company. Prior to divorcement, he also was president and chairman of the board of RKO Theatre Corp.

'Compo Day' Monday At Texas Fair

DALLAS, Oct. 2.—The Texas State Fair has designated Monday as "Texas COMPO Day" in "honor of a great industry," James Stewart, executive vice-president and general manager of the fair, disclosed here. The fair, which will open Saturday, runs through Oct. 19.

In designating a day for the state's Council of Motion Picture Organizations, Stewart listed many of the benefits offered by the industry and derived by the state from motion picture theatres. Among those listed were:

"Approximately 3,500,000 persons go to films in Texas every week, attending 1,485 conventional and 375 drive-in theatres. These theatres employ more than 15,000 people, and their combined weekly payroll is more than $650,000.

"The average price of admission to a Texas theatre is only 36 cents. Since most of these theatres show single features and the average program lasts two hours and eight minutes, Texans are enjoying the world's finest entertainment for only 17 cents an hour."

Stolkin Succeeds Depinet

the syndicate; Gordon Youngman, a member of the New York and Los Angeles law firm of Bautzer, Grant, Youngman and Silbert, and William Gorman, an associate of Stolkin's.

W. H. Clark, RKO Pictures treasurer, was the only member of the old board reelected. Those going off the board, in addition to Depinet and Dietrich, were: Robert Mochrie, vice-president and general sales manager; J. Miller Walker, secretary and former general counsel, Francis O'Hara and Hughes.

The company's announcement covered only the board and executive changes in RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., which is the producing and distributing subsidiary of RKO Pictures Corp., parent company. Absence of any reference in the statement to changes in the board of the parent company was ascribed unofficially to technical reasons. A formal explanation could not be obtained as all officials of the company, both new and old, repaired to the 21 Club for a reception following yesterday's business meeting and were not available to reporters.

Meet Press Today

The new slate will meet press representatives today at a reception at Toots Shor's restaurant.

It was also announced that the Bautzer, Grant, Youngman and Silbert law firm was appointed counsel for the company in California, succeeding the firm of Mitchell, Silberberg and Knupp. That change will not be effective until next Dec. 31, it was stated, and the latter firm also will conclude litigation being handled by it which still is pending after that date.

In addition, it was announced that Sidney Korshak, Chicago attorney who also participated in the Stolkin negotiations with Hughes, had been retained as labor counsel for RKO Radio.

No Other Changes

No other executive changes or appointments were announced, leaving a number of question marks in the executive set-up of RKO Radio as well as RKO Pictures Corp.

Perhaps referring to that circumstance, a "message to employes," the text of which was included in the company's press statement, said:

"Of necessity, a number of executive changes will be made to bring in and promote youth with its vitality, fresh approach and aggressive thinking. Changes below the executive level will be kept to a minimum."

The message to employes also said that "It is not their (the purchasers) intent, and they do not believe it the desire of the majority of the stockholders, to liquidate or destroy. Rather, the objective is to revitalize and build.

"A realistic approach," the message continued, "must recognize the company's large losses and the urgent need for sure steps to stem and turn the tide."

The press statement announced that an immediate screening of all executives in the "sales and distribution offices" will be undertaken and will be followed by "a similar job" in the exchanges and at the studio. It is hoped, the statement said, that all "major" changes may be consummated in the "very near future."

Look to the Future

The statement then said that the problem of "the use of television as a film outlet" will be determined "with unprejudiced minds which will seek solutions looking to the future unbound by any dedication to the past."

Text of the statement follows:

"The problems of the company are manifold and extremely difficult but not insoluble or insurmountable. The job at hand is a careful screening of all executives in the sales and distribution offices. This will be done immediately and on a daily basis in the hope that all major changes may be determined and consummated within the very near future. Thereafter, a similar job will be undertaken in the exchanges and at the studio. From this reshuffling the rebuilding process will go forward, perhaps not with the speed that those who do not have the job to do like but with all the speed that thoughtful, unhurried judgment will allow.

"While production of new film is of major importance, because it is so important, deals for product and personnel will proceed slowly and carefully. The studio problems cannot and will not be solved overnight.

"Problems that have plagued the industry as a whole for a long time, such as the use of television as a film outlet, will be approached, analyzed, and determined with unprejudiced minds which will seek solutions looking to the future unbound by any dedication to the past, and such solutions which seem the best answer for the benefit of the corporation will be adopted. Speculation as to the ultimate results of such approach is futile. There has been no predetermination thereof.

"It is and will be impossible to listen to, deny, or comment on all the rumors and gossip that flow from a change such as this. Stockholders, employees, and the public to the extent that it has any proper interest therein, will be promptly notified by the board of directors of the corporation as soon as further changes of policy or personnel are decided upon."

Was With RKO Before

Youngman, one of the new board members, is a former vice-president and general counsel of RKO Pictures. He was transferred from New York to the studio by Hughes and resigned from the company early last year to join the Gregson Bautzer law firm in Hollywood. Grant also has been identified with the industry for many years as attorney for David Selznick and Mary Pickford and until recently was a member of the board of Columbia Pictures.

allowed except minimum amounts for maintainance, repair and operating work. In addition to the self-authorizations under the new order, would-be theatre builders can now apply for NPA allotments of additional amounts of the three metals with much better chances of success than heretofore.

experience as a production executive in Hollywood, said the overtures came from a "purported representative" of the Stolkin group. He declined to give any further details, explaining that, as yet, there has not been any serious discussion on the offer.

Dozier's experience encompasses the post of general production aide to the vice-president in charge of production of RKO in 1944. Two years later he joined Universal-International as vice-president and associate head of production. His association with CBS-TV began in Oct., 1951.

The approach to Dozier is the second such move made by representatives of the Stolkin group. Jerry Wald was approached recently by Sherrill Corwin, a member of the Stolkin group.

Upholds Lobby Firm

A Supreme Court ruling has upheld the claim of the Lobby Display Frame Corp. to compel Nat Steinberg of the Square Theatre, Bronx, to defend in court an action based on a judgment for $6,750 against the Westchester Square Theatre Corp.

Eidophor and 'Snows' Cited

Twentieth Century-Fox's Eidophor, the large-screen color television process, and Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" are featured in the Oct. 6 issue of Life magazine.

The publication, which hits the newsstands today, devotes two illustrated pages to the television process which was demonstrated recently. A full-color photograph showing an audience watching an experimental Eidophor program and a diagram explaining how the system brings stage images to theatre screens illustrate the text.

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is given three picture pages. They present the story line of the color in Technicolor adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's short story. Stars Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner are pictured in key scenes from the story in the layout dramatizing how Hollywood adapts a Hemingway work.

Engineers Will Map Technical Advances

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2. — Approximately 100 to 150 industry engineers who serve on Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers' technical committees will confer on ways to improve theatre exhibition of films through better sound, screen brightness, improved film laboratory practices and release print inspection, at the forthcoming 72nd semi-annual convention in Washington all next week, stated Peter Mole, president of SMPTE, prior to his leaving here for the meetings.

The committee meetings, 14 in all, will be open to the press and to others in the trade who have interest in the subjects. All will be arranged by Hank Kogel, SMPTE staff engineer from the New York office.

Scheduled subjects are the following, with other meetings also on the agenda: film projection practice, under the direction of Ralph Heacock of RCA; screen brightness, led by Wallace Lozier of National Carbon, and theatre engineering, conducted by Jack Servies of National Theatre Supply.

Zukor Feted Oct. 6 By Midwest Owners

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures, will be paid tribute at a luncheon to be given him by more than 100 Midwestern exhibitors on Oct. 6 at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

Zukor and other Paramount home office executives will also attend the company's three-day division sales managers meeting.

Says Italian Films' Popularity Rising

"Italian pictures are constantly increasing in popularity in the United States," Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, declared in a letter to Winthrop W. Aldrich, honorary chairman of "Salute to Italian Films Week" which will begin on Monday.

Johnston will honor Nicola De Pirro, director general of Italy's Entertainment Industry Bureau; Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture and Allied Industries of Italy and of Italian Films Export, and other members of the delegation of film stars, directors and executives who arrive this weekend from Rome at a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel on Tuesday.

In his letter to Aldrich, the MPAA head who is a member of the "Salute Week" sponsoring committee said:

"It is a pleasure to greet the Italian motion picture industry on the occasion. Italian producers are making pictures that Americans audiences like.

"Good pictures are good for everyone. They are good for the producer, wherever he lives, and they are good for his competitors as well. Good pictures bring audiences into the theatres, just as poor pictures keep people away from theatres. Good pictures enrich the cultural experience and the enjoyment of movie-goers everywhere."

MGM Will Distribute Cinema Prod. Film

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—M-G-M will distribute Cinema Productions' "Main Street to Broadway," CP president M. A. Lightman told MOTION PICTURE DAILY on his arrival here for a fortnight's conferences with Lester Cowan, who will produce the multi-starred feature in cooperation with the Council of Living Theatre.

Lightman said the deal with M-G-M, which is tantamount to partnership, was finalized with Nicholas Schenck after conferences resulting in complete agreement on all aspects of the undertaking.

Brooklyn Theatre Files Trust Suit

A triple-damage $375,000 anti-trust suit against eight majors and a number of exhibitor corporations was filed here in Federal District Court by the Charben Cinema Corp., which owns the Jewel Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Jewel claimed "discrimation" by the defendants and complained of its inability to procure feature films. The period of its alleged damages runs from Aug. 13, 1951 to the present, according to the suit. Others named include Randforce Amusement Corp., Metropolitan Playhouses Inc. Rantru Operating Corp., and Springer Theatres Inc.

Reports on OMPI Today

An 18-month report on progress achieved by the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City will be delivered by Fred J. Schwartz, OMPI executive, at a meeting of the organization here today. Following the meeting, which will be held at the Hotel Astor, Schwartz will hold a press conference.

Chi. Tax Collections Show Summer Gains

Chicago, Oct. 2.—The city of Chicago's three per cent city amusement tax collections for September (on August receipts) reflect the upsurge of business experienced by theatres here from midsummer to Labor Day, showing an increase of approximately 20 per cent over the previous month's collections (on July receipts).

September collections this year were $93,939, a drop of roughly 10 per cent from the corresponding month last year, when collections were $104,868. The year to date also shows a drop of 10 per cent with collections down about $76,000 from 1951 to $758,000 in 1952. Part of this drop undoubtedly is due to a large number of theatre closings in 1951 and early 1952.

Enrollment Heavy For Rogers Drive

Enrollments of individual theatres and circuits in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can campaign have now passed the 3,000-mark, nationally, according to drive officials. The mark was topped by the addition of Schine's 91 houses. Other new additions include: The Trueman Rembusch circuit in Indiana, Penn-Paramount's theatres and the Los Angeles Paramount Theatres.

100% Circuits Listed

Circuits now enrolled 100 per cent in the hospital campaign include the following:

Affiliated Theatres, Basil Enterprises, Bijou Amusement Co., Comerford Circuit, Commonwealth Amusement Corp., Community Theatre Circuit, Dipson Theatres, Florida State Theatres, Fox Intermountain Theatres, Fox Midwest Circuit, Fox Wisconsin Circuit, Intermountain Theatres, Interstate Circuit, Kerasotes Theatres, Loew's Theatres, E. M. Loew Theatre Circuit, Malco Theatres, Neighborhood Theatres, Northio Theatres, Paramount Buffalo Theatres, United Paramount Theatres, Penn-Paramount Corp.

Also, RKO Theatres, Rowley-United Theatres, Schine Circuit, Strand Amusement Co., Syndicate Theatres of Indiana, Tenarken-Paramount Corp., Warner Brothers, Yamins Theatrical Enterprises, Brandt Circuit, Leo Brecher Theatres, Century Circuit, Interboro Circuit, Randforce Circuit, Walter Reade Theatres.

'U' Branch Managers To Tour Coast Studio

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Universal is sending branch managers in groups of 10 to Hollywood for tours of its studios, the company here discloses. Leo Greenfield of Albany is flying tomorrow with the second contingent, which will remain on the Coast for a week.

Arbitration

within the next few days advice regarding "the best time" for him to arrive in the French capital to reopen negotiations for a new Franco-American film pact. Negotiations between French and U. S. government officials collapsed a few weeks ago.

Unless such advice bespoke genuine urgency, Johnston said, he would not make the trip until the arbitration situation had been settled to the satisfaction of all parties to the drafting.

The presidents' meeting failed to solve the problem of dividing among their companies the 59 Japanese import permits which have been allocated to them for the second half of the fiscal year ending next March. They decided to tackle the problem again at a meeting scheduled for Oct. 14, if, in the meantime, efforts to get the Japanese to raise the allotment to 63, the first half's quota, do not meet with success.

Col. Richard T. McDonnell, MPAA foreign remittances expert, was reported to be en route to Tokyo where he will join with Irving Maas, Motion Picture Export Association official, in pressing for the higher allotment. Maas has been in Tokyo several weeks.

The presidents were informed by Johnston, who previously conferred with government officials in Washington, that Western Europe's economic position is at present at a low ebb and the outlook is not bright. Johnston did not refer specifically to theatre business prospects in Europe, but his listeners were not optimistic about them after hearing the MPAA president's over-all report.

Johnston reported that MPAA efforts to win repeal of Brazil's restrictions on American films have not been successful. He said he still intended to go to Rio de Janeiro in the not-too-distant future.

The meeting yesterday did not touch on the reports from Mexico City about Mexico's efforts to limit the screening time of foreign films to half of the usual time. When questioned about this, John G. McCarthy, MPAA international division chief, explained that only the lower house of the Mexican Congress has voted the action, and the Senate has yet to act. Other sources said there apparently was not much chance of heading off Senate approval of the measure, since the incumbent Mexican president, whose term expires on Nov. 30, has backed it.

A similar bill was defeated last year when Mexican exhibitors secured a court injunction against it and later won a ruling that the measure was unconstitutional. The MPAA is expected to throw its weight behind the exhibitors this time if there is any threat of a reverse decision.

Sidney Wins MGM Promotion Prize

Jack Sidney, manager of Loew's Century Theatre in Baltimore, has been named winner of M-G-M's first prize of $500 for his "Promotion-Prize - of - the - Month" campaign on "When in Rome." The judges were Walter Brooks, conductor of the Motion Picture Herald's Round Table; Tom Kennedy, executive editor of Showmen's Trade Review; and Chester Friedman, of Boxoffice.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE ACCENT on youth program which the Ralph Stolkin syndicate last week said would guide it in making executive changes in RKO Pictures will be an experience which, if carried to a conclusion, will be watched with the utmost interest by every company in the industry.

In recent years, when problem was added to problem in a seemingly endless succession and it often appeared to responsible observers that the industry lacked the determined leadership and agressiveness that is commonly associated with the young, who perhaps have it because they are untamed by experience, there was a widespread belief that the industry was sorely in need of new blood.

It was voiced not only by the "outs" but also by many who were "in." The criticism that too many in high places in the industry had served their best days and there were too few capable of succeeding them or in training to replace them was to be heard at representative industry meetings of many kinds. Generally, it appeared to be agreed that, at least, the industry had not encouraged promising, new executive blood and had given little thought to providing its leadership of tomorrow.

New blood in any industry is a good thing but free-running sap in the veins is not the only requisite

FCC Bureau Calls UPT, Para. Station Ownership 'Illegal'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Broadcast Bureau of the Federal Communications Commission told the FCC at the weekend that Paramount Pictures and United Paramount Theatres have been operating their radio and television stations illegally and said that if their licenses were not surrendered the FCC may have to seek injunctive relief.

The broadcast bureau also asked the FCC not to approve the UPT-American Broadcasting Co. merger on the grounds that a grant of the merger might lead to monopolistic patterns within the TV industry.

The broadcast bureau made these allegations in the proposed findings relating to the issues involved in the

800 At SMPTE Meeting Opening in Capital Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers' 72nd semi-annual convention will open here tomorrow with a luncheon in the Congressional Room of the Statler Hotel at which guest speakers will be Major General George I. Back, Chief Signal Officer of the United States Army; Brigadier General Brooke E. Allen, Commanding General of the Air Photographic and Charting Service, U. S. Air Force, and Captain A. D. Fraser, Chief of Naval Photography.

Approximately 800 members from all parts of the U. S. and several foreign countries—a record registration—are expected. During the week-long convention 93 papers and reports on equipment and technical advancement in motion pictures and television will be presented by leading scientists, engineers and industry leaders from England, France, Germany, Canada, and the U. S.

The new SMPTE president will be announced at the luncheon. Newly elected officers and governors of the

Disney, Goldwyn Await RKO Changes

Roy Disney, president of Walt Disney Productions, at the weekend expressed "shock" at the resignation of Ned E. Depinet as president of RKO Radio Pictures Corp., but added that it would be "premature" now to comment on the future relationship of his company with RKO.

Meanwhile, Ralph Stolkin, the new RKO Radio Pictures president, visited and conferred with Samuel Goldwyn, another leading independent producer releasing through RKO. Neither

Product Seen First Problem By RKO Group

Financing, Executive Plans in Fore, Also

The most pressing problems confronting the new RKO Pictures owners are product supply and long-range financing, in that order, according to a consensus of views of members of the Ralph Stolkin syndicate expressed at a press reception here on Friday.

The company has no plans for any attempt to buy a block of completed pictures from another company to tide it over future months until the studio again is in full activity, it was stated. Instead, it will rely on available product, either new and unreleased, or reissues to tide it over what might be an 18-month period when it expects to have a steady flow of pictures coming from the studio again.

It was estimated by members of

NEWS FLASHES

Distributors have abandoned the proposal that newsreels be produced in color, it was learned here at the weekend.

The reasons given for dropping the idea were that it would prove too costly in light of what the newsreels earn and that the mechanical difficulties pose too big a hurdle.

Goodman, executive assistant to Schwalberg.

FCC Sets Agenda For Theatre TV Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Federal Communications Commission over the week-end made formal announcement of the time and place for the Oct. 20 hearing on the engineering and accounting phases of the theatre television case.

This portion of the hearing is not expected to last over a week, with the major portion of the case to be presented beginning Jan. 12. The Commission noted that the Oct. 20 session would cover only direct testimony, cross-questioning put off to the January portion of the hearing. The Commission asked that a list of witnesses and a summary of their testimony be filed by Oct. 9.

Attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, who will present the industry's coordinated case to the Commission, have estimated that there will probably be less than a dozen witnesses at the Oct. 20 phase. These will include among the engineering witnesses Earl Sponable, Stuart Bailey, Andrew Inglis and a witness on tubes. In addition, there will be several occounting witnesses.

'Price Quotations'

The FCC included in its list of matters on which it expects to hear testimony "price quotations" from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It said the list had been "tentatively outlined" by MPAA and NETTC in their joint petition, filed last summer, requesting an early date for the technical phase of the case. At that time attorneys and engineers for NETTC and MPAA expected that A. T. and T. would be able to supply the data by Oct. 20.

Last week, however, A. T. and T. said it would be unable to supply the information before the end of the year. NETTC attorney Marcus Cohn said over the week-end that the theatre television attorneys would inform the Commission of the delay on the part of A. T. and T. and that they would present the A. T. and T. data during the January phase of the hearing.

Among the other points on which the Commission said it expects to hear testimony were: technical requirements and standards for theatre television; sample theatre television microwave distribution systems; matters relating to the accounting phase of the theatre television hearing.

The FCC said the hearing would be held before the Commission en banc and would open at 10 A.M. on Oct. 20 in the auditorium of the National Museum here.

Ambrose Guest of Tent

(Jimmy) Ambrose will be honor guest at a testimonial dinner to be given by the Cincinnati Variety Club, Tent No. 3, here at the Netherland Plaza, tomorrow, in recognition of his recent promotion from local Warner Brothers branch manager to district manager. He will continue to make his headquarters here.

Myers Tells Allied TOA Meet 'Failed'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In a special bulletin setting forth plans for Allied's national convention next month in Chicago, Abram F. Myers, Allied board chairman and general counsel, has cautioned the organization's leaders in various parts of the country against the pitfalls which he said contributed to the "failure" of the Theatre Owners of America's recent national convention in Washington.

Myers said the TOA convention was a "fiasco" and that "the whole advertised program blew up" because of "TOA's weak and vacillating performance" at that time in handling "the larger issues—arbitration, the 16mm. case and the tax campaign."

Wrote Myers: "We do not gloat over the failure of TOA's 'national' convention, nor do we delight in its present difficulties. On the contrary, we sincerely smpathize with those independent exhibitors who joined TOA in good faith and relied on it for protection. Their disillusionment following the fiasco in Washington must be very great. Perhaps it is just as well so few of them were on hand to witness the dismal proceedings."

He added that Allied now has a "great opportunity and a grave responsibility" to see that it stages "a truly great convention."

The Allied convention plans, according to Myers, "contemplate a minimum of set speeches and ample time for open discussion. Instead of another of those boring first sessions with a lot of hot air from the dais, there will be only a short prayer, the Mayor's address of welcome and the keynote address. The session will then adjourn so that the exhibitors can attend the (trade practice film) clinics. In this way they can become acquainted, can 'loosen up' and gain the necessary confidence to plunge into the discussion at the next general session."

Dezel Now Operates Branch in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Albert Dezel tomorrow will start operating the Lippert exchange here. Contracts were executed between Dezel and Ed Baumgarten, representing Lippert Productions. Harris Dudelson remains as district manager for Lippert, supervising the Midwest territory, and will also have charge of the Chicago exchange. Sam Kaplan takes over as booker and office manager and Jack Rubin has been added to the sales staff.

Traub's Name on Seal

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—The name of Sydney Traub, Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors chairman, has been ordered returned to the censor board seal after it had been omitted since last July.

OMPI May Extend Its Air Promotions Over N.Y. Stations

Further tie-ups with other radio-TV stations by the Organization of Motion Picture Industries here in publicizing good motion pictures, similar to the current three-program deal with National Broadcasting, are a definite possibility in the near future, it was revealed by OMPI chairman Fred Schwartz after his organization reported to exhibitor members on Friday.

No Deals Yet

Schwartz emphasized that no commitments had been made but that interest had been evinced by other air chains. He said the general reaction to the five-minute "plugs" on the Skitch Henderson, Herb Sheldon, and Conrad Nagel daily programs was extremely favorable. Within the next week or two the theatres involved will start showing a trailer with every program plugging the programs and display posters doing likewise.

An unfriendly press, quick to print film industry stories without checking the accuracy of facts, caused the formation of the organization. Its policy of only checking facts without attempting to sway opinion is said to account for the organization's continued existence. The membership is comprised of exhibitors and the MPAA. Close touch has been maintained with the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

OMPI has provided the information on films for use in the NBC-NBT tie-up; special care has been taken to plug only pictures of merit.

Intentions of holding the long-planned Grand Central Palace exposition were proclaimed by Schwartz. The contemplated date is Dec. 1953 for when a commitment is held on the Palace. However, this will be discussed at the next seminar in January or February and it is hoped that plans may be finalized thereafter.

Exposition Plans

Exposition plans originally called for the transporting from Hollywood of actors, technicians and equipment for public display. The idea was to inform the public of the various operations involved in producing and distributing motion pictures and produce more goodwill thereby.

OMPI is participating in the current campaign against the admission tax. Morton Sunshine of the ITOA and D. John Philips, of MMPTA have been in charge of OMPI publicity.

Pathe-Loew's-RKO Trial in $15,000,000 Suit in 3 Months

The $15,000,000 triple-damage anti-trust suit which Chesapeake Industries (formerly Pathe Industries) filed in U. S. District Court here against Loew's and RKO Theatres will come to trial in three months, according to William C. MacMillen, Jr., Chesapeake president.

The action, filed over a year ago, charged that the defendants conspired to exclude independently-produced pictures from the Metropolitan New York market. Pathe Industries was at the time the parent company of Eagle Lion Classics, distributor of independently-produced films, whose physical assets were acquired in the interim by United Artists.

MacMillen said that pre-trial hearings have been completed so far as Chesapeake is concerned. Whether depositions will be sought between now and the end of the year by the defendants remains to be seen.

Raibourn Sees Bright Future for Cinerama

Paul Raibourn, Paramount Pictures vice-president, who on Sept. 12 told the Centennial of Engineering Symposium in Chicago concerning Cinerama that "public response in revenue as compared with costs incurred will determine the final acceptance of the idea," at the weekend declared in New York that he considers the triple-projection, three-dimensional "effect" system to be economically feasible for the motion picture industry.

Cinerama was introduced to the public last Tueseday evening at the Broadway Theatre here.

13 U-I Exploitation Men on 'Willie'

Thirteen exploitation representatives have been assigned by Universal-International to help promote "Willie and Joe Back At the Front" in key dates when it opens Coast to Coast on Oct. 15. Included are Ben Katz, Robert Ungerfeld, A. Mike Vogel, Guy Biondi, John McGrail, Ben Hill, Julian Bowes, Duke Hickey, David Pollard, Maurice (Bucky) Harris, Ed Borgan, William Gandall and Joe Blaufox.

The film is slated to play more than 1,000 dates in the 30-day period starting Oct. 15.

Manny Wolfe Story Editor for Small

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—Manny Wolfe has been named story editor for Edward Small Productions. He was formerly story editor and head of the writing staff at Paramount and subsequently at RKO Radio.

Wolfe will primarily scout material.

"The Stooge"

(Wallis-Paramount) Hollywood, Oct. 5

THIS vehicle for the dynamic Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis duo happens to have been made before some of their pictures that hold house records throughout the country, but that's no reason why it shouldn't better even the standing Martin-Lewis marks. As a matter of fact, it has more of story and a deal more of heart than the boys' later productions, and these points could make a difference in the attitude of the middle-aged toward these young men's robust talents, if that attitude isn't already perfect. It is a favorable circumstance, too, that the picture is beneficiary of a more orthodox structure and development than some of their others, with the result that it builds more steadily and satisfyingly from a relatively moderate beginning to a powerful finish in which a tear divides importance with the laughs. The attraction is as nearly failure-proof as a picture can be.

Eight songs from various sources are handled in the course of a story (by Fred F. Finklehoffe and Sid Silvers, scripted by Finkelhoffe and Martin Rackin) of the days when vaudeville was in its prime and playing the Palace was the professional's loftiest ambition, unless it were starring for Ziegfeld in a Follies. The story has Martin marrying Polly Bergen at the opening and setting out to do a single in vaudeville, against the advice of his agent and former partner. He flops, and is persuaded to pick up a song-plugger (Lewis) to be used as a stooge in the audience. (With Martin using an accordion in his singing act, this gets to look very similar to the Phil Baker routine, but that does it no damage.) From this start the story follows plausible and logical lines, with Lewis faithfully sticking to Martin through adversity and fame, despite Martin's neglect, until each comes into his own finally in an all-around happy ending. Marion Marshall, Eddie Mayehoff, Richard Erdman and Frances Bavier lead the supporting cast.

The attraction appears certain to add another box-office smash to producer Hal B. Wallis' long list of successes, and it is a notoble directorial credit for Norman Taurog.

Running time, 100 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"My Wife's Best Friend"

(20th Century-Fox)

ANNE BAXTER and MacDonald Carey are the stars of this amusing comedy built around the novel situation in which a husband confesses to his wife a slight affair with her best friend several years before, because the plane carrying them to a wedding anniversary vacation seems destined to crash.

The engine trouble that caused the plane to turn back is remedied before the safe landing and wife Baxter, a domineering shrew, goes into a raging silence although Carey assures her that "nothing happened" outside of a few Martinis. Best friend Catherine McLeod is unaware of the damaging revelation and when Miss Baxter becomes sickeningly noble and forgives everyone ceaselessly, Miss McLeod suffers barbed taunts and Miss Baxter twice spills coffee on her hand.

Richard Sale directed with an eye toward broad comedy which should please some audiences. There are fantasy sequences in which Miss Baxter thinks herself Joan of Arc, a medieval slaving wife, and character switches accordingly. While this ensues Carey tries to put over a lumber deal with cash-needing sophisticate "millionaire" Leif Erickson. Miss Baxter as the plain wife almost ruins the deal but when she becomes her sophisticated, well-dressed self the deal is consummated.

When Carey and Miss McLeod get caught in a rainstorm and go to his house to change clothes separately, the wife catches them as Carey emerges from the shower wearing a bathrobe and Miss McLeod is putting on stockings. Miss Baxter assumes the worst, quarrels vulgarly with her best friend and takes up with Erickson. The final complication has Miss Baxter leaving for a weekend with Erickson but changing her mind, only to come back to an empty house. She traces Carey to a sanitarium, and he happily accepts her back.

Robert Bassler produced and Isobel Lennart wrote the screenplay, based on a story by John Briard Harding. The story sometimes becomes confusingly serious but is usually overcome by the fine performances of the stars and a supporting cast headed by Cecil Kellaway, Casey Adams and Miss McLeod, that includes Frances Bavier, Mary Sullivan, Martin Milner and Billie Bird.

Running time, 87 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Army Support for 'Rifle' Premiere

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 5.—The United States Army is lending its support to the world premiere of "Springfield Rifle," WarnerColor production starring Gary Cooper, Phyllis Thaxter and David Brian, at the Capitol Theatre here Tuesday evening. The picture will begin regular performances at the Capitol and Art theatres on the following day. A contingent of stars will participate in the ceremonies.

Texas Compo In 'Ivanhoe' Drive

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—"Ivanhoe" merchandising in Texas is being handled jointly by M-G-M, the Council of Motion Picture Organizations and National Screen. Circuit heads and advertising directors have pledged complete support in the merchanising of the film.

Raymond Willie, Jr., M-G-M exploitation director for the Southwest, announced the details at a special luncheon.

Lists Kodak as 50-Yr. Dividend-Payer

Eastman Kodak is listed in the 50th anniversary number of Financial World as a member of the "Fifty-Plus Club" of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange or New York Curb Exchange that have paid dividends for 50 years or more. According to the list, which cites 81 common stocks, Eastman has been paying dividends since 1902.

The company is said to have increased its stockholders from 39,014 to 69,510 and its employes from 21,100 to 49,400 in the 20 years from 1931 to 1951.

Skouras Honored on 10th Anniversary

Honoring Spyros P. Skouras, on his 10th anniversary as president of 20th Century-Fox, and wishing him a bon voyage on the eve of his trip to the Far East and Australia, 20th Century-Fox executives feted the company head on Friday at a luncheon held at the home office.

The luncheon also served as an advance bow to Skouras whose name will be given to the week of Oct. 12-18 in the key period of the company's current "Branch Managers' Testimonial," annual sales drive salute to the exchange heads by distribution department personnel.

Skouras departed for the Far East Friday evening on a trip which will take him to the West Coast, then to Honolulu and Tokyo, before visits to the Far East and the Antipodes. He is expected to be away at least five weeks.

On his tour Skouras will survey company interests and confer with exhibitors and government officials on strengthening film industry ties with the United States.

20th-Fox's Zanuck 'Plugs' 'Paleface'

Paramount's "Son of Paleface," starring Bob Hope, Jane Russell, Roy Rogers and Trigger, gets an unprecedented "plug" from Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century-Fox, in the October issue of Coronet Magazine.

As guest reviewer for the publication, Zanuck writes: "A welcome sequel to the Bob Hope-Jane Russell satire on the Old West, 'Son of Paleface' adds Roy Rogers to the fun-making. With Bob as the offspring of a legendary Indian fighter, Jane as the head of a robber band, and all hands contributing a laugh a minute, Paramount has another winner."

In the THEATRE Equipment World . . . . . with RAY GALLO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—It's the fall meeting of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers that's on our mind as we put paper in typewriter for this column. This convention, opening at the Hotel Statler in Washington tomorrow for a five-day run, is the 72nd, a number that means the Society has figured in a lot of motion picture history.

More than 300 wives of attending members will have tea at the White House Wednesday afternoon with the First Lady of the land. . . . Rose Golden, wife of N. D. Golden, government motion picture chief, and Mrs. Joseph E. Aiken are responsible for arranging the ladies' program. . . . The wives will also be feted at a reception to be given by the Greek Ambassador at the Embassy Friday afternoon.

Bill Kunzmann, who has handled all conventions since the Society began, is making his farewell appearance in that role this week. He is retiring from his position with National Carbon as well as his post as convention vice-president. (We'll all be missing you, Bill.)

Another familiar face at Society conventions, H. F. Heidegger of International Projector is on hand to handle the motion picture projection, with capable aides and fine equipment. If you like the pictures he projects, thank Jack McCullough of the Eric Johnston office and Emerson Yorke.

A lapel pin of the Society's insigne is now available to all accredited members. Those desiring to purchase one may do so by sending a check or money order for $4 to the Society's headquarters; or, better still, pick up one at the convention this week. It will be on display at the membership and subscription committee desk.

"Tropical Heat Wave"

(Republic Pictures)

ESTELITA portrays a fiery singer in a nightclub owned by her uncle, Martin Garralaga, in this better-than-average production. Robert Hutton, as the handsome college professor gathering data for a doctorate's thesis in criminal psychology, and Grant Withers, as a criminal big shot who muscles his way into a half interest in the club, provide veteran support.

Between dodging the passes of Withers and trying to wrest Hutton's attentions from his fiancee, Kristine Miller, Estelita sings three songs in pleasant style. They are "My Lonely Heart and I," "I Want To Be Kissed," and "What Should Happen to You." Her performance follows the successful broad comedy style of the late Lupe Velez. She bounces her way through a melodramatic plot deftly spiced with slapstick. R. G. Springsteen's direction keeps the pace going rapidly.

When Hutton's naive efforts to quiz criminals in jail fail, Estelita prevents his return to college with Miss Miller by spreading word around that a new big shot is moving in on the town hoodlums. She fronts as his "moll" and works a tape recorder while Hutton puts over the impersonation and gets much material. He is so successful he is jailed but released when he promises to turn over the recordings to imprison the crooks.

Withers is accidentally k.o.'d by Hutton in the first show-down but comes back with new hoods who mistakenly imprison Miss Miller and her dad. In the final showdown which evolves into a rooftop chase Withers and most of his gang follow the thread unravelling from Estelita's skirt and walk into the police station. Hutton and Estelita clinch for the happy ending.

Edwin Max, Lou Lubin, Lennie Bremen, Jack Kruschen and Earl Lee aid in comedy roles. The story was written by Arthur T. Horman. Sidney Picker was associate producer.

Running time, 74 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 1.

"Strange Fascination"

(Columbia Pictures)

HUGO HAAS has directed and produced this unimpressive drama in which he stars as a talented European pianist whose passion for an unintellectual night club dancer causes his undoing. The emphasis is on the tragedy of the romance of the middle-aged pianist for the physically amply endowed Cleo Moore, who is half his age, but Haas' screenplay does little to evolve characterization or make the story credible.

Haas' talent and personality attract wealthy widow Mona Barrie who brings him to the United States to further his career. He is progressively successful in the concert field until he meets and marries the blonde Miss Moore. His jealousy of his wife and fate combine to cause Haas various setbacks, including the loss of Miss Barrie's friendship and sponsorship. Eventually his wife leaves him and Haas' effort to mangle his hand for $100,000 insurance fails, leaving him a crippled, piano-playing bum on the Bowery.

An abundant amount of concert pieces are played throughout the film and the proceedings are also aided by the eye-arresting presence of Miss Moore and the acting of Miss Barrie. Also in the cast are Rick Vallin, Karen Sharpe, Marc Krah, Genevieve Aumont, Maura Murphy, and Patrick Holmes.

Running time, 80 minutes. Adult audience classification. September release.

Subscription TV Needed: McDonald

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Hopes for the expansion of theatre television throughout the country were coupled with enthusiasm for subscription home television in an address by Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of Zenith Radio Corp., owner of the Phonevision "pay-as-you-see" TV system.

McDonald, speaking before a meeting of Zenith distributors at the week-end, said it would be "unfair and legally impossible to force sports or other producers to put their important spectacles on home TV at a financial disadvantage to themselves.

"Home television is a world's champion wrecker of box-office attendance," he added, explaining that home TV cannot reverse the trend until it can compete with theatres on a pay-per-viewer basis with subscription TV. He said with the advent of subcription TV, promoters and producers will find it advantageous to put top events on both home and theatre TV so that practically everybody will have an opportunity to view them.

Revenue Bureau Lists Tax Refunds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue has issued a list of companies in the industry which during the 1951-52 fiscal year got action on claims for relief from taxes levied under the World War II excess profits tax. The claims were all based on a contention that the government had not allowed the taxpayers sufficiently high excess profits credit.

List Firms

Firms receiving tax refunds of more than $5,000 follow: Paramount Hollywood Theatre Corp., 21,943; Shea Theatre Corp., $28,823; Parkchester Amusement Corp., $61,610; St. Louis Orpheum Corp., $28,936; Northwest Automatic Candy Corp., $14,651; Michigan Newsreel Co., $9,823; Buffalo 20th Century, Inc., $16,292; Allston Theatres, Inc., $10,861; United Theatre Enterprises, $6,256, and Palmetto Theatre Co., $7,518.

Says TV Production In August High

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — Production of television receivers in August of this year was 171 per cent higher than production in August of 1951, the Radio-Television Manufacturers Association said over the week-end.

RTMA said that 397,769 television sets were manufactured in August of this year as against 146,705 units in August of the previous year.

The total number of television sets produced through August of this year was set at 2,914,926 by the RTMA.

the group that within three months time the executive set-up at the studio will have been determined and full-scale production planning can be launched.

It was conceded by members of the syndicate that renegotiation of the RKO Pictures open loan with Bankers Trust Co. and the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh will be necessary. However, it was stated, the company's current cash position is not strained and the new owners expressed the opinion that the company is qualified to obtain much larger bank credits than are available to it now.

It was made clear by several of the group that RKO Pictures' foreign income will be subjected to close scrutiny with the idea of establishing possibilities of increased revenue from the foreign markets.

Present at the press meeting, held at Toots Shor's restaurant, were: Stolkin, new RKO Pictures president; Arnold Grant, board chairman and general counsel; Sherrill Corwin, vice-president and head of studio operations; Edward Burke and A. L. Koolish, board members and members of the purchasing syndicate; Gordon Youngman, attorney and director; William Gorman of Evansville, Ind., who is the representative on the board of Ray Ryan, Texas oil operator and member of the syndicate, and William H. Clark, RKO Pictures treasurer and the only member of the old board to be reelected.

Stolkin said he would spend approximately half his time in New York at the home office and the other half in Hollywood. He has no immediate plans to establish residence here. Grant and Burke are scheduled to make New York their headquarters, devoting virtually all of their time to the company here. The three will be the most active of the new group in administrative operations of the company here.

Members of the syndicate declined comment on further executive changes in RKO Radio, explaining that the operations of individual executives, both in distribution and production, will be studied carefully before decisions are made either on their retention or replacement. The home office and distribution organization in the field, both domestic and foreign, will be surveyed first and every effort will be made to complete the work in as short a time as possible, perhaps one month, it was stated. Thereafter, a similar survey will be made of studio operations.

Burke will devote particular attention to the foreign operations, it was indicated.

Members of the syndicate declined to be drawn out on the possibilities of the sale of RKO Radio's backlog films for television use. They rested on the statement issued Thursday which said that no pre-determination of the question has been made and that after thorough study they will do what is best for the company and stockholders in the best judgment of minds "unbound by any dedication to the past."

Grant explained restriction of the company's announcement of a new board of directors last Thursday to RKO Radio Pictures, the operating subsidiary, rather than to RKO Pictures Corp., the parent company, as a consequence of a decision of the new owners to regard the subsidiary as the important functioning company and the parent as a technical holding company which owes its existence only to Securities and Exchange Commission requirements.

Members of the syndicate showed reluctance to discuss the commitment by Howard Hughes to loan the corporation $8,000,000 if called upon to do so. They left the impression that it was bound up with supplementary conditions and would not be resorted to under normal circumstances.

All of the partners appeared agreed that young blood is desired in the company, with or without experience in motion pictures.

"The personal traits that make for successful administration in one industry," one said, "are equally useful in the motion picture industry. The same basic, general problems are present in all industry."

Most members of the group, other than Stolkin, Grant and Burke, plan to leave here early this week for their respective headquarters in the West and on the Coast.

FCC Bureau Calls

catch-all UPT-ABC merger hearings.

At the same time, Allen B. DuMont Laboratories Inc., in its proposed findings, asked the commission not to approve the merger because the merged companies would be in violation of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act and would be "an overwhelming danger to the public interest."

In addition to declaring that the Paramount companies have been and were still operating their stations illegally, the broadcast bureau maintained that neither UPT nor Paramount "possessed the necessary character and conduct to be a licensee."

Next Step

The next step will be the examiners' initial decision, which will probably come down in about a month. Following that the commision will put out its final decision. Since the commission has indicated that it would like a speedy determination on the merger case the period for filing objections to the proposed findings will probably be quite short.

The bureau based its charge that Paramount and UPT were operating their stations illegally on the grounds that although the companies characterized as "involuntary" the transfer of control of the stations from the parent company to Paramount Pictures Corp. and UPT, the bureau found the transfer in fact "voluntary." As such, it pointed out, the rules set down by the commission for a voluntary transfer have not been observed by the transferor or the transferee.

"The applicant in this proceeding has committed clear and absolute violation of the commission's rules and regulations," the bureau said, "in connection with the unauthorized transfer of control involved in these proceedings for which there appeared to be no condonation."

To grant the merger, the bureau said, would "sow the seeds in the same fertile grounds from which sprung monopoly in the Paramount case—namely, concentration of the production, distribution and exhibition phases of network theatre television programs in the hands of a few large companies.

DuMont Says

Much of the DuMont proposed findings attacked the commision's August 1 order, declaring that the order "prevents a fair determination of the record and perverts the entire record." With the order, DuMont said, "the commission chose to aid a competitor of DuMont" by ignoring 35 years of "activities constituting anti-trust violations" on the part of "individuals constituting the top management of the merged company." In addition, DuMont said, by making a finding of financial difficulty on the part of ABC in the August 1 order, the commission prejudiced the record.

If the commission carries out the order, DuMont declared, the result will be "an arbitrary distortion of essential evidence designed under the stated issues solely to qualify the merged company as a licensee and would be in disregard for the public interest."

Hits Order

Characterizing the order as "a retraction of the courageous anti-trust policy which the commission promulgated one year ago," DuMont declared that the order was "a scheme designed to white-wash the qualifications of the merged company and foreclose the thorough investigation to which the merged company would ordinarily be subjected after January 1953.

DuMont attacked UPT as well, declaring that "the record makes it extremely doubtful that the management of the home office of United Paramount Theatres has any desire to cleanse itself of its dangerous proclivities," and adding that UPT's New York management "failed to sustain its burden of proving that it has purged itself of unlawful proclivities."

Disney-Goldwyn

Stolkin nor Goldwyn, who left for the Coast at the weekend, would comment on the meeting.

Under his contract, Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" is believed to be committed to RKO, but he has an option to cancel before the next picture is due. Presumably, Goldwyn will await the results of any changes the Stolkin group will make in its distribution organization before taking any action.

Praises Depinet

Disney praised Depinet, not only for his successful handling of personnel, but his long leadership in the industry. The Disney contract with RKO Radio Pictures expires in May of next year. Disney, who is due to remain in New York for the next two weeks, may confer with Stolkin before leaving for the Coast.

of success. There are young failures, too.

Of late, the industry has been observing the brilliant handling of at least two important companies by sons of its younger generation—United Artists, headed by Arthur Krim, and United Paramount Thetres, under Leonard Goldenson. Both have weathered some very trying times with a full measure of distinction. While young, the executive personnel of both companies was well trained and thoroughly experienced in the complexities of this sometimes baffling industry when it took over.

The Stolkin group would be well-advised to look for know-how as well as youth. One is as important as the other. And they are not always found together.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE ACCENT on youth program which the Ralph Stolkin syndicate last week said would guide it in making executive changes in RKO Pictures will be an experience which, if carried to a conclusion, will be watched with the utmost interest by every company in the industry.

In recent years, when problem was added to problem in a seemingly endless succession and it often appeared to responsible observers that the industry lacked the determined leadership and agressiveness that is commonly associated with the young, who perhaps have it because they are untamed by experience, there was a widespread belief that the industry was sorely in need of new blood.

It was voiced not only by the "outs" but also by many who were "in." The criticism that too many in high places in the industry had served their best days and there were too few capable of succeeding them or in training to replace them was to be heard at representative industry meetings of many kinds. Generally, it appeared to be agreed that, at least, the industry had not encouraged promising, new executive blood and had given little thought to providing its leadership of tomorrow.

New blood in any industry is a good thing but free-running sap in the veins is not the only requisite

Disney, Goldwyn Await RKO Changes

Roy Disney, president of Walt Disney Productions, at the weekend expressed "shock" at the resignation of Ned E. Depinet as president of RKO Radio Pictures Corp., but added that it would be "premature" now to comment on the future relationship of his company with RKO.

Meanwhile, Ralph Stolkin, the new RKO Radio Pictures president, visited and conferred with Samuel Goldwyn, another leading independent producer releasing through RKO. Neither

Product Seen First Problem By RKO Group

Financing, Executive Plans in Fore, Also

The most pressing problems confronting the new RKO Pictures owners are product supply and long-range financing, in that order, according to a consensus of views of members of the Ralph Stolkin syndicate expressed at a press reception here on Friday.

The company has no plans for any attempt to buy a block of completed pictures from another company to tide it over future months until the studio again is in full activity, it was stated. Instead, it will rely on available product, either new and unreleased, or reissues to tide it over what might be an 18-month period when it expects to have a steady flow of pictures coming from the studio again.

Newsreels in Color Plan Abandoned

The proposal that newsreels be produced in color has been abandoned by the distributors, it was learned here at the weekend. Two reasons were given for dropping the idea: (1) color would prove to be too costly in light of what the newsreels earn, (2) mechanical difficulties pose too big a hurdle.

The mechanical difficulties which were foreseen for production of newsreels in color relate to the additional time and effort which would be required to turn out such reels.

Settle 3 Chicago Anti-Trust Suits

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Three theatre anti-trust suits against the major film companies, Balaban & Katz Theatres, Warner Brothers Theatres, and Warner Brothers Circuit Management were settled out of court here through negotiations between attorneys for the plaintiffs and defendants.

The three suits were brought by the Wicker Park Amusement Co. (operating the Royal Theatre) asking $750,000 damages, after trebling.

FCC Sets Agenda For Theatre TV Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Federal Communications Commission over the week-end made formal announcement of the time and place for the Oct. 20 hearing on the engineering and accounting phases of the theatre television case.

This portion of the hearing is not expected to last over a week, with the major portion of the case to be presented beginning Jan. 12. The Commission noted that the Oct. 20 session would cover only direct testimony, cross-questioning put off to the January portion of the hearing. The Commission asked that a list of witnesses and a summary of their testimony be filed by Oct. 9.

Attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, who will present the industry's coordinated case to the Commission, have estimated that there will probably be less than a dozen witnesses at the Oct. 20 phase. These will include among the engineering witnesses Earl Sponable, Stuart Bailey, Andrew Inglis and a witness on tubes. In addition, there will be several accounting witnesses.

'Price Quotations'

The FCC included in its list of matters on which it expects to hear testimony "price quotations" from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It said the list had been "tentatively outlined" by MPAA and NETTC in their joint petition, filed last summer, requesting an early date for the technical phase of the case. At that time attorneys and engineers for NETTC and MPAA expected that A. T. and T. would be able to supply the data by Oct. 20.

Last week, however, A. T. and T. said it would be unable to supply the information before the end of the year. NETTC attorney Marcus Cohn said over the week-end that the theatre television attorneys would inform the Commission of the delay on the part of A. T. and T. and that they would present the A. T. and T. data during the January phase of the hearing.

Among the other points on which the Commission said it expects to hear testimony were: technical requirements and standards for theatre television; sample theatre television microwave distribution systems; matters relating to the accounting phase of the theatre television hearing.

The FCC said the hearing would be held before the Commission en banc and would open at 10 A.M. on Oct. 20 in the auditorium of the National Museum here.

He will continue to make his headquarters here.

Myers Tells Allied TOA Meet 'Failed'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In a special bulletin setting forth plans for Allied's national convention next month in Chicago, Abram F. Myers, Allied board chairman and general counsel, has cautioned the organization's leaders in various parts of the country against the pitfalls which he said contributed to the "failure" of the Theatre Owners of America's recent national convention in Washington.

Myers said the TOA convention was a "fiasco" and that "the whole advertised program blew up" because of "TOA's weak and vacillating performance" at that time in handling "the larger issues—arbitration, the 16mm. case and the tax campaign."

Wrote Myers: "We do not gloat over the failure of TOA's 'national' convention, nor do we delight in its present difficulties. On the contrary, we sincerely smpathize with those independent exhibitors who joined TOA in good faith and relied on it for protection. Their disillusionment following the fiasco in Washington must be very great. Perhaps it is just as well so few of them were on hand to witness the dismal proceedings."

He added that Allied now has a "great opportunity and a grave responsibility" to see that it stages "a truly great convention."

The Allied convention plans, according to Myers, "contemplate a minimum of set speeches and ample time for open discussion. Instead of another of those boring first sessions with a lot of hot air from the dais, there will be only a short prayer, the Mayor's address of welcome and the keynote address. The session will then adjourn so that the exhibitors can attend the (trade practice film) clinics. In this way they can become acquainted, can 'loosen up' and gain the necessary confidence to plunge into the discussion at the next general session."

Dezel Now Operates Branch in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Albert Dezel tomorrow will start operating the Lippert exchange here. Contracts were executed between Dezel and Ed Baumgarten, representing Lippert Productions. Harris Dudelson remains as district manager for Lippert, supervising the Midwest territory, and will also have charge of the Chicago exchange. Sam Kaplan takes over as booker and office manager and Jack Rubin has been added to the sales staff.

Traub's Name on Seal

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—The name of Sydney Traub, Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors chairman, has been ordered returned to the censor board seal after it had been omitted since last July.

OMPI May Extend Its Air Promotions Over N.Y. Stations

Further tie-ups with other radio-TV stations by the Organization of Motion Picture Industries here in publicizing good motion pictures, similar to the current three-program deal with National Broadcasting, are a definite possibility in the near future, it was revealed by OMPI chairman Fred Schwartz after his organization reported to exhibitor members on Friday.

No Deals Yet

Schwartz emphasized that no commitments had been made but that interest had been evinced by other air chains. He said the general reaction to the five-minute "plugs" on the Skitch Henderson, Herb Sheldon, and Conrad Nagel daily programs was extremely favorable. Within the next week or two the theatres involved will start showing a trailer with every program plugging the programs and display posters doing likewise.

An unfriendly press, quick to print film industry stories without checking the accuracy of facts, caused the formation of the organization. Its policy of only checking facts without attempting to sway opinion is said to account for the organization's continued existence. The membership is comprised of exhibitors and the MPAA. Close touch has been maintained with the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

OMPI has provided the information on films for use in the NBC-NBT tie-up; special care has been taken to plug only pictures of merit.

Intentions of holding the long-planned Grand Central Palace exposition were proclaimed by Schwartz. The contemplated date is Dec. 1953 for when a commitment is held on the Palace. However, this will be discussed at the next seminar in January or February and it is hoped that plans may be finalized thereafter.

Exposition Plans

Exposition plans originally called for the transporting from Hollywood of actors, technicians and equipment for public display. The idea was to inform the public of the various operations involved in producing and distributing motion pictures and produce more goodwill thereby.

OMPI is participating in the current campaign against the admission tax. Morton Sunshine of the ITOA and D. John Philips, of MMPTA have been in charge of OMPI publicity.

Pathe-Loew's-RKO Trial in $15,000,000 Suit in 3 Months

The $15,000,000 triple-damage anti-trust suit which Chesapeake Industries (formerly Pathe Industries) filed in U. S. District Court here against Loew's and RKO Theatres will come to trial in three months, according to William C. MacMillen, Jr., Chesapeake president.

The action, filed over a year ago, charged that the defendants conspired to exclude independently-produced pictures from the Metropolitan New York market. Pathe Industries was at the time the parent company of Eagle Lion Classics, distributor of independently-produced films, whose physical assets were acquired in the interim by United Artists.

MacMillen said that pre-trial hearings have been completed so far as Chesapeake is concerned. Whether depositions will be sought between now and the end of the year by the defendants remains to be seen.

Raibourn Sees Bright Future for Cinerama

Paul Raibourn, Paramount Pictures vice-president, who on Sept. 12 told the Centennial of Engineering Symposium in Chicago concerning Cinerama that "public response in revenue as compared with costs incurred will determine the final acceptance of the idea," at the weekend declared in New York that he considers the triple-projection, three-dimensional "effect" system to be economically feasible for the motion picture industry.

Cinerama was introduced to the public last Tueseday evening at the Broadway Theatre here.

13 U-I Exploitation Men on 'Willie'

Thirteen exploitation representatives have been assigned by Universal-International to help promote "Willie and Joe Back At the Front" in key dates when it opens Coast to Coast on Oct. 15. Included are Ben Katz, Robert Ungerfeld, A. Mike Vogel, Guy Biondi, John McGrail, Ben Hill, Julian Bowes, Duke Hickey, David Pollard, Maurice (Bucky) Harris, Ed Borgan, William Gandall and Joe Blaufox.

The film is slated to play more than 1,000 dates in the 30-day period starting Oct. 15.

"The Stooge"

(Wallis-Paramount) Hollywood, Oct. 5

THIS vehicle for the dynamic Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis duo happens to have been made before some of their pictures that hold house records throughout the country, but that's no reason why it shouldn't better even the standing Martin-Lewis marks. As a matter of fact, it has more of story and a deal more of heart than the boys' later productions, and these points could make a difference in the attitude of the middle-aged toward these young men's robust talents, if that attitude isn't already perfect. It is a favorable circumstance, too, that the picture is beneficiary of a more orthodox structure and development than some of their others, with the result that it builds more steadily and satisfyingly from a relatively moderate beginning to a powerful finish in which a tear divides importance with the laughs. The attraction is as nearly failure-proof as a picture can be.

Eight songs from various sources are handled in the course of a story (by Fred F. Finklehoffe and Sid Silvers, scripted by Finkelhoffe and Martin Rackin) of the days when vaudeville was in its prime and playing the Palace was the professional's loftiest ambition, unless it were starring for Ziegfeld in a Follies. The story has Martin marrying Polly Bergen at the opening and setting out to do a single in vaudeville, against the advice of his agent and former partner. He flops, and is persuaded to pick up a song-plugger (Lewis) to be used as a stooge in the audience. (With Martin using an accordion in his singing act, this gets to look very similar to the Phil Baker routine, but that does it no damage.) From this start the story follows plausible and logical lines, with Lewis faithfully sticking to Martin through adversity and fame, despite Martin's neglect, until each comes into his own finally in an all-around happy ending. Marion Marshall, Eddie Mayehoff, Richard Erdman and Frances Bavier lead the supporting cast.

The attraction appears certain to add another box-office smash to producer Hal B. Wallis' long list of successes, and it is a notoble directorial credit for Norman Taurog.

Running time, 100 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"My Wife's Best Friend"

(20th Century-Fox)

ANNE BAXTER and MacDonald Carey are the stars of this amusing comedy built around the novel situation in which a husband confesses to his wife a slight affair with her best friend several years before, because the plane carrying them to a wedding anniversary vacation seems destined to crash.

The engine trouble that caused the plane to turn back is remedied before the safe landing and wife Baxter, a domineering shrew, goes into a raging silence although Carey assures her that "nothing happened" outside of a few Martinis. Best friend Catherine McLeod is unaware of the damaging revelation and when Miss Baxter becomes sickeningly noble and forgives everyone ceaselessly, Miss McLeod suffers barbed taunts and Miss Baxter twice spills coffee on her hand.

Richard Sale directed with an eye toward broad comedy which should please some audiences. There are fantasy sequences in which Miss Baxter thinks herself Joan of Arc, a medieval slaving wife, and character switches accordingly. While this ensues Carey tries to put over a lumber deal with cash-needing sophisticate "millionaire" Leif Erickson. Miss Baxter as the plain wife almost ruins the deal but when she becomes her sophisticated, well-dressed self the deal is consummated.

When Carey and Miss McLeod get caught in a rainstorm and go to his house to change clothes separately, the wife catches them as Carey emerges from the shower wearing a bathrobe and Miss McLeod is putting on stockings. Miss Baxter assumes the worst, quarrels vulgarly with her best friend and takes up with Erickson. The final complication has Miss Baxter leaving for a weekend with Erickson but changing her mind, only to come back to an empty house. She traces Carey to a sanitarium, and he happily accepts her back.

Robert Bassler produced and Isobel Lennart wrote the screenplay, based on a story by John Briard Harding. The story sometimes becomes confusingly serious but is usually overcome by the fine performances of the stars and a supporting cast headed by Cecil Kellaway, Casey Adams and Miss McLeod, that includes Frances Bavier, Mary Sullivan, Martin Milner and Billie Bird.

Running time, 87 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Eastman Kodak is listed in the 50th anniversary number of Financial World as a member of the "Fifty-Plus Club" of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange or New York Curb Exchange that have paid dividends for 50 years or more. According to the list, which cites 81 common stocks, Eastman has been paying dividends since 1902.

The company is said to have increased its stockholders from 39,014 to 69,510 and its employes from 21,100 to 49,400 in the 20 years from 1931 to 1951.

Skouras Honored on 10th Anniversary

Honoring Spyros P. Skouras, on his 10th anniversary as president of 20th Century-Fox, and wishing him a bon voyage on the eve of his trip to the Far East and Australia, 20th Century-Fox executives feted the company head on Friday at a luncheon held at the home office.

The luncheon also served as an advance bow to Skouras whose name will be given to the week of Oct. 12-18 in the key period of the company's current "Branch Managers' Testimonial," annual sales drive salute to the exchange heads by distribution department personnel.

Skouras departed for the Far East Friday evening on a trip which will take him to the West Coast, then to Honolulu and Tokyo, before visits to the Far East and the Antipodes. He is expected to be away at least five weeks.

On his tour Skouras will survey company interests and confer with exhibitors and government officials on strengthening film industry ties with the United States.

20th-Fox's Zanuck 'Plugs' 'Paleface'

Paramount's "Son of Paleface," starring Bob Hope, Jane Russell, Roy Rogers and Trigger, gets an unprecedented "plug" from Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century-Fox, in the October issue of Coronet Magazine.

As guest reviewer for the publication, Zanuck writes: "A welcome sequel to the Bob Hope-Jane Russell satire on the Old West, 'Son of Paleface' adds Roy Rogers to the fun-making. With Bob as the offspring of a legendary Indian fighter, Jane as the head of a robber band, and all hands contributing a laugh a minute, Paramount has another winner."

"Tropical Heat Wave"

(Republic Pictures)

ESTELITA portrays a fiery singer in a nightclub owned by her uncle, Martin Garralaga, in this better-than-average production. Robert Hutton, as the handsome college professor gathering data for a doctorate's thesis in criminal psychology, and Grant Withers, as a criminal big shot who muscles his way into a half interest in the club, provide veteran support.

Between dodging the passes of Withers and trying to wrest Hutton's attentions from his fiancee, Kristine Miller, Estelita sings three songs in pleasant style. They are "My Lonely Heart and I," "I Want To Be Kissed," and "What Should Happen to You." Her performance follows the successful broad comedy style of the late Lupe Velez. She bounces her way through a melodramatic plot deftly spiced with slapstick. R. G. Springsteen's direction keeps the pace going rapidly.

When Hutton's naive efforts to quiz criminals in jail fail, Estelita prevents his return to college with Miss Miller by spreading word around that a new big shot is moving in on the town hoodlums. She fronts as his "moll" and works a tape recorder while Hutton puts over the impersonation and gets much material. He is so successful he is jailed but released when he promises to turn over the recordings to imprison the crooks.

Withers is accidentally k.o.'d by Hutton in the first show-down but comes back with new hoods who mistakenly imprison Miss Miller and her dad. In the final showdown which evolves into a rooftop chase Withers and most of his gang follow the thread unravelling from Estelita's skirt and walk into the police station. Hutton and Estelita clinch for the happy ending.

Edwin Max, Lou Lubin, Lennie Bremen, Jack Kruschen and Earl Lee aid in comedy roles. The story was written by Arthur T. Horman. Sidney Picker was associate producer.

Running time, 74 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 1.

"Strange Fascination"

(Columbia Pictures)

HUGO HAAS has directed and produced this unimpressive drama in which he stars as a talented European pianist whose passion for an unintellectual night club dancer causes his undoing. The emphasis is on the tragedy of the romance of the middle-aged pianist for the physically amply endowed Cleo Moore, who is half his age, but Haas' screenplay does little to evolve characterization or make the story credible.

Haas' talent and personality attract wealthy widow Mona Barrie who brings him to the United States to further his career. He is progressively successful in the concert field until he meets and marries the blonde Miss Moore. His jealousy of his wife and fate combine to cause Haas various setbacks, including the loss of Miss Barrie's friendship and sponsorship. Eventually his wife leaves him and Haas' effort to mangle his hand for $100,000 insurance fails, leaving him a crippled, piano-playing bum on the Bowery.

An abundant amount of concert pieces are played throughout the film and the proceedings are also aided by the eye-arresting presence of Miss Moore and the acting of Miss Barrie. Also in the cast are Rick Vallin, Karen Sharpe, Marc Krah, Genevieve Aumont, Maura Murphy, and Patrick Holmes.

Running time, 80 minutes. Adult audience classification. September release.

Subscription TV Needed: McDonald

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Hopes for the expansion of theatre television throughout the country were coupled with enthusiasm for subscription home television in an address by Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of Zenith Radio Corp., owner of the Phonevision "pay-as-you-see" TV system.

McDonald, speaking before a meeting of Zenith distributors at the week-end, said it would be "unfair and legally impossible to force sports or other producers to put their important spectacles on home TV at a financial disadvantage to themselves.

"Home television is a world's champion wrecker of box-office attendance," he added, explaining that home TV cannot reverse the trend until it can compete with theatres on a pay-per-viewer basis with subscription TV. He said with the advent of subcription TV, promoters and producers will find it advantageous to put top events on both home and theatre TV so that practically everybody will have an opportunity to view them.

Revenue Bureau Lists Tax Refunds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue has issued a list of companies in the industry which during the 1951-52 fiscal year got action on claims for relief from taxes levied under the World War II excess profits tax. The claims were all based on a contention that the government had not allowed the taxpayers sufficiently high excess profits credit.

List Firms

Firms receiving tax refunds of more than $5,000 follow: Paramount Hollywood Theatre Corp., 21,943; Shea Theatre Corp., $28,823; Parkchester Amusement Corp., $61,610; St. Louis Orpheum Corp., $28,936; Northwest Automatic Candy Corp., $14,651; Michigan Newsreel Co., $9,823; Buffalo 20th Century, Inc., $16,292; Allston Theatres, Inc., $10,861; United Theatre Enterprises, $6,256, and Palmetto Theatre Co., $7,518.

Says TV Production In August High

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — Production of television receivers in August of this year was 171 per cent higher than production in August of 1951, the Radio-Television Manufacturers Association said over the week-end.

RTMA said that 397,769 television sets were manufactured in August of this year as against 146,705 units in August of the previous year.

The total number of television sets produced through August of this year was set at 2,914,926 by the RTMA.

the group that within three months time the executive set-up at the studio will have been determined and full-scale production planning can be launched.

It was conceded by members of the syndicate that renegotiation of the RKO Pictures open loan with Bankers Trust Co. and the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh will be necessary. However, it was stated, the company's current cash position is not strained and the new owners expressed the opinion that the company is qualified to obtain much larger bank credits than are available to it now.

It was made clear by several of the group that RKO Pictures' foreign income will be subjected to close scrutiny with the idea of establishing possibilities of increased revenue from the foreign markets.

Present at the press meeting, held at Toots Shor's restaurant, were: Stolkin, new RKO Pictures president; Arnold Grant, board chairman and general counsel; Sherrill Corwin, vice-president and head of studio operations; Edward Burke and A. L. Koolish, board members and members of the purchasing syndicate; Gordon Youngman, attorney and director; William Gorman of Evansville, Ind., who is the representative on the board of Ray Ryan, Texas oil operator and member of the syndicate, and William H. Clark, RKO Pictures treasurer and the only member of the old board to be reelected.

Stolkin said he would spend approximately half his time in New York at the home office and the other half in Hollywood. He has no immediate plans to establish residence here. Grant and Burke are scheduled to make New York their headquarters, devoting virtually all of their time to the company here. The three will be the most active of the new group in administrative operations of the company here.

Members of the syndicate declined comment on further executive changes in RKO Radio, explaining that the operations of individual executives, both in distribution and production, will be studied carefully before decisions are made either on their retention or replacement. The home office and distribution organization in the field, both domestic and foreign, will be surveyed first and every effort will be made to complete the work in as short a time as possible, perhaps one month, it was stated. Thereafter, a similar survey will be made of studio operations.

Burke will devote particular attention to the foreign operations, it was indicated.

Members of the syndicate declined to be drawn out on the possibilities of the sale of RKO Radio's backlog films for television use. They rested on the statement issued Thursday which said that no pre-determination of the question has been made and that after thorough study they will do what is best for the company and stockholders in the best judgment of minds "unbound by any dedication to the past."

Grant explained restriction of the company's announcement of a new board of directors last Thursday to RKO Radio Pictures, the operating subsidiary, rather than to RKO Pictures Corp., the parent company, as a consequence of a decision of the new owners to regard the subsidiary as the important functioning company and the parent as a technical holding company which owes its existence only to Securities and Exchange Commission requirements.

Members of the syndicate showed reluctance to discuss the commitment by Howard Hughes to loan the corporation $8,000,000 if called upon to do so. They left the impression that it was bound up with supplementary conditions and would not be resorted to under normal circumstances.

All of the partners appeared agreed that young blood is desired in the company, with or without experience in motion pictures.

"The personal traits that make for successful administration in one industry," one said, "are equally useful in the motion picture industry. The same basic, general problems are present in all industry."

Most members of the group, other than Stolkin, Grant and Burke, plan to leave here early this week for their respective headquarters in the West and on the Coast.

FCC Bureau Calls

catch-all UPT-ABC merger hearings.

At the same time, Allen B. DuMont Laboratories Inc., in its proposed findings, asked the commission not to approve the merger because the merged companies would be in violation of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act and would be "an overwhelming danger to the public interest."

In addition to declaring that the Paramount companies have been and were still operating their stations illegally, the broadcast bureau maintained that neither UPT nor Paramount "possessed the necessary character and conduct to be a licensee."

Next Step

The next step will be the examiners' initial decision, which will probably come down in about a month. Following that the commision will put out its final decision. Since the commission has indicated that it would like a speedy determination on the merger case the period for filing objections to the proposed findings will probably be quite short.

The bureau based its charge that Paramount and UPT were operating their stations illegally on the grounds that although the companies characterized as "involuntary" the transfer of control of the stations from the parent company to Paramount Pictures Corp. and UPT, the bureau found the transfer in fact "voluntary." As such, it pointed out, the rules set down by the commission for a voluntary transfer have not been observed by the transferor or the transferee.

"The applicant in this proceeding has committed clear and absolute violation of the commission's rules and regulations," the bureau said, "in connection with the unauthorized transfer of control involved in these proceedings for which there appeared to be no condonation."

To grant the merger, the bureau said, would "sow the seeds in the same fertile grounds from which sprung monopoly in the Paramount case—namely, concentration of the production, distribution and exhibition phases of network theatre television programs in the hands of a few large companies.

DuMont Says

Much of the DuMont proposed findings attacked the commision's August 1 order, declaring that the order "prevents a fair determination of the record and perverts the entire record." With the order, DuMont said, "the commission chose to aid a competitor of DuMont" by ignoring 35 years of "activities constituting anti-trust violations" on the part of "individuals constituting the top management of the merged company." In addition, DuMont said, by making a finding of financial difficulty on the part of ABC in the August 1 order, the commission prejudiced the record.

If the commission carries out the order, DuMont declared, the result will be "an arbitrary distortion of essential evidence designed under the stated issues solely to qualify the merged company as a licensee and would be in disregard for the public interest."

Hits Order

Characterizing the order as "a retraction of the courageous anti-trust policy which the commission promulgated one year ago," DuMont declared that the order was "a scheme designed to white-wash the qualifications of the merged company and foreclose the thorough investigation to which the merged company would ordinarily be subjected after January 1953.

DuMont attacked UPT as well, declaring that "the record makes it extremely doubtful that the management of the home office of United Paramount Theatres has any desire to cleanse itself of its dangerous proclivities," and adding that UPT's New York management "failed to sustain its burden of proving that it has purged itself of unlawful proclivities."

Disney-Goldwyn

Stolkin nor Goldwyn, who left for the Coast at the weekend, would comment on the meeting.

Under his contract, Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" is believed to be committed to RKO, but he has an option to cancel before the next picture is due. Presumably, Goldwyn will await the results of any changes the Stolkin group will make in its distribution organization before taking any action.

Praises Depinet

Disney praised Depinet, not only for his successful handling of personnel, but his long leadership in the industry. The Disney contract with RKO Radio Pictures expires in May of next year. Disney, who is due to remain in New York for the next two weeks, may confer with Stolkin before leaving for the Coast.

of success. There are young failures, too.

Of late, the industry has been observing the brilliant handling of at least two important companies by sons of its younger generation—United Artists, headed by Arthur Krim, and United Paramount Thetres, under Leonard Goldenson. Both have weathered some very trying times with a full measure of distinction. While young, the executive personnel of both companies was well trained and thoroughly experienced in the complexities of this sometimes baffling industry when it took over.

The Stolkin group would be well-advised to look for know-how as well as youth. One is as important as the other. And they are not always found together.

Reade Will Continue Foreign Film Plan

"Curtain at 8:40," the program devised last year by the Walter Reade Theatres to bring key foreign films to smaller communities which normally could not support such pictures, will be a part of the circuit's program this fall.

Walter Reade Jr. announced that a fall series of four evenings of such films will be started this month at the four theatres which tested the program last year—the Carlton in Red Bank, N. J., Paramount in Plainfield, N. J., Kingston, Kingston, N. Y., and the Community in Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Would Expose Managers, Too, Who Offend in Dealings, Snaper Says

One of the bitterest public blasts at distributor sales policies to come from an exhibitor leader in recent memory was issued here yesterday by Wilbur Snaper, national Allied president, with a warning that "if exhibitor-distributor relations don't improve" the organization will publicize the names of branch managers and salesmen who, he charged, have been using questionable tactics in dealing with theatremen.

'MOVIETIME U.S.A.' TOURS ARE ONE YEAR OLD TODAY

Today is the first birthday of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' "Movietime U.S.A." tours. Since they were launched, 360 Hollywood personalities have each given a week's time to make 38 tours to 1,300 cities and towns from Coast to Coast to promote industry goodwill.

Movietime U.S.A. is the first public relations operation of its kind ever undertaken by the industry in its 50 years of existence.

Many advances have been made in the operation during the year. Under the guidance of national chairman R. J. O'Donnell and Hollywood chairman Marvin Schenck, the tours have been streamlined and perfected.

Launched with no precedent or pattern for a guide, the tours had to proceed by a trial and error method. The original plan of blanketing the U. S. in one week with the tours was replaced by a policy of staggered tours sent out weekly during the spring and fall.

Both chairmen urge the need for more active participation on the part of players in giving a week for the tours.

"If every actor on the rolls of the Screen Actors Guild would give one week to Movietime," Schenck stated, "the list would not be exhausted for four years. There are many towns and cities yet in the United States which have not had these tours. Exhibitors want them. They help the industry

New Jersey Allied To Elect Oct. 14

A one-day meeting highlighted by election of officers will be held by New Jersey Allied on Oct. 14 at the Hotel Astor here, Wilbur Snaper, national Allied president who also heads the New Jersey unit, announced yesterday.

Asked if he is a candidate for re-election to the unit's presidency, Snaper said he had not given the matter consideration. At present, he said, "there are no candidates."

The meeting will feature a luncheon at the Astor for members and a dinner following adjournment for members and their wives at the Latin Quarter here.

Snaper, as national Allied president, will address the annual convention of Allied Theatres of Michigan at the Tuller Hotel, Detroit, Oct. 20-22, he said. His topic will be arbitration, he added, if the final draft of an industry system of arbitration is in shape by that time.

Depinet Gets New RKO Radio Office

preview of the tone which could be expected at Allied's annual convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, Snaper spoke also in terms of "going to the government for regulations" to restrict certain sales practices.

These were two of three steps he indicated Allied was in a mood to take against distributors. The third would be "a stronger set-up for the interchange of information among exhibitors," with the specific aim of "deterring over-aggressive salesmen."

This third step, Snaper said, envisaged the broadening of the scope of Allied's "Caravan," a vehicle for disseminating information on rentals and other sales policies among Allied and non-Allied exhibitors.

Snaper said that during the past eight months he, in his capacity as Allied film committee co-ordinator, has been "overwhelmed by a deluge of exhibitor complaints and requests for solutions" in the area of trade practices. He said distributors "have lost sight of the fact that they're dealing with customers." Acknowledging that as co-ordinator he has been "criticized by some members for trying to work out a broad, national basis for settling difficulties instead of narrowing down the issues," Snaper said the criticism was justified.

"There's no sense kidding any more," Snaper exclaimed. He said distribution home offices disavow charges against practices, attribute difficulties to "over-aggressive salesmen," and the practices continue.

The practices he chose to specify were "advanced admission pictures on which exhibitors can't make a profit," percentage selling, "exorbitant rentals, such as 60-40," and "specializing pictures out of existence."

Snaper said distributors regard percentage selling as a "panacea" in dealing with exhibitors and "as the only logical, businesslike way of merchandising." Taking exception to this approach, he said "certain heads of distribution have agreed with me—but what do they do about it?" He added that while big key runs do lend themselves to percentage deals, the vast majority of small independents "would do better, from a profit and loss standpoint, to close down Monday through Thursday" in the absence of a sliding-scale "incentive" selling approach which would allow them a larger margin of profit after grosses reach a certain figure.

The Allied president contended that some salesmen have "personal" policies in dealing with exhibitors. The salesmen have a "get-even-with-the-exhibitor" attitude, he maintained.

"Allied doesn't want government control in the industry," Snaper said. "That would be an extreme measure," he acknowledged when reminded by a reporter that Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, admonished last year's convention that government control of the industry was to be disdained.

When asked if his proposal for "a stronger set-up for the interchange of information among exhibitors" fitted in with the recently-announced intention of Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America president, to strive for an all-embracing single exhibitor organization or "forum," Snaper said he had no comment on Starr's plan.

Asked also if he did not think arbitration would be the solution to some of the problems he enumerated, Snaper replied that he believed Myers was "conservative" in estimating that "it would be a matter of months" before an arbitration system was agreed upon. Snaper said he would advise that distributors "go in for some soul-searching." "Frankly," he added, "we don't care who gets hurt—when branch managers and salesmen are proven to have injured exhibitors they should be discharged or pensioned off."

In the Allied president's opinion producers "need exhibitor advice" in making pictures. He claimed that remakes and biographical pictures seldom succeed at the box-office. When exhibitors participate in conferences with producers, such as those sponsored by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, "it's like talking to a blank wall," he said.

However, he said he was pleased to note the naming of Sherrill Corwin, West Coast circuit owner, as head of the RKO Radio studio under the new management arrangement. "That's what I mean is needed," he said. Corwin is a member of TOA.

Snaper said that perhaps many an exhibitor's financial problems would be solved if top pictures were provided for mid-week showings as well as on week-ends. However, he added despairingly that "when we pleaded for big pictures in September with the return of top TV shows we didn't get them."

The convention, Snaper said, is expected to set forth "concrete action against the policies" in consequence of meetings of trade practice film clinics which will be a part of the annual meeting. Convention clinics will be staffed as follows, he announced: small-towns of 3,500 population or less—Charles Niles (chairman), Col. H. A. Cole, John Mohrstadt, A. B. Jeffries and J. R. Smith; large towns up to 25,000 population—Ben Marcus (chairman), Trueman T. Rembusch, Snaper, Fred Beedle and Max Matz; large cities—John Wolfberg (chairman), Nathan Yamins, Ben Berger, Alan Johnson and Henry Greenberger; key neighborhood and subruns—Morris Finkle (chairman), Leon Back, Norman Glassman, Louis Gold and S. G. Prat; outdoor theatres—Rube Shor (chairman), C. Elmer Nolte, O. F. Sullivan, Jay Wooten and Leo T. Jones; circuit buyers and bidding—Irving Dollinger (chairman), A. Berenson, Jack Kirsch and Arthur Howard.

100 Booths Rented For TESMA Show

The Theatre Equipment Supply Manufacturers Association trade show, which will be held in conjunction with the national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, already has rented space for 100 booths and more space will be rented before convention time, Wilbur Snaper, Allied president, reported here yesterday.

'Wide Open' Allied Meeting for Press

The national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, will be "wide open" to the trade press, Wilbur Snaper, president of the exhibitor organization, declared here yesterday.

He pointed out that it has been customary for Allied conventions to exclude the press from trade practice film clinic sessions, although he ackowledged that at last year's convention in New York "a few" reporters were permitted to sit in on these meetings for background purposes.

At the private board meeting which will precede the Chicago convention, Snaper will recommend that this year's clinics be opened to all trade press repersentatives on an off-the-record basis so that when the same subjects are taken up on the floor of the convention proper the reporters will have a fuller grasp of what transpires. Floor proceedings, he added, will be open to unqualified press coverage.

Music Hall with $132,000 indicated, and "Somebody Loves Me" at the Roxy with $75,000. Both houses are presenting spectacular stage shows as well. The Roxy has "The Thief" scheduled to open Oct. 15.

Still doing big business at the Rivoli is "Snows of Kilimanjaro," the third stanza being on the way to $57,000. "The Merry Widow" is in store for a hefty $35,000 for the second week.

"Just for You" is scheduled to bow tomorrow at the Capitol, replacing "The Quiet Man," for which a solid $30,000 is being chalked up for the seventh frame. The Criterion still is going strong with "One Minute to Zero," with $20,000 indicated for the third week. "Lure of the Wilderness" is seen grossing a nice $15,000 in its initial week at the Globe.

Thursday will see "The World In His Arms" taking over at the Mayfair where "High Noon" is bringing $15,000 for the 11th and final seven days. At the Astor, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is holding firm with $15,000 due for the seventh week. Tenth week of "Affair in Trinidad" is giving the Victoria a satisfactory $11,000.

The off-Broadway houses are continuing to do nicely with their holdovers: "The Amazing M. Fabre," Park Avenue, fourth week, $4,700; "Man In the White Suit," Sutton, 27th week, $5,000; "Stranger in Between," Fine Arts, eighth week, $3,900; "Ivory Hunter," 52nd Street Trans-Lux, seventh week, $4,900. "O. Henry's Full House" will take over at the 52nd Street house on Oct. 16.

dignitaries paved the way. Leon Bamberger, sales promotion manager for RKO Radio, spoke on film advertising in newspapers, stating that in some parts of the country newspapers were taking advantage of the exhibitor. While stressing the importance of newspaper advertising, the speaker spotlighted the fair and desirable insertion rate advertising extended by some newspapers.

Larry W. Davee, sales manager-engineer for the Century Projecto Corp. of New York, spoke on "three dimensional projection." Davee pointed to the recent successful debut of Cinerama—the three camera, three projector—process in the Broadway Theatre in New York as a sign of the future.

Also on today's program were William Powell, district manager for the Mid-West Drive-in Theatres, speaking on "new product" of the major film companies, illustrating his talk with trailers of forthcoming pictures; Herman Levy, general counsel of Theatre Owners of America, on "industry arbitration;" and Ray Colvin, executive director of Theatre Equipment Dealers Association, who talked on "The Motion Picture Industry as A Business, An Art and A Social Force."

The estimated 500 guests in attendance were invited to a cocktail party at the close of business. "The Way of The Gaucho" was screened for the gathering in the evening.

Tuesday's program, which gets under way at 10 A. M. will feature the election of officers.

Review

"Way of a Gaucho"

TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX and the Moore-McCormack Lines combined to present the world premiere of "Way of a Gaucho" in a fine festive Oriental-lantern-lighted setting with loads of fun and food aboard the deck of the South American plying steamer S. S. Argentine, tied to a dock in New York's North River.

The production is a very robust "Western"-type affair produced in the Argentine in color by Technicolor with the Pampas and the Andes in beauteous display for background. As a matter of fact one of the main achievements of producer Philip Dunne and director Jacques Tourneur is the scenic splendor which at times resembles fine pastel etchings. Then, too, there are remarkable native horses who streak over the plains guided by the thrilling horsemanship of scads of Argentians who are known far and wide for their prowess in the saddle.

Except for some slowly-paced intervals the production is pretty good entertainment which could be improved by cutting a bit from its 91 minutes.

The marketable names of Rory Calhoun and Gene Tierney are at hand for the use of the showman, capably aided and abetted by the leading support of Richard Boone, Hugh Marlowe and Everett Sloane, with hundreds of extras lending impressive color in their many hued native costumes.

The screenplay by producer Dunne, based on the novel by Herbert Childs, is explained in a foreword and tells about how, "three quarters of a century ago, the Argentine Pampas still lay virtually unfenced, the free preserve of those spirits who for many generations had called it their own—the gauchos. As a special breed of men, answering only to their own laws and codes, they have vanished. The pampa they knew is fenced and cultivated. The lean cattle they herded have been replaced by blooded stock of modern Argentina. But the memory of the gauchos still lives—enshrined forever in the heart of the nation."

It is against this invasion by modern men that head gaucho Rory Calhoun rides with his roaring fellow horsemen in some mighty bloody and at times intriguing fighting. Calhoun and Miss Tierney are the principals in a romance that is threaded through the tale and results in her being with child as the gauchos all around them in the over-long tale-telling live gaily and freely with utter disregard and contempt for established government. Many capable Argentine performers helped to put on the show.

Running time, 91 minutes. Adult classification. For October release.

Steve Broidy, Monogram president, purchased 2,000 shares of common, bringing his holdings to 45,299, in addition to the options which he holds for 2,000 shares. Norton V. Ritchey gave away 1,000 shares of Monogram common, reducing his holdings to 2,594.

Other SEC transactions reported were: Austin Keough's acquisition of 100 shares of Paramount Pictures common, bringing his holdings to 350 shares; the acquisition of 750 shares of Trans-Lux common, his entire holdings, by Joseph M. Viertel; and Loew's, Inc. acquisition of 57 shares of Loew's Boston Theatres common, making total holdings of 129,991 shares.

Services Held for James G. Doyle

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Funeral services were held today in Jamaica Plain, Mass., for James G. Doyle, theatre owner and ex-state Senator, who died there at his home on Friday at the age of 85.

Owner of the Broadway Theatre in South Boston, he was a partner of the American Theatres Corp. of Boston in the Embassy and Central Square theatres in Waltham, and the Newton in West Newton. Doyle, who retired from public life 40 years ago after serving three terms in the State Senate, is survived by a son and two daughters.

officials, and cultural, economic and civic leaders of New York.

Floyd Blair, president of the Philharmonic Symphony Society, accepted the scroll of proclamation, on behalf of honorary chairman Winthrop W. Aldrich, after the Mayor noted that "it was the critics and public of the city of New York who first acclaimed and popularized the merits of post-war Italian films, inspiring a group of representative citizens to organize a city-wide tribute to honor and encourage these achievements." Noted arrivals were interviewed in the lobby by Martin Starr on a live WINS broadcast while WOV and the Voice of America tape-recorded interviews. The opening night film was "The Overcoat."

Earlier in the day the first event of the Festival was the presentation of two stones from the ancient Forum of Rome by the Italian motion picture industry to the people of New York "as a symbol of the cultural and democratic heritage that America and contemporary Italy share." Nelson A. Rockefeller and Deputy Mayor Charles Horowitz acknowledged the gift on the roof of the Palazzo d'Italia building in Rockefeller Center.

Lipton to Confer on Four New Releases

David A. Lipton, Universal Pictures vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity, will arrive here tomorrow for 10 days of conferences with home office executives on promotion plans on four releases for the coming three months.

He will outline promotional plans on "Because of You," starring Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler; "Against All Flags," starring Errol Flynn and Maureen O'Hara; "It Grows on Trees," starring Irene Dunne, and "Meet Me at the Fair," starring Dan Dailey and Diana Lynn.

changed my opinion about motion pictures since it all began 50 years ago. I feel as strongly today about the future of our business as I did when I financed, caused to be produced and distributed the first feature length motion picture, 'Queen Elizabeth,' 40 years ago"

Zukor told the more than 100 Midwestern exhibitors present that "everyone must devote all their time and energy to rebuild the public's confidence in motion pictures. We must work harder in this transition period until the public is sold on the idea that motion picture entertainment is worthwhile."

He closed by stating, "If exhibitors expect pictures of the size, scope, and quality of those that are now being turned out by all Hollywood studios, which are proving their ability to attract the public, you must put forth extra effort and employ all your ingenuity in presenting these pictures to the public."

Zukor expressed considerable interest in doing everything possible "to get the widest possible support by the industry for smaller theatres in smaller communities."

James J. Donohue, Central division manager, presided over the special meeting. Donohue introduced A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Co., who in turn introduced Zukor at the luncheon. Schwalberg and Jerry Pickman, vice-president in charge of advertising-publicity, conducted discussions on product and promotion later in the day.

Also present at the meetings were E. K. O'Shea, vice-president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp., and Oscar A. Morgan, general sales manager of short subjects and Paramount News.

Zukor returned to New York late tonight, accompanied by Sid Blumenstock, advertising manager and assistant to Pickman.

cent, after certain operating costs but before taxes, under its agreement with Thomas-Todd Productions, which runs to Dec. 31, 1956. After the first $1,000,000 gross, Cinerama's percentage declines gradually to 10 per cent, the report states.

Thomas-Todd Productions and /or Reeves Soundcraft Corp. owned about 53 per cent of Cinerama's common stock as last reported in March, 1952, according to the report. Cinerama does not own the patents to the three-dimensional process, but is licensed by their owner, Vitarama Corp. Royalties- payable range from five to 10 per cent of Cinerama's gross income, the report states.

The report concludes that Cinerama would have to gross approximately $35,000,000 to earn $1 per share on its presently outstanding common stock, and if outstanding debentures were converted and all stock options and stock purchase warrents were exercised, the gross would have to be approximately $50,000,000 to assure the same $1 per share earnings.

Assuming the office of engineering vice-president today, to serve through Dec. 31, 1953, is Henry J. Hood, Eastman Kodak. He was appointed last July to fill a vacancy.

All officers will start their terms on Jan. 1.

Televised to Pentagon

At today's luncheon, opening the convention, members heard three high level Army, Navy and Air Force officers discuss communications and photography in the service. The program was televised to a specially selected audience in the Pentagon by the Army. Captain A. D. Fraser, of the office of the chief of naval operations and chief of naval photography, told the group that the Navy was dependent on the motion picture films shown to its forces. "The entertainment motion pictures provide is probably our greatest morale booster," he said. He pointed out that the motion picture industry "very generously operates a comprehensive on-the-job training course for selected personnel," with a "completeness of instruction" that could not be given by a service school."

Major General George I. Back, chief signal officer of the Army, asked the group for its continued cooperation in the research and development of motion pictures and television. He emphasized the importance of sound motion picture films in training, in public information and as a means of "pictorially documenting military history," calling motion pictures "an irreplaceable tool." Television has become available as another medium of communications, he said, "which offers tremendous possibilities with its potential of speed and accuracy."

11 Branch Managers At U-I Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—Universal Pictures' new program to acquaint its field sales executives with forthcoming product and studio operations is slated to get under way tomorrow when 11 branch managers from all sections of the country attend a series of conferences.

Besides viewing new films and getting a closeup of studio functions, the branch managers will meet with studio executives headed by N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board; Milton R. Rackmil, president; William Goetz, in charge of production; Edward Muhl, vice-president and general manager of the studio.

'MOVIETIME U.S.A.' TOURS ARE ONE YEAR OLD TODAY

Today is the first birthday of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' "Movietime U.S.A." tours. Since they were launched, 360 Hollywood personalities have each given a week's time to make 38 tours to 1,300 cities and towns from Coast to Coast to promote industry goodwill.

Movietime U.S.A. is the first public relations operation of its kind ever undertaken by the industry in its 50 years of existence.

Many advances have been made in the operation during the year. Under the guidance of national chairman R. J. O'Donnell and Hollywood chairman Marvin Schenck, the tours have been streamlined and perfected.

Launched with no precedent or pattern for a guide, the tours had to proceed by a trial and error method. The original plan of blanketing the U. S. in one week with the tours was replaced by a policy of staggered tours sent out weekly during the spring and fall.

Both chairmen urge the need for more active participation on the part of players in giving a week for the tours.

"If every actor on the rolls of the Screen Actors Guild would give one week to Movietime," Schenck stated, "the list would not be exhausted for four years. There are many towns and cities yet in the United States which have not had these tours. Exhibitors want them. They help the industry

New Jersey Allied To Elect Oct. 14

A one-day meeting highlighted by election of officers will be held by New Jersey Allied on Oct. 14 at the Hotel Astor here, Wilbur Snaper, national Allied president who also heads the New Jersey unit, announced yesterday.

Asked if he is a candidate for re-election to the unit's presidency, Snaper said he had not given the matter consideration. At present, he said, "there are no candidates."

The meeting will feature a luncheon at the Astor for members and a dinner following adjournment for members and their wives at the Latin Quarter here.

Snaper, as national Allied president, will address the annual convention of Allied Theatres of Michigan at the Tuller Hotel, Detroit, Oct. 20-22, he said. His topic will be arbitration, he added, if the final draft of an industry system of arbitration is in shape by that time.

Allied Declares War

preview of the tone which could be expected at Allied's annual convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, Snaper spoke also in terms of "going to the government for regulations" to restrict certain sales practices.

These were two of three steps he indicated Allied was in a mood to take against distributors. The third would be "a stronger set-up for the interchange of information among exhibitors," with the specific aim of "deterring over-aggressive salesmen."

This third step, Snaper said, envisaged the broadening of the scope of Allied's "Caravan," a vehicle for disseminating information on rentals and other sales policies among Allied and non-Allied exhibitors.

Snaper said that during the past eight months he, in his capacity as Allied film committee co-ordinator, has been "overwhelmed by a deluge of exhibitor complaints and requests for solutions" in the area of trade practices. He said distributors "have lost sight of the fact that they're dealing with customers." Acknowledging that as co-ordinator he has been "criticized by some members for trying to work out a broad, national basis for settling difficulties instead of narrowing down the issues," Snaper said the criticism was justified.

"There's no sense kidding any more," Snaper exclaimed. He said distribution home offices disavow charges against practices, attribute difficulties to "over-aggressive salesmen," and the practices continue.

The practices he chose to specify were "advanced admission pictures on which exhibitors can't make a profit," percentage selling, "exorbitant rentals, such as 60-40," and "specializing pictures out of existence."

Snaper said distributors regard percentage selling as a "panacea" in dealing with exhibitors and "as the only logical, businesslike way of merchandising." Taking exception to this approach, he said "certain heads of distribution have agreed with me—but what do they do about it?" He added that while big key runs do lend themselves to percentage deals, the vast majority of small independents "would do better, from a profit and loss standpoint, to close down Monday through Thursday" in the absence of a sliding-scale "incentive" selling approach which would allow them a larger margin of profit after grosses reach a certain figure.

The Allied president contended that some salesmen have "personal" policies in dealing with exhibitors. The salesmen have a "get-even-with-the-exhibitor" attitude, he maintained.

"Allied doesn't want government control in the industry," Snaper said. "That would be an extreme measure," he acknowledged when reminded by a reporter that Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, admonished last year's convention that government control of the industry was to be disdained.

When asked if his proposal for "a stronger set-up for the interchange of information among exhibitors" fitted in with the recently-announced intention of Alfred Starr, Theatre Owners of America president, to strive for an all-embracing single exhibitor organization or "forum," Snaper said he had no comment on Starr's plan.

Asked also if he did not think arbitration would be the solution to some of the problems he enumerated, Snaper replied that he believed Myers was "conservative" in estimating that "it would be a matter of months" before an arbitration system was agreed upon. Snaper said he would advise that distributors "go in for some soul-searching." "Frankly," he added, "we don't care who gets hurt—when branch managers and salesmen are proven to have injured exhibitors they should be discharged or pensioned off."

In the Allied president's opinion producers "need exhibitor advice" in making pictures. He claimed that remakes and biographical pictures seldom succeed at the box-office. When exhibitors participate in conferences with producers, such as those sponsored by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, "it's like talking to a blank wall," he said.

However, he said he was pleased to note the naming of Sherrill Corwin, West Coast circuit owner, as head of the RKO Radio studio under the new management arrangement. "That's what I mean is needed," he said. Corwin is a member of TOA.

Snaper said that perhaps many an exhibitor's financial problems would be solved if top pictures were provided for mid-week showings as well as on week-ends. However, he added despairingly that "when we pleaded for big pictures in September with the return of top TV shows we didn't get them."

The convention, Snaper said, is expected to set forth "concrete action against the policies" in consequence of meetings of trade practice film clinics which will be a part of the annual meeting. Convention clinics will be staffed as follows, he announced: small-towns of 3,500 population or less—Charles Niles (chairman), Col. H. A. Cole, John Mohrstadt, A. B. Jeffries and J. R. Smith; large towns up to 25,000 population—Ben Marcus (chairman), Trueman T. Rembusch, Snaper, Fred Beedle and Max Matz; large cities—John Wolfberg (chairman), Nathan Yamins, Ben Berger, Alan Johnson and Henry Greenberger; key neighborhood and subruns—Morris Finkle (chairman), Leon Back, Norman Glassman, Louis Gold and S. G. Prat; outdoor theatres—Rube Shor (chairman), C. Elmer Nolte, O. F. Sullivan, Jay Wooten and Leo T. Jones; circuit buyers and bidding—Irving Dollinger (chairman), A. Berenson, Jack Kirsch and Arthur Howard.

100 Booths Rented For TESMA Show

The Theatre Equipment Supply Manufacturers Association trade show, which will be held in conjunction with the national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, already has rented space for 100 booths and more space will be rented before convention time, Wilbur Snaper, Allied president, reported here yesterday.

'Wide Open' Allied Meeting for Press

The national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19, will be "wide open" to the trade press, Wilbur Snaper, president of the exhibitor organization, declared here yesterday.

He pointed out that it has been customary for Allied conventions to exclude the press from trade practice film clinic sessions, although he ackowledged that at last year's convention in New York "a few" reporters were permitted to sit in on these meetings for background purposes.

At the private board meeting which will precede the Chicago convention, Snaper will recommend that this year's clinics be opened to all trade press repersentatives on an off-the-record basis so that when the same subjects are taken up on the floor of the convention proper the reporters will have a fuller grasp of what transpires. Floor proceedings, he added, will be open to unqualified press coverage.

Music Hall with $132,000 indicated, and "Somebody Loves Me" at the Roxy with $75,000. Both houses are presenting spectacular stage shows as well. The Roxy has "The Thief" scheduled to open Oct. 15.

Still doing big business at the Rivoli is "Snows of Kilimanjaro," the third stanza being on the way to $57,000. "The Merry Widow" is in store for a hefty $35,000 for the second week.

"Just for You" is scheduled to bow tomorrow at the Capitol, replacing "The Quiet Man," for which a solid $30,000 is being chalked up for the seventh frame. The Criterion still is going strong with "One Minute to Zero," with $20,000 indicated for the third week. "Lure of the Wilderness" is seen grossing a nice $15,000 in its initial week at the Globe.

Thursday will see "The World In His Arms" taking over at the Mayfair where "High Noon" is bringing $15,000 for the 11th and final seven days. At the Astor, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is holding firm with $15,000 due for the seventh week. Tenth week of "Affair in Trinidad" is giving the Victoria a satisfactory $11,000.

The off-Broadway houses are continuing to do nicely with their holdovers: "The Amazing M. Fabre," Park Avenue, fourth week, $4,700; "Man In the White Suit," Sutton, 27th week, $5,000; "Stranger in Between," Fine Arts, eighth week, $3,900; "Ivory Hunter," 52nd Street Trans-Lux, seventh week, $4,900. "O. Henry's Full House" will take over at the 52nd Street house on Oct. 16.

dignitaries paved the way. Leon Bamberger, sales promotion manager for RKO Radio, spoke on film advertising in newspapers, stating that in some parts of the country newspapers were taking advantage of the exhibitor. While stressing the importance of newspaper advertising, the speaker spotlighted the fair and desirable insertion rate advertising extended by some newspapers.

Larry W. Davee, sales manager-engineer for the Century Projecto Corp. of New York, spoke on "three dimensional projection." Davee pointed to the recent successful debut of Cinerama—the three camera, three projector—process in the Broadway Theatre in New York as a sign of the future.

Also on today's program were William Powell, district manager for the Mid-West Drive-in Theatres, speaking on "new product" of the major film companies, illustrating his talk with trailers of forthcoming pictures; Herman Levy, general counsel of Theatre Owners of America, on "industry arbitration;" and Ray Colvin, executive director of Theatre Equipment Dealers Association, who talked on "The Motion Picture Industry as A Business, An Art and A Social Force."

The estimated 500 guests in attendance were invited to a cocktail party at the close of business. "The Way of The Gaucho" was screened for the gathering in the evening.

Tuesday's program, which gets under way at 10 A. M. will feature the election of officers.

"Way of a Gaucho"

TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX and the Moore-McCormack Lines combined to present the world premiere of "Way of a Gaucho" in a fine festive Oriental-lantern-lighted setting with loads of fun and food aboard the deck of the South American plying steamer S. S. Argentine, tied to a dock in New York's North River.

The production is a very robust "Western"-type affair produced in the Argentine in color by Technicolor with the Pampas and the Andes in beauteous display for background. As a matter of fact one of the main achievements of producer Philip Dunne and director Jacques Tourneur is the scenic splendor which at times resembles fine pastel etchings. Then, too, there are remarkable native horses who streak over the plains guided by the thrilling horsemanship of scads of Argentians who are known far and wide for their prowess in the saddle.

The marketable names of Rory Calhoun and Gene Tierney are at hand for the use of the showman, capably aided and abetted by the leading support of Richard Boone, Hugh Marlowe and Everett Sloane, with hundreds of extras lending impressive color in their many hued native costumes.

The screenplay by producer Dunne, based on the novel by Herbert Childs, is explained in a foreword and tells about how, "three quarters of a century ago, the Argentine Pampas still lay virtually unfenced, the free preserve of those spirits who for many generations had called it their own—the gauchos. As a special breed of men, answering only to their own laws and codes, they have vanished. The pampa they knew is fenced and cultivated. The lean cattle they herded have been replaced by blooded stock of modern Argentina. But the memory of the gauchos still lives—enshrined forever in the heart of the nation."

It is against this invasion by modern men that head gaucho Rory Calhoun rides with his roaring fellow horsemen in some mighty bloody and at times intriguing fighting. Calhoun and Miss Tierney are the principals in a romance that is threaded through the tale and results in her being with child as the gauchos all around them in the over-long tale-telling live gaily and freely with utter disregard and contempt for established government. Many capable Argentine performers helped to put on the show.

Running time, 91 minutes. Adult classification. For October release.

also noted that the David J. Greene Trust had acquired 5,000 shares of RKO Theatres common, bringing its holdings to 30,800. Besides this, Greene holds 10,000 shares in partnership and 3,600 with members of his family.

Steve Broidy, Monogram president, purchased 2,000 shares of common, bringing his holdings to 45,299, in addition to the options which he holds for 2,000 shares. Norton V. Ritchey gave away 1,000 shares of Monogram common, reducing his holdings to 2,594.

Other SEC transactions reported were: Austin Keough's acquisition of 100 shares of Paramount Pictures common, bringing his holdings to 350 shares; the acquisition of 750 shares of Trans-Lux common, his entire holdings, by Joseph M. # Services Held for James G. Doyle

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Funeral services were held today in Jamaica Plain, Mass., for James G. Doyle, theatre owner and ex-state Senator, who died there at his home on Friday at the age of 85.

Owner of the Broadway Theatre in South Boston, he was a partner of the American Theatres Corp. of Boston in the Embassy and Central Square theatres in Waltham, and the Newton in West Newton. Doyle, who retired from public life 40 years ago after serving three terms in the State Senate, is survived by a son and two daughters.

officials, and cultural, economic and civic leaders of New York.

Floyd Blair, president of the Philharmonic Symphony Society, accepted the scroll of proclamation, on behalf of honorary chairman Winthrop W. Aldrich, after the Mayor noted that "it was the critics and public of the city of New York who first acclaimed and popularized the merits of post-war Italian films, inspiring a group of representative citizens to organize a city-wide tribute to honor and encourage these achievements." Noted arrivals were interviewed in the lobby by Martin Starr on a live WINS broadcast while WOV and the Voice of America tape-recorded interviews. The opening night film was "The Overcoat."

Earlier in the day the first event of the Festival was the presentation of two stones from the ancient Forum of Rome by the Italian motion picture industry to the people of New York "as a symbol of the cultural and democratic heritage that America and contemporary Italy share." Nelson A. Rockefeller and Deputy Mayor Charles Horowitz acknowledged the gift on the roof of the Palazzo d'Italia building in Rockefeller Center.

Lipton to Confer on Four New Releases

David A. Lipton, Universal Pictures vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity, will arrive here tomorrow for 10 days of conferences with home office executives on promotion plans on four releases for the coming three months.

He will outline promotional plans on "Because of You," starring Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler; "Against All Flags," starring Errol Flynn and Maureen O'Hara; "It Grows on Trees," starring Irene Dunne, and "Meet Me at the Fair," starring Dan Dailey and Diana Lynn.

changed my opinion about motion pictures since it all began 50 years ago. I feel as strongly today about the future of our business as I did when I financed, caused to be produced and distributed the first feature length motion picture, 'Queen Elizabeth,' 40 years ago"

Zukor told the more than 100 Midwestern exhibitors present that "everyone must devote all their time and energy to rebuild the public's confidence in motion pictures. We must work harder in this transition period until the public is sold on the idea that motion picture entertainment is worthwhile."

He closed by stating, "If exhibitors expect pictures of the size, scope, and quality of those that are now being turned out by all Hollywood studios, which are proving their ability to attract the public, you must put forth extra effort and employ all your ingenuity in presenting these pictures to the public."

Zukor expressed considerable interest in doing everything possible "to get the widest possible support by the industry for smaller theatres in smaller communities."

James J. Donohue, Central division manager, presided over the special meeting. Donohue introduced A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Co., who in turn introduced Zukor at the luncheon. Schwalberg and Jerry Pickman, vice-president in charge of advertising-publicity, conducted discussions on product and promotion later in the day.

Also present at the meetings were E. K. O'Shea, vice-president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp., and Oscar A. Morgan, general sales manager of short subjects and Paramount News.

Zukor returned to New York late tonight, accompanied by Sid Blumenstock, advertising manager and assistant to Pickman.

cent, after certain operating costs but before taxes, under its agreement with Thomas-Todd Productions, which runs to Dec. 31, 1956. After the first $1,000,000 gross, Cinerama's percentage declines gradually to 10 per cent, the report states.

Thomas-Todd Productions and /or Reeves Soundcraft Corp. owned about 53 per cent of Cinerama's common stock as last reported in March, 1952, according to the report. Cinerama does not own the patents to the three-dimensional process, but is licensed by their owner, Vitarama Corp. Royalties- payable range from five to 10 per cent of Cinerama's gross income, the report states.

The report concludes that Cinerama would have to gross approximately $35,000,000 to earn $1 per share on its presently outstanding common stock, and if outstanding debentures were converted and all stock options and stock purchase warrents were exercised, the gross would have to be approximately $50,000,000 to assure the same $1 per share earnings.

All officers will start their terms on Jan. 1.

At today's luncheon, opening the convention, members heard three high level Army, Navy and Air Force officers discuss communications and photography in the service. The program was televised to a specially selected audience in the Pentagon by the Army. Captain A. D. Fraser, of the office of the chief of naval operations and chief of naval photography, told the group that the Navy was dependent on the motion picture films shown to its forces. "The entertainment motion pictures provide is probably our greatest morale booster," he said. He pointed out that the motion picture industry "very generously operates a comprehensive on-the-job training course for selected personnel," with a "completeness of instruction" that could not be given by a service school."

Major General George I. Back, chief signal officer of the Army, asked the group for its continued cooperation in the research and development of motion pictures and television. He emphasized the importance of sound motion picture films in training, in public information and as a means of "pictorially documenting military history," calling motion pictures "an irreplaceable tool." Television has become available as another medium of communications, he said, "which offers tremendous possibilities with its potential of speed and accuracy."

11 Branch Managers At U-I Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—Universal Pictures' new program to acquaint its field sales executives with forthcoming product and studio operations is slated to get under way tomorrow when 11 branch managers from all sections of the country attend a series of conferences.

Besides viewing new films and getting a closeup of studio functions, the branch managers will meet with studio executives headed by N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board; Milton R. Rackmil, president; William Goetz, in charge of production; Edward Muhl, vice-president and general manager of the studio.

Arnold Picker Is Named RKO Radio Executive V-P

United Artists' Foreign Distribution Head Will Direct Worldwide Sales for Stolkin's Group; Choice a Popular One

Arnold Picker, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for United Artists, and a partner in that company, will become executive vice-president of RKO Radio Pictures on Nov. 15, it was announced yesterday. The post, a new one, will place Picker in charge of all RKO Radio sales and distribution operations.

The appointment, made from industry ranks, is a popular one with the trade. It was viewed as particularly significant because of the importance of the position, the first of its kind to be filled by the new management since taking over administration of the company last week, and for the insight it provided into the thinking of the new owners of the controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures.

Arnold Picker

Company officials indicated that decisions as to executive personnel in RKO Radio's distribution organization, both domestic and foreign, will be entirely Picker's responsibility. Robert Mochrie heads RKO Radio's domestic sales and Phil Reisman, due here today from a European business trip, heads the foreign.

According to sources outside RKO Radio, the offer which tempted Picker to leave U. A. includes a block of

Sharp Rise in Payrolls of Film Industry

Reflected in 1st Quarter Labor Department Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Industry payrolls for employes covered by unemployment insurance were more than $7,000,000 higher in the first quarter of 1952 than in the same quarter of 1951, the Department of Labor reported today.

The over-all industry figure for the first quarter of 1952 was $163,161,000, compared with a 1951 first quarter figure of $155,875,000.

First quarter payrolls for production and distribution were $79,467,000 in 1952 and $71,811,000 in 1951, showing an increase of more than $7,500,000. Payrolls in the service category also showed an increase—$9,847,000 for 1952, against $8,825,000 for 1951.

Payrolls in the category of theatres, including vaudeville, dropped slightly, however, with $73,847,000 for the first 1952 quarter and $75,239,000 for the

"Limelight"

[United Artists]

CHARLES CHAPLIN'S first film in exactly five years is an enthralling emotional experience that harkens back to his earlier great films for much superb stylized comedy that made Chaplin one of the greatest boxoffice draws in motion picture history. This is a simple, appealing tale about a young ballet dancer who falls in love with an aged, once-famous, English music hall clown that for the greater part of two hours and twenty-one minutes should prove immensely entertaining for any audience.

A continuous juxtaposition of sequences of success and failure, joy and sorrow, results in the remarkable illusion of the tragi-comic aspects of life, as one minute you howl at the pantomime of a tramp-clown not unlike the old Charlie and the next are saddened by the protagonist's realization that his once great fame is gone.

While the story is effective the great moments of the film are those in which Chaplin's comic genius is evident, such as the clown's drunken, rolling ascendance of the stairs, his perplexed sniffing of cigar and shoes while the suicide-by-gas is being attempted by dancer Claire Bloom, his rising to the occasion by determinedly battering the door down, and his later imitation of flowers, and playing up to the landlady when the rent is overdue.

Chaplin's low comedy monologue with fleas, "The Animal Trainer," and

IFE May Set up Distribution Firm for Italian Films

Tentative plans to establish a U.S. distribution agency for Italian films by the Italian Film Export organization were disclosed here yesterday by Dr. Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries of Italy, and Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of IFE.

Gualino said the decision on IFE setting up its own distribution company for the American market would be made within the next two weeks, before his return to Rome. Both Gualino and Monaco saw the necessity of broadening the American market for Italian product.

The IFE director acknowledged that other avenues for distribution are also being explored. He said exploratory talks have been held with United Artists and new Lippert franchise holders, among other distribution companies.

The main stress, however, was put on the possibility of the IFE establishing its own agency, with funds accruing to the IFE under the Italo-American film agreement. If the IFE takes such a step, Gualino said that the Lux Film Distribution Co., which handles Italian films in the American market and which is headed by Gualino, would cease operation.

Implementation of IFE's earlier decision to provide English-dubbed Italian films for the American market was also disclosed. A sound-recording corporation, capitalized at $200,000, will begin operation here within the next few months, it was stated.

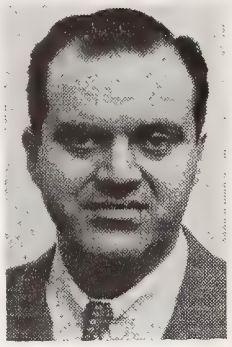
The tentative plans of the projected distributing organization, which would be operated on a commercial basis in competition with other distribution corporations, Gualino said, calls for the setting up of from five to seven exchange offices in the U.S. He said the aim of the new agency would be to distribute about 25 films designed for the Italian-speaking public per year and from six to 12 "major" Italian pictures for the general public yearly.

Gualino said Italian producers would be free to distribute through the IFE or American distribution agencies under the projected set-up. The purpose of the IFE organization would be to group Italian product in an effort to gain a greater penetration of the American market he said. The dubbing program of the IFE was also cited by Gualino as an effort to expand in the American market.



The possibility of independent film importers launching an Italian picture in the New York market, with the IFE distributing elsewhere, was acknowledged by Gualino and Monaco. The IFE president said that no films have as yet been committed to the projected organization, but during his stay here he will confer with major Italian producers, currently visiting New York in conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week."

Also present at the press conference was Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian government, who stressed the "dollar situation" in future negotiations for a new Italian-American film agreement. While here, he said he would talk with Motion Picture Association of America officials, but added that it would be "premature" to describe such talks as negotiations. The current agreement expires in June, 1953.

Sullivan Is Named 20th Publicity Head

Edward E. Sullivan has been named publicity manager of 20th Century-Fox, by Charles Einfeld, vice-president. Sullivan replaces Stirling Silliphant, who resigned to produce.

Edward Sullivan

Sullivan, who has been with 20th Century-Fox since 1946 following five years of service with the Eighth Air Force in Europe, has been assistant publicity manager of the company for the past three years. During that period he has been on the national committees of the Cancer Fund Drive, the Heart Fund and the American Red Cross.

Silliphant, who will start production on "The Joe Louis Story" in January, will remain with the company until that time in an advisory capacity.

Johnston Stresses Reciprocity in Trade

Reciprocity in international trade was underscored here yesterday by Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, in a luncheon address at the Waldorf Astoria before top representatives of the American and Italian film industries.

The necessity of increased buying abroad was also stressed by Johnston, who was host at the luncheon in honor of the visiting leaders of the Italian industry.

Dr. Clemente Boniver, consular of the Italian Embassy, one of the three guest speakers of the Italian industry, said that Italy is counting on increased film business in the United States as one of the ways of reducing its sizable gap in dollar balances. He praised the support given to Italian films by the American public and the American industry.

Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian Government, said the success of Italian films in this country will insure "a continued open door" for American films in Italy.

Among those on the dais, besides the speakers, were: Arthur B. Krim, president of United Artists; Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures; Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of Italian Film Exports; Italo Gemino, head of the Italian exhibitors' organization; Baron Carlo de Ferrariis, Italian consul general, and John McCarthy, MPAA vice-president.

In conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week," independent producer and importer Jules Levey was host at a supper last night to Italian film executives at the Plaza Hotel.

Lippert Franchise In N.Y. to Favorite

Favorite Pictures, owned by Moe Kerman and Joe Felder, has taken a three-year franchise on the Lippert Pictures exchange in New York, it was disclosed here yesterday with the resignation of D. M. Sohmer as branch manager of the exchange as of Oct. 25.

Sohmer, who resigned after five years in the post, has no immediate plans; he will vacation for three to four months. No successor has yet been named.

Promoting 'Louis Story'

National magazine publicity campaign for "The Joe Louis Story" kicked off yesterday with a color cover and a story in Ebony, it was announced by Stirling Silliphant, the film's producer. As producer-publicist of the Louis screen biography, Silliphant has planned a two-phase national magazine campaign for the picture, with breaks now, in advance of production, concentrating on Louis, to be followed by breaks just prior to and with the July release covering the film itself.

National Pre-Selling

TOP-SIDE national pre-selling for this week is the double-truck in Look, dated Oct. 21, now on the news stands, which features Universal's "Back at the Front"—and lists all the runs starting Oct. 15—from Anniston, Alabama, to Anchorage, Alaska, with theatre names and playdates. This is David E. Lipton's policy, which is worth more in national pre-selling than tons of national magazine space four or five months removed from any theatre playdate outside of pre-release engagements. We hope that theatre managers will buy several copies of this week's Look, make a lobby display of the advertising, and show it as proof of the fact that you are running a first-string picture. Don't wait for your patrons to ask for it; the risks are against you. The same issue has a five-page pictorial story on Audrey Hepburn—"the new Hepburn"—whom, they say, "capitivated Paramount executives with the same puckish charm that brought bravos from Broadway."

Seventeen, magazine for teen-agers, has sent copies of the issue which reviewed "The Big Sky" to 600 exhibitors, with a folder offering free tieup promotional material to the theatres. . . . The October issue of The Sign, a Catholic publication, reviews "Because You're Mine" and says in parts "A Technicolor musical rich in entertainment value for all the family." The picture is also selected by American magazine as its "Picture-of-the-Month" for October. . . . A special photographic layout in the November Pageant lists "the beauties of four nations," including Elizabeth Taylor, Leslie Caron, Marilyn Monroe, Greta Garbo, Jean Simmons and Sarah Churchill.

American Weekly,* next Sunday, will have a four-color, center-double truck, reproducing the 24-sheet poster for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" which may be displayed in theatre lobbies to advertise the coming attraction. It has real poster quality. . . . Photoplay is advertising in the New York Daily News to sell its November issue to the public, with an exclusive story, "Liz Taylor Tells All," as the lead article. . . . Coronet for October does the unusual by using an article on Marilyn Monroe without a picture of "the blowtorch blonde." Tag line of the piece is "Don't believe those stories you hear—she's a good girl." . . . Pictorial Review, next Sunday, will have a political interview by Louella Parsons with Clare Boothe Luce, who believes that all good Republicans should come to the aid of their party.

Ebony magazine for November has a cover picture of Joe Lewis and an inside story which proves that promotion for "The Joe Lewis Story" has really started. . . . About six months ago, a man walked into the office of Dan Terrell, M-G-M's exploitation director, placed a strip of clear plastic on the window and there it stuck, no tape, no gum, no glue! Since that day, Morris Frisch public relations man, has produced these stickons for industry use.

"Something for the Birds"

A BRIGHT, though unpretentious comedy about Washington lobbyists has been tailored by script-writer I. A. L. Diamond and Boris Ingster to accommodate the whimsical histrionics of Edmund Gwenn, the pattern for whose future screen performances was set several years ago in "The Miracle on 34th Street." Herein he emerges as an obscure engraver of invitations to gay Capital parties who pockets copies of his handiwork and, attired in dinner jacket, joins in the affairs in the guise of a retired Navy admiral with a bit of influence to peddle.

Co-starring are Victor Mature and Patricia Neal, the former as a professional utilities lobbyist and the latter an amateur at the game who was sent by a committee of California bird-lovers to persuade Congressmen to vote against a Continental Gas Co. project which threatens the California Condor with extermination. Gwenn, who develops affection for both, soon finds himself drawn into the antagonism their respective aims engender. After Mature, over Gwenn's protest, sends the latter's landlady one of several new refrigerators he is at liberty to dispose of as gifts, Congressional probers gleefully find themselves conducting a spectacular hearing, replete with TV cameras. At this point audience snickers mount into belly laughs, for producer Samuel G. Engel and director Robert Wise forego no opportunity to put TV and hearing techniques "on the pan."

Gwenn is exposed as a fraud, of course, but still is welcomed in Washington society because he has become so beloved for himself. Mature and Miss Neal, by now very much in love, arrive at a happy ending compromise. Others who contribute to the farcical proceedings are Larry Keating, Gladys Hurlbut, Hugh Sanders and Christian Rub. Based on stories by Alvin M. Josephy, Joseph Petracca and Ingster; "Something for the Birds" should fare well at the box-office under a promotional campaign that capitalizes on the public interest Congressional investigations have excited of late.

Running time, 81 minutes. General audience classification. October release.

'IA' Poll Underway On Exchange Pacts

IATSE exchange locals representing front office and back room "white collar" employes yesterday began to receive from "IA" headquarters here ballots to be used in a national referendum on the question whether the union's headquarters or the locals individually should negotiate with the companies for contracts which will be effective Dec. 1.

Present contracts were negotiated two years ago by the "IA" headquarters following a similar referendum. Excepted were the New York exchange workers whose contracts heretofore have been negotiated by "IA" Home Office Employes Local No. H-63 under the guidance of Russell M. Moss, H-63 executive vice-president. That local this year will participate in the ballotting for the first time.

The referendum, covering some 5,000 members of 65 locals in 33 exchange cities, is being conducted on the principle of majority rule. Thus, if a majority of the 65 locals vote for a particular negotiating procedure, all others are bound by this result.

At the "IA's" recent biennial convention a resolution, yet to be acted upon, asked the union's executive board to rule whether committees representing the individual locals could join in talks if the national vote results in the designation of headquarters as the negotiating principal.

The 1951 negotiations resulted in a $1,000,000 per year pay raise for the 5,000 workers.

Akron House Reopens

AKRON, O., Oct. 7.—The Liberty Theatre, dark for the past year, will shortly be reopened with Ray Brown as managing director in charge of buying, booking and management. Brown, former manager of the State Theatre, Cuyahoga Falls, is currently in the advertising business. His theatre activities will be in addition to this.

Fla. Theatre Files Trust Action Here

John J. and Agnes Gillooly, operators of the Capital Theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla., yesterday filed a $1,800,000 triple-damage anti-trust suit against eight major distributors in U. S. District Court here. Florida Coastal Theatres also was named a defendant.

Asks Injunction

The complaint asked for a court injunction to enjoin the defendants from "allocating first and subsequent runs to affiliated theatres, and to enjoin defendants from granting any clearance to affiliated theatres competing with the Capital.

Charging discrimination against the Capital in allocating product, the complaint asserts that the location and size of the St. Petersburg house entitles it to product that is superior to what it has been getting.

'Fun vs. Vandalism' Show at Ohio House

Cleveland, Oct. 7.—A "Fun vs. Vandalism" show will be presented Friday, Oct. 31 at the Hilliard Square Theatre by manager Sam Fritz in cooperation with a group of merchants, the Lakewood school board and PTA and the Palewood police and fire departments, with intent to keep as many youngsters as possible off the streets on Hallowe'en.

Merchants are providing free doughnuts and cider to the youngsters, served by PTA members. They are also providing prizes for contests involving costumes, pie eating and apple ducking. All school bulletin boards will carry announcements of the special "spook" show which manager Fritz has promoted without any cost to the theatre other than the cost of a couple of "horror" features to be flashed on the screen at 10:30 P.M.

4 M-G-M Foreign Managers Promoted

The retirement of Luis Sarmiento as manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Peru after 19 years, has resulted in four company promotions in the foreign field, it was disclosed here yesterday by Morton A. Spring, first vice-president of Loew's International Corp.

The Peruvian post will be taken by Alberto Walker, who moves from the top post in Colombia. Robert Schmitt will become manager in Colombia, vacating the top position in Austria. Wolfgang Wolf will go from manager of Venezuela to manager of Austria. Bernard Blair of the M-G-M office in Sao Paulo, Brazil, has been named manager in Venezuela.

Gem Theatre Destroyed

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The Gem Theatre in East Boston was completely destroyed by a fire started by an explosion of an oil tank. Damage to the house was estimated at $45,000.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL SHOWMEN!

REMEMBER THE GOOD OLD DAYS?

R. M. SAVINI

Back in early 1933, we started Astor on the big reissue road which resulted in a great success for us and our franchise distributors. As a result, the reissue was born and other Independents followed suit tabbing Astor, the "Father of the Reissue."

A great part of this success stemmed from the good old showmanship days! . . . How many of you showmen remember the thrill it was to plan a small exploitation campaign and be rewarded with above normal business—and the cost of this campaign—practically nil compared to the grosses. Believe me, we are not preaching, but bringing back fond memories of days gone by that can very well be again.

Back in those days, copy like—"Back BY POPULAR REQUEST . . . HUNDREDS OF PATRONS DEMANDED THE RETURN OF THIS GREAT MOTION PICTURE"—and backed by a little honest showmanship, ALWAYS scored top results at your boxoffice! IT CAN HAPPEN AGAIN—AGAIN and AGAIN. Good motion pictures, like good stage plays, are worth repeating over and over again, especially when you can snare a big reissue at a fair rental leaving a larger profit.

Sees TV Closing 6-10,000 Theatres In Next Few Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Ted Gamble, former exhibitor and currently a large stockholder in two corporations applying for television stations, said today that the impact of television would force about half of the theatres in the country to close.

Estimating that there are now about 18,000 theatres in operation, Gamble told a Federal Communications Commission hearing examiner that he thought between 6,500 and 10,000 of them would be closed within the next few years as a result of television.

Gamble testified as a 20 per cent stockholder and a director of Aladdin Radio and Television Co., which now operates radio station KLZ in Denver and is an applicant for a Denver television station on channel 7. Competing with Aladdin for channel 7 is the Denver Television Co., in which Denver exhibitors Harris and John Wolfberg are principal stockholders.

Following Gamble's appearance, Harry A. Huffman, former Denver district manager for Fox Intermountain theatres, testified briefly. Huffman is chairman of the board of Aladdin, with a 13 per cent interest in the company. Frank A. Ricketson, president of Fox Intermountain, and a 13.7 per cent stockholder in Aladdin, is due to testify tomorrow, at the completion of Huffman's testimony.

Decided in 1949

Gamble told hearing examiner James Cunningham that he decided in 1949 to "get out of the motion picture theatre business" and into radio and television because he was "quite concerned about television and its impact on a great many theatres." Although he was not very specific about the type of theatre he thought would be affected, he included in those which would be forced to close "some marginal theatres, most subsequent-run theatres and some multiple first-run theatres in small towns." He said that although some of his theatres were "good" theatres, he had an interest in many in the category which he thought would be "permanently" affected by television.

He had about a $2,500,000 investment in theatres in 1949, Gamble said, which he began to liquidate. At the present time, he continued, he has roughly $400,000 invested in theatres and he expects to have liquidated that within six months.

He now holds substantial interests in four radio stations, he said, with a 43.5 per cent interest in a Seattle and a Portland station, and a 49 per cent interest in a Palm Springs, Cal., station, and his interest in Aladdin. Both Aladdin and the Mount Hood Radio and Television Co., operator of the Portland station, are now involved in FCC hearings for television stations.

Asked by his attorney how he would vote as a director if the Aladdin board had to make a decision about the "acquisition of product which would be adverse to motion picture interests," Gamble replied that he would "vote to protect KLZ because my investment will be in radio and television and I will have no interest in theatres."

"Limelight"

his delightful reaction to love, in "Spring Is Here," are memorable and his rendering of "The Sardine Song" is good, but perhaps the most hilarious is his finale with Buster Keaton in which they satirize a violinist and pianist playing classical music.

THE story, which Chaplin wrote in addition to directing, producing and composing a hauntingly sad musical theme, musical score and ballet, has the comedian save the dancer and infuse in her a will to live and dance. The setting is London in 1917. Sidney Chaplin portrays a poverty-stricken composer whom Miss Bloom as a store clerk, had aided by giving extra music sheets and change. Their love is unconsummated as Miss Bloom is discharged by her employer for aiding Chaplin and he goes on to symphony hall success.

Although suffering from a heart condition brought on by alcoholism, Chaplin's mental and emotional support help Miss Bloom overcome a psychosomatic leg paralysis and she goes on to become a prima ballerina, maintaining her affection for him. Sidney Chaplin shows up as composer for the new ballet in which Miss Bloom is to star and Charlie is to play the clown. Miss Bloom suffers opening night jitters but Charlie slaps her out of a temporary paralysis and into a great debut. Sidney Chaplin declares his love before being drafted into the army but Miss Bloom maintains she loves Charlie, whose performance is unsatisfactory to impresario Conrad Nagel. Charlie is replaced and bows out sure that Sidney Chaplin and Miss Bloom will fulfill their love.

CHARLIE is reduced to performing for donations in various taverns but is accidentally found by Sidney, Nagel and Miss Bloom and they bring him back to open a benefit for himself. Charlie's performance is sensationally received but his fade-out tumble into a drum in the orchestra pit causes an aggravation of his heart condition and he dies in the wings watching Miss Bloom dance.

Charlie's performance is superb and he is ably supported by the competent and attractive Miss Bloom, Sidney Chaplin, Nigel Bruce, Norman Lloyd, Buster Keaton and Marjorie Bennett. Andre Eglevsky and Melissa Hayden dance the ballet. While this starts slowly and is overlong, it is an outstanding production. Those worried about a Chaplin message will find one but it is that although life is often painful, cruel and bitter, it is nevertheless amazing and wonderful and should be lived fully.

Running time, 141 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Schine Enterprises To Include Video

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Schine Chain Theatres of Gloversville, has registered a certificate amending its corporate powers to include the conduct of a general radio and television broadcasting business, a hotel business and a candy-confectionery vending business.

John A. May, vice-president of Caroga Corp., and Louis W. Schine, secretary-treasurer of Schineboro, Inc., as holders of record of outstanding shares of Schine Theatres, executed the certificate.

The Schines now operate, through subsidiaries, a hotel chain, including the Ten Eyck, Albany, and a theatre concession business. The Schine-controlled Patroon Broadcasting Corp., managing radio station WPTR here, has applied for a television station license.

Howard Antevil, Schine attorney, recorded the change of purposes for the company.

$20,000 Repayment In Columbia Suit

Judge Morris Eder of the New York Supreme Court yesterday approved the repayment of $20,000 by Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, to the company in settlement of a minority stockholders suit alleging waste by various officers and directors of the corporation.

The payment of $20,000 was proposed as a settlement by Cohn and approved by Referee Arthur G. Klein. The sum of $40,000 requested as repayment by one of the suing stockholders was rejected by the court.

The suit charged directors were dominated by Cohn when they approved an employment contract for him in 1949 and that the company had paid legal fees of $40,000 which should have been paid by Cohn.

India-US Codes' Similarity Cited

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7. — Chandulal Shah, president of India's Motion Picture Producers Association, cited India's practice of film censorship as similar to American adherence to the Production Code, before a dinner audience of 300 at the Beverly Hills Hotel last night.

Shah declared, "Voluntary censorship is strict among producers because of the influence our films have on the great rural public. We think we have reached a point in our industry's development where we can produce films which project our non-violence philosophy and culture to the film audience of all other countries."

The dinner was given in honor of the visiting delegation from India's motion picture industry.

Ned Pines Acquires 2 Fan Magazines

Two motion picture fan magazines, Screenland and Silver Screen, have been purchased by Ned L. Pines, New York publisher, from the Henry Publishing Co. No changes in policy or personnel are contemplated, the new management stated. The magazines will continue to be sold to advertisers as a group, without any changes in current guaranteed circulation or advertising rates, it was said.

Pines last month launched a new monthly for men, Real.

State Department Will Act Strongly In Mexican Crisis

The U. S. State Department has promised to make strong representations in behalf of the Motion Picture Association of America to the Mexican government against the latter's moves to establish a screen quota which would cut showings of American pictures in that country.

A quota bill has passed the Mexican Congress and is being considered by the Senate. If passed by the latter it will go to President Aleman for approval.

The State Department has informed the MPAA that protests on legal grounds cannot be made to the Mexican government since there is no reciprocal trade agreement between the two countries. This fact is understood to weigh against the possibility for success of U. S. government protests.

Meanwhile, Mexican exhibitors were said to be preparing to move for a court injunction against the measure if Aleman signs the bill. The Mexican Supreme Court has before it at present an action relating to the constitutionality of a similar bill which was passed by the Mexican legislature last year.

32 Pre-release Dates For 'Kilimanjaro'

Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" will open in 32 key cities this month, launching its national pre-release run.

The 20th Century-Fox version of the Ernest Hemingway story will start this month at the Paramount, Atlanta; Hippodrome, Cleveland; Midtown, Philadelphia; Des Moines, Des Moines; St. Louis, St. Louis; Orpheum, Kansas City; Fifth Avenue, Seattle; Paramount, Toledo; Columbia, Washington; Fox, San Francisco; Rialto, Salt Lake City; Paramount, Syracuse; Criterion, Oklahoma City.

Also, the Fulton, Pittsburgh; Lyric, Minneapolis; Riviera, St. Paul; California, San Diego; Los Angeles and Chinese, Los Angeles; Ritz, Birmingham; Orpheum, Spokane; Orpheum, Portland; Circle, Indianapolis; Omaha, Omaha; United Artists, Detroit; Colonial, Akron; Paramount, Youngstown; New, Baltimore; Fox, Phoenix; Rogers, Chattanooga; Lincoln, Lincoln; State-Lake, Chicago; and the Paramount, Rochester.

$10,000 Profit to TOA on Convention

Theatre Owners of America's profit on its recent national convention and trade show was approximately $10,000 against a profit of $20,000 on last year's convention and trade show, it was learned here yesterday.

The difference in the figures was accounted for by the fact that trade show booths at the convention last month in Washington numbered only 60 compared to the 80 which carried displays at the 1951 convention in New York. Moreover, it was said, the social events which marked this year's convention were larger and more expensive than those held in conjunction with the New York event.

Arbitration

arbitration is here. The plan needs only the finishing touches. There are no suggested changes important enough to become roadblocks to completion. The vast majority of exhibitors in this country want arbitration. That voice must and will be heard."

He added that "much credit must go to distribution for the great effort it expended in the formulation of the plan." If accepted by all parties to the industry arbitration conference, the plan will be explained to TOA member units "the country over" by TOA officers in person, Levy said.

Levy discussed in strong terms the need for moral and financial support of exhibitor associations by members. He derided "gravy-train riders" as cowards who "sit idly by accepting benefits without paying their part of the toll." He noted that, despite the problems that face exhibitors at present, showmen in general "are becoming a bit lax in the proffer of moral and financial support. It is the old story of cancelling an insurance policy either because no accident has happened in years, or because at times it becomes a bit difficult to meet the premiums."

Continued support of trade associations at local and national levels "is most essential," Levy said.

Tom Bloomer Reelected President Of MPTO of St. Louis

St. Louis, Oct. 7. — A committee resolution to approve a recent Theatre Owners of America suggestion for arbitration and election of officers for 1952-1953 were the high lights of the closing day's activities of the annual meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The resolution concerns the approval of TOA's plan of arbitration of industry problems. At the Washington convention it was suggested that all regional groups approve the plan, subject of course to any changes which come about by TOA and regional group talks. The regional group meeting here was the first approval of the plan though it is expected others will follow suit.

Officers elected at today's session are Tom Bloomer of Belleville, Ill., reelected president; Tom Edwards of Farmington, Mo., past president elected as ex-officio member of all boards of the organization; Louis K. Ansell of St. Louis, chairman; Thomas James of St. Louis, vice-president; Joseph C. Ansell, treasurer; Lester R. Kropp; secretary. L. J. Williams of Union, Mo. was elected Missouri regional vice-president and William E. Waring, Jr. of Cobden, Ill., regional vice-president for Illinois.

AMPA Enlists Four

mount exploitation director, and Dan S. Terrell, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer exploitation manager.

Bergman will speak on public relations at the final Thursday evening session on Dec. 18, sharing the program with Arthur DeBra and Gordon White of the Motion Picture Association of America.

Morris will lecture on Oct. 16 with Ernest Emerling of Loew's, Walter Brooks, of Motion Picture Herald's Managers Round Table, and Al Floersheimer of Walter Reade Theatres.

Picker to RKO Radio

RKO Pictures stock and a salary of around $1,500 weekly, on a five-year contract with options. His contract at U.A. had about four years to go and also included options.

The new RKO Radio board, after electing Ralph Stolkin, head of the syndicate which purchased stock control from Howard Hughes, president last week; Arnold Grant chairman of the board, and Sherrill Corwin vice-president in charge of studio operations, said: "Of necessity, a number of executive changes will be made to bring in and promote youth with its vitality, fresh approach and aggressive thinking."

The statement provoked widespread interest in the industry and the new management's first appointment was awaited with genuine curiosity. Its revelation yesterday was greeted with commendation mixed with relief.

Picker is 39 years old. Before joining United Artists last year, he had been with Columbia's foreign distribution department since 1935, and at the time of his resignation was vice-president of Columbia International.

Agreed to Release Picker

On joining United Artists he was given a contract and a block of stock in the company, sharing in the 50 per cent interest in U.A. held by five others. Arthur Krim, U.A. president, said yesterday that the company had agreed to release Picker from his contract in order to accept the RKO Radio offer. He will leave here on Friday for Europe in the company of Max E. Youngstein, U.A. vice-president, for a business trip of approximately two weeks.

On his return, Picker will divide his time between U.A. and RKO Radio until Nov. 15 "to effect an orderly transition of business." His U.A. stock will revert to the company on that date.

U.A. officials said that no successor to Picker would be named immediately. The company's foreign distribution is well organized at this time, they pointed out, and Lou Lober, assistant to Picker, is well qualified to direct it.

That Picker's parting with U.A. was wholly amicable was clear from Krim's statement. He said "the company is releasing Picker with sincere regret, but it was the unanimous opinion of United Artists' board of directors that they did not want the company's contract with Picker to stand in the way of his accepting the offer. Our association has been a most happy one and all of the U.A. partners join me in wishing Arnold every success in his new assignment."

The statement from the RKO Radio board said it was "extremely gratified" to acquire the services of Picker who "has done an outstanding job (at U.A.) and has been one of that group of executives which have made such a dramatic change in the affairs of United Artists over the last two years.

"This move," the board's statement continued, "together with all other moves being made by the board, is for the purpose of strengthening and revitalizing the affairs of RKO in order to bring it to the position of eminence which it once occupied. The board is extremely appreciative of the wonderful attitude of the heads of United Artists who so graciously released Mr. Picker to undertake this challenging opportunity."

Picker's appointment parallels that of Al Daff, who became executive vice-president of Universal in charge of worldwide distribution last summer when Decca Records acquired stock control of that company and its president, Milton Rackmil, became president of Universal.

Cerebral Palsy Unit Appeals for Drivers

United Cerebral Palsy of New York City, Inc., has issued an appeal for volunteer drivers to supply transportation of children to and from clinics. The children are unable to receive treatment unless such transportation can be supplied. Last winter, reports Mrs. Harry Fellerman, chairman of transportation, the women's division, volunteers made 1,500 trips a month in New York City.

Those wishing to help must use their own cars, carry minimum New York State insurance, and be able to offer at least one hour per week. They are asked to call PL 3-3005, and ask for "Motor Corps," or write to U.C.P.A., of NYC, 47 W. 57th Street, "Motor Corps."

tour of France, England, and Holland.

Daff noted: "This happens at a time when quite a few very important, very good American films would have been available and could have done very strong. The people of France will suffer a great loss of entertainment for American films are gaining in popularity there but the exhibitors will probably resort to reissues or inferior products."

He did not think French film production could take up much, if any of the slack and noted that the French patrons suffer unjustly for they are supporting their own films even with American films playing.

Business is generally holding up very well elsewhere, Daff said, but noted that an unusually hot summer had brought England's box-office down. It has now bounced back. In Holland a reconstruction program on damaged theatres is in progress.

Kansas City, Oct. 7.—The North Kansas City popcorn processing plant of Manley, Inc., selling popcorn materials and machines to theartes and other places, has been completely destroyed by fire, with an estimated damage of $90,000. A new crop of popcorn escaped destruction, however, as it had not arrived at the plant.

SMPTE members gathered here for their semi-annual convention that the NTSC has tested and worked out an all-electronic compatible system signal which will be "adequate for all commercial color television."

Minor Improvements

There will be minor improvements made on the system, Loughgren said, and the committee will make further tests to determine what improvements can possibly be made. Then, by mid-1953, he continued, the individual companies that have worked on the system, Loughgren said, and the committee will make further tests to determine what improvements can possibly be made. Then, by mid-1953, he continued, the individual companies that have worked on the system will be able to petition the Commission for a hearing.

Loughgren touched on the Eidophor theatre television system and told the group that the system appears to provide "better color." He said it may be that the system will present the best theatre size color print, but added that "from the long range consideration the system may be more important than the apparatus.

Cautions Industry

He cautioned the motion picture industry not to select a system with "inherent limitations."

The add-a-unit approach to film processing machines was presented to the meet today. The need for a reasonably priced, quickly accessible, self-contained developer for television stations and small laboratories was emphasized. This need led to the design of the Bridgamatic.

This device, it was shown, embodies standard commercial design plus a continuous overdrive, tension-relieving clutches, straight-line film flow and ease of handling; 16mm. and 35mm. negative/positive, also reversal models were described. The presentation was made by Joseph A. Tanney and Edward B. Krause of S.O.S. Cinema Supply Corp., who explained how the add-a-unit idea was adopted, permitting the purchase of the basic Bridgamatic machine with its bare essentials, to which recirculation, replenishment, aeration, filtration, refrigeration and other refinements could be added as desired.

United Artists' Foreign Distribution Head Will Direct Worldwide Sales for Stolkin's Group; Choice a Popular One

Arnold Picker, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for United Artists, and a partner in that company, will become executive vice-president of RKO Radio Pictures on Nov. 15, it was announced yesterday. The post, a new one, will place Picker in charge of all RKO Radio sales and distribution operations.

The appointment, made from industry ranks, is a popular one with the trade. It was viewed as particularly significant because of the importance of the position, the first of its kind to be filled by the new management since taking over administration of the company last week, and for the insight it provided into the thinking of the new owners of the controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures.

Arnold Picker

Company officials indicated that decisions as to executive personnel in RKO Radio's distribution organization, both domestic and foreign, will be entirely Picker's responsibility. Robert Mochrie heads RKO Radio's domestic sales and Phil Reisman, due here today from a European business trip, heads the foreign.

According to sources outside RKO Radio, the offer which tempted Picker to leave U. A. includes a block of

Sharp Rise in Payrolls of Film Industry

Reflected in 1st Quarter Labor Department Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Industry payrolls for employes covered by unemployment insurance were more than $7,000,000 higher in the first quarter of 1952 than in the same quarter of 1951, the Department of Labor reported today.

The over-all industry figure for the first quarter of 1952 was $163,161,000, compared with a 1951 first quarter figure of $155,875,000.

First quarter payrolls for production and distribution were $79,467,000 in 1952 and $71,811,000 in 1951, showing an increase of more than $7,500,000. Payrolls in the service category also showed an increase—$9,847,000 for 1952, against $8,825,000 for 1951.

Payrolls in the category of theatres, including vaudeville, dropped slightly, however, with $73,847,000 for the first 1952 quarter and $75,239,000 for the

"Limelight"

[United Artists]

CHARLES CHAPLIN'S first film in exactly five years is an enthralling emotional experience that harkens back to his earlier great films for much superb stylized comedy that made Chaplin one of the greatest boxoffice draws in motion picture history. This is a simple, appealing tale about a young ballet dancer who falls in love with an aged, once-famous, English music hall clown that for the greater part of two hours and twenty-one minutes should prove immensely entertaining for any audience.

A continuous juxtaposition of sequences of success and failure, joy and sorrow, results in the remarkable illusion of the tragi-comic aspects of life, as one minute you howl at the pantomime of a tramp-clown not unlike the old Charlie and the next are saddened by the protagonist's realization that his once great fame is gone.

While the story is effective the great moments of the film are those in which Chaplin's comic genius is evident, such as the clown's drunken, rolling ascendance of the stairs, his perplexed sniffing of cigar and shoes while the suicide-by-gas is being attempted by dancer Claire Bloom, his rising to the occasion by determinedly battering the door down, and his later imitation of flowers, and playing up to the landlady when the rent is overdue.

IFE May Set up Distribution Firm for Italian Films

Tentative plans to establish a U.S. distribution agency for Italian films by the Italian Film Export organization were disclosed here yesterday by Dr. Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries of Italy, and Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of IFE.

Gualino said the decision on IFE setting up its own distribution company for the American market would be made within the next two weeks, before his return to Rome. Both Gualino and Monaco saw the necessity of broadening the American market for Italian product.

The IFE director acknowledged that other avenues for distribution are also being explored. He said exploratory talks have been held with United Artists and new Lippert franchise holders, among other distribution companies.

The main stress, however, was put on the possibility of the IFE establishing its own agency, with funds accruing to the IFE under the Italo-American film agreement. If the IFE takes such a step, Gualino said that the Lux Film Distribution Co., which handles Italian films in the American market and which is headed by Gualino, would cease operation.

Implementation of IFE's earlier decision to provide English-dubbed Italian films for the American market was also disclosed. A sound-recording corporation, capitalized at $200,000, will begin operation here within the next few months, it was stated.

The tentative plans of the projected distributing organization, which would be operated on a commercial basis in competition with other distribution corporations, Gualino said, calls for the setting up of from five to seven exchange offices in the U.S. He said the aim of the new agency would be to distribute about 25 films designed for the Italian-speaking public per year and from six to 12 "major" Italian pictures for the general public yearly.

Gualino said Italian producers would be free to distribute through the IFE or American distribution agencies under the projected set-up. The purpose of the IFE organization would be to group Italian product in an effort to gain a greater penetration of the American market he said. The dubbing program of the IFE was also cited by Gualino as an effort to expand in the American market.

The possibility of independent film importers launching an Italian picture in the New York market, with the IFE distributing elsewhere, was acknowledged by Gualino and Monaco. The IFE president said that no films have as yet been committed to the projected organization, but during his stay here he will confer with major Italian producers, currently visiting New York in conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week."

Also present at the press conference was Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian government, who stressed the "dollar situation" in future negotiations for a new Italian-American film agreement. While here, he said he would talk with Motion Picture Association of America officials, but added that it would be "premature" to describe such talks as negotiations. The current agreement expires in June, 1953.

Sullivan Is Named 20th Publicity Head

Edward E. Sullivan has been named publicity manager of 20th Century-Fox, by Charles Einfeld, vice-president. Sullivan replaces Stirling Silliphant, who resigned to produce.

Edward Sullivan

Sullivan, who has been with 20th Century-Fox since 1946 following five years of service with the Eighth Air Force in Europe, has been assistant publicity manager of the company for the past three years. During that period he has been on the national committees of the Cancer Fund Drive, the Heart Fund and the American Red Cross.

Silliphant, who will start production on "The Joe Louis Story" in January, will remain with the company until that time in an advisory capacity.

Johnston Stresses Reciprocity in Trade

Reciprocity in international trade was underscored here yesterday by Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, in a luncheon address at the Waldorf Astoria before top representatives of the American and Italian film industries.

The necessity of increased buying abroad was also stressed by Johnston, who was host at the luncheon in honor of the visiting leaders of the Italian industry.

Dr. Clemente Boniver, consular of the Italian Embassy, one of the three guest speakers of the Italian industry, said that Italy is counting on increased film business in the United States as one of the ways of reducing its sizable gap in dollar balances. He praised the support given to Italian films by the American public and the American industry.

Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian Government, said the success of Italian films in this country will insure "a continued open door" for American films in Italy.

Among those on the dais, besides the speakers, were: Arthur B. Krim, president of United Artists; Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures; Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of Italian Film Exports; Italo Gemino, head of the Italian exhibitors' organization; Baron Carlo de Ferrariis, Italian consul general, and John McCarthy, MPAA vice-president.

In conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week," independent producer and importer Jules Levey was host at a supper last night to Italian film executives at the Plaza Hotel.

We hope that theatre managers will buy several copies of this week's Look, make a lobby display of the advertising, and show it as proof of the fact that you are running a first-string picture. Don't wait for your patrons to ask for it; the risks are against you. ## "Something for the Birds"

(20th Century-Fox)

A BRIGHT, though unpretentious comedy about Washington lobbyists has been tailored by script-writer I. A. L. Diamond and Boris Ingster to accommodate the whimsical histrionics of Edmund Gwenn, the pattern for whose future screen performances was set several years ago in "The Miracle on 34th Street." Herein he emerges as an obscure engraver of invitations to gay Capital parties who pockets copies of his handiwork and, attired in dinner jacket, joins in the affairs in the guise of a retired Navy admiral with a bit of influence to peddle.

Co-starring are Victor Mature and Patricia Neal, the former as a professional utilities lobbyist and the latter an amateur at the game who was sent by a committee of California bird-lovers to persuade Congressmen to vote against a Continental Gas Co. project which threatens the California Condor with extermination. Gwenn, who develops affection for both, soon finds himself drawn into the antagonism their respective aims engender. After Mature, over Gwenn's protest, sends the latter's landlady one of several new refrigerators he is at liberty to dispose of as gifts, Congressional probers gleefully find themselves conducting a spectacular hearing, replete with TV cameras. At this point audience snickers mount into belly laughs, for producer Samuel G. Engel and director Robert Wise forego no opportunity to put TV and hearing techniques "on the pan."

Gwenn is exposed as a fraud, of course, but still is welcomed in Washington society because he has become so beloved for himself. Mature and Miss Neal, by now very much in love, arrive at a happy ending compromise. Others who contribute to the farcical proceedings are Larry Keating, Gladys Hurlbut, Hugh Sanders and Christian Rub. Based on stories by Alvin M. Josephy, Joseph Petracca and Ingster, "Something for the Birds" should fare well at the box-office under a promotional campaign that capitalizes on the public interest Congressional investigations have excited of late.

Running time, 81 minutes. General audience classification. October release.

'IA' Poll Underway On Exchange Pacts

IATSE exchange locals representing front office and back room "white collar" employes yesterday began to receive from "IA" headquarters here ballots to be used in a national referendum on the question whether the union's headquarters or the locals individually should negotiate with the companies for contracts which will be effective Dec. 1.

Present contracts were negotiated two years ago by the "IA" headquarters following a similar referendum. Excepted were the New York exchange workers whose contracts heretofore have been negotiated by "IA" Home Office Employes Local No. H-63 under the guidance of Russell M. Moss, H-63 executive vice-president. That local this year will participate in the ballotting for the first time.

The referendum, covering some 5,000 members of 65 locals in 33 exchange cities, is being conducted on the principle of majority rule. Thus, if a majority of the 65 locals vote for a particular negotiating procedure, all others are bound by this result.

At the "IA's" recent biennial convention a resolution, yet to be acted upon, asked the union's executive board to rule whether committees representing the individual locals could join in talks if the national vote results in the designation of headquarters as the negotiating principal.

The 1951 negotiations resulted in a $1,000,000 per year pay raise for the 5,000 workers.

Akron House Reopens

AKRON, O., Oct. 7.—The Liberty Theatre, dark for the past year, will shortly be reopened with Ray Brown as managing director in charge of buying, booking and management. Brown, former manager of the State Theatre, Cuyahoga Falls, is currently in the advertising business. His theatre activities will be in addition to this.

Fla. Theatre Files Trust Action Here

John J. and Agnes Gillooly, operators of the Capital Theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla., yesterday filed a $1,800,000 triple-damage anti-trust suit against eight major distributors in U. S. District Court here. Florida Coastal Theatres also was named a defendant.

Asks Injunction

The complaint asked for a court injunction to enjoin the defendants from "allocating first and subsequent runs to affiliated theatres, and to enjoin defendants from granting any clearance to affiliated theatres competing with the Capital.

Charging discrimination against the Capital in allocating product, the complaint asserts that the location and size of the St. Petersburg house entitles it to product that is superior to what it has been getting.

Back in early 1933, we started Astor on the big reissue road which resulted in a great success for us and our franchise distributors. As a result, the reissue was born and other Independents followed suit tabbing Astor, the "Father of the Reissue."

A great part of this success stemmed from the good old showmanship days! . . . How many of you showmen remember the thrill it was to plan a small exploitation campaign and be rewarded with above normal business—and the cost of this campaign—practically nil compared to the grosses. Believe me, we are not preaching, but bringing back fond memories of days gone by that can very well be again.

Back in those days, copy like—"Back BY POPULAR REQUEST . . . HUNDREDS OF PATRONS DEMANDED THE RETURN OF THIS GREAT MOTION PICTURE"—and backed by a little honest showmanship, ALWAYS scored top results at your boxoffice! IT CAN HAPPEN AGAIN—AGAIN and AGAIN. Good motion pictures, like good stage plays, are worth repeating over and over again, especially when you can snare a big reissue at a fair rental leaving a larger profit.

Sees TV Closing 6-10,000 Theatres In Next Few Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Ted Gamble, former exhibitor and currently a large stockholder in two corporations applying for television stations, said today that the impact of television would force about half of the theatres in the country to close.

Estimating that there are now about 18,000 theatres in operation, Gamble told a Federal Communications Commission hearing examiner that he thought between 6,500 and 10,000 of them would be closed within the next few years as a result of television.

Gamble testified as a 20 per cent stockholder and a director of Aladdin Radio and Television Co., which now operates radio station KLZ in Denver and is an applicant for a Denver television station on channel 7. Competing with Aladdin for channel 7 is the Denver Television Co., in which Denver exhibitors Harris and John Wolfberg are principal stockholders.

Following Gamble's appearance, Harry A. Huffman, former Denver district manager for Fox Intermountain theatres, testified briefly. Huffman is chairman of the board of Aladdin, with a 13 per cent interest in the company. Frank A. Ricketson, president of Fox Intermountain, and a 13.7 per cent stockholder in Aladdin, is due to testify tomorrow, at the completion of Huffman's testimony.

Decided in 1949

Gamble told hearing examiner James Cunningham that he decided in 1949 to "get out of the motion picture theatre business" and into radio and television because he was "quite concerned about television and its impact on a great many theatres." Although he was not very specific about the type of theatre he thought would be affected, he included in those which would be forced to close "some marginal theatres, most subsequent-run theatres and some multiple first-run theatres in small towns." He said that although some of his theatres were "good" theatres, he had an interest in many in the category which he thought would be "permanently" affected by television.

He had about a $2,500,000 investment in theatres in 1949, Gamble said, which he began to liquidate. At the present time, he continued, he has roughly $400,000 invested in theatres and he expects to have liquidated that within six months.

He now holds substantial interests in four radio stations, he said, with a 43.5 per cent interest in a Seattle and a Portland station, and a 49 per cent interest in a Palm Springs, Cal., station, and his interest in Aladdin. Both Aladdin and the Mount Hood Radio and Television Co., operator of the Portland station, are now involved in FCC hearings for television stations.

Asked by his attorney how he would vote as a director if the Aladdin board had to make a decision about the "acquisition of product which would be adverse to motion picture interests," Gamble replied that he would "vote to protect KLZ because my investment will be in radio and television and I will have no interest in theatres."

"Limelight"

his delightful reaction to love, in "Spring Is Here," are memorable and his rendering of "The Sardine Song" is good, but perhaps the most hilarious is his finale with Buster Keaton in which they satirize a violinist and pianist playing classical music.

THE story, which Chaplin wrote in addition to directing, producing and composing a hauntingly sad musical theme, musical score and ballet, has the comedian save the dancer and infuse in her a will to live and dance. The setting is London in 1917. Sidney Chaplin portrays a poverty-stricken composer whom Miss Bloom as a store clerk, had aided by giving extra music sheets and change. Their love is unconsummated as Miss Bloom is discharged by her employer for aiding Chaplin and he goes on to symphony hall success.

Although suffering from a heart condition brought on by alcoholism, Chaplin's mental and emotional support help Miss Bloom overcome a psychosomatic leg paralysis and she goes on to become a prima ballerina, maintaining her affection for him. Sidney Chaplin shows up as composer for the new ballet in which Miss Bloom is to star and Charlie is to play the clown. Miss Bloom suffers opening night jitters but Charlie slaps her out of a temporary paralysis and into a great debut. Sidney Chaplin declares his love before being drafted into the army but Miss Bloom maintains she loves Charlie, whose performance is unsatisfactory to impresario Conrad Nagel. Charlie is replaced and bows out sure that Sidney Chaplin and Miss Bloom will fulfill their love.

CHARLIE is reduced to performing for donations in various taverns but is accidentally found by Sidney, Nagel and Miss Bloom and they bring him back to open a benefit for himself. Charlie's performance is sensationally received but his fade-out tumble into a drum in the orchestra pit causes an aggravation of his heart condition and he dies in the wings watching Miss Bloom dance.

Charlie's performance is superb and he is ably supported by the competent and attractive Miss Bloom, Sidney Chaplin, Nigel Bruce, Norman Lloyd, Buster Keaton and Marjorie Bennett. Andre Eglevsky and Melissa Hayden dance the ballet. While this starts slowly and is overlong, it is an outstanding production. Those worried about a Chaplin message will find one but it is that although life is often painful, cruel and bitter, it is nevertheless amazing and wonderful and should be lived fully.

Running time, 141 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Schine Enterprises To Include Video

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Schine Chain Theatres of Gloversville, has registered a certificate amending its corporate powers to include the conduct of a general radio and television broadcasting business, a hotel business and a candy-confectionery vending business.

John A. May, vice-president of Caroga Corp., and Louis W. Schine, secretary-treasurer of Schineboro, Inc., as holders of record of outstanding shares of Schine Theatres, executed the certificate.

The Schines now operate, through subsidiaries, a hotel chain, including the Ten Eyck, Albany, and a theatre concession business. The Schine-controlled Patroon Broadcasting Corp., managing radio station WPTR here, has applied for a television station license.

Howard Antevil, Schine attorney, recorded the change of purposes for the company.

$20,000 Repayment In Columbia Suit

Judge Morris Eder of the New York Supreme Court yesterday approved the repayment of $20,000 by Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, to the company in settlement of a minority stockholders suit alleging waste by various officers and directors of the corporation.

The payment of $20,000 was proposed as a settlement by Cohn and approved by Referee Arthur G. Klein. The sum of $40,000 requested as repayment by one of the suing stockholders was rejected by the court.

The suit charged directors were dominated by Cohn when they approved an employment contract for him in 1949 and that the company had paid legal fees of $40,000 which should have been paid by Cohn.

India-US Codes' Similarity Cited

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7. — Chandulal Shah, president of India's Motion Picture Producers Association, cited India's practice of film censorship as similar to American adherence to the Production Code, before a dinner audience of 300 at the Beverly Hills Hotel last night.

Shah declared, "Voluntary censorship is strict among producers because of the influence our films have on the great rural public. We think we have reached a point in our industry's development where we can produce films which project our nonviolence philosophy and culture to the film audience of all other countries."

The dinner was given in honor of the visiting delegation from India's motion picture industry.

Ned Pines Acquires 2 Fan Magazines

Two motion picture fan magazines, Screenland and Silver Screen, have been purchased by Ned L. Pines, New York publisher, from the Henry Publishing Co. No changes in policy or personnel are contemplated, the new management stated. The magazines will continue to be sold to advertisers as a group, without any changes in current guaranteed circulation or advertising rates, it was said.

Pines last month launched a new monthly for men, Real.

State Department Will Act Strongly In Mexican Crisis

The U. S. State Department has promised to make strong representations in behalf of the Motion Picture Association of America to the Mexican government against the latter's moves to establish a screen quota which would cut showings of American pictures in that country.

A quota bill has passed the Mexican Congress and is being considered by the Senate. If passed by the latter it will go to President Aleman for approval.

The State Department has informed the MPAA that protests on legal grounds cannot be made to the Mexican government since there is no reciprocal trade agreement between the two countries. This fact is understood to weigh against the possibility for success of U. S. government protests.

Meanwhile, Mexican exhibitors were said to be preparing to move for a court injunction against the measure if Aleman signs the bill. The Mexican Supreme Court has before it at present an action relating to the constitutionality of a similar bill which was passed by the Mexican legislature last year.

Also, the Fulton, Pittsburgh; Lyric, Minneapolis; Riviera, St. Paul; California, San Diego; Los Angeles and Chinese, Los Angeles; Ritz, Birmingham; Orpheum, Spokane; Orpheum, Portland; Circle, Indianapolis; Omaha, Omaha; United Artists, Detroit; Colonial, Akron; Paramount, Youngstown; New, Baltimore; Fox, Phoenix; Rogers, Chattanooga; Lincoln, Lincoln; State-Lake, Chicago; and the Paramount, Rochester.

$10,000 Profit to TOA on Convention

Theatre Owners of America's profit on its recent national convention and trade show was approximately $10,000 against a profit of $20,000 on last year's convention and trade show, it was learned here yesterday.

The difference in the figures was accounted for by the fact that trade show booths at the convention last month in Washington numbered only 60 compared to the 80 which carried displays at the 1951 convention in New York. Moreover, it was said, the social events which marked this year's convention were larger and more expensive than those held in conjunction with the New York event.

Arbitration

arbitration is here. The plan needs only the finishing touches. There are no suggested changes important enough to become roadblocks to completion. The vast majority of exhibitors in this country want arbitration. That voice must and will be heard."

He added that "much credit must go to distribution for the great effort it expended in the formulation of the plan." If accepted by all parties to the industry arbitration conference, the plan will be explained to TOA member units "the country over" by TOA officers in person, Levy said.

Levy discussed in strong terms the need for moral and financial support of exhibitor associations by members. He derided "gravy-train riders" as cowards who "sit idly by accepting benefits without paying their part of the toll." He noted that, despite the problems that face exhibitors at present, showmen in general "are becoming a bit lax in the proffer of moral and financial support. It is the old story of cancelling an insurance policy either because no accident has happened in years, or because at times it becomes a bit difficult to meet the premiums."

Continued support of trade associations at local and national levels "is most essential," Levy said.

Tom Bloomer Reelected President Of MPTO of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7. — A committee resolution to approve a recent Theatre Owners of America suggestion for arbitration and election of officers for 1952-1953 were the high lights of the closing day's activities of the annual meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

The resolution concerns the approval of TOA's plan of arbitration of industry problems. At the Washington convention it was suggested that all regional groups approve the plan, subject of course to any changes which come about by TOA and regional group talks. The regional group meeting here was the first approval of the plan though it is expected others will follow suit.

Officers elected at today's session are Tom Bloomer of Belleville, Ill., reelected president; Tom Edwards of Farmington, Mo., past president elected as ex-officio member of all boards of the organization; Louis K. Ansell of St. Louis, chairman; Thomas James of St. Louis, vice-president; Joseph C. Ansell, treasurer; Lester R. Kropp; secretary. L. J. Williams of Union, Mo. was elected Missouri regional vice-president and William E. Waring, Jr. of Cobden, Ill., regional vice-president for Illinois.

RKO Pictures stock and a salary of around $1,500 weekly, on a five-year contract with options. His contract at U.A. had about four years to go and also included options.

The new RKO Radio board, after electing Ralph Stolkin, head of the syndicate which purchased stock control from Howard Hughes, president last week; Arnold Grant chairman of the board, and Sherrill Corwin vice-president in charge of studio operations, said: "Of necessity, a number of executive changes will be made to bring in and promote youth with its vitality, fresh approach and aggressive thinking."

The statement provoked widespread interest in the industry and the new management's first appointment was awaited with genuine curiosity. Its revelation yesterday was greeted with commendation mixed with relief.

Picker is 39 years old. Before joining United Artists last year, he had been with Columbia's foreign distribution department since 1935, and at the time of his resignation was vice-president of Columbia International.

Agreed to Release Picker

On joining United Artists he was given a contract and a block of stock in the company, sharing in the 50 per cent interest in U.A. held by five others. Arthur Krim, U.A. president, said yesterday that the company had agreed to release Picker from his contract in order to accept the RKO Radio offer. He will leave here on Friday for Europe in the company of Max E. Youngstein, U.A. vice-president, for a business trip of approximately two weeks.

On his return, Picker will divide his time between U.A. and RKO Radio until Nov. 15 "to effect an orderly transition of business." His U.A. stock will revert to the company on that date.

U.A. officials said that no successor to Picker would be named immediately. The company's foreign distribution is well organized at this time, they pointed out, and Lou Lober, assistant to Picker, is well qualified to direct it.

That Picker's parting with U.A. was wholly amicable was clear from Krim's statement. He said "the company is releasing Picker with sincere regret, but it was the unanimous opinion of United Artists' board of directors that they did not want the company's contract with Picker to stand in the way of his accepting the offer. Our association has been a most happy one and all of the U.A. partners join me in wishing Arnold every success in his new assignment."

The statement from the RKO Radio board said it was "extremely gratified" to acquire the services of Picker who "has done an outstanding job (at U.A.) and has been one of that group of executives which have made such a dramatic change in the affairs of United Artists over the last two years.

"This move," the board's statement continued, "together with all other moves being made by the board, is for the purpose of strengthening and revitalizing the affairs of RKO in order to bring it to the position of eminence which it once occupied. The board is extremely appreciative of the wonderful attitude of the heads of United Artists who so graciously released Mr. Picker to undertake this challenging opportunity."

Picker's appointment parallels that of Al Daff, who became executive vice-president of Universal in charge of worldwide distribution last summer when Decca Records acquired stock control of that company and its president, Milton Rackmil, became president of Universal.

Cerebral Palsy Unit Appeals for Drivers

United Cerebral Palsy of New York City, Inc., has issued an appeal for volunteer drivers to supply transportation of children to and from clinics. The children are unable to receive treatment unless such transportation can be supplied. Last winter, reports Mrs. Harry Fellerman, chairman of transportation, the women's division, volunteers made 1,500 trips a month in New York City.

Those wishing to help must use their own cars, carry minimum New York State insurance, and be able to offer at least one hour per week. They are asked to call PL 3-3005, and ask for "Motor Corps," or write to U.C.P.A., of NYC, 47 W. 57th Street, "Motor Corps."

Daff Cites Injury

tour of France, England, and Holland.

Daff noted: "This happens at a time when quite a few very important, very good American films would have been available and could have done very strong. The people of France will suffer a great loss of entertainment for American films are gaining in popularity there but the exhibitors will probably resort to reissues or inferior products."

He did not think French film production could take up much, if any of the slack and noted that the French patrons suffer unjustly for they are supporting their own films even with American films playing.

Business is generally holding up very well elsewhere, Daff said, but noted that an unusually hot summer had brought England's box-office down. It has now bounced back. In Holland a reconstruction program on damaged theatres is in progress.

Manley's Plant Burns

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—The North Kansas City popcorn processing plant of Manley, Inc., selling popcorn materials and machines to theartes and other places, has been completely destroyed by fire, with an estimated damage of $90,000. A new crop of popcorn escaped destruction, however, as it had not arrived at the plant.

Color TV

SMPTE members gathered here for their semi-annual convention that the NTSC has tested and worked out an all-electronic compatible system signal which will be "adequate for all commercial color television."

Minor Improvements

There will be minor improvements made on the system, Loughgren said, and the committee will make further tests to determine what improvements can possibly be made. Then, by mid-1953, he continued, the individual companies that have worked on the system, Loughgren said, and the committee will make further tests to determine what improvements can possibly be made. Then, by mid-1953, he continued, the individual companies that have worked on the system will be able to petition the Commission for a hearing.

Loughgren touched on the Eidophor theatre television system and told the group that the system appears to provide "better color." He said it may be that the system will present the best theatre size color print, but added that "from the long range consideration the system may be more important than the apparatus.

Cautions Industry

He cautioned the motion picture industry not to select a system with "inherent limitations."

The add-a-unit approach to film processing machines was presented to the meet today. The need for a reasonably priced, quickly accessible, self-contained developer for television stations and small laboratories was emphasized. This need led to the design of the Bridgamatic.

This device, it was shown, embodies standard commercial design plus a continuous overdrive, tension-relieving clutches, straight-line film flow and ease of handling; 16mm. and 35mm. negative/positive, also reversal models were described. The presentation was made by Joseph A. Tanney and Edward B. Krause of S.O.S. Cinema Supply Corp., who explained how the add-a-unit idea was adopted, permitting the purchase of the basic Bridgamatic machine with its bare essentials, to which recirculation, replenishment, aeration, filtration, refrigeration and other refinements could be added as desired.

Pictures take months to make . . . may be unmade in split seconds.

For the superlative showings of which modern projection equipment is capable depend upon superlative film care.

Film coating, for example, lubrication, and inspection—all require precise knowledge, expert handling. And in cleaning, splicing, and winding, the film must be held "just so" in hands wearing the right type of glove; here, the slightest scratch means trouble.

On subjects such as these—ranging from choice of film to projection and film storage—representatives of the Eastman Technical Service for Motion Picture Film are trained to advise and work with the industry.

Italians Told Code Helped Block Censors

Self-Regulation Need Explained by Spaeth

Tribute to the Hollywood Production code as an instrument which blocked the growth of "political censorship" in the United States was paid here yesterday by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, motion picture chairman of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Spaeth's address was the highlight of a luncheon at the Hotel Plaza given by the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, claiming to represent 40,000,000 American clubwomen, in honor of the Italian film industry. It was delivered by Mrs. Jessie M. Bader, national chairman of the Protestant Motion Picture Council, due to Spaeth's illness.

In his observations, Spaeth explored the historical background of the Code, which he said, "reflects the composite entertainment taste and moral standards of our complex population." He added that it would be "consum-

Distributor Revisions Set; Now Goes to Exhibitors Who Are Free to Suggest Changes; Republic, Monogram Reservation

Following a meeting here yesterday of distributor presidents, other top executives and attorneys, Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, reported they approved an industry arbitration system draft which will be submitted promptly to exhibitor organization representatives for action.

The draft will not be handed to the exhibitor representatives on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis, it was emphasized. Said Johnston: "The door is open for changes in the draft which may be requested by exhibitors."

Any proposed changes in the draft on which distributor attorneys have worked steadily during the past few weeks "will be fully considered by the distributing companies so that an arbitration system can be established as speedily as possible," Johnston said.

Participants in yesterday's meeting freely admitted that distributors' approval of the draft was not reached without a few "uprisings" against some of its provisions. It was pointed out that Monogram and Republic still want Department of Justice assurances that they will not be bound by the industry anti-trust suit decrees if they become signatories to any arbitration system agreement.

The distributors were reported to be satisfied that they have complied with the request of Abram F. Myers, Allied States Association general counsel, "for something I can react to and submit to my organization." It is expected the distributors' draft, which actually is a distributor-amended version of a document drawn up originally by exhibitor as well as

Says Video Is Spurring Film Theatres' Gains

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The coming of radio helped bring "talkies" and the challenge of TV is helping to speed the arrival of third dimensional films, according to N. A. Taylor, president of 20th Century Theatres.

N. A. Taylor

"I am excited at what is happening and what can happen," he told those participating in the last of a series of company regional meetings held in a number of Ontario cities.

"You can't sit on your status quo," Taylor advised his managers, executives and head office department heads. "This business cannot remain static. That fact is the life-blood of our business. And if you believe that, say so. When a man asks you if television will put you out of business, tell him that his grandchildren will be going to the movies. Talk on the upbeat, not the downbeat."

Taylor, whose company operates 70 theatres in Ontario and recently added several in the West, declared: "If you don't think that the motion picture theatre will survive television, then now is the time to get out of it for your own sake and for the sake of your families," he advised, adding: "I'm sticking."

Hutner Promoted to 20th Publicity Aide

Meyer Hutner has been named associate publicity manager of 20th Century-Fox, by Edward E. Sullivan, publicity manager.

Meyer Hutner

Hutner, who joined 20th Century-Fox four years ago as newspaper contact, was appointed special events director last year. Before joining the company he was publicity manager for Billy Rose, Kate Smith and Mickey Rooney. Prior to his entry into the publicity field, Hutner had been on the editorial staffs of the New York Journal American and the New York Post.

He succeeds Sullivan, who was named publicity manager on Tuesday.

'Limelight' Music On Radio Tonight

Charles Chaplin's musical score for "Limelight" will have its radio premiere tonight at 9:05 over station WQXR as the highlight of the first all-Chaplin musical program on the air, entitled "Charles Chaplin—the tramp Who Made Music." The program had been announced earlier for airing tomorrow night. Excerpts from the scores of "City Lights" and "Modern Times" will be included.

"Limelight," a United Artists release, will open on Oct. 23 in continuous performances at the Astor Theatre and on a reserved-seat twice-daily schedule at the Trans-Lux. Advance reserved-seat tickets go on sale today at the Trans-Lux. Priced at $2.40 for all performances except $1.80 for week-day matinees, the film will be shown at 2:30 and 8:30 P.M. daily, with extra matinees at 5:30 P.M. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, and special Saturday night 11:30 showings.

Testifying to the spread of interest in Cinerama, one day's mail received at the box-office of the Broadway Theatre here yesterday, where the process and program is in its exclusive premiere engagement, included more than 1,100 orders for tickets, according to a Cinerama spokesman. The mail came from many sections of the country as well as from nearby.

The public response has extended the advance sale indefinitely. It had been set originally for an eight-week minimum.

Photoplay Poll Won By Hunter, Nelson

Photoplay Magazine's annual "Choose Your Stars" poll has been won by Lori Nelson, 19-year-old Universal-International actress, and Tab Hunter, 21-year-old ice skater who has appeared in only one picture. The winners and the runners-up were honored at a Photoplay reception in Hollywood last week-end at which Tyrone Power officiated.

Fred Sammis, vice-president of McFadden Publications, and Photoplay editor Tony Gray attended the event. It was disclosed that Miss Nelson triumphed over the nearest actress chosen by a margin of three to one, one of the highest ever made. Past winners of the poll have usually attained Hollywood stardom. In the last two years the winners were Mitzi Gaynor and Anthony Dexter, and Sally Forrest and Howard Keel.

List Runners-up

Runners-up in the poll for the feminine stars were Ursula Theiss, Elaine Stewart, Hildegarde Neff, Dawn Addams, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Barbara Ruick, Joan Taylor, Helene Stanley, Joan Rice and Beverly Michaels. Male runners-up were Arthur Franz, Oskar Werner, Johnny Stewart, Robert Horton, Keith Andes, Michael Moore, Gene Barry, John Forsyth, Rusty Tamblyn and Dean Miller.

Intermountain's Ricketson Before FCC on Video Bid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Frank Ricketson, president of Fox Intermountain Theatres, told the Federal Communications Commission today that he was never named as a defendant in an anti-trust suit.

Ricketson declared that he didn't believe he had ever been an officer of a company named as an anti-trust defendant and said that to the best of his knowledge Fox Intermountain had never been an anti-trust defendant.

Ricketson made these statements in testimony at an FCC hearing on two applicants competing for a television station on channel 7 in Denver. Ricketson is an officer of Aladdin Radio and Television Co., one of the applicants, and holds 13.7 percent of the company's stock. The competing applicant is Denver Television Co., in which the principal stockholders are Harris and John Wolfberg.

Asked by counsel for Denver Television if Fox Intermountain had ever violated the 1940 consent decree, Ricketson replied that it had not. He admitted that the company had entered into franchise deals with Columbia, Universal and Republic after the 1940 consent decree, but said that his counsel had advised him such franchise deals were legal. Ricketson's attorney explained that the 1940 decree prohibited franchise deals with major companies, but did not outlaw them with non-majors.

Ricketson said that Columbia, Universal and Republic were all "small, struggling companies" at the time, and that it was Fox Intermountain's policy to help such companies in their financial "problems."

Ricketson told hearing examiner James Cunningham that he foresaw the day when motion pictures "would complement" television and television would "complement" motion pictures.

Schine Theatres Bid for TV Station in Rochester

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Schine Chain Theatres have applied to the Federal Communications Commission for a television station on channel 27 in Rochester, N. Y., the FCC announced today.

Gardner at MGM 'Frisco Exchange

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Sam Gardner, assistant M-G-M West Coast sales manager with headquarters in Los Angeles, will remain at the M-G-M exchange here until a successor to the late manager L. C. Wingham has been appointed.

Charles Reagen, M-G-M sales head, is expected to arrive in San Francisco from New York this month to make an appointment.

B'nai B'rith Award To Jimmy Durante

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Jimmy Durante will be honored by the B'nai B'rith lodges of America Sunday, Nov. 16 on a special radio program to be broadcast coast-to-coast by National Broadcasting. The citation to be presented to Durante will read: "For his outstanding efforts in behalf of brotherhood and for his fine work in promoting good will between all faiths."

Code Helped Block Censors

mate impudence" to impose the Code on foreign producers, but that they should understand the reasons for self-censorship in the United States.

Spaeth pointed out that between 1926 and 1940, 42 proposals for Federal censorship of films were introduced in the United States and in the House of Representatives. "None passed," he added, "and no new state effective censorship was enacted into law after 1922."

Credit for this accomplishment, Spaeth said, is due to the industry's voluntary code and national organizations, such as the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, which previews new films and acquaints its membership with their content.

Spaeth called the current censorship laws of six states and some 200 cities "repugnant" to American producers and the American people. He also paid tribute, in conjunction with the "Salute to Italian Films" week, to the many Italian films imported into this country. He also told his audience that Americans were not interested in "propaganda" films.

Mrs. Arthur Mayer, acting chairman of the American Jewish Committee, presented a scroll, acclaiming the renaissance of Italian films to Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries.

Representatives of the Italian industry attending the luncheon included: Renato Gualino, general director of the Italian Film Export organization; Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian Government; Luigi Zampa, director; Dino de Laurentiis, producer; Sylvana Mangano, Renato Rascel and Sondra Pallavichini.

Zampa told the gathering of his plans to direct a film in New York about a family of Italian extraction, a film, he added, which would strengthen the ties between the two countries.

Foreign Press Critics Honor Italian Industry

The Foreign Language Press Film Critics Circle last night presented to the Italian film industry its scroll of "Highest Merit" for "the deep entertainment satisfaction they have given peoples throughout the world, and in acknowledgment of the contributions that Italian films have made towards understanding among nations."

The presentation was made from the stage of the Little Carnegie Theatre, prior to the performance of "Umberto D," the new De Sica film, one of the seven festival films of "Salute to Italian Films Week." The scroll was presented to Nicola de Pirro, director general of the Italian Government's Entertainment Industries Bureau by Sigmund Gottlober, executive secretary of the Foreign Language Press Critics Circle.

20th-Fox Executives Fete Italian Officials

Twentieth Century-Fox will fete representatives of the Italian industry in conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week," at the Latin Quarter here tomorrow night.

Hosting the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Murray Silverstone, Miss Marilyn Silverstone, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Einfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Silverstone, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Whelan.

Balaban Hosts Italians At Supper This Evening

Barney Balaban, Paramount Pictures president, will be host to the visiting Italian film delegation at a private supper this evening at the Sherry Netherland Hotel here.

Screen 'Miracle' in Chi. Reversal Bid

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—"The Miracle," banned by the Chicago police censor board for exhibition here, is being screened today for Mayor Kennally and corporation counsel John J. Mortimer by the American Civil Liberties Union in an attempt to have the Mayor reverse the censor board's decision, which was upheld by Police Commissioner O'Connor when the ACLU first appealed the banning.

The print, which had been sent back to New York after a private invitational showing sponsored by the ACLU, for a representative group of civic, religious, and educational leaders in Chicago in the campaign to have the picture shown publicly here, was brought in especially for today's screening.

Legion Puts French Film in Class C

"Savage Triangle," a French film distributed here by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., was placed in Class C (condemned) in this week's Legion of Decency report.

New 20th-Fox Firm Files With NY State

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., incorporated under the laws of Delaware, July 18, 1952, filed a statement with the Secretary of State that its capital stock is $3,000,000, $1 par. The certificate, executed by W. C. Michel, executive vice-president, stated that the new corporation is "acquiring the assets and good will of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., a New York corporation now in the process of dissolution." One of its purposes is "carrying on the business formerly conducted by that concern."

'Downbeat' Films Don't Pay: Harvey

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. — Rotus Harvey has suggested that producers ask stars who have toured the country and talked with movie-goers what kind of films the public wants. Harvey opined that the consensus of what films pay off at the box-office would not be "somber pictures, psychological dramas, or anything on the 'downbeat'."

"For years exhibitors have been 'yelling' for entertaining pictures and for years have deplored the making of those pictures whose sole aim is to preach, sell an idea, or to spread propaganda.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—The first in a series of 14 re-issue combinations for 1953 has been announced here by Jack Broker, president of Realart Pictures.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez are featured in the initial program, which consists of "Lucy Goes Wild" and "Cuban Pete." Both were released originally by Universal. The other combinations include: "Inside Job" and "Mug Town"; "The Body Vanishes" and "Calling Dr. Death"; "When Johny Comes Marching Home" and "Private Buckeroo"; "Dark Streets of Cairo" and "Chinatown Squad"; "Tiger Island" and "Strange Conquest"; "Song of the Sarong" and "Rhythm of the Islands."

Fear TV Will Injure Theatres in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 8.—Predictions that 15 of Portland's 50 theatres will be closed by television competition and values of the others will be considerably lowered are reflected in figures submitted by Oregon's assessors. Kermit M. Carson, chief deputy assessor for Multnomah County, made these predictions in commenting at the 40th annual assessors' convention on assessment problems in the state's largest county. He said the theatres which will be hardest hit will be those in the suburbs. Also, TV competition in two or three years will likely bring a 20 per cent depreciation in the value of the better downtown theatres, he said.

Portland theatre owners agreed with Carson's forecast and explained that suburban theatres will be hardest hit because "their customers are the people who will be looking at TV."

Says TV Does Not Keep People Home

LONDON, Oct. 8. — "Television's power to keep people at home is much less than has sometimes been suggested," the annual report of British Broadcasting Corp. asserts.

Discussing the increase in time devoted to home viewing on this side, the report says: "Most of this time, it is believed, was found by rearranging home life. Comparatively little of it came from reducing activities outside the home."

The BBC report noted that television reception licenses almost doubled in the past year—from 764,000 to 1,457,000, but at the same time there was a slight decline in the extent to which Britons listened to sound broadcasts.

UK to Make Films For Canadian TV

LONDON, Oct. 8.—High Definition Films will start production of pictures for Canadian television use as soon as the Highbury studio here is ready, Norman Collins, company chief, said on his return from Canada where he conferred with Davidson Duncan, chairman of Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Collins said there is a big market for TV films in Canada because distances there are such that radio links are not practicable and film accordingly is the answer. However, he said, the film programs must be offered at economic prices.

pointed out, but also opposition in old and new forms. "The public will put its money down for whatever interests it, whether it's Bingo, night baseball, stock car races or anything else," he said. "We have survived them all and we will survive television."

He reviewed the effect of TV in the two Canadian test cities, Windsor and Chatham, reporting that business was down until installment payments on TV sets had been completed, after which it returned to something approaching the pre-TV level. The fact that Canada had not been invaded rapidly by TV made it possible to utilize the experience of U. S. operators with it.

"We need a new approach to 'Showmanship,'" Taylor contended, advising that the public ought to be reminded frequently of how little an evening's film entertainment cost, the average admission being 50 cents. All other forms of entertainment were higher and even a TV set costs as much to maintain as the average yearly expenditures on films, he stated.

"Any business that doesn't meet its opposition goes out," he warned. "Restaurants, shoe stores and others meet it. It all boils down to this: Give good entertainment, better service and more comfort and keep telling the public about them. You may not always pack your theatre but you'll stay in business and progress as well," Taylor concluded.

Mutual Rights to Lippert Franchiser

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—An agreement has been concluded between Mutual Productions of the West, headed by Irving Levin, and Al Grubstick, the Robert Lippert franchise holder in San Francisco, for Grubstick to handle the sales and distribution of Mutual features in the San Francisco territory.

Pictures now in release which Grubstick will handle include "Models, Inc." and "Nightmare in Red China."

Dougfair to Cull Museum Footage

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. — Dougfair Corp. has disclosed an arrangement with the American Museum of Natural History, New York, under which Douglas Fairbanks' staff will comb the 2,000,000 feet of film acquired by the museum over the past 30 years, selecting material for theatre and other use.

Fairbanks also will collaborate with the museum in planning future expeditions.

Dual Lesser's 'Red Sea' and 'Tarzan'

Sol Lesser's new documentary, "Under the Red Sea" will be combined with the producer's "Tarzan's Savage Fury" in dual-run houses, Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio sales vice-president, announced.

"Tarzan's Savage Fury" was released last spring to single-run houses, but has been held up for double-bill theatres pending preparation of "Under the Red Sea."

Drive-in Clinic at Mich. Allied Meet

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—A special drive-in theatre program has been arranged by Allied Theatres of Michigan during its annual convention to be held at the Tuller Hotel, Oct. 20-22.

Special displays will be set up in the Variety clubrooms. A chartered bus will leave Oct. 22 with Ted Rogvoy and several exhibitors, for the Bel-Air Drive-in Theatre operated by Charles Komer and Adolph and Irving Goldberg, of Community Theatres.

Rogvoy, theatre architect, will lead a panel discussion on the grounds of the drive-in. A landscape artist, sound man, plumber and a concessionair will be on hand to answer questions. The group will be guests of the Goldbergs and Komer.

Rogers Campaign

Circuit, 31 additional Southern houses have joined the campaign. In addition, more than 100 of Rowley United theatres, Dallas, have enlisted. This brings the Lone Star State participation to nearly 300 theatres, including Interstate.

About 50 Indiana theatres have joined the collection project, according to Howard Rutherford, Loew's manager in Indianapolis. Among the latter city's downtown houses enrolled are the Indiana, Circle, Lyric and Keith's of the Greater Indianapolis Amusement Co. Cantor Amusement's four neighborhood-houses signed up with the M. Marcus circuit. Marc J. Wolf, president of Y. & W. Management Co., gave approval for his 31 houses in Northern Indiana.

Mexican Ruling Saves Heavy Taxes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8. — American and Mexican distributors, headed by Warner Brothers, won from the Federal Supreme Court a decision that it is estimated will save them $396,000 yearly in taxes. The distributors appealed to the court against the ruling of the Ministry of Finance that they must be included for taxation purposes among those subject to the Mercantile Incomes Law. The court agreed with the distributors that the Ministry had erred in thus classifying them as they are commercial not industrial enterprises. The law specifies that it covers industrialists only.

Weinberg Titles 3 New Foreign Films

Herman G. Weinberg has completed the English titles for three new European films, Rossellini's "Flowers of St. Francis," filmed in Italy, and two French pictures, "Forbidden Games," grand prize winner of this year's Venice Film Festival, and "Ladies Hair-Dresser," starring Fernandel.

"Flowers of St. Francis" is a Joseph Burstyn release.

distributor attorneys, will be the one Myers will submit to the Allied national convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19. It is likely that the Theatre Owners of America board, and the boards of the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners, will act on the distributor-approved draft at meetings soon.

"Before an arbitration system is finally set up," Johnston reminded, "it of course must be approved by the court and the Department of Justice as well as by the exhibitor organizations and the boards of directors of each of the participating distributor companies."

Johnston said also that "final agreement on arrangements for financing the system await further discussions with exhibitor representatives." In Johnston's opinion the distributors' favorable action on the draft meant that "setting up of an industry arbitration system moved a major step forward." He said approval of the terms of the draft by the distributors "is in line with exhibitor requests for such action."

TOA 16mm. Poll Starts

Theatre Owners of America bulletins polling member units on the question whether the organization should or should not seek defendant status in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit have been mailed. Dick Pitts, TOA administrative assistant, reported here. The government's complaint labeled TOA a "co-conspirator" but not a defendant.

Motion Picture Daily Feature Reviews

"Because of You"

(Universal-International)

GOOD performances by Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler, together with the marquee value of their names, are the chief assets of this drama of a wrecked marriage and frustrated mother love. The Ketti Frings screenplay, based on a story by Thelma Robinson, is more devious and complex than it is original. What fresh lustre the stars impart to familiar plot situations accounts in large measure for some better than average box-office possibilities. It is not to be overlooked that the plight of a woman who loses both husband and child through misinterpreted transgression is a box-office lure to many another woman. If you have made note of some of Universal's trade advertising of the picture, it will be apparent why many husbands may accompany them when they see it.

Miss Young is sentenced to prison for a loosely defined part in a crime committed by her fiance, Alex Nicol. Released on parole, she becomes a nurse in a veterans' hospital where she meets the wealthy Chandler. They fall in love and are married without Miss Young having confessed her prison background. Nicol returns to force her to drive him to Mexico, presumably on a dope-running mission and, in an accident which occurs when they are pursued by police, both Miss Young and her daughter, played by Gayle Reed, are injured and the story, including Miss Young's background, becomes public.

Chandler gets a divorce and custody of the child, believing that his wife had been keeping a tryst with her ex-lover. Circumstances bring Miss Young and the child together again at the home of Chandler's sister, played by Francis Dee, where the mother, unrecognized by the child, cures her by love and attention of a melancholia. Chandler returns from abroad unexpectedly and, unrelenting, causes Miss Young to leave the household. Eventually, the child's melancholia returns and leads to a reconciliation between Miss Young and Chandler.

Albert J. Cohen produced with a keen sense of economic short-cuts which do not detract from the story-telling. Joseph Pevney's direction places emphasis on what action the story affords and on scenes of courtship and marital intimacies.

Running time, 95 minutes. Adult classification. For November release.

"Operation Secret"

(Warner Brothers)

WORLD WAR II underground operations are the background of this fast-moving, exciting feature that contains considerable action and stars Cornel Wilde, Karl Malden, Steve Cochran and Phyllis Thaxter. It is suspenseful although there is slight variation from anticipated developments. It should fare well at the box-office.

The story by Alvin Josephy and John Twist is revealed in a series of flashbacks beginning with an investigation by the French secret police of the murder during the war of an underground agent. Subsequent disclosures incriminate the guilty ones and show the workings of the group headed by French leader Malden and including the heroic but reckless Wilde, a former French Legionnaire escaped from Nazi imprisonment and in the employ of the U. S. Marines. Miss Thaxter is on hand and supplies the romantic interest with Wilde.

There are many clashes with the Nazis. Steve Cochran performs various villanies, including murder, as a Russian agent intent upon stealing German jet plane plans which the group has captured, and shipping them to Russia. His efforts are foiled and the investigating police, after piecing together the evidence, punish him. Wilde is reunited with Miss Thaxter for the happy romantic ending.

This was produced by Henry Blanke and directed by Lewis Seiler. Harold Medford and James R. Webb wrote the screenplay. Included in the cast are Dan O'Herlihy, Jay Novello, Paul Picerni, Lester Matthews, Dan Riss, Wilton Graff, Harlan Warde, Kenneth Patterson, Gayle Kellogg, Wayne Taylor and William Leicester.

Running time, 108 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 8.

"Desperadoes' Outpost"

ALAN (ROCKY) LANE'S large following should be well pleased with this latest of his series, offering an actionful Western with several novel plot twists. There's plenty of hard riding and fighting to go along with a story about a California mercury mine in the days of the Spanish-American war.

Lane is a U. S. agent who arrives to investigate interruption of the mail service in the area. Although no actual robberies have been committeed, he discovers the continual sabotage of the mail coaches have forced Postmaster Eddy Waller to mortage his home to replace wrecked coaches. Waller's home contains a kitchen sink connected directly to the mine water supply and when Lane accidentally discovers mercury pouring through the faucet he gets onto an attempt to smuggle mercury away from the miltiary by an unscrupulous mine foreman. After plenty of shooting and fighting Lane restores order.

Philip Ford directed and got the maximum action and suspense out of the Arthur Orloff-Albert DeMond story. Lane registers strongly and as usual, Waller provides comedy support. Roy Barcroft, Myron Healey, Lyle Talbot, Claudia Barrett and Lane Bradford are also in the cast.

Running time, 54 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 8.

"The Four Poster"

(Columbia)

A WARM, appealing comedy that deals with familiar marriage crises and is expertly performed by Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison, this Stanley Kramer production, based on the successful Jan de Hartog play currently on Broadway, should do solid box-office business. The stars comprise the entire cast and the bed of the title is the setting of some of the situations, but the performances are so fine and the direction is so skillful that neither of these facts is noted during the viewing. Since the incidents of the film occur over a wide period of years, there are some fine and witty animated interscenes created by United Productions of America that serve well as continuity bridges.

The story opens in 1897 when Harrison and Miss Palmer arrive in their apartment on their wedding night. The prospect of sharing the four-poster causes them much embarrassment from which Harrison recovers first but Miss Palmer finds innumerable excuses for delay, all of which are humorous. Harrison overcomes these obstacles. A year later Harrison is an ex-school teacher whose book of poetry has just come back from the last publisher to reject it. His wife is well along in pregnancy and convinces him to forego the poetry and write about that which he is familiar. A careless Harrison shove results in his running five blocks barefoot for the doctor.

Ten years later Harrison is a successful novelist and lecturer with a swelled head and "another woman" who "understands" him. Miss Palmer's indifference and implication of her own amours causes Harrison to change his mind and reclaim his husband's rights. In 1916 it is Harrison's discovery of a full whiskey bottle hidden in his son's closet that has him in an uproar but it turns out the boy is innocent. Soon after the boy goes off to war and is killed. In the jazz era it is Miss Palmer who feels she must leave and it is a young poet who sets her pining for her youth. Harrison talks her out of it.

In a touching scene that, like the final one, is a departure from the play, Harrison tries to poison Miss Palmer who has contracted a fatal ailment, but can not do it. The last scene is an imaginative bit of fantasy in which Miss Palmer's ghost comes to take Harrison to an afterlife in which their joyous moments are relived.

Allan Scott wrote the screenplay and a good musical score was composed by Dimitri Tiomkin. The use of Garutso Balanced lenses kept the setting in focus even on medium and long shots, abetting the illusion of intimacy. This is a comedy on a sure-fire theme that should attract much of the family trade.

Running time, 103 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"The Raiders"

RICHARD CONTE and Viveca Lindfors star in this superior Western that boasts credible characterizations, good performances, fine photoggraphy, knowing direction by Lesley Selander, and color by Technicolor. Set in lawless California in 1849, this has Conte, a hard-panning gold miner, lose his fortune, his wife and brother to the vicious methods of gun-slingers forcibly building a land empire for powerful Morris Ankrum. He turns outlaw to overthrow Ankrum.

This is made possible by a banding together of all of the land owners whose claims were stolen, under the leadership of Richard Martin. Ankrum wants California to remain independent and not become a part of the Union to gain him even greater power. He runs gold mines full blast to get money to influence Congressional action.

U. S. Marshal William Bishop arrives to look into the outbreak of crime and Ankrum enlists his efforts to capture Conte's gang, who have stolen his horses and held up his stage coaches. The Conte gang sets up an honest land office in opposition to Ankrum's. During a holdup Conte spots one of the murderers of his wife. Threatened with hanging, the desperado confesses the murder and reveals the names of his confederates. Conte leads a raid on the mine and gets the rest of the killers.

Bishop has Ankrum apply for a loan to Conte's company and trails the clerk back to the hideout. Conte escapes the ensuing ambush and in attempting to force a confession from Ankrum personally, kills him in self-defense. Conte is convicted at his trial but is freed as California becomes a state and general amnesty is declared. Conte chooses Miss Lindfors at the fade-out instead of Ankrum's daughter, Barbara Britton.

This was neatly produced by William Alland and the above-par screenplay is by Pollie James and Lillie Hayward, from a story by Lyn Crost Kennedy. Also in the supporting cast are Hugh O'Brien, Palmer Lee, Dennis Weaver, Margaret Field, John Kellog, Lane Bradford and Francis MacDonald.

Running time, 80 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Italians Told Code Helped Block Censors

Self-Regulation Need Explained by Spaeth

Tribute to the Hollywood Production code as an instrument which blocked the growth of "political censorship" in the United States was paid here yesterday by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, motion picture chairman of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Spaeth's address was the highlight of a luncheon at the Hotel Plaza given by the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, claiming to represent 40,000,000 American clubwomen, in honor of the Italian film industry. It was delivered by Mrs. Jessie M. Bader, national chairman of the Protestant Motion Picture Council, due to Spaeth's illness.

In his observations, Spaeth explored the historical background of the Code, which he said, "reflects the composite entertainment taste and moral standards of our complex population." He added that it would be "consum-

Report Continued Gross Upswing

Additional reports of an upswing in box-office grosses are in from Cincinnati, Louisville and Hartford, Conn.

From Cincinnati, it was reported that the uptrend in grosses at first-run houses, which became manifest there several weeks ago, is continuing unabated.

Louisville exhibitors and those in neighboring areas were said to be more optimistic currently than they have been in a long time regarding future business.

A survey of key cities throughout the Connecticut area by the Bridgeport Herald shows that motion pictures are "making a strong comeback."

14 Technicolor Films In '39; 185 Now

Mayer Again Puts On COMPO Harness

Arthur L. Mayer, former executive vice-president of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, yesterday informed the industry agency that he was ready again to contribute his time and effort to the advancement of its aims and purposes. Mayer recently completed a book which will be published shortly by Simon & Schuster.

COMPO promptly accepted Mayer's offer, and in consequence he will discuss the organization in an address before the Film Council of Springfield, Mass., on Oct. 16.

25 States Now in Rogers Campaign

Theatres in 25 states are now participating in the Will Rogers Hospital fund drive.

Signing up for the Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can-on-candy-stand project every theatre in the state of Rhode Island is the goal of Maurice Druker, manager of Loew's State in Providence. Druker yesterday sent into the fund headquarters names of 22 additional Rhode Island theatres. There are about 63 houses in the state.

With the enrollment by Henry G. Plitt of the Paramount Gulf Theatres

COMPANIES 'OK' ARBITRATION

Distributor Revisions Set; Now Goes to Exhibitors Who Are Free to Suggest Changes; Republic, Monogram Reservation

Following a meeting here yesterday of distributor presidents, other top executives and attorneys, Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, reported they approved an industry arbitration system draft which will be submitted promptly to exhibitor organization representatives for action.

The draft will not be handed to the exhibitor representatives on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis, it was emphasized. Said Johnston: "The door is open for changes in the draft which may be requested by exhibitors."

Any proposed changes in the draft on which distributor attorneys have worked steadily during the past few weeks "will be fully considered by the distributing companies so that an arbitration system can be established as speedily as possible," Johnston said.

Participants in yesterday's meeting freely admitted that distributors' approval of the draft was not reached without a few "uprisings" against some of its provisions. It was pointed out that Monogram and Republic still want Department of Justice assurances that they will not be bound by the industry anti-trust suit decrees if they become signatories to any arbitration system agreement.

The distributors were reported to be satisfied that they have complied with the request of Abram F. Myers, Allied States Association general counsel, "for something I can react to and submit to my organization." It is expected the distributors' draft, which actually is a distributor-amended version of a document drawn up originally by exhibitor as well as

Cox, Wesco 'V-P,' Signs 5-Year Pact

Los Angeles, Oct. 8.—A new employment contract covering the period Dec. 1, 1952 to Dec. 31, 1957 has been signed by Henry C. Cox as Wesco Theatres vice-president, it was learned here yesterday.

Under the agreement, which replaces one for the period Nov., 1945 to Nov., 1952, Cox will receive a weekly salary of $1,000, plus weekly expenses of $100. He makes his headquarters in Los Angeles, and any expenses for traveling on business are to be repaid apart from the regular allowance.

In the event of the executive's death during the term of the contract, his wife, Mrs. Jesse L. Cox, will receive $300 weekly for five years. If, for reasons of health, Cox should be unable to perform his duties and the

Says Video Is Spurring Film Theatres' Gains

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The coming of radio helped bring "talkies" and the challenge of TV is helping to speed the arrival of third dimensional films, according to N. A. Taylor, president of 20th Century Theatres.

N. A. Taylor

"I am excited at what is happening and what can happen," he told those participating in the last of a series of company regional meetings held in a number of Ontario cities.

"You can't sit on your status quo," Taylor advised his managers, executives and head office department heads. "This business cannot remain static. That fact is the life-blood of our business. And if you believe that, say so. When a man asks you if television will put you out of business, tell him that his grandchildren will be going to the movies. Talk on the upbeat, not the downbeat."

Taylor, whose company operates 70 theatres in Ontario and recently added several in the West, declared: "If you don't think that the motion picture theatre will survive television, then now is the time to get out of it for your own sake and for the sake of your families," he advised, adding: "I'm sticking."

Not only change was normal, he

The mail came from many sections of the country as well as from nearby.

The public response has extended the advance sale indefinitely. It had been set originally for an eight-week minimum.

Photoplay Poll Won By Hunter, Nelson

Photoplay Magazine's annual "Choose Your Stars" poll has been won by Lori Nelson, 19-year-old Universal-International actress, and Tab Hunter, 21-year-old ice skater who has appeared in only one picture. The winners and the runners-up were honored at a Photoplay reception in Hollywood last week-end at which Tyrone Power officiated.

Fred Sammis, vice-president of McFadden Publications, and Photoplay editor Tony Gray attended the event. It was disclosed that Miss Nelson triumphed over the nearest actress chosen by a margin of three to one, one of the highest ever made. Past winners of the poll have usually attained Hollywood stardom. In the last two years the winners were Mitzi Gaynor and Anthony Dexter, and Sally Forrest and Howard Keel.

List Runners-up

Runners-up in the poll for the feminine stars were Ursula Theiss, Elaine Stewart, Hildegarde Neff, Dawn Addams, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Barbara Ruick, Joan Taylor, Helene Stanley, Joan Rice and Beverly Michaels. Male runners-up were Arthur Franz, Oskar Werner, Johnny Stewart, Robert Horton, Keith Andes, Michael Moore, Gene Barry, John Forsyth, Rusty Tamblyn and Dean Miller.

Intermountain's Ricketson Before FCC on Video Bid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Frank Ricketson, president of Fox Intermountain Theatres, told the Federal Communications Commission today that he was never named as a defendant in an anti-trust suit.

Ricketson declared that he didn't believe he had ever been an officer of a company named as an anti-trust defendant and said that to the best of his knowledge Fox Intermountain had never been an anti-trust defendant.

Ricketson made these statements in testimony at an FCC hearing on two applicants competing for a television station on channel 7 in Denver. Ricketson is an officer of Aladdin Radio and Television Co., one of the applicants, and holds 13.7 percent of the company's stock. The competing applicant is Denver Television Co., in which the principal stockholders are Harris and John Wolfberg.

Asked by counsel for Denver Television if Fox Intermountain had ever violated the 1940 consent decree, Ricketson replied that it had not. He admitted that the company had entered into franchise deals with Columbia, Universal and Republic after the 1940 consent decree, but said that his counsel had advised him such franchise deals were legal. Ricketson's attorney explained that the 1940 decree prohibited franchise deals with major companies, but did not outlaw them with non-majors.

Ricketson said that Columbia, Universal and Republic were all "small, struggling companies" at the time, and that it was Fox Intermountain's policy to help such companies in their financial "problems."

Ricketson told hearing examiner James Cunningham that he foresaw the day when motion pictures "would complement" television and television would "complement" motion pictures.

Schine Theatres Bid for TV Station in Rochester

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Schine Chain Theatres have applied to the Federal Communications Commission for a television station on channel 27 in Rochester, N. Y., the FCC announced today.

Gardner at MGM 'Frisco Exchange

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Sam Gardner, assistant M-G-M West Coast sales manager with headquarters in Los Angeles, will remain at the M-G-M exchange here until a successor to the late manager L. C. Wingham has been appointed.

Charles Reagen, M-G-M sales head, is expected to arrive in San Francisco from New York this month to make an appointment.

B'nai B'rith Award To Jimmy Durante

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Jimmy Durante will be honored by the B'nai B'rith lodges of America Sunday, Nov. 16 on a special radio program to be broadcast coast-to-coast by National Broadcasting. The citation to be presented to Durante will read: "For his outstanding efforts in behalf of brotherhood and for his fine work in promoting good will between all faiths."

Code Helped Block Censors

mate impudence" to impose the Code on foreign producers, but that they should understand the reasons for self-censorship in the United States.

Spaeth pointed out that between 1926 and 1940, 42 proposals for Federal censorship of films were introduced in the United States and in the House of Representatives. "None passed," he added, "and no new state effective censorship was enacted into law after 1922."

Credit for this accomplishment, Spaeth said, is due to the industry's voluntary code and national organizations, such as the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, which previews new films and acquaints its membership with their content.

Spaeth called the current censorship laws of six states and some 200 cities "repugnant" to American producers and the American people. He also paid tribute, in conjunction with the "Salute to Italian Films" week, to the many Italian films imported into this country. He also told his audience that Americans were not interested in "propaganda" films.

Mrs. Arthur Mayer, acting chairman of the American Jewish Committee, presented a scroll, acclaiming the renaissance of Italian films to Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries.

Representatives of the Italian industry attending the luncheon included: Renato Gualino, general director of the Italian Film Export organization; Nicoli de Pirro, director general of the Entertainment Industry Bureau of the Italian Government; Luigi Zampa, director; Dino de Laurentiis, producer; Sylvana Mangano, Renato Rascel and Sondra Pallavichini.

Zampa told the gathering of his plans to direct a film in New York about a family of Italian extraction, a film, he added, which would strengthen the ties between the two countries.

Foreign Press Critics Honor Italian Industry

The Foreign Language Press Film Critics Circle last night presented to the Italian film industry its scroll of "Highest Merit" for "the deep entertainment satisfaction they have given peoples throughout the world, and in acknowledgment of the contributions that Italian films have made towards understanding among nations."

The presentation was made from the stage of the Little Carnegie Theatre, prior to the performance of "Umberto D," the new De Sica film, one of the seven festival films of "Salute to Italian Films Week." The scroll was presented to Nicola de Pirro, director general of the Italian Government's Entertainment Industries Bureau by Sigmund Gottlober, executive secretary of the Foreign Language Press Critics Circle.

20th-Fox Executives Fete Italian Officials

Twentieth Century-Fox will fete representatives of the Italian industry in conjunction with "Salute to Italian Films Week," at the Latin Quarter here tomorrow night.

Hosting the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Murray Silverstone, Miss Marilyn Silverstone, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Einfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Silverstone, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Whelan.

Balaban Hosts Italians At Supper This Evening

Barney Balaban, Paramount Pictures president, will be host to the visiting Italian film delegation at a private supper this evening at the Sherry Netherland Hotel here.

Screen 'Miracle' in Chi. Reversal Bid

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—"The Miracle," banned by the Chicago police censor board for exhibition here, is being screened today for Mayor Kennally and corporation counsel John J. Mortimer by the American Civil Liberties Union in an attempt to have the Mayor reverse the censor board's decision, which was upheld by Police Commissioner O'Connor when the ACLU first appealed the banning.

The print, which had been sent back to New York after a private invitational showing sponsored by the ACLU, for a representative group of civic, religious, and educational leaders in Chicago in the campaign to have the picture shown publicly here, was brought in especially for today's screening.

Legion Puts French Film in Class C

"Savage Triangle," a French film distributed here by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., was placed in Class C (condemned) in this week's Legion of Decency report.

The report also places the following four films in Class B "Captive Women," RKO Radio; "Limelight," United Artists; "Father's Dilemma" (Italian), Arthur Davis Associates, and "Night Without Sleep," 20th Century-Fox.

New 20th-Fox Firm Files With NY State

ALBANY, N. Y.,Oct. 8.—Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., incorporated under the laws of Delaware, July 18, 1952, filed a statement with the Secretary of State that its capital stock is $3,000,000, $1 par. The certificate, executed by W. C. Michel, executive vice-president, stated that the new corporation is "acquiring the assets and good will of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., a New York corporation now in the process of dissolution." One of its purposes is "carrying on the business formerly conducted by that concern."

'Downbeat' Films Don't Pay: Harvey

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. — Rotus Harvey has suggested that producers ask stars who have toured the country and talked with movie-goers what kind of films the public wants. Harvey opined that the consensus of what films pay off at the box-office would not be "somber pictures, psychological dramas, or anything on the 'downbeat'."

"For years exhibitors have been 'yelling' for entertaining pictures and for years have deplored the making of those pictures whose sole aim is to preach, sell an idea, or to spread propaganda.

14 Reissue Duals Set by Realart

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—The first in a series of 14 re-issue combinations for 1953 has been announced here by Jack Broker, president of Realart Pictures.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez are featured in the initial program, which consists of "Lucy Goes Wild" and "Cuban Pete." Both were released originally by Universal. The other combinations include: "Inside Job" and "Mug Town"; "The Body Vanishes" and "Calling Dr. Death"; "When Johny Comes Marching Home" and "Private Buckeroo"; "Dark Streets of Cairo" and "Chinatown Squad"; "Tiger Island" and "Strange Conquest"; "Song of the Sarong" and "Rhythm of the Islands."

Fear TV Will Injure Theatres in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 8.—Predictions that 15 of Portland's 50 theatres will be closed by television competition and values of the others will be considerably lowered are reflected in figures submitted by Oregon's assessors. Kermit M. Carson, chief deputy assessor for Multnomah County, made these predictions in commenting at the 40th annual assessors' convention on assessment problems in the state's largest county. He said the theatres which will be hardest hit will be those in the suburbs. Also, TV competition in two or three years will likely bring a 20 per cent depreciation in the value of the better downtown theatres, he said.

Portland theatre owners agreed with Carson's forecast and explained that suburban theatres will be hardest hit because "their customers are the people who will be looking at TV."

Says TV Does Not Keep People Home

LONDON, Oct. 8. — "Television's power to keep people at home is much less than has sometimes been suggested," the annual report of British Broadcasting Corp. asserts.

Discussing the increase in time devoted to home viewing on this side, the report says: "Most of this time, it is believed, was found by rearranging home life. Comparatively little of it came from reducing activities outside the home."

The BBC report noted that television reception licenses almost doubled in the past year—from 764,000 to 1,457,000, but at the same time there was a slight decline in the extent to which Britons listened to sound broadcasts.

UK to Make Films For Canadian TV

LONDON, Oct. 8.—High Definition Films will start production of pictures for Canadian television use as soon as the Highbury studio here is ready, Norman Collins, company chief, said on his return from Canada where he conferred with Davidson Duncan, chairman of Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Collins said there is a big market for TV films in Canada because distances there are such that radio links are not practicable and film accordingly is the answer. However, he said, the film programs must be offered at economic prices.

TV Spurring

pointed out, but also opposition in old and new forms. "The public will put its money down for whatever interests it, whether it's Bingo, night baseball, stock car races or anything else," he said. "We have survived them all and we will survive television."

He reviewed the effect of TV in the two Canadian test cities, Windsor and Chatham, reporting that business was down until installment payments on TV sets had been completed, after which it returned to something approaching the pre-TV level. The fact that Canada had not been invaded rapidly by TV made it possible to utilize the experience of U. S. operators with it.

"We need a new approach to 'Showmanship,'" Taylor contended, advising that the public ought to be reminded frequently of how little an evening's film entertainment cost, the average admission being 50 cents. All other forms of entertainment were higher and even a TV set costs as much to maintain as the average yearly expenditures on films, he stated.

"Any business that doesn't meet its opposition goes out," he warned. "Restaurants, shoe stores and others meet it. It all boils down to this: Give good entertainment, better service and more comfort and keep telling the public about them. You may not always pack your theatre but you'll stay in business and progress as well," Taylor concluded.

Mutual Rights to Lippert Franchiser

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—An agreement has been concluded between Mutual Productions of the West, headed by Irving Levin, and Al Grubstick, the Robert Lippert franchise holder in San Francisco, for Grubstick to handle the sales and distribution of Mutual features in the San Francisco territory.

Pictures now in release which Grubstick will handle include "Models, Inc." and "Nightmare in Red China."

Dougfair to Cull Museum Footage

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. — Dougfair Corp. has disclosed an arrangement with the American Museum of Natural History, New York, under which Douglas Fairbanks' staff will comb the 2,000,000 feet of film acquired by the museum over the past 30 years, selecting material for theatre and other use.

Fairbanks also will collaborate with the museum in planning future expeditions.

Dual Lesser's 'Red Sea' and 'Tarzan'

Sol Lesser's new documentary, "Under the Red Sea" will be combined with the producer's "Tarzan's Savage Fury" in dual-run houses, Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio sales vice-president, announced.

"Tarzan's Savage Fury" was released last spring to single-run houses, but has been held up for double-bill theatres pending preparation of "Under the Red Sea."

Drive-in Clinic at Mich. Allied Meet

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—A special drive-in theatre program has been arranged by Allied Theatres of Michigan during its annual convention to be held at the Tuller Hotel, Oct. 20-22.

Special displays will be set up in the Variety clubrooms. A chartered bus will leave Oct. 22 with Ted Rogvoy and several exhibitors, for the Bel-Air Drive-in Theatre operated by Charles Komer and Adolph and Irving Goldberg, of Community Theatres.

Rogvoy, theatre architect, will lead a panel discussion on the grounds of the drive-in. A landscape artist, sound man, plumber and a concessionair will be on hand to answer questions. The group will be guests of the Goldbergs and Komer.

Rogers Campaign

Circuit, 31 additional Southern houses have joined the campaign. In addition, more than 100 of Rowley United theatres, Dallas, have enlisted. This brings the Lone Star State participation to nearly 300 theatres, including Interstate.

About 50 Indiana theatres have joined the collection project, according to Howard Rutherford, Loew's manager in Indianapolis. Among the latter city's downtown houses enrolled are the Indiana, Circle, Lyric and Keith's of the Greater Indianapolis Amusement Co. Cantor Amusement's four neighborhood-houses signed up with the M. Marcus circuit. Marc J. Wolf, president of Y. & W. Management Co., gave approval for his 31 houses in Northern Indiana.

Mexican Ruling Saves Heavy Taxes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8. — American and Mexican distributors, headed by Warner Brothers, won from the Federal Supreme Court a decision that it is estimated will save them $396,000 yearly in taxes. The distributors appealed to the court against the ruling of the Ministry of Finance that they must be included for taxation purposes among those subject to the Mercantile Incomes Law. The court agreed with the distributors that the Ministry had erred in thus classifying them as they are commercial not industrial enterprises. The law specifies that it covers industrialists only.

Weinberg Titles 3 New Foreign Films

Herman G. Weinberg has completed the English titles for three new European films, Rossellini's "Flowers of St. Francis," filmed in Italy, and two French pictures, "Forbidden Games," grand prize winner of this year's Venice Film Festival, and "Ladies Hair-Dresser," starring Fernandel.

"Flowers of St. Francis" is a Joseph Burstyn release.

distributor attorneys, will be the one Myers will submit to the Allied national convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19. It is likely that the Theatre Owners of America board, and the boards of the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners, will act on the distributor-approved draft at meetings soon.

"Before an arbitration system is finally set up," Johnston reminded, "it of course must be approved by the court and the Department of Justice as well as by the exhibitor organizations and the boards of directors of each of the participating distributor companies."

Johnston said also that "final agreement on arrangements for financing the system await further discussions with exhibitor representatives." In Johnston's opinion the distributors' favorable action on the draft meant that "setting up of an industry arbitration system moved a major step forward." He said approval of the terms of the draft by the distributors "is in line with exhibitor requests for such action."

Motion Picture Daily Feature Reviews

"Because of You"

GOOD performances by Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler, together with the marquee value of their names, are the chief assets of this drama of a wrecked marriage and frustrated mother love. The Ketti Frings screenplay, based on a story by Thelma Robinson, is more devious and complex than it is original. What fresh lustre the stars impart to familiar plot situations accounts in large measure for some better than average box-office possibilities. It is not to be overlooked that the plight of a woman who loses both husband and child through misinterpreted transgression is a box-office lure to many another woman. If you have made note of some of Universal's trade advertising of the picture, it will be apparent why many husbands may accompany them when they see it.

Miss Young is sentenced to prison for a loosely defined part in a crime committed by her fiance, Alex Nicol. Released on parole, she becomes a nurse in a veterans' hospital where she meets the wealthy Chandler. They fall in love and are married without Miss Young having confessed her prison background. Nicol returns to force her to drive him to Mexico, presumably on a dope-running mission and, in an accident which occurs when they are pursued by police, both Miss Young and her daughter, played by Gayle Reed, are injured and the story, including Miss Young's background, becomes public.

Chandler gets a divorce and custody of the child, believing that his wife had been keeping a tryst with her ex-lover. Circumstances bring Miss Young and the child together again at the home of Chandler's sister, played by Francis Dee, where the mother, unrecognized by the child, cures her by love and attention of a melancholia. Chandler returns from abroad unexpectedly and, unrelenting, causes Miss Young to leave the household. Eventually, the child's melancholia returns and leads to a reconciliation between Miss Young and Chandler.

Albert J. Cohen produced with a keen sense of economic short-cuts which do not detract from the story-telling. Joseph Pevney's direction places emphasis on what action the story affords and on scenes of courtship and marital intimacies.

Running time, 95 minutes. Adult classification. For November release.

"Operation Secret"

(Warner Brothers)

WORLD WAR II underground operations are the background of this fast-moving, exciting feature that contains considerable action and stars Cornel Wilde, Karl Malden, Steve Cochran and Phyllis Thaxter. It is suspenseful although there is slight variation from anticipated developments. It should fare well at the box-office.

The story by Alvin Josephy and John Twist is revealed in a series of flashbacks beginning with an investigation by the French secret police of the murder during the war of an underground agent. Subsequent disclosures incriminate the guilty ones and show the workings of the group headed by French leader Malden and including the heroic but reckless Wilde, a former French Legionnaire escaped from Nazi imprisonment and in the employ of the U. S. Marines. Miss Thaxter is on hand and supplies the romantic interest with Wilde.

There are many clashes with the Nazis. Steve Cochran performs various villanies, including murder, as a Russian agent intent upon stealing German jet plane plans which the group has captured, and shipping them to Russia. His efforts are foiled and the investigating police, after piecing together the evidence, punish him. Wilde is reunited with Miss Thaxter for the happy romantic ending.

This was produced by Henry Blanke and directed by Lewis Seiler. Harold Medford and James R. Webb wrote the screenplay. Included in the cast are Dan O'Herlihy, Jay Novello, Paul Picerni, Lester Matthews, Dan Riss, Wilton Graff, Harlan Warde, Kenneth Patterson, Gayle Kellogg, Wayne Taylor and William Leicester.

Running time, 108 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 8.

"Desperadoes' Outpost"

ALAN (ROCKY) LANE'S large following should be well pleased with this latest of his series, offering an actionful Western with several novel plot twists. There's plenty of hard riding and fighting to go along with a story about a California mercury mine in the days of the Spanish-American war.

Lane is a U. S. agent who arrives to investigate interruption of the mail service in the area. Although no actual robberies have been committeed, he discovers the continual sabotage of the mail coaches have forced Postmaster Eddy Waller to mortage his home to replace wrecked coaches. Waller's home contains a kitchen sink connected directly to the mine water supply and when Lane accidentally discovers mercury pouring through the faucet he gets onto an attempt to smuggle mercury away from the miltiary by an unscrupulous mine foreman. After plenty of shooting and fighting Lane restores order.

Philip Ford directed and got the maximum action and suspense out of the Arthur Orloff-Albert DeMond story. Lane registers strongly and as usual, Waller provides comedy support. Roy Barcroft, Myron Healey, Lyle Talbot, Claudia Barrett and Lane Bradford are also in the cast.

Running time, 54 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 8.

"The Four Poster"

(Columbia)

A WARM, appealing comedy that deals with familiar marriage crises and is expertly performed by Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison, this Stanley Kramer production, based on the successful Jan de Hartog play currently on Broadway, should do solid box-office business. The stars comprise the entire cast and the bed of the title is the setting of some of the situations, but the performances are so fine and the direction is so skillful that neither of these facts is noted during the viewing. Since the incidents of the film occur over a wide period of years, there are some fine and witty animated interscenes created by United Productions of America that serve well as continuity bridges.

The story opens in 1897 when Harrison and Miss Palmer arrive in their apartment on their wedding night. The prospect of sharing the four-poster causes them much embarrassment from which Harrison recovers first but Miss Palmer finds innumerable excuses for delay, all of which are humorous. Harrison overcomes these obstacles. A year later Harrison is an ex-school teacher whose book of poetry has just come back from the last publisher to reject it. His wife is well along in pregnancy and convinces him to forego the poetry and write about that which he is familiar. A careless Harrison shove results in his running five blocks barefoot for the doctor.

Ten years later Harrison is a successful novelist and lecturer with a swelled head and "another woman" who "understands" him. Miss Palmer's indifference and implication of her own amours causes Harrison to change his mind and reclaim his husband's rights. In 1916 it is Harrison's discovery of a full whiskey bottle hidden in his son's closet that has him in an uproar but it turns out the boy is innocent. Soon after the boy goes off to war and is killed. In the jazz era it is Miss Palmer who feels she must leave and it is a young poet who sets her pining for her youth. Harrison talks her out of it.

In a touching scene that, like the final one, is a departure from the play, Harrison tries to poison Miss Palmer who has contracted a fatal ailment, but can not do it. The last scene is an imaginative bit of fantasy in which Miss Palmer's ghost comes to take Harrison to an afterlife in which their joyous moments are relived.

Allan Scott wrote the screenplay and a good musical score was composed by Dimitri Tiomkin. The use of Garutso Balanced lenses kept the setting in focus even on medium and long shots, abetting the illusion of intimacy. This is a comedy on a sure-fire theme that should attract much of the family trade.

Running time, 103 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"The Raiders"

RICHARD CONTE and Viveca Lindfors star in this superior Western that boasts credible characterizations, good performances, fine photography, knowing direction by Lesley Selander, and color by Technicolor. Set in lawless California in 1849, this has Conte, a hard-panning gold miner, lose his fortune, his wife and brother to the vicious methods of gun-slingers forcibly building a land empire for powerful Morris Ankrum. He turns outlaw to overthrow Ankrum.

This is made possible by a banding together of all of the land owners whose claims were stolen, under the leadership of Richard Martin. Ankrum wants California to remain independent and not become a part of the Union to gain him even greater power. He runs gold mines full blast to get money to influence Congressional action.

U. S. Marshal William Bishop arrives to look into the outbreak of crime and Ankrum enlists his efforts to capture Conte's gang, who have stolen his horses and held up his stage coaches. The Conte gang sets up an honest land office in opposition to Ankrum's. During a holdup Conte spots one of the murderers of his wife. Threatened with hanging, the desperado confesses the murder and reveals the names of his confederates. Conte leads a raid on the mine and gets the rest of the killers.

Bishop has Ankrum apply for a loan to Conte's company and trails the clerk back to the hideout. Conte escapes the ensuing ambush and in attempting to force a confession from Ankrum personally, kills him in self-defense. Conte is convicted at his trial but is freed as California becomes a state and general amnesty is declared. Conte chooses Miss Lindfors at the fade-out instead of Ankrum's daughter, Barbara Britton.

This was neatly produced by William Alland and the above-par screenplay is by Pollie James and Lillie Hayward, from a story by Lyn Crost Kennedy. Also in the supporting cast are Hugh O'Brien, Palmer Lee, Dennis Weaver, Margaret Field, John Kellog, Lane Bradford and Francis MacDonald.

Running time, 80 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Arbitration Okay Greeted With Caution

Optimism Is Tempered by Draft Change Prospects

Exhibition representatives and distribution officials, by now accustomed to the "off again—on again" reports during the past year or so concerning prospects for an industry system of arbitration, yesterday refused to become more than mildly elated about the fact that distribution heads have approved an arbitration draft and will submit it to exhibition representatives for action.

While conceding that distribution's action could safely be called a step toward the establishment of a system, observers reminded that how long or short a step this was would not be determined until after Allied and the Theatre Owners of America have indicated whether one or both want further changes made in the draft.

At the recent TOA convention in

by MARTIN QUIGLEY

THE coveted goal of progress and betterment in the affairs of the industry faces a formidable challenge due to the hopeless obsolescence of large numbers of the theatres that seek to cater to the leisure hours of the theatre-going public.

At one time in the history of the industry it could well be said that the motion picture theatre was an acknowledged symbol of attractiveness, comfort and service. The physical environment offered to patrons was a magnet to which millions were drawn to revel in an unaccustomed luxury and comfort. The theatre was a precious escape from the dinginess of the work-a-day world and even, in many cases, from a pervading drabness of the surroundings of the home.

No such condition continues generally as the rule of theatre environment. It is true indeed that the nation boasts of thousands of beautifully designed, appointed and functioning theatre structures which serve a great public attractively and efficiently in cities, towns and even in villages. But in sharp contrast to such play-houses there are far too many, dotting the whole map of the country, which, in effect, are dragging their feet in the industry's march of progress and betterment. Such theatres have been for some time and are continuing to be a darkening shadow on the prestige of motion picture entertainment.

The plain fact is that large numbers of the nation's theatres are out-dated and out-moded and are no longer able to allure and delight the amusement-seeking public. It is to be realized that much of the existing exhibition plant in the United States was constructed in the Nineteen Twenties; a considerable portion of it is a carry-over from even earlier decades. Some of it consists of what was merely emergency adaptation of structures which were originally designed for the stage play and for

Decree Doesn't Cover Corwin's Theatre Ties

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Justice Department sees almost no major problems growing out of the sale of Howard Hughes' RKO Pictures stock to the syndicate headed by Ralph Stolkin as long as Hughes' RKO Theatres stock remains in a trusteeship, a Department official said today.

He would not say whether the Department would regard it as a violation of the RKO consent decree if Hughes were to recover his RKO Theatres stock from the Irving Trust Company, which now holds it. Such an act would pose problems which the Department would have to study, he said, but added that the Department felt there was "no problem" as long as the theatre stock remains in trust.

'Take 16mm. TV Fight to Public,' Exhibitor Urges

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—Take the fight against the government's suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television direct to the people by pointing out to them that, if successful, it will only perpetuate TV programs of inferior quality, the current bulletin of Allied Theatre Owners of Indiana reports one of its members is urging.

"Most exhibitors attack the government suit on the basis of its unfairness to the motion picture industry," the ATOI bulletin observes. Here is the suggestion for "an attack from a new angle—how the public will be adversely affected if the government is successful:

"Why doesn't our industry get smart, quit howling with pain and appeal directly to the American people pointing out the manner in which television network monopolies have conspired with the politicians in big government to keep fresh, new entertainment off TV screens?

"By forcing the sale of old movies of the 16mm. 'free show' variety to TV, the set owners face the inevitable prospect of sitting at home night after night and viewing entertainment they already have seen at movie theatres. Not only that, but the reception will be poor and the TV screen too small to capture vividly all the action.

"The public has cried long and loud about the ancient films now being shown over TV. If big government and their conspirators, the TV network moguls, win this suit, TV set owners might as well face the prospect of fewer and fewer live shows, new faces and fresh entertainment. They will see hour and hour upon end of old movies interrupted every 15 minutes with a hopped-up huckster selling beer, wine and cigarettes.

"Why doesn't big government outlaw old, second-run movies on TV and force the TV network monopolies to give the American people more live, new programs? Why can't the TV moguls dig down in their pockets, fat with big advertising coin, and produce their own shows with their own talent and their own money?"

Several months ago United Artists agreed to disclose terms of winning bids when requested to do so.

began almost as soon as the company was organized." One major reason for such thinking, Schary pointed out, "is that Hollywood has always recognized the need for a world market for its films."

Paying tribute to Italian films, he called upon Italian film-makers to emulate the international flavor of Hollywood, which hires talent from all over the world, by hiring artists from other parts of the globe to work on and in Italian films. ## Allied Artists Sales Drive Is Extended

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Allied Artists vice-president Harold Mirisch today announced a nine-week extension of the Morey Goldstein testimonial sales drive, which now will begin with the week ending Nov. 7 and run through Jan. 30.

Better Theatres!

vaudeville and never rightly suited the purposes of the Screen. Others were designed and arranged by architects and showmen who were just taking their first, faltering steps in the art and business of theatre design and arrangement.

IN the intervening years architecture and the decorative arts have changed drastically with respect to every type of building. Besides general influences from these changes theatre design itself has developed methods by which the physical provisions for motion picture exhibition can be made more efficient and effective. The dominant note today is a basic approach to the problem of theatre design under which the objective is the creation of a smoothly operating exhibition machine with an environment that expresses a community recreational service.

There is no doubt that the obsolete character of a substantial part of the American exhibition plant has been a critical factor in tipping the scale of popular interest in favor of competing forms of amusements. There is likewise no doubt that many excellent motion picture productions, exhibited in the frame of a theatre building that is obsolete, with tawdry and old-fashioned appointments and time-worn equipment, have gone to bat with two strikes already called.

Several important circuits have been conspicuous laggards in the maintenance and modernization of physical properties. In the case of one group of forty theatres there has been no new purchase of projection equipment since 1938. Another circuit, selling a theatre to an independent operator, left booth equipment that received an allowance of just $100 on the purchase of new equipment. But failure to keep abreast of the march of time has not been confined to any particular category of theatre operation. Both independent operation, large and small, as well as circuit operation are to be found in that unenviable company.

THE condition herein referred to is well-known to all informed persons. The unpleasant facts of the situation have long been either glossed over or just ignored. The time, however, has definitely arrived at which plans should be put in work to provide re-construction, remodelling, re-decorating and re-equipment that are imperatively needed. In some situations the problem may only be solved by a completely new structure, perhaps constructed at a new and more logical location.

There is of course an alternative, but it is none other than the exceedingly distasteful one of surrender to the march of progress—an acknowledgment of inglorious defeat. In a poorly equipped operation, to point to competing attractions as wholly accounting for poor business is an excuse, not a reason.

But the acceptance of no such alternative is to be expected. The spirit of enterprise, courage and determination that made the exhibition branch of the American industry the greatest theatrical institution in the history of entertainment is not dead. It has merely been heavily burdened and its pace slowed by a multitude of difficulties in the past decade of war and post-war disturbances in the nation's economy.

But the time is here for realistic appraisal of what the public now expects from the motion picture theatre and then—resolute action to put the theatre back in the running against whatever competing attractions may appear.

a few facets about the whole situation" on which the Department will have to inform itself, but declared that "there is not too much that would have to be upset with regard to essential developments."

Corwin A Question

One question which the Department is currently studying, he said, is the fact that Sherrill Corwin, who will head the RKO studio for the new controlling group, has large theatre interests in Southern California. If the company involved in the stock transaction were Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox or Loew's, he explained, there would be "an easy answer" to that question. The Consent decrees of those companies, he pointed out, contain a provision prohibiting anyone with an interest in the exhibition phase of the industry from retaining an interest in the production-distribution phase, and anyone with an interest in production-distribution from holding an interest in exhibition—even though the two interests may not be in the same company.

The RKO decree has no such provision, he said, and the Department must therefore study Corwin's dual role.

Boasberg General Sales Manager of RKO Radio

Succeeds Mochrie, Resigned; Branson Is Named Assistant General Sales Manager; Zimmerman, Pimstein Are Advanced

Charles Boasberg, for the past five years North-South division manager for RKO Radio, was appointed general sales manager of the company, succeeding Robert Mochrie, resigned, on Friday, the company's new board of directors announced.

Moving swiftly in the executive realignment of the company following the appointment last week of Arnold Picker as executive vice-president, the new RKO Radio management also announced the following changes:

Walter Branson, RKO Radio Western sales manager, was named assistant general sales manager, a new post;

William Zimmerman, formerly assistant to Mochrie, was named head of the legal department, succeeding J. Miller Walker, resigned;

Harry Pimstein of the home office legal staff was named assistant to Arnold Grant, chairman of the board;

Richard Condon, former publicity director for 20th Century-Fox and Walt Disney Prod., was named national director of advertising, publicity and exploitation, a post which has been vacant for the past four years. (See separate story.)

Don Prince, publicity manager, has resigned. The post will be filled when Condon takes over in about two weeks. The company's statement said: "Reorganization of said departments (advertising, publicity and exploitation) and the people therein will

SMPTE Engineers Seek to Heighten Screen Brightness

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—In a report made public over the weekend The Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers asked for the manufacture of light measuring instruments which would make possible the maintenance of better screen brightness standards.

The SMPTE screen brightness committee included in its report—the result of several years of study—specifications for two inexpensive instruments which could be used by the exhibitor himself to test, and therefore to maintain effective brightness of his theatre screen.

The report made clear that optimum screen brightness wasn't merely a matter of how much light was put on the screen but depended upon the distribution of light across the screen. Each point on the screen, the report

CONDON TO HEAD RKO AD-PUBLICITY

Former 20th-Fox, Disney Publicity Chief Takes Over Oct. 25; To Coordinate 3 Departments

Richard Condon, former publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox and Walt Disney Productions, was named director of advertising, publicity and exploitation for RKO Radio Pictures by the company's new management last Friday. He is scheduled to assume the post about Oct. 25.

Richard Condon

The post of director of RKO Radio's advertising, publicity and exploitation departments was dispensed with shortly after Howard Hughes acquired the controlling stock interest in the company several years ago. It was last held by S. Barret McCormick, who has been advertising director since. At that time Don Prince was named publicity director and Terry Turner exploitation director. Prince resigned on Friday.

Condon's appointment by the new RKO Radio management came as unexpectedly as that of Arnold Picker, who last week was named executive vice-president of the company in charge of distribution. According to a reliable version reported in the trade, Condon returned to his home after midnight last Thursday, having attended a theatre performance, and found a message awaiting him to call Arnold Grant, new chairman of RKO

By SHERWIN KANE

THE Allied States national convention and the Tesma annual trade show, to be held jointly in Chicago next month, afford opportunity for a worthwhile public relations accomplishment for theatres generally and, therefore, for the industry.

With a little astute planning and no extraordinary effort, press contacts should be able to "suggest" to reporters for the lay press who cover the event that this first great theatre equipment trade show to be held in conjunction with a national exhibitor convention is a fresher and far better story than the one about the omnipresent popcorn, confections and soft drink dispensers dominating an exhibitor meeting, to the exclusion of motion pictures, equipment and the "merchandise" which is Hollywood personalities.

Every exhibitor who in recent years has attended a theatre owners convention of any size has been made aware that local newspaper coverage of the event all too often is confined to the "popcorn" story. Important as are the concessions to

Cole Warns of Defeatism in Fight to Repeal 20% Tax

DALLAS, Oct. 13. — At a meeting here of exhibitor chairman of the tax repeal campaign in Texas Col. H. A. Cole, national chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations tax repeal campaign, warned of the two elements to guard against to insure the repeal of the Federal 20 per cent amusement tax: defeatism among the leaders and other exhibitors and neglecting to follow the pattern laid down by the COMPO committee.

"Too many leaders," he said, referring to the second point, "are prone to take the 'political wire-pulling' attitude in this campaign instead of the factual business meeting with their Congressman with several exhibitors present to put across the acuteness of the situation."

Reports were heard from the following district chairmen: Sidney Metcalf, Texarkana; J. Wood Fain, Woodville; R. D. Leatherman, Tyler; Leaman Marshall, Terrell; J. O. Cherry, Dallas; A. P. Boyette, Jr., College Station; J. F. Jones, Palestine; Al Lever, Houston; Mart Cole, Rosenberg; Louie Novy, Austin; C. H. Stewart, Waco; Frank Weatherford, Ft. Worth; J. E. Unger, Wichita Falls; Bruce Collins, Corpus Christi; Will Pence, Anson; Jack King, Amarillo; Royce Blankenship, Lubbock; George Watson, San Antonio, Henry Reeve, Menard; Rubin Frels, Victoria.

Others attending the luncheon were: Phil Isley, Paul Short, William McCraw, Don Douglas, R. I. Payne, John Adams, Raymond Willie, William O'Donnell, Sam Landrum, Duke Clark, Alfred Delcambre, Kyle Rorex, Frank Bradley, Claude C. Ezell and Robert J. O'Donnell.

present day theatre operations, it is exasperating to most exhibitors who spend convention days winnowing new ideas for improving their theatres and their service to the public to pick up a local newspaper and read that his major interest is pushing more popcorn into patrons while cutting down on the seasoning.

With more than 100 of the available 150 exhibit booths at the Tesma trade show already reserved, and the opening more than a month away, the success and impressiveness of the Chicago show already is assured. Without doubt, it will be the largest such exhibit in the industry's history.

Any lay reporter worthy of the name, properly conducted through that exhibit, cannot escape without a better understanding of the complex and costly equipment and supplies essential to the best enjoyment of the theatre's entertainment. Nor can he escape an impression of the investment involved.

The reporter will know, from his own observation, that the "popcorn" story coverage of an exhibitor convention is a worn-out satire and that, therein, lies a new, a truer and better story.

It is an opportunity for Allied's and Tesma's convention and show leaders which can pay fine dividends in constructive publicity. It should not be overlooked.

Fine Arts Theatre Sues Over 'O. Henry'

Hearing in a suit brought against 20th Century-Fox and the Trans-Lux Lexington Corp. by the Fine Arts Theatre here concerning exhibition rights to "O. Henry's Full House," is scheduled to be held today in New York Supreme Court. The suit was filed Friday by Monroe E. Stein, attorney representing the Fine Arts Theatre, which sought injunctive relief, seeking to bar the opening of the film at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street on Thursday.

The complaint alleged that 20th-Fox contracted with the plaintiff for a first-run engagement of the picture in New York. It further stated that the Fine Arts put up an advance of $25,000 as a guarantee of at least a 12-week run.

Neither 20th-Fox nor Trans-Lux executives would comment on the suit.

Critics Hear Loesser On 'Andersen' Score

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—More than 70 representatives of Midwestern newspapers were here today to hear Frank Loesser discuss the music in Samuel Goldwyn's new production, "Hans Christian Andersen." Arrangements for the event were made by David Golding, Goldwyn Productions advertising-publicity director.

Golding, Martin Davis of his staff, and Terry Turner, RKO Radio exploitation manager, were on hand from New York. Golding returned to New York over the weekend, Turner will leave here tomorrow.

Abrams in Charge of NY NSS Branch

Leo Abrams, National Screen Service district manager here, will handle the New York office, following the transfer of manager Harold Bennett, to Buffalo. The Buffalo office now becomes a full-fledged branch from where all trailers soon will be distributed directly in the exchange area instead of from New York.

Jack Goldstein, who had been manager of the Buffalo office, has been appointed sales manager there.

AN opportunity to boost popcorn sales at refreshment stands through tie-ins with a $1,000,000 national advertising campaign is now being offered theatre operators. The Popcorn Institute of Chicago is sponsoring the huge promotional program, which will utilize magazines, newspapers, television and radio in a full-scale campaign designed to increase popcorn sales. Under a plan submitted to theatres by the Institute, exhibitors are asked to pay a tax of five-cents per hundredweight on their corn purchases. This amount will be matched by the Institute and the total used for the specific promotion of popcorn sales in theatres. Says the Institute to theatremen: "Make popcorn as much a part of movies as peanuts are at the circus!"

"Pop-Set" is the tradename of a new, quick-erecting popcorn container devised for theatre refreshment stands by the Andre Paper Box Co. of San Francisco. The box is designed to allow the operator to pop it open and scoop it full of hot popcorn in a single motion for fast service during rush periods. Delivered to the user in flat, glued and pre-scored form, the containers are erected by applying pressure with the thumb and middle finger of one hand to the lower edges of the sides, about an inch from the bottom. This makes the box pop open along scored lines. Made of pure Potlatch solid bleached sulphate, the "Pop-Sets" have a design of red, blue and yellow against the white of the basic board.

Electrical vaporizing units designed to destroy flies, mosquitoes and other insects have been coming on the market in substantial numbers in consequence of the development of chemicals which have been found effective for this method of insect control. Mounted on the wall, they are plugged into an ordinary electric light outlet and the heat generated by the simple electrical unit enclosed vaporizes an insecticide supplied by the manufacturer. Use of such devices is especially indicated for refreshment rooms, possibly also rest rooms of drive-in theatres. One such unit recently introduced is the "Mortron Vaporizer," a product of the Bedford Co., New York City. The insecticide used is Mortane crystal, which does not harm food or plants, according to the manufacturer. The unit is designed to operate in an area up to 10,000 cubic feet.

The company also announced that the Eastern talent scout, story and research departments at the home office will be discontinued and their functions assigned to the studio. In line with the decision, Arthur Willi, talent scout; Leda Bauer, story department, and Harold Hendee, research department, have resigned. Richard Gavin, head of the purchasing department, also resigned.

Awaits Reisman Arrival

The company stated that personnel in the foreign department will be reviewed with the arrival here today from Europe of Phil Reisman, foreign distribution chief. "Announcements in respect thereto will follow as soon as possible thereafter," the company said.

The statement issued on behalf of the new owners of the controlling stock interest in the company said of the changes which were announced:

"It is regretted that a thorough consideration of the company's affairs requires the elimination of persons who have served the company faithfully. It is a source of satisfaction, however, that the board has been able to promote many employes from within the ranks.

"The board has been required to meet the problem of the company and it has done so squarely. It is the board's firm belief that those who have been advanced will prove the soundness of the judgment exercised and will inspire all personnel to a realization of the opportunity that exists for them. It is anticipated that over the coming months additional promotions may be made of persons to whom it is not possible to give immediate recognition," the statement concluded.

Boasberg, new general sales manager, has been with RKO Radio since 1930, when he joined the company as a salesman in the Buffalo exchange. Prior to that he was a special representative for MGM for three years. In 1937 Boasberg was named Buffalo branch manager for RKO Radio; in 1940, district manager with headquarters at Cleveland; in 1944, Metropolitan district manager in New York, and in 1947, North-South division manager.

Branson, new assistant general sales manager, likewise has been with RKO for many years. He rose from the sales ranks to Midwest district manager with headquarters in Chicago in the mid-1930s and has been Western division manager for the past five years.

Boasberg and Branson together will be charged with reorganizing RKO Radio's domestic sales department, the new board of directors said, "in accordance with their own thoughts and ideas."

Zimmerman, new head of the legal department, has been a member of RKO Radio's home office legal staff for many years and only recently had been given the title of assistant to the general sales manager. Pimstein likewise has been a member of the home office legal staff for many years. His post as assistant to the chairman of the board, Grant, is a newly created one.

Walker, who resigned, entered RKO in the course of the company's receivership and reorganization in 1932 as an attorney. Prior to his resignation he was secretary, general counsel and a member of the board.

Radio. On communicating with Grant, the two arranged an immediate meeting and the deal with Condon was concluded about 2:30 A.M.

This also was in the pattern of the Ralph Stolkin syndicate's closing of the deal for the purchase of Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures three weeks ago in the early hours of the morning. The Condon appointment, too, is in keeping with the new RKO Radio management's announced intention to make executive appointments which will bring into the company "youth with its vitality, fresh approach and aggressive thinking."

Like the 39-year old Picker, Condon is not yet 40. He was 37 last May. After a period in the Merchant Marine, he entered the advertising agency field and in 1938 was named publicity director of Walt Disney Productions. In 1941 he joined the Hal Horne Organization, which at the time was in charge of advertising, publicity and exploitation for 20th Century-Fox. Subsequently, he became publicity director of 20th-Fox under the aegis of Max E. Youngstein, who now is a vice-president and partner in United Artists.

In 1943 Condon formed his own public relations organization here and in recent years also was active in the legitimate stage, both as producer and playwright. When Youngstein was vice-president of Paramount Pictures Distributing, in charge of advertising, publicity and exploitation, Condon handled special campaigns on "Samson and Delilah" and "Sunset Boulevard." He was also national coordinator for Stanley Kramer Productions on the campaign for "Cyrano de Bergerac."

More recently, Condon was associate producer of the stage play, "Stalag 17," and co-producer of the play "20th Century." He is the author of the stage farce, "How to Fly with One Feather," to be produced this season by Chandler Cowles and Ben Segal.

Mochrie in Sales For 27 Years

Robert Mochrie, who resigned Friday as vice-president in charge of domestic distribution for RKO Radio Pictures, has been well known in distribution and exhibition circles in the industry for the greater part of his 27 years as sales executive.

Robert Mochrie

He started with Producers Distributing Corp. in Cleveland, becoming successively branch manager at Albany, Pittsburg and Philadelphia. He then was Philadelphia branch manager for Warners, becoming assistant sales manager at the home office in 1934. In 1937 he became Southern sales manager for United Artists and joined RKO Radio in 1939 as Southern district manager. Subsequently he was made Eastern and Southern sales manager, and has been general sales manager for the past 10 years.

He was selected a director of RKO Radio and vice-president in charge of domestic distribution in 1946.

Not just claims but VISIBLE improvements distinguish the NEW 9 mm "Suprex" projector carbon in any 9-8 mm copper-coated high-intensity trim.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL! With an optimum current range of 65-75 amperes, the new 9 mm "Suprex" carbon and the 8 mm "Orotip" C negative carbon can be substituted directly for the 8 mm-7 mm carbon trim up to 70 amperes*. Merely install appropriate holders and guides in your present equipment and get:

- More light at slightly increased current
- Equal light at same current
- Lower carbon consumption and cost
- Better light distribution at all currents

*Above 70 amperes, see your theatre supply dealer for his equipment recommendations.

Says Conventions Are Primary Field For Theatre TV

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — Denver exhibitor John Wolfberg told the Federal Communications Commission today that a primary field for theatre television would be in connection with "unassembled industry conventions" in the morning hours.

"If we could tap the convention business, it would be wonderful," Wolfberg said. "I can't see anything else that would provide a steady flow of product."

Wolfberg's idea has previously been expressed in other terms by officials of United Paramount Theatres, who told the Commission that they saw closed-circuit sales meetings as the best use of theatre television. With salespeople all over the country sitting in theatres equipped with theatre television, a company's home office could address all at the same time, the UPT people said, over the closed circuit.

Wolfberg also told the Commission he thought that the simultaneous release of a motion picture through each of the country's exchange centers and fanning out over a local theatre television network would result in great savings of time and money for the industry. The Denver exhibitor made these statements in an FCC hearing on two stations competing for the same Denver television channel. Wolfberg owns 21 per cent of the stock in the Denver Television Co., a competing applicant with Aladdin Radio and Television Co. for channel 7 in Denver.

Questioned at length by Aladdin attorney W. Theodore Pierson on his membership in Allied States Association and Allied's theatre television policy, Wolfberg said he couldn't recall that Allied had any policy on the subject.

Pierson also asked Wolfberg if there hadn't been "considerable man-to-man wagering" during the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano fight at Wolfberg's Paramount theatre in Denver. Wolfberg replied that he hadn't seen any betting nor would he have condoned it if he had seen it.

Sees Dim Future for Educational TV

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Unless educators exert more activity in the next few months in acquiring and using the television channels now set aside for them, there will be "slight basis" for continuing to reserve those channels, Federal Communications Commissioner Robert Bartley said over the weekend.

Bartley told a group of Alabama broadcasters that educators "failed to avail themselves" of the opportunities given to them in the AM and FM fields and it didn't appear to him "that the pattern has changed very much during the past six months under the television allocation plan."

Under the current allocation plan the FCC has set aside 242 channels for educational television stations.

Applies for FCC Permit

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—Leon Back, general manager for Rome Theatre Enterprises here, has applied to the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a television station in Norfolk, Va.

Television--Radio

with Pinky Herman

THE HALL OF FAME . . . more important than ever before in the comparatively young record of TV—and of particular significance at this stage in the history of radio entertainment—is the current poll of those most competent to evaluate the merits of program and performers in behalf of the public—the TV and radio editors, and columnists of the nation. These people of the press have no axe to grind, and it is their daily job to concentrate upon objective and unbiased reviewing of TV and radio programs. Nothing could be fairer or more constructive than the combined opinion of the men and women whose only vested interest is the welfare of the industry in terms of service to its audience.

Pinky Herman

Their columns in the press are read regularly by upwards of a hundred million people. Their individual variance of opinion is, in itself, assurance of independent thinking; and that is what makes the results of the ballot so democratic, and so reliable. To the nation's TV and radio editors and columnists whose ballots have already been returned to us, and to those who are now weighing their verdicts in preparation for sending in their ballots, a vote of sincere thanks in behalf of the TV and radio industries.

Judging from the number of inquiries we have received as to the publication date for the professional poll results, advance interest has reached a new high for the 17-year-period since Motion Picture Daily established this critics' poll.

The results will be published in Motion Picture Daily after the ballots from all parts of the nation have been received and every vote in each category has been entered and the final tabulation thoroughly rechecked. Then comes the complete deluxe presentation in the HALL OF FAME—the official, ornate record in FAME magazine for reference by sponsors, agencies, stations and publications everywhere. The 21st edition of FAME will be considerably expanded editorially and pictorially, with a number of innovations.

So inter-related, talent-wise, nowadays are the fields of motion pictures, TV and radio that the progress of talent in any of the three fields is of significant interest to each. Within separate sections of a single book, FAME sets forth the popularity status of programs and talent in each of the three fields.

Work on Theatre TV Facilities Reported by AT&T

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said over the week-end that it was continuing development and research to make the facilities for theatre television transmission available when needed.

In a letter to James Fly and Vincent Welch, theatre television attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and to Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, A T and T said it believed the attorneys would agree that "the actual provision of the facilities was of the utmost importance."

Work is proceeding as rapidly as possible, the company informed the attorneys, on the board band service for theatre television transmission which A T and T hoped "will meet or closely approach the transmission characteristics" specified by industry theatre television engineers.

A T and T expressed its hope that it could continue to work closely with industry theatre television experts and repeated its statement that it would make every effort to have the cost figures available by the end of the year.

Delay NFL Phila. Trial to Jan. 26

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The trial in the government's suit against the National Football League and its member companies has been postponed until Jan. 26, the Department of Justice said.

The original date for the trial, which will be held in Philadelphia, was Nov. 6. Attorneys for the League had several times requested postponements, which the Department opposed. A crowded Philadelphia court calendar necessitated the postponement, however. Justice brought the suit against the League last October because member companies had adopted restrictions against broadcasts and telecasts of football games.

WNBC Show Set to Promote N. Y. Films

Another radio program, WNBC's "First Nighter," has been enlisted for the publicizing of motion pictures under the mutual promotion pact between the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York and National Broadcasting, the OMPI announced.

The Tuesday evening programs will incorporate one-minute spot announcements listing recommended films currently playing in theatres here.

New Para. TV Sales

Paramount Television Productions has sold its syndicated film programs in the nation's two newest television markets. Bob Clampett's "Time for Beany" has been sold for 39 weeks, five times a week, to the Franz Bakery in Portland, Ore., where it will appear on the country's first UHF television station, KPTV, beginning Oct. 20. KPTV will also telecast Paramount's "Wrestling from Hollywood," which has been sold for 26 weeks, beginning Thursday to the Blitz Weinhard Brewing Co.

Foreign Field

ternational Film Distributors, Ltd., one of the largest independent distributors in Canada, was in New York to confer with Italian film industry officials, here in conjunction with the "Salute to Italian Films Week." Following a conference with Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of the Italian Film Export organization, Taylor expressed hope that his company would continue its alliance with Italian films in Canada.

Taylor said it is "inevitable" that fewer, but bigger pictures will come out in Hollywood. This, he said, will create a "vacuum" which could be filled by good, off-beat foreign pictures, properly dubbed.

Taylor, whose company operates 70 theatres in Ontario and recently added several in the West, said a good foreign film is better than "a carbon copy" uninspired, low-budgeted picture. The public, he continued, does not care where the picture is made as long as it has the necessary entertainment qualities.

The trouble with most foreign films, he continued, is that they lack sufficient action, deadening their interest with unexciting talk. A suitable foreign film, he added however, properly dubbed has a growing market.

Italian Dignitaries At Ship Reception

In honor of the official Italian motion picture industry delegation recently arrived in New York for "Salute to Italian Films Week," a reception will be held this afternoon aboard the SS. Conte Biancamano, docked here. The Italian Line and the America-Italy Society, are hosts for the occasion.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the America-Italy Society, will present an illuminated scroll to Nicola De Pirro, Italian government official leading the visiting dignitaries, in recognition of the Italian postwar motion picture industry's contribution to improved U.S.-Italy cultural relations.

'American Weekly' Contest on 'Snows'

Exhibitors who put on the best job of retail co-operative tie-in advertising in connection with the playing of 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" will receive an American Weekly showmanship award consisting of six cash prizes totaling $1,000. Local newspapers carrying the American Weekly in their Sunday editions will work with the exhibitors. Entries must be postmarked no later than Jan. 1, 1953 and winners will be announced shortly thereafter.

Walter Brooks, Motion Picture Herald; Chester Friedman, Boxoffice; and Al Lichtman, 20th-Fox director of distribution, will serve as judges for the contest. The prizes are broken down to $500 for first place and $100 apiece to the next five places.

20th-Fox Art Films Have Wide Appeal

Five of the seven one-reel art films which 20th Century-Fox is putting into worldwide distribution were previewed here at the weekend. Made in color by Technicolor, the shorts deal with world renowned artists and their work. Exhibitors can show them with pride and profit for they at once have a high degree of quality and are designed for widest popular appeal.

Arrangements for distribution of the films were made about a year ago by 20th Century-Fox with Art Films Productions. Following this a unit headed by Marilyn Silverstone, went abroad to make the films in France, Italy, England and Holland.

The films previewed were "Light in the Window," by Vermeer; "Curtain Call," Degas; "I Remember the Glory," Botticelli; "Joy of Living," Renoir, and "The Young Immortal," "Raphael." The others are "The Night Watch," Rembrandt; and "Birth of Venus, Art of the Renaissance."

Each film harks back to the time and locale of the painter with a slender story serving as an introductory framework. The color is strikingly effective.

The series was produced by Boris Vermont from scenarios by Mildred B. Vermont, based on research by Miss Silverstone.

Exploitation-minded exhibitors will find the subjects endowed with special qualities that can be capitalized at the box-office.

Rogers Sets Theatre Contests for Kiddies

A nationwide series of contests for children will be sponsored by cowboy star Roy Rogers in theatres, department stores, drive-ins and state and county fairs, he announced at the weekend at Madison Square Garden here where he is appearing in a rodeo.

The contests, to be known as the "Roy Rogers Trick Lasso Contest," will commence Nov. 15 and continue for four weeks in each situation, Rogers said. Weekly prizes and a grand prize will be awarded. A cowboy personality will be master-of-ceremonies for each contest. Abe I. Feinberg of New York is contest representative for Rogers.

Para. Cost Saving Focuses on Cutting

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—In line with his previously announced policy aiming at "greater economy and efficiency without sacrificing quality," Don Hartman, head of Paramount production, has begun a survey among studio department heads to discover the most effective means for eliminating waste film footage.

Hartman said he believes waste footage can be eliminated by "careful pre-editing and planning long in advance."

ing." Johnston was tentatively scheduled to fly to Paris the end of this week.

Actual negotiations, Arnall reminded, have been and must continue to be handled by officials of the French and American governments. However, MPAA and SIMPP representatives are entitled to "sit in" on the official talks. An MPAA representative said here at the weekend that it was his understanding Johnston would seek to "negotiate" during his Paris visit.

SIMPP's policy with respect to the negotiation of foreign trade agreements has been to favor dealings on the inter-government level, while the MPAA has taken the position that quicker results are to be gotten when the American industry itself negotiates with foreign governments. The Anglo-US film pacts are reached between the American industry and British government. Franco-American film agreements, on the other hand, are governmental pacts.

Elmer Lux Takes Over Lazar Theatres

BUFFALO, Oct. 13.—Management and operation of the Lazar circuit in New York, Ohio, Virginia, Maryland and Kentucky have been taken over by Elmart Theatres, Inc., Elmer F. Lux, president and general manager of the new corporation, said.

Lux formerly was vice-president and general manager for Lazar. The new organization's other officers are: vice-president, Howard Antevil, Gloversville, and secretary-treasurer, George Kubick of Albany.

Bids for Pioneers Heaviest This Year

Applications for membership in the Motion Picture Pioneers here are coming in from all parts of the country at a much more rapid pace than in any previous year since the Pioneers was formed 13 years ago, Jack Cohn, president, reports.

Strict adherence to eligibility rules which require that a candidate for membership must have 25 active years in the industry to his credit, has led to the reluctant rejection of a number of applicants by the Pioneers' board of directors, Cohn pointed out. He explained that the term "active years" did not necessarily mean continuous years but the aggregate had to be a quarter of a century. Cohn also points out that new applications for membership cannot be serviced after Nov. 15, due to pressure of activity during the last 10 days before the "Jubilee Dinner."

Candidates accepted for membership will be inducted at the "Dinner" of the organization at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25 at which N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal, will be honored as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952," with George Jessel acting as toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet serving as chairman.

Boasberg General Sales Manager of RKO Radio

Succeeds Mochrie, Resigned; Branson Is Named Assistant General Sales Manager; Zimmerman, Pimstein Are Advanced

Charles Boasberg, for the past five years North-South division manager for RKO Radio, was appointed general sales manager of the company, succeeding Robert Mochrie, resigned, on Friday, the company's new board of directors announced.

Moving swiftly in the executive realignment of the company following the appointment last week of Arnold Picker as executive vice-president, the new RKO Radio management also announced the following changes:

Walter Branson, RKO Radio Western sales manager, was named assistant general sales manager, a new post;

William Zimmerman, formerly assistant to Mochrie, was named head of the legal department, succeeding J. Miller Walker, resigned;

Harry Pimstein of the home office legal staff was named assistant to Arnold Grant, chairman of the board;

Richard Condon, former publicity director for 20th Century-Fox and Walt Disney Prod., was named national director of advertising, publicity and exploitation, a post which has been vacant for the past four years. (See separate story.)

Don Prince, publicity manager, has resigned. The post will be filled when Condon takes over in about two weeks. The company's statement said: "Reorganization of said departments (advertising, publicity and exploitation) and the people therein will

THE Allied States national convention and the Tesma annual trade show, to be held jointly in Chicago next month, afford opportunity for a worthwhile public relations accomplishment for theatres generally and, therefore, for the industry.

With a little astute planning and no extraordinary effort, press contacts should be able to "suggest" to reporters for the lay press who cover the event that this first great theatre equipment trade show to be held in conjunction with a national exhibitor convention is a fresher and far better story than the one about the omnipresent popcorn, confections and soft drink dispensers dominating an exhibitor meeting, to the exclusion of motion pictures, equipment and the "merchandise" which is Hollywood personalities.

Every exhibitor who in recent years has attended a theatre owners convention of any size has been made aware that local newspaper coverage of the event all too often is confined to the "popcorn" story. Important as are the concessions to

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—In a report made public over the weekend The Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers asked for the manufacture of light measuring instruments which would make possible the maintenance of better screen brightness standards.

The SMPTE screen brightness committee included in its report—the result of several years of study—specifications for two inexpensive instruments which could be used by the exhibitor himself to test, and therefore to maintain effective brightness of his theatre screen.

The report made clear that optimum screen brightness wasn't merely a matter of how much light was put on the screen but depended upon the distribution of light across the screen. Each point on the screen, the report

A broader market for foreign films in the United States and Canada was envisioned here at the weekend by N. A. Taylor, president of 20th Century Theatres of Canada, Toronto, who saw foreign films filling the product gap as Hollywood concentrates on bigger, but fewer pictures.

$2,000,000 Drop In Film Dividends

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — Publicly-reported cash dividends paid by motion picture companies for September amounted to $2,371,000, the Department of Commerce said.

This represents a drop of more than $2,000,000 from the September 1951 figure of $4,545,000.

The major portion of the drop is due to the fact that 20th Century-Fox, which paid a Sept. 1951 dividend of $1,384,000, planned to pay its dividend this year in October because of the company's reorganization under the terms of its consent decree.

CONDON TO HEAD RKO AD-PUBLICITY

Former 20th-Fox, Disney Publicity Chief Takes Over Oct. 25; To Coordinate 3 Departments

Richard Condon, former publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox and Walt Disney Productions, was named director of advertising, publicity and exploitation for RKO Radio Pictures by the company's new management last Friday. He is scheduled to assume the post about Oct. 25.

The post of director of RKO Radio's advertising, publicity and exploitation departments was dispensed with shortly after Howard Hughes acquired the controlling stock interest in the company several years ago. It was last held by S. Barret McCormick, who has been advertising director since.

Richard Condon

At that time Don Prince was named publicity director and Terry Turner exploitation director. Prince resigned on Friday.

Condon's appointment by the new RKO Radio management came as unexpectedly as that of Arnold Picker, who last week was named executive vice-president of the company in charge of distribution. According to a reliable version reported in the trade, Condon returned to his home after midnight last Thursday, having attended a theatre performance, and found a message awaiting him to call Arnold Grant, new chairman of RKO

Cole Warns of Defeatism in Fight to Repeal 20% Tax

DALLAS, Oct. 13. — At a meeting here of exhibitor chairmen of the tax repeal campaign in Texas Col. H. A. Cole, national chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations tax repeal campaign, warned of the two elements to guard against to insure the repeal of the Federal 20 per cent amusement tax: defeatism among the leaders and other exhibitors and neglecting to follow the pattern laid down by the COMPO committee.

"Too many leaders," he said, referring to the second point, "are prone to take the 'political wire-pulling' attitude in this campaign instead of the factual business meeting with their Congressman with several exhibitors present to put across the acuteness of the situation."

Reports were heard from the following district chairmen: Sidney Metcalf, Texarkana; J. Wood Fain, Woodville; R. D. Leatherman, Tyler; Leaman Marshall, Terrell; J. O. Cherry, Dallas; A. P. Boyette, Jr., College Station; J. F. Jones, Palestine; Al Lever, Houston; Mart Cole, Rosenberg; Louie Novy, Austin; C. H. Stewart, Waco; Frank Weatherford, Ft. Worth; J. E. present day theatre operations, it is exasperating to most exhibitors who spend convention days winnowing new ideas for improving their theatres and their service to the public to pick up a local newspaper and read that his major interest is pushing more popcorn into patrons while cutting down on the seasoning.

With more than 100 of the available 150 exhibit booths at the Tesma trade show already reserved, and the opening more than a month away, the success and impressiveness of the Chicago show already is assured. Without doubt, it will be the largest such exhibit in the industry's history.

Any lay reporter worthy of the name, properly conducted through that exhibit, cannot escape without a better understanding of the complex and costly equipment and supplies essential to the best enjoyment of the theatre's entertainment. Nor can he escape an impression of the investment involved.

The reporter will know, from his own observation, that the "popcorn" story coverage of an exhibitor convention is a worn-out satire and that, therein, lies a new, a truer and better story.

It is an opportunity for Allied's and Tesma's convention and show leaders which can pay fine dividends in constructive publicity. It should not be overlooked.

Fine Arts Theatre Sues Over 'O. Henry'

Hearing in a suit brought against 20th Century-Fox and the Trans-Lux Lexington Corp. by the Fine Arts Theatre here concerning exhibition rights to "O. Henry's Full House," is scheduled to be held today in New York Supreme Court. The suit was filed Friday by Monroe E. Stein, attorney representing the Fine Arts Theatre, which sought injunctive relief, seeking to bar the opening of the film at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street on Thursday.

The complaint alleged that 20th-Fox contracted with the plaintiff for a first-run engagement of the picture in New York. It further stated that the Fine Arts put up an advance of $25,000 as a guarantee of at least a 12-week run.

Neither 20th-Fox nor Trans-Lux executives would comment on the suit.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—More than 70 representatives of Midwestern newspapers were here today to hear Frank Loesser discuss the music in Samuel Goldwyn's new production, "Hans Christian Andersen." Arrangements for the event were made by David Golding, Goldwyn Productions advertising-publicity director.

Abrams in Charge of NY NSS Branch

Leo Abrams, National Screen Service district manager here, will handle the New York office, following the transfer of manager Harold Bennett, to Buffalo. The Buffalo office now becomes a full-fledged branch from where all trailers soon will be distributed directly in the exchange area instead of from New York.

Jack Goldstein, who had been manager of the Buffalo office, has been appointed sales manager there.

AN opportunity to boost popcorn sales at refreshment stands through tie-ins with a $1,000,000 national advertising campaign is now being offered theatre operators. The Popcorn Institute of Chicago is sponsoring the huge promotional program, which will utilize magazines, newspapers, television and radio in a full-scale campaign designed to increase popcorn sales. Under a plan submitted to theatres by the Institute, exhibitors are asked to pay a tax of five-cents per hundredweight on their corn purchases. This amount will be matched by the Institute and the total used for the specific promotion of popcorn sales in theatres. Says the Institute to theatremen: "Make popcorn as much a part of movies as peanuts are at the circus!"

"Pop-Set" is the tradename of a new, quick-erecting popcorn container devised for theatre refreshment stands by the Andre Paper Box Co. of San Francisco. The box is designed to allow the operator to pop it open and scoop it full of hot popcorn in a single motion for fast service during rush periods. Delivered to the user in flat, glued and pre-scored form, the containers are erected by applying pressure with the thumb and middle finger of one hand to the lower edges of the sides, about an inch from the bottom. This makes the box pop open along scored lines. Made of pure Potlatch solid bleached sulphate, the "Pop-Sets" have a design of red, blue and yellow against the white of the basic board.

Electrical vaporizing units designed to destroy flies, mosquitoes and other insects have been coming on the market in substantial numbers in consequence of the development of chemicals which have been found effective for this method of insect control. Mounted on the wall, they are plugged into an ordinary electric light outlet and the heat generated by the simple electrical unit enclosed vaporizes an insecticide supplied by the manufacturer. Use of such devices is especially indicated for refreshment rooms, possibly also rest rooms of drive-in theatres. One such unit recently introduced is the "Mortron Vaporizer," a product of the Bedford Co., New York City. The insecticide used is Mortane crystal, which does not harm food or plants, according to the manufacturer. The unit is designed to operate in an area up to 10,000 cubic feet.

The company also announced that the Eastern talent scout, story and research departments at the home office will be discontinued and their functions assigned to the studio. In line with the decision, Arthur Willi, talent scout; Leda Bauer, story department, and Harold Hendee, research department, have resigned. Richard Gavin, head of the purchasing department, also resigned.

Awaits Reisman Arrival

The company stated that personnel in the foreign department will be reviewed with the arrival here today from Europe of Phil Reisman, foreign distribution chief. "Announcements in respect thereto will follow as soon as possible thereafter," the company said.

The statement issued on behalf of the new owners of the controlling stock interest in the company said of the changes which were announced:

"It is regretted that a thorough consideration of the company's affairs requires the elimination of persons who have served the company faithfully. It is a source of satisfaction, however, that the board has been able to promote many employes from within the ranks.

"The board has been required to meet the problem of the company and it has done so squarely. It is the board's firm belief that those who have been advanced will prove the soundness of the judgment exercised and will inspire all personnel to a realization of the opportunity that exists for them. It is anticipated that over the coming months additional promotions may be made of persons to whom it is not possible to give immediate recognition," the statement concluded.

Boasberg, new general sales manager, has been with RKO Radio since 1930, when he joined the company as a salesman in the Buffalo exchange. Prior to that he was a special representative for MGM for three years. In 1937 Boasberg was named Buffalo branch manager for RKO Radio; in 1940, district manager with headquarters at Cleveland; in 1944, Metropolitan district manager in New York, and in 1947, North-South division manager.

Branson, new assistant general sales manager, likewise has been with RKO for many years. He rose from the sales ranks to Midwest district manager with headquarters in Chicago in the mid-1930s and has been Western division manager for the past five years.

Boasberg and Branson together will be charged with reorganizing RKO Radio's domestic sales department, the new board of directors said, "in accordance with their own thoughts and ideas."

Zimmerman, new head of the legal department, has been a member of RKO Radio's home office legal staff for many years and only recently had been given the title of assistant to the general sales manager. Pimstein likewise has been a member of the home office legal staff for many years. His post as assistant to the chairman of the board, Grant, is a newly created one.

Walker, who resigned, entered RKO in the course of the company's receivership and reorganization in 1932 as an attorney. Prior to his resignation he was secretary, general counsel and a member of the board.

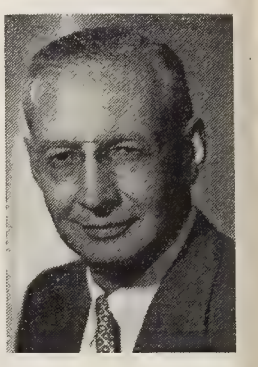
Radio. On communicating with Grant, the two arranged an immediate meeting and the deal with Condon was concluded about 2:30 A.M.

This also was in the pattern of the Ralph Stolkin syndicate's closing of the deal for the purchase of Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures three weeks ago in the early hours of the morning. The Condon appointment, too, is in keeping with the new RKO Radio management's announced intention to make executive appointments which will bring into the company "youth with its vitality, fresh approach and aggressive thinking."



Like the 39-year old Picker, Condon is not yet 40. He was 37 last May. After a period in the Merchant Marine, he entered the advertising agency field and in 1938 was named publicity director of Walt Disney Productions. In 1941 he joined the Hal Horne Organization, which at the time was in charge of advertising, publicity and exploitation for 20th Century-Fox. Subsequently, he became publicity director of 20th-Fox under the aegis of Max E. Youngstein, who now is a vice-president and partner in United Artists.

In 1943 Condon formed his own public relations organization here and in recent years also was active in the legitimate stage, both as producer and playwright. When Youngstein was vice-president of Paramount Pictures Distributing, in charge of advertising, publicity and exploitation, Condon handled special campaigns on "Samson and Delilah" and "Sunset Boulevard." He was also national coordinator for Stanley Kramer Productions on the campaign for "Cyrano de Bergerac."

More recently, Condon was associate producer of the stage play, "Stalag 17," and co-producer of the play "20th Century." He is the author of the stage farce, "How to Fly with One Feather," to be produced this season by Chandler Cowles and Ben Segal.

Mochrie in Sales For 27 Years

Robert Mochrie, who resigned Friday as vice-president in charge of domestic distribution for RKO Radio Pictures, has been well known in distribution and exhibition circles in the industry for the greater part of his 27 years as sales executive.

Robert Mochrie

He started with Producers Distributing Corp. in Cleveland, becoming successively branch manager at Albany, Pittsburg and Philadelphia. He then was Philadelphia branch manager for Warners, becoming assistant sales manager at the home office in 1934. In 1937 he became Southern sales manager for United Artists and joined RKO Radio in 1939 as Southern district manager. Subsequently he was made Eastern and Southern sales manager, and has been general sales manager for the past 10 years.

He was selected a director of RKO Radio and vice-president in charge of domestic distribution in 1946.

Says Conventions Are Primary Field For Theatre TV

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — Denver exhibitor John Wolfberg told the Federal Communications Commission today that a primary field for theatre television would be in connection with "unassembled industry conventions" in the morning hours.

"If we could tap the convention business, it would be wonderful," Wolfberg said. "I can't see anything else that would provide a steady flow of product."

Wolfberg's idea has previously been expressed in other terms by officials of United Paramount Theatres, who told the Commission that they saw closed-circuit sales meetings as the best use of theatre television. With salespeople all over the country sitting in theatres equipped with theatre television, a company's home office could address all at the same time, the UPT people said, over the closed circuit.

Wolfberg also told the Commission he thought that the simultaneous release of a motion picture through each of the country's exchange centers and fanning out over a local theatre television network would result in great savings of time and money for the industry. The Denver exhibitor made these statements in an FCC hearing on two stations competing for the same Denver television channel. Wolfberg owns 21 per cent of the stock in the Denver Television Co., a competing applicant with Aladdin Radio and Television Co. for channel 7 in Denver.

Questioned at length by Aladdin attorney W. Theodore Pierson on his membership in Allied States Association and Allied's theatre television policy, Wolfberg said he couldn't recall that Allied had any policy on the subject.

Pierson also asked Wolfberg if there hadn't been "considerable man-to-man wagering" during the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano fight at Wolfberg's Paramount theatre in Denver. Wolfberg replied that he hadn't seen any betting nor would he have condoned it if he had seen it.

Sees Dim Future for Educational TV

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Unless educators exert more activity in the next few months in acquiring and using the television channels now set aside for them, there will be "slight basis" for continuing to reserve those channels, Federal Communications Commissioner Robert Bartley said over the weekend.

Bartley told a group of Alabama broadcasters that educators "failed to avail themselves" of the opportunities given to them in the AM and FM fields and it didn't appear to him "that the pattern has changed very much during the past six months under the television allocation plan."

Under the current allocation plan the FCC has set aside 242 channels for educational television stations.

Applies for FCC Permit

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—Leon Back, general manager for Rome Theatre Enterprises here, has applied to the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a television station in Norfolk, Va.

Television--Radio

with Pinky Herman

THE HALL OF FAME . . . more important than ever before in the comparatively young record of TV—and of particular significance at this stage in the history of radio entertainment—is the current poll of those most competent to evaluate the merits of program and performers in behalf of the public—the TV and radio editors, and columnists of the nation. These people of the press have no axe to grind, and it is their daily job to concentrate upon objective and unbiased reviewing of TV and radio programs. Nothing could be fairer or more constructive than the combined opinion of the men and women whose only vested interest is the welfare of the industry in terms of service to its audience.

Pinky Herman

Their columns in the press are read regularly by upwards of a hundred million people. Their individual variance of opinion is, in itself, assurance of independent thinking; and that is what makes the results of the ballot so democratic, and so reliable. To the nation's TV and radio editors and columnists whose ballots have already been returned to us, and to those who are now weighing their verdicts in preparation for sending in their ballots, a vote of sincere thanks in behalf of the TV and radio industries.

Judging from the number of inquiries we have received as to the publication date for the professional poll results, advance interest has reached a new high for the 17-year-period since Motion Picture Daily established this critics' poll.

The results will be published in Motion Picture Daily after the ballots from all parts of the nation have been received and every vote in each category has been entered and the final tabulation thoroughly rechecked. Then comes the complete deluxe presentation in the HALL OF FAME—the official, ornate record in FAME magazine for reference by sponsors, agencies, stations and publications everywhere. The 21st edition of FAME will be considerably expanded editorially and pictorially, with a number of innovations.

So inter-related, talent-wise, nowadays are the fields of motion pictures, TV and radio that the progress of talent in any of the three fields is of significant interest to each. Within separate sections of a single book, FAME sets forth the popularity status of programs and talent in each of the three fields.

Work on Theatre TV Facilities Reported by AT&T

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said over the week-end that it was continuing development and research to make the facilities for theatre television transmission available when needed.

In a letter to James Fly and Vincent Welch, theatre television attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and to Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, A T and T said it believed the attorneys would agree that "the actual provision of the facilities was of the utmost importance."

Work is proceeding as rapidly as possible, the company informed the attorneys, on the board band service for theatre television transmission which A T and T hoped "will meet or closely approach the transmission characteristics" specified by industry theatre television engineers.

A T and T expressed its hope that it could continue to work closely with industry theatre television experts and repeated its statement that it would make every effort to have the cost figures available by the end of the year.

Delay NFL Phila. Trial to Jan. 26

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The trial in the government's suit against the National Football League and its member companies has been postponed until Jan. 26, the Department of Justice said.

The original date for the trial, which will be held in Philadelphia, was Nov. 6. Attorneys for the League had several times requested postponements, which the Department opposed. A crowded Philadelphia court calendar necessitated the postponement, however. Justice brought the suit against the League last October because member companies had adopted restrictions against broadcasts and telecasts of football games.

Another radio program, WNBC's "First Nighter," has been enlisted for the publicizing of motion pictures under the mutual promotion pact between the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York and National Broadcasting, the OMPI announced.

The Tuesday evening programs will incorporate one-minute spot announcements listing recommended films currently playing in theatres here.

New Para. TV Sales

Paramount Television Productions has sold its syndicated film programs in the nation's two newest television markets. Bob Clampett's "Time for Beany" has been sold for 39 weeks, five times a week, to the Franz Bakery in Portland, Ore., where it will appear on the country's first UHF television station, KPTV, beginning Oct. 20. KPTV will also telecast Paramount's "Wrestling from Hollywood," which has been sold for 26 weeks, beginning Thursday to the Blitz Weinhard Brewing Co.

Foreign Field

ternational Film Distributors, Ltd., one of the largest independent distributors in Canada, was in New York to confer with Italian film industry officials, here in conjunction with the "Salute to Italian Films Week." Following a conference with Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of the Italian Film Export organization, Taylor expressed hope that his company would continue its alliance with Italian films in Canada.

Taylor said it is "inevitable" that fewer, but bigger pictures will come out in Hollywood. This, he said, will create a "vacuum" which could be filled by good, off-beat foreign pictures, properly dubbed.

Taylor, whose company operates 70 theatres in Ontario and recently added several in the West, said a good foreign film is better than "a carbon copy" uninspired, low-budgeted picture. The public, he continued, does not care where the picture is made as long as it has the necessary entertainment qualities.

The trouble with most foreign films, he continued, is that they lack sufficient action, deadening their interest with unexciting talk. A suitable foreign film, he added however, properly dubbed has a growing market.

Italian Dignitaries At Ship Reception

In honor of the official Italian motion picture industry delegation recently arrived in New York for "Salute to Italian Films Week," a reception will be held this afternoon aboard the SS. Conte Biancamano, docked here. The Italian Line and the America-Italy Society, are hosts for the occasion.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the America-Italy Society, will present an illuminated scroll to Nicola De Pirro, Italian government official leading the visiting dignitaries, in recognition of the Italian postwar motion picture industry's contribution to improved U.S.-Italy cultural relations.

'American Weekly' Contest on 'Snows'

Exhibitors who put on the best job of retail co-operative tie-in advertising in connection with the playing of 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" will receive an American Weekly showmanship award consisting of six cash prizes totaling $1,000. Local newspapers carrying the American Weekly in their Sunday editions will work with the exhibitors. Entries must be postmarked no later than Jan. 1, 1953 and winners will be announced shortly thereafter.

Walter Brooks, Motion Picture Herald; Chester Friedman, Boxoffice; and Al Lichtman, 20th-Fox director of distribution, will serve as judges for the contest. The prizes are broken down to $500 for first place and $100 apiece to the next five places.

20th-Fox Art Films Have Wide Appeal

Five of the seven one-reel art films which 20th Century-Fox is putting into worldwide distribution were previewed here at the weekend. Made in color by Technicolor, the shorts deal with world renowned artists and their work. Exhibitors can show them with pride and profit for they at once have a high degree of quality and are designed for widest popular appeal.

Arrangements for distribution of the films were made about a year ago by 20th Century-Fox with Art Films Productions. Following this a unit headed by Marilyn Silverstone, went abroad to make the films in France, Italy, England and Holland.

The films previewed were "Light in the Window," by Vermeer; "Curtain Call," Degas; "I Remember the Glory," Botticelli; "Joy of Living," Renoir, and "The Young Immortal," "Raphael." The others are "The Night Watch," Rembrandt; and "Birth of Venus, Art of the Renaissance."

Each film harks back to the time and locale of the painter with a slender story serving as an introductory framework. The color is strikingly effective.

The series was produced by Boris Vermont from scenarios by Mildred B. Vermont, based on research by Miss Silverstone.

Exploitation-minded exhibitors will find the subjects endowed with special qualities that can be capitalized at the box-office.

Rogers Sets Theatre Contests for Kiddies

A nationwide series of contests for children will be sponsored by cowboy star Roy Rogers in theatres, department stores, drive-ins and state and county fairs, he announced at the weekend at Madison Square Garden here where he is appearing in a rodeo.

The contests, to be known as the "Roy Rogers Trick Lasso Contest," will commence Nov. 15 and continue for four weeks in each situation, Rogers said. Weekly prizes and a grand prize will be awarded. A cowboy personality will be master-of-ceremonies for each contest. Abe I. Feinberg of New York is contest representative for Rogers.

Para. Cost Saving Focuses on Cutting

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—In line with his previously announced policy aiming at "greater economy and efficiency without sacrificing quality," Don Hartman, head of Paramount production, has begun a survey among studio department heads to discover the most effective means for eliminating waste film footage.

Hartman said he believes waste footage can be eliminated by "careful pre-editing and planning long in advance."

ing." Johnston was tentatively scheduled to fly to Paris the end of this week.

Actual negotiations, Arnall reminded, have been and must continue to be handled by officials of the French and American governments. However, MPAA and SIMPP representatives are entitled to "sit in" on the official talks. An MPAA representative said here at the weekend that it was his understanding Johnston would seek to "negotiate" during his Paris visit.

SIMPP's policy with respect to the negotiation of foreign trade agreements has been to favor dealings on the inter-government level, while the MPAA has taken the position that quicker results are to be gotten when the American industry itself negotiates with foreign governments. The Anglo-US film pacts are reached between the American industry and British government. Franco-American film agreements, on the other hand, are governmental pacts.

Lux formerly was vice-president and general manager for Lazar. The new organization's other officers are: vice-president, Howard Antevil, Gloversville, and secretary-treasurer, George Kubick of Albany.

Bids for Pioneers Heaviest This Year

Applications for membership in the Motion Picture Pioneers here are coming in from all parts of the country at a much more rapid pace than in any previous year since the Pioneers was formed 13 years ago, Jack Cohn, president, reports.

Strict adherence to eligibility rules which require that a candidate for membership must have 25 active years in the industry to his credit, has led to the reluctant rejection of a number of applicants by the Pioneers' board of directors, Cohn pointed out. He explained that the term "active years" did not necessarily mean continuous years but the aggregate had to be a quarter of a century. Cohn also points out that new applications for membership cannot be serviced after Nov. 15, due to pressure of activity during the last 10 days before the "Jubilee Dinner."

Candidates accepted for membership will be inducted at the "Dinner" of the organization at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25 at which N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal, will be honored as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952," with George Jessel acting as toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet serving as chairman.

RKO Foreign Changes Due; Talks Opened

Tevlin's Resignation Tops Moves at Studio

Negotiations are underway between the new management group at RKO Radio Pictures preparatory to naming a new foreign sales manager.

Among those to whom overtures have been made is Alfred Crown, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc.

Officially, the post is still occupied by Phil Reisman, who returned to his desk at the home office yesterday upon his arrival from Europe. Reisman declined comment on his reported resignation, indicating that his status remained unclarified as of yesterday. Indications are a company announcement will be made today.

If it is, chances are that a new appointment to the foreign sales post will not be exactly that of a successor to Reisman, since Arnold Picker, new executive vice-president in charge of

Exhibitor Ends Ticket Tax By Accepting 'Gifts'

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 14.—Loren A. Gillespie, exhibitor at Okanogan, Wash., is so irritated by the Federal admission tax he decided to take matters into his own hands and do away with it now, instead of waiting for a successful outcome of COMPO's tax repeal campaign.

Gillespie stopped charging admission and asked patrons instead to donate any amount they like as they enter the theatre. He says he has the advice of an Internal Revenue deputy that he need pay no national tax as long as the contributions are not in specified sums.

Gillespie says the plan is working fine. Average donations are about one-third less than the previous established price with tax included. But, says Gillespie, refreshment sales have boomed. Patrons are diverting more to the concessions stand than they deduct from the old admission charge.

NEW UNIV. CREDIT OF $17,000,000

Initial Borrowing Under an Agreement With New York, Boston Banks Is $3,800,000

Universal Pictures has concluded with two banks a new loan agreement establishing a four-year revolving credit of $17,000,000, the company disclosed here yesterday in a report filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The agreement, made with First National Bank of Boston and Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, followed cancellation of a 1950 credit contract with those two banks and the Bank of the Manhattan Co.

The company promptly borrowed under the new pact $3,800,000, which was used to liquidate borrowings of $2,800,000 under the 1950 agreement and to add $1,000,000 to working capital for general corporate purposes. This initial loan was part of $5,000,000 which the company is entitled to borrow during the first year, ending Sept. 14, 1953, under the agreement.

The breakdown of future loans is as follows: second loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1953, $4,500,000; third loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1954, $4,000,000; fourth loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1955, $3,500,000.

Of the $3,800,000 borrowed initi-

Allied Board to Act on Arbitration Draft at Regular Meeting Next Month

Washington, Oct. 14.—There will be no call for a special meeting of Allied States' board of directors to act on the draft of an industry arbitration plan completed by distribution attorneys last week, Abram F. Myers, Allied chairman and general counsel, states. The plan will go before the regularly scheduled meeting of the board on Nov. 15-16, Myers said.

Myers' statement, in full, follows.

"Allied cannot act on the plan until the middle of November. There has been so much delay that a special session of the Allied board is out of the question. A call for the regular fall meeting, to be held in Chicago on Nov. 15 and 16, already has been issued. I hope Allied's arbitration committee will be prepared to make suitable recommendations to the board at that time.

"It goes without saying that a mishmash of the Aug. 20 draft contrived by film company attorneys behind closed doors and issued under Eric Johnston's imprimatur will be carefully scrutinized by Allied's committee and the board of directors before they reach a conclusion.

"I hope it will be found worthy."

High Court to Hear 3 Film Cases; Rejects 3 Others

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The Supreme Court yesterday agreed to hear the government's appeal from a Nashville District court decision dismissing civil contempt charges against Crescent Amusement Co.

The decision to review the Crescent case was one of six actions on industry cases taken by the Court "on the first business session of the new term. Justices Black and Clark took no part in the consideration or the decision in the Crescent case.

The Court also agreed to hear argument in two other industry cases—a lower court decision which said that motion picture advertising companies are not in restraint of trade when they enter into long-term contracts with exhibitors; and a decision declaring that the American Federation of Musicians had engaged in unlawful featherbedding against the Palace Theatre in Akron, Ohio.

Argument in the three cases will probably be heard by the court late this year or early next year. The court placed the Palace Theatre case on the summary docket, indicating it would allow only half an hour to each side for argument.

The Court refused to review three other industry cases. Two involved a complicated legal squabble over the U. S. copyrights to the film "Ecstacy." The other was a tax claim brought against the Internal Revenue Bureau by Jeanette Brecher, owner of the Plaza Theatre in New York.

The Court gave no reason for refusing to review the two cases, merely noting them in a list of orders.

Started in May, 1950

The history of the current Crescent suit started in May, 1950, when the Department of Justice brought both civil and criminal contempt of court actions against Crescent, four allied circuits and three circuit officers. It charged that they had violated the terms of the earlier consent decree and asked the court not only to find them in contempt, but also to modify the original decree in various respects to safeguard against further violations.

The U. S. District court at Nashville dismissed the charges against all defendants and refused to modify the decree except with regard to three instances where the court had earlier given Crescent the right to build theatres at Cleveland, Alcoa and Morristown, Tenn. In these three cases the court said it would listen to the Justice Department's allegations that the companies had been deceptive in their applications to build the theatres.

The Justice Department appealed the civil contempt proceedings directly to the Supreme Court and has appealed the criminal contempt charges to the Sixth Circuit court.

Defendants with Crescent are Rockwood Amusements, Inc., Muscle Shoals Theatres, Cherokee Amusement, Inc., Lyric Amusement Co., Louis Rosenbaum, Kermit C. Stengel and R. E. Baulch.

In the case of the Motion Picture Advertising Service Co., the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals had thrown out a Federal Trade Commission order which found the company had violated the anti-trust laws by entering into five-year exclusive screening contracts with exhibitors. The FTC then appealed to the Supreme Court. While only one firm is involved in the appeal, the practice of making long-term contracts has been a common one, and many other film advertising companies will undoubtedly be affected by the final decision.

The featherbedding case arose from an unfair labor practice charge brought by the Palace Theatre against the A. F. of M. The Palace had attempted to book a name band into the theatre and had also rejected requests from the local union that it hire local musicians to play in addition. When A. F. of M. head James C. Petrillo ordered the name band not to play the Palace, the theatre brought the charges.

The National Labor Relations Board threw out the unfair labor practice charges, saying that since the local musicians actually wanted to work it wasn't a case of featherbedding. The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, however, upheld the Palace charges and the NLRB took the case to the Supreme Court.

Studios Boost Top Product: Downing

Hollywood studios are turning out more top product today than in previous years, according to Russell V. Downing, president and managing director of Radio City Music Hall, who returned here yesterday from a two-week visit to the Coast where he had a look-see at pictures in production.

Russell Downing

Encouraged by his visit, Downing commented, "I think they are all concentrating on top product, rather than just turning out another picture." He said he saw 19 pictures during his stay, visiting the studios of M-G-M, Warner, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia.

He said that studio personnel have made strides in their thinking, compared to what he found on previous annual trips.

Presidents Meet Again

Presidents and foreign managers of Motion Picture Association of America member companies will meet here again tomorrow to attempt to settle the sharing of Japanese import licenses for the coming fiscal half-year.

'Mirror' Starts A Theatre Directory

Starting today, the New York Daily Mirror will feature a classified motion picture theatre directory similar to the one which has been appearing in the New York Post since last April, the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York disclosed yesterday.

The directory was established following a series of conferences between representatives of the ITOA's business promotions committee and officials of the Mirror's advertising department.

The directory will enable local theatres to advertise their attractions on a daily basis at special rates. At the outset, more than 40 theatres are expected to participate. The format will give each theatre two lines across two columns daily under a banner heading titled, "Neighborhood Movies." The Post's directory now has 90 theatre listings in its directory, or double the number that subscribed at the beginning.

The ITOA said discussions are underway with other local dailies with a view to securing the adoption of similar directories.

Says Cinerama Is Bigger Than Sound

Hollywood, Oct. 14.—Cinerama's beneficial effect on film theatres' future will exceed that of the transition from silent pictures to sound, chairman Roy Brewer told the AFL Film Council at its regular meeting today in reporting on his inspection of Cinerama during his New York visit.

Brewer, who is also the international representative of IATSE, revealed, in explaining Cinerama workings to the Council, that the operation requires the employment of 17 projectionists.

May Hold Italian Film Fete in '53

The possibility of holding another Italian film festival, again in New York, next year, was held out here yesterday by the Italian Film Export organization.

The IFE, commenting on the recently concluded "Salute to Italian Films Week," said that its success motivated the hope to hold another festival in New York and elsewhere next year. As previously reported, the IFE said it is planning to set up a distribution organization for Italian films in the U.S.

Newman Is Goldwyn's New Studio Head

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14. — Robert V. Newman has been appointed vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn Productions and studio manager. Newman joined the Goldwyn company in 1951. He succeeds Marvin A. Ezzell, who resigned.

Ezzell, who had been with Goldwyn Productions since 1926, said that he will take a long vacation before announcing his future plans.

ITOA to Honor RKO Radio Heads

The New York Independent Theatre Owners Association has set aside the agenda of its regular luncheon meeting at the Hotel Astor tomorrow and instead will honor a group of RKO Radio Pictures' newly-appointed executives at the luncheon, it was announced by Harry Brandt, ITOA President.

Among those invited were Charles Boasberg, general sales manager, and Walter Branson, assistant general sales manager.

Columbia Promotes Herbert L. Smith

Herbert L. Smith, former assistant director of purchases for Columbia Pictures, has been promoted to the post of director of purchases. Smith replaces Max Seligman, former director, who will remain with the purchasing department in an advisory, executive capacity.

The appointment of Fred Izze to the post of assistant director of purchases was also announced.

Says U. S. Firms Can Take $20,000,000 Out of U. K.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—American film companies operating here will be allowed to convert approximately $20,000,000 of their earnings here during the year ending Sept. 30, 1953, Henry Strauss, Parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, told questioners in Commons today.

The amount is slightly more than half the anticipated total earnings of the American companies here for the year, and represents something less than two per cent of the dollar expenditure of imports from the United States.

The Parliamentary questioning of Strauss was addressed to the recently concluded Anglo-American film agreement.

Earlier, the Board of Trade had called a press conference to clarify misunderstandings which arose here over the terms and intentions of the revised agreement.

The Board's spokesman emphasized that the £2,100,000 ($5,900,000) which the American companies agreed to treat as non-convertible related only to additional film rentals arising from seat price increases in the recent revision of the Eady Plan. It does not imply, he said, that at the end of the agreement next September there will be a balance of unremittable earnings.

The British government's sole concern, the spokesman added, was to ensure that the utilization of American earnings here did not create an undue drain on Britain's dollars. Whitehall wants the dollars set to work in this country, either by spending or investment. There is nothing in the agreement to prevent one American company transferring unremittable sterling to another.

Zukor Honored by N.Y. State Masons

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures, was honored by members of the Centennial Lodge No. 763, Free and Accepted Masons of New York State, at a special meeting held yesterday at the Pythian Headquarters here. Zukor was presented the Grand Lodge 50-year service award medal by Raymond C. Ellis, deputy grand master of the Masons of New York.

Dr. Robert M. Cushing, worshipful master of the Lodge, presided. Will H. Hays, former president of the Motion Picture Association of America's predecessor organization, served as master of ceremonies. Louis Nizer, industry attorney also spoke. The meeting was attended by Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields.

Smith, A Malco Manager, Killed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 14.—W. Clyde Smith, 49, manager of a circuit of theatres here was killed early today when his car crashed into a bridge on Highway 88. Smith had been manager of Malco Theatres here for 15 years.

State Trooper Jack McKinley said Smith was driving toward Hot Springs when he failed to negotiate a curve, crashed into a bridge abutment and plunged into a creek. He died shortly after being admitted to the Army-Navy Hospital.

Stars Start Nov. 9 On Carolina Tours

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 14.—The annual "Movietime U.S.A." tour in the Carolinas will get under way here Nov. 9 with the opening of the 40th annual convention of the Theatre Owners Association of North and South Carolina.

Lou Smith, executive director of "Movietime," came here last week to confer with Mrs. Walter Griffith, executive secretary of the theatre owners. He said that from six to eight Hollywood personalities will arrive on Nov. 9, and the group will split into two units, one going to North Carolina towns and one to South Carolina.

Smith said stars, writers and others engaged in motion picture production will be asked to go on the tour but that the names will not be divulged until about ten days before the convention.

'Four Poster' Stars At Cocktail Party

Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison, stars of "The Four Poster," Columbia Pictures-Stanley Kramer production, observed their 10th wedding anniversary last night at a cocktail party at the Hotel Pierre, attended by more than 300 representatives from the newspaper, magazine, television and radio fields attended.

Among those invited were Sid Caesar, Arthur Godfrey, Milton Berle, Skitch Henderson, Faye Emerson, Jinx Falkenberg, Tex McCrary, Robert Montgomery, John Mason Brown and Columbia Pictures' Jack Cohn, Joseph McConville, Abe Montague, Rube Jackter, Paul Lazarus, Jr., Howard LaSieur, Lawrence Lipskin, Hortense Schorr, Al Rylander, Abe Schneider and Leo Jaffe.

Coast Services Today For Jack Conway

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14. — Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn, for Jack Conway, veteran M-G-M director who died on Saturday. Said to be the star of the first picture made in Hollywod—a two-reeler called "Her Indian Hero"—Conway appeared in many early films until 1913, when he directed his first film, "The Old Armchair." Conway's last picture before becoming ill in 1948 was "Julia Misbehaves."

Surviving are his widow, the former Virginia Bushman, daughter of silent star Francis X. Bushman, two sons and a daughter.

Harry Yette Dies

BUFFALO, Oct. 14.—Harry P. Yette, 48, with the Schine circuit for 25 years and manager, for 21 years, of the Riverside Theatre here, died Sunday after suffering a stroke while returning to his home from the theatre. He is survived by the widow, Eva, two daughters, a brother and four sisters.

National Pre-Selling

PHOTOPLAY for November has a full-page, four-color, three-dimensional, pin-up portrait of Marilyn Monroe, which carries the headlines "I Want Women to Like Me," and is guaranteed to do no such thing. The same issue has a similar color page and stories on Susan Hayward and Jane Powell, and a double color page on Rock Hudson and Pier Angeli. Photoplay applauds "Assignment Paris" in this thriving fan magazine, and M-G-M, Warner, 20th Century-Fox, Universal, RKO Radio and Paramount carry pages of advertising. . . . Trans-World Airlines carried on a postcard campaign on "Assignment Paris" for the benefit of the Orpheum in Minneapolis. The airline provided and mailed the cards from Paris to the theatre's mailing list. . . . What may well be the longest greeting on record is being tape-recorded in the lobby of the Capitol Theatre on Broadway, to be sent to Bing Crosby with the compliments of his patrons who are enjoying "Just for You" and want to "say a few words to Bing." It can be done elsewhere, with the tape used on local stations as a 15-minute broadcast, and the voices identified.

N. Y. Grosses

either topped or equalled first week grosses.

At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, a robust $82,000 is indicated for the third and final week of "Somebody Loves Me," which was ushered in with an initial seven-day gross of $77,000. Opening today at the Roxy is "The Thief."

A fine $145,000 seen for the third inning of "Because You're Mine" at Radio City Music Hall, which features a stage show, about equals the picture's take for its first week.

'Paleface' Solid

"Son of Paleface" at the Paramount is expected to hit a solid $70,000 for its second week. The current Paramount stage headliner is Louis Prima and his band.

Holding up strong at the Rivoli is "Snows of Kilimanjaro," with $53,000 estimated for the fourth week. Also doing well is "The Merry Widow" at Loew's State, where $27,000 is forecast for the third round.

Among the new films, "The World in His Arms" bowed to a good $30,000 at the Mayfair for its first seven days. At the Capitol, a fairly nice $43,000 was registered for the initial week of "Just for You."

The fourth week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is expected to hit a satisfactory $15,000, while the second week of "Lure of the Wilderness" at the Globe is due to gross a moderate $9,500. "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is forecast to do a nice $13,000 for its eighth week. A fairly good $10,500 is seen for the 11th inning of "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria.

Among off-Broadway houses, a healthy $9,700 was racked up by "The Magic Box" in its third week at the Normandie. "The Four Poster" will premiere today at the Sutton, replacing "The Man in the White Suit," which ended its long engagement with $4,700 for its 28th week.

"The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" continues strong at the Park Avenue, with $4,600 indicated for its fifth stanza. The second week of "Savage Triangle" is expected to do a nice $7,000 at the Paris. The ninth week of "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is due to rack up a good $4,000. "The Promoter" will premiere at the Fine Arts Oct. 28.

$70,000 for 'Ivanhoe'

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Oriental Theatre did better, Friday and Sunday with "Ivanhoe" than with the corresponding days of the first week with "Quo Vadis." Saturday was almost as good as the first Saturday of "Quo Vadis." The management predicts that the first week will go over $70,000, a terrific figure for the House.

$19,500 for 'Snows'

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Killimanjaro" is running more than $4,000 ahead of "David and Bathsheba" with a gross, for its first six days, of $19,500 at the Hippodrome Theatre.

"The Prisoner Of Zenda"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

STUART GRANGER and James Mason are the dashing principals who register strongly in this lush adventure story in resplendant color by Technicolor, based on the captivating Anthony Hope novel that served as highly popular screen fare in prior silent and talkie versions. It is an especially appealing story that has been enhanced in this impressive Pandro S. Berman production by colorful settings and costumes, and some modernization in plot. Richard Thorpe's fine direction has kept the action moving at an absorbing pace. This should be one of the better box-office films of the year.

The adaptation by Wells Root, from the novel and the Edward Rose dramatization, establishes Granger as a vacationing Englishman arriving in the country of which his cousin, a physical double, overly fond of wine and whiskey, is soon to be crowned king. Granger performs both roles with proper character differentiation which is especially notable when the cousins drink together the night before the coronation. The real king outdrinks everyone, and his wine is drugged by order of his throne-seeking brother, Robert Douglas. The king's adviser, Louis Calhern, has the Englishman impersonate the King at the coronation, and Douglas' coup d'etat, engineered by the superbly villainous James Mason, is foiled.

When Mason finds the real king and imprisons him, Granger is forced to continue the impersonation, but his newly-found love for the intended queen, Deborah Kerr, causes him to attempt finding the king. A Mason ambush does not succeed as Granger is aided by Jane Greer, jealous girl friend of Douglas, who fears the latter's throne ascendance and marriage to Miss Kerr.

It is Miss Greer who later arranges to have Granger swim the moat to the castle in which the king is imprisoned and let down the drawbridge for Calhern and his soldiers to take over. Douglas is stabbed in a battle with Mason over Miss Greer's affections and after a tremendous sword battle with Granger, in which hardly any cinema trick is omitted, Mason escapes by diving into the moat. With the proper king restored to the throne and newly cognizant of his duties, the Englishman regretfully leaves Miss Kerr and rides away.

John L. Balderston and Noel Langley wrote the screen play. Capable support is given by Lewis Stone, Robert Coote, Peter Brocco and Francis Pierlot. Alfred Newman composed the appropriate musical score.

Running time, 101 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 14.

"Battle Zone"

(Allied Artists) Hollywood, Oct. 14

WALTER WANGER'S best production for AA to date is a fine representation of the Korean War that is authentic, compelling and bears rare conviction. John Hodiak, Stephen McNally and Linda Christian perform well under the excellent direction of Lesley Selander. An unusually credible screenplay by Steve Fisher has avoided mock heroics and romantic banalities and makes for an impressive story. This appears to be a money-maker for all situations.

Filmed with Marine Corps cooperation, Hodiak and McNally appear as Marine "non-coms" in the combat photography division. They continue their World War II rivalry in the Korean War, competing for the love of Miss Christian, a Red Cross nurse, who switches her affections from Hodiak to McNally. Meanwhile, the Marines move from training at Camp Pendleton to the Inchon landing, up to the reservoir area. For the finale, a large offensive, made possible by intelligence work by Hodiak, McNally and others in the combat photographic division, gets underway.

There is plenty of action in this neatly balanced producton which has effectively emphasized a genuine and plausible story. William A. Calihan, Jr., earned a solid credit as associate producer.

Included in the cast are Dave Willock, Martin Milner, Jack Larson, Richard Emory, Philip Ahn, John Fontaine, Carleton Young, Todd Karnes and Gil Stratton, Jr.

Running time, 82 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 28.

Reade's Park Avenue Is Leased to Bank

The Park Avenue Theatre, here has been leased on a short-term basis to an undisclosed local banking institution, it was announced by Walter Reade Theatres.

The lease is for a period of two years commencing Nov. 1, and provides for the conversion of the theatre into banking quarters and office space for the lessee until a new building is erected for the bank. There will be no structural alterations to the theatre, it being contemplated that at the completion of the lease the premises will again be utilized for theatrical purposes. Walter Reade, Jr., president of Reade Theatres, Inc., declared that terms of the lease include an annual rental for the theatre "in excess of $100,000."

ally, $1,300,000 went to the company's wholly-owned subsidiary, United World Films. Repayment on the UW notes will be in the amount of $175,000 in March and Sept., 1953; $175,000 in March and Sept., 1954; $150,000 in March and Sept., 1955, and $150,000 in the same two months of 1956. The UW notes bear interest at the rate of 3½ per cent per annum.

Repayment interest under the general revolving credit was agreed upon as follows: "payment on the last day of each calendar month beginning last month an amount calculated at the rate of 1/24 of one per cent per month of the difference between the average daily amount of advances under the revolving credit outstanding during such calendar month and the average daily maximum amount of advances under the revolving credit that could properly have been outstanding during such month."

By-laws Amended

The company also notified the SEC tat by-laws were amended to establish the date for annual meetings of stockholders as the second Wednesday in March instead of the second Tuesday in July as previously stipulated. Other by-law amendments establish the office of board chairman, and assign to the executive vice-president powers and duties vested also in the company president.

Operating profit for the year was $1,563,000, against the previous year's $2,668,000, and estimated provision for Federal taxes in the respective years was $760,000 and $1,170,000.

Merrill Sworn As FCC Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Eugene H. Merrill was sworn in today as an FCC commissioner, replacing by appointment of President Truman, Robert F. Jones, who resigned last month.

Merrill is a native of Utah and has been with the Defense Production Administration and the National Production Authority for the past two years. Prior to that he was chief of communications in the American zone of occupation in Germany. Merrill has a wide background in Public Utilities and for some time was a consulting engineer to the Utah Public Service Commission.

Weather a Boon to Oregon Drive-Ins

Portland, Ore., Oct. 14. — Drive-in theatres in this area have had a dividend in the form of fine weather this fall that is keeping attendance at midsummer peaks. There has been no general rainfall for 57 days.

Despite the good weather for the outdoors theatres, "Ivanhoe" drew capacity business at $1.25 top for its first week at Hamrick's Liberty here.

New Five-year Pact For Muhl at U-I

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—A new five-year employment contract has been signed by Edward Muhl as general manager of operations at the Universal-International studio.

The pact, which will become effective next Jan. 1, is a replacement for an existing agreement signed Oct. 16, 1951.

Beginning Jan. 1, Muhl's salary will be $1,200 per week. Under the agreement, it will increase to $1,300 for the second year, and to $1,400 for the third year. At the beginning of the fourth year his salary will rise to $1,500 per week and continue at that figure for the duration of the contract.

Para. Mideast Group Leading Sales Drive

Paramount's Mideastern division, headed by Howard Minsky, occupies the number one position in the company's "Greater Confidence Parade of 1952" sales drive, according to a tabulation of the first month's figures.

Detroit, under branch manager Mike Simon, leads all other exchange cities, but is closely followed by quota-topping Kansas City, Washington, Omaha, Denver, Des Moines and Milwaukee.

Winners of the drive, which will continue for 13 weeks, through Nov. 29th, will share $40,000 in prize money. An additional $5,000 will be split among members of non-winning branches who display outstanding individual effort.

Among the top productions included in the drive period are: "Just for You," "Caribbean," "The Turning Point," "The Savage," "Somebody Loves Me" and "Hurricane Smith."

Owen Opens Para. Meeting in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—Hugh Owen, Paramount's Eastern - Southern division manager, is here from New York to conduct a week-long series of meetings with branch, sales and booking managers of the company's Atlanta, New Orleans, Jacksonville and Charlotte exchanges. He is accompanied to the meeting by his assistant, Al Fitter.

The meetings will be a follow-up to Paramount's recent division sales managers conclave in Chicago.

Univ. Stockholder Sues on Decca Deal

Universal Pictures, Decca Records, General Cinema Finance Corp., Realart Pictures and certain "U" employes have been named defendants in an action filed in New York Supreme Court by "U" minority stockholder Bertha T. Aine, charging that common stock and warrants of Universal were sold to Decca at prices greater than their market value and that Milton R. Rackmil, "U" and Decca president, and Nate J. Blumberg, "U" board chairman, were given employment contracts at excessive salaries and carrying other allegedly unreasonable benefits.

It was also alleged that other officers and employes of Universal were given employment contracts at excessive salaries, and that some of the defendants conceived of a plan and scheme whereby Universal would acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of Decca in exchange for Universal stock at a ratio advantageous to the Decca stockholders.

Neither Decca nor Rackmil is named as a defendant to a second cause of action, which alleges a plan and scheme involving a license for the reissuance of certain of Universal's pictures for an allegedly inadequate consideration.

Relief sought by the plaintiff is for an accounting of profits and damages; for a judgment declaring certain contracts to be unfair and inequitable, and for an injunction.

Stage for Theatre TV Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—James Fly, attorney for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, will make the opening statements at the engineering and accounting phase of the Federal Communications Commission's theatre television hearing scheduled to open here next Monday.

Fly and Cohn told this to the FCC today at a pre-hearing conference at which some 40 or 50 attorneys were present. Original estimate of this phase of the hearing was that it would last one week. But the attorneys today agreed that it would take two.

Part of the reason for the extended estimate is that the hearing won't meet on Thursdays, when the Commission transacts FCC business. Another reason is that although cross-questioning won't take place until the hearing re-opens Jan. 12, clarifying questions may be asked during this phase. All questions must be submitted in writing, the attorneys agreed, to Benedict Cottone, FCC general counsel. Cottone will represent the Commission at the hearing, along with four or five other FCC attorneys.

Mexican Import Duty On Film Increased

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—American pictures are affected in particular by increased import duties that have just been enforced by the Mexican government. Hollywood provides most foreign pictures played in this country.

The duties now are $4.62, plus 10 per cent per kilogram (2¼ lbs.) instead of $2.89 per kilogram.

Calls Snaper Sales Charges Political

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Commenting today on recent statements by Wilbur Snaper, national Allied president, impugning film salesmen's methods in dealing with exhibitors, David Beznor, general counsel for the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesman of America, said:

"What a melancholy commentary upon Mr. Snaper's sense of decency and fair play that he should stoop to hurling invectives upon the hard working salesmen who have done more than any other group to cement relationships between exhibitor and distributor and whose very livelihood depends upon their success in this undertaking.

"It is a hoary political maneuver to lash out and malign another's reputation to cover up personal shortcomings.

"When the duties of a man's position are so onerous as to overwhelm him with their complexities, he has indicated his inadequacy to hold a position with the responsibilities that the president of Allied is called upon to perform.

"Apparently, Mr. Snaper has cracked under the burden of operating an organization in an orderly fashion. Surely, the embarrassment to which he has subjected Allied members is such as to place Wilbur Snaper in an untenable position.

"His gratuitous outburst was completely incompatible with the sane, responsible viewpoint of the great majority of the Allied membership.

"For his difficulty in keeping pace with his manifold responsibilities, he has our deepest sympathy. For his unwarranted vituperation, Wilbur Snaper has our unmitigated contempt."

Wurtzel Films Go Into TV Release

Sol M. Wurtzel, veteran Hollywood producer, has leased his entire group of productions to Major Attractions, Inc. for a number of years and simultaneously approved distribution through United Television Corp. The deal, as disclosed here in a joint statement by Wurtzel, who is here from the Coast, and Arche Mayer, United President, not only includes existing pictures, but provides for new productions as well.

In the first group, produced in Hollywood as recently as 1949, the release schedule will include: "Dangerous Years," "Strange Journey," "Rendezvous 24," "Roses Are Red," "Crimson Key," "Deadline for Murder," "Back Lash," "Dangerous Millions," "Trouble Preferred," "Night Wind," "Fighting Back," "Arthur Takes Over," "Half-past Midnight," "Invisible Wall" and "Second Chance."

Following the meeting the unit's members and their wives met at the Latin Quarter here for dinner.

Relief Fund Offers New Christmas Card

A Christmas card for the exclusive use of persons in the industry has been added to the list of cards put on sale this year by the Motion Picture Relief Fund in Hollywood.

The card, entitled "Christmas at the Bijou," is being offered for sale exclusively to exhibitors and personnel of the distributing companies. Printed in full color, it shows a typical American theatre, elaborately decorated for Christmas.

Miss. Exhibitors Map Tax Battle

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 14.—Meetings between Mississippi exhibitors and Congressmen will be held shortly under a plan to help repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax. The plan was adopted recently by the board of directors of the Mississippi Theatre Owners.

The board agreed that Congressmen and Senators would be pressed for an answer to two questions:

(1.) If a bill to eliminate the tax is introduced and brought to the floor, will he vote for it and work for its passage?

(2.) Will he use his influence to have the bill reported favorably to the Ways and Means Committee and to the floor?

The board meeting, attended by Duke Clark of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, also decided to use the argument of "sound business" in its anti-tax battle, emphasizing the need of small exhibitors to be saved from ruinous taxation.

Reserves Decision On 'O.Henry' Suit

New York Supreme Court Justice Morris Elder yesterday reserved decision on the Fine Arts Theatre suit brought against 20th Century-Fox and the Trans-Lux Lexington Corp., seeking injunctive relief which would bar "O. Henry's Full House" from opening at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street tomorrow. A decision is expected today.

The defense claimed that the owner of the Fine Arts had repudiated the contract for the picture. In addition, the defense asked that the case be brought to trial, declaring that the suit should not be decided by affidavits. Fine Arts counsel claimed that even if there was an oral release from the contract, as a matter of law, such a release was in operatum.

20th-Fox to Meet On 'My Pal Gus'

A series of conferences to be held during the next week at the 20th Century-Fox home office will aid in the decision to give the company's forthcoming release, "My Pal Gus," unusual distribution handling, it was announced by Al Lichtman, director of distribution.

The film is set to get a top advertising, publicity and exploitation promotion for its debut nationally in December.

RKO Foreign Changes Due; Talks Opened

Tevlin's Resignation Tops Moves at Studio

Negotiations are underway between the new management group at RKO Radio Pictures preparatory to naming a new foreign sales manager.

Among those to whom overtures have been made is Alfred Crown, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc.

Officially, the post is still occupied by Phil Reisman, who returned to his desk at the home office yesterday upon his arrival from Europe. Reisman declined comment on his reported resignation, indicating that his status remained unclarified as of yesterday. Indications are a company announcement will be made today.

If it is, chances are that a new appointment to the foreign sales post will not be exactly that of a successor to Reisman, since Arnold Picker, new executive vice-president in charge of

Exhibitor Ends Ticket Tax By Accepting 'Gifts'

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 14.—Loren A. Gillespie, exhibitor at Okanogan, Wash., is so irritated by the Federal admission tax he decided to take matters into his own hands and do away with it now, instead of waiting for a successful outcome of COMPO's tax repeal campaign.

Gillespie stopped charging admission and asked patrons instead to donate any amount they like as they enter the theatre. He says he has the advice of an Internal Revenue deputy that he need pay no national tax as long as the contributions are not in specified sums.

Gillespie says the plan is working fine. Average donations are about one-third less than the previous established price with tax included. But, says Gillespie, refreshment sales have boomed. Patrons are diverting more to the concessions stand than they deduct from the old admission charge.

Reelect Snaper to Head N. J. Allied

Wilburn Snaper, national Allied president, yesterday was reelected president of New Jersey Allied at a meeting of the unit at the Hotel Astor here.

Reelected also were Louis Gold and John Harwan, vice-presidents, and A. Louis Martin, treasurer. William Basil was elected secretary, succeeding Haskell Block.

NEW UNIV. CREDIT OF $17,000,000

Initial Borrowing Under an Agreement With New York, Boston Banks Is $3,800,000

Universal Pictures has concluded with two banks a new loan agreement establishing a four-year revolving credit of $17,000,000, the company disclosed here yesterday in a report filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The agreement, made with First National Bank of Boston and Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, followed cancellation of a 1950 credit contract with those two banks and the Bank of the Manhattan Co.

The company promptly borrowed under the new pact $3,800,000, which was used to liquidate borrowings of $2,800,000 under the 1950 agreement and to add $1,000,000 to working capital for general corporate purposes. This initial loan was part of $5,000,000 which the company is entitled to borrow during the first year, ending Sept. 14, 1953, under the agreement.

The breakdown of future loans is as follows: second loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1953, $4,500,000; third loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1954, $4,000,000; fourth loan year, beginning Sept. 15, 1955, $3,500,000.

Goldsmith to RKO As TV Consultant

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, engineer and inventor in the motion picture and television field, has joined RKO Theatres as a consultant, Sol. A. Schwartz, president, announced here yesterday.

Dr. A. Goldsmith

A former vice-president and general engineer of Radio Corp. of America, Dr. Goldsmith will undertake for RKO "detailed studies of possible technical and industrial improvements and additions in motion picture and television exhibition in theatres," Schwartz said.

Dr. Goldsmith was described as having been intimately connected with the development and growth of television and was credited with having made numerous inventions in black-and-white and color TV. His past service

TOA 16mm. Poll Result Due Nov. 1

The result of the Theatre Owners of America's poll of its member units to determine whether the organization should seek defendant status in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit is expected to be announced on or shortly after Nov. 1, it was indicated here yesterday. Nov. 1 is the deadline for filing replies.

TOA was labeled a co-conspirator in the government's complaint, but not a defendant. Named defendants were major film companies, the charge being refusal to release product in 16mm. to TV and other outlets.

Knoxville Bans All Of Chaplin's Films

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.—Charlie Chaplin's films will not be shown in any Knoxville theatre or at the University of Tennessee, following a protest by the local American Legion, which also expressed objection to the showing of Russian-made films. C. E. Brehm, U. of T. president, pledged to recognize the protest.

Allied Board to Act on Arbitration Draft at Regular Meeting Next Month

Washington, Oct. 14.—There will be no call for a special meeting of Allied States' board of directors to act on the draft of an industry arbitration plan completed by distribution attorneys last week, Abram F. Myers, Allied chairman and general counsel, states. The plan will go before the regularly scheduled meeting of the board on Nov. 15-16, Myers said.

Myers' statement, in full, follows.

"Allied cannot act on the plan until the middle of November. There has been so much delay that a special session of the Allied board is out of the question. A call for the regular fall meeting, to be held in Chicago on Nov. 15 and 16, already has been issued. I hope Allied's arbitration committee will be prepared to make suitable recommendations to the board at that time.

"It goes without saying that a mishmash of the Aug. 20 draft contrived by film company attorneys behind closed doors and issued under Eric Johnston's imprimatur will be carefully scrutinized by Allied's committee and the board of directors before they reach a conclusion.

"I hope it will be found worthy."

High Court to Hear 3 Film Cases; Rejects 3 Others

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The Supreme Court yesterday agreed to hear the government's appeal from a Nashville District court decision dismissing civil contempt charges against Crescent Amusement Co.

The decision to review the Crescent case was one of six actions on industry cases taken by the Court "on the first business session of the new term. Justices Black and Clark took no part in the consideration or the decision in the Crescent case.

The Court also agreed to hear argument in two other industry cases—a lower court decision which said that motion picture advertising companies are not in restraint of trade when they enter into long-term contracts with exhibitors; and a decision declaring that the American Federation of Musicians had engaged in unlawful featherbedding against the Palace Theatre in Akron, Ohio.

Argument in the three cases will probably be heard by the court late this year or early next year. The court placed the Palace Theatre case on the summary docket, indicating it would allow only half an hour to each side for argument.

The Court refused to review three other industry cases. Two involved a complicated legal squabble over the U. S. copyrights to the film "Ecstacy." The other was a tax claim brought against the Internal Revenue Bureau by Jeanette Brecher, owner of the Plaza Theatre in New York.

The Court gave no reason for refusing to review the two cases, merely noting them in a list of orders.

Started in May, 1950

The history of the current Crescent suit started in May, 1950, when the Department of Justice brought both civil and criminal contempt of court actions against Crescent, four allied circuits and three circuit officers. It charged that they had violated the terms of the earlier consent decree and asked the court not only to find them in contempt, but also to modify the original decree in various respects to safeguard against further violations.

The U. S. District court at Nashville dismissed the charges against all defendants and refused to modify the decree except with regard to three instances where the court had earlier given Crescent the right to build theatres at Cleveland, Alcoa and Morristown, Tenn. In these three cases the court said it would listen to the Justice Department's allegations that the companies had been deceptive in their applications to build the theatres.

The Justice Department appealed the civil contempt proceedings directly to the Supreme Court and has appealed the criminal contempt charges to the Sixth Circuit court.

Defendants with Crescent are Rockwood Amusements, Inc., Muscle Shoals Theatres, Cherokee Amusement, Inc., Lyric Amusement Co., Louis Rosenbaum, Kermit C. Stengel and R. E. Baulch.

In the case of the Motion Picture Advertising Service Co., the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals had thrown out a Federal Trade Commission order which found the company had violated the anti-trust laws by entering into five-year exclusive screening contracts with exhibitors. The FTC then appealed to the Supreme Court. While only one firm is involved in the appeal, the practice of making long-term contracts has been a common one, and many other film advertising companies will undoubtedly be affected by the final decision.

The featherbedding case arose from an unfair labor practice charge brought by the Palace Theatre against the A. F. of M. The Palace had attempted to book a name band into the theatre and had also rejected requests from the local union that it hire local musicians to play in addition. When A. F. of M. head James C. Petrillo ordered the name band not to play the Palace, the theatre brought the charges.

The National Labor Relations Board threw out the unfair labor practice charges, saying that since the local musicians actually wanted to work it wasn't a case of featherbedding. The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, however, upheld the Palace charges and the NLRB took the case to the Supreme Court.

Studios Boost Top Product: Downing

Hollywood studios are turning out more top product today than in previous years, according to Russell V. Downing, president and managing director of Radio City Music Hall, who returned here yesterday from a two-week visit to the Coast where he had a look-see at pictures in production.

Russell Downing

Encouraged by his visit, Downing commented, "I think they are all concentrating on top product, rather than just turning out another picture." He said he saw 19 pictures during his stay, visiting the studios of M-G-M, Warner, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia.

He said that studio personnel have made strides in their thinking, compared to what he found on previous annual trips.

'Mirror' Starts A Theatre Directory

Starting today, the New York Daily Mirror will feature a classified motion picture theatre directory similar to the one which has been appearing in the New York Post since last April, the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York disclosed yesterday.

The directory was established following a series of conferences between representatives of the ITOA's business promotions committee and officials of the Mirror's advertising department.

The directory will enable local theatres to advertise their attractions on a daily basis at special rates. At the outset, more than 40 theatres are expected to participate. The format will give each theatre two lines across two columns daily under a banner heading titled, "Neighborhood Movies." The Post's directory now has 90 theatre listings in its directory, or double the number that subscribed at the beginning.

The ITOA said discussions are underway with other local dailies with a view to securing the adoption of similar directories.

Says Cinerama Is Bigger Than Sound

Hollywood, Oct. 14.—Cinerama's beneficial effect on film theatres' future will exceed that of the transition from silent pictures to sound, chairman Roy Brewer told the AFL Film Council at its regular meeting today in reporting on his inspection of Cinerama during his New York visit.

Brewer, who is also the international representative of IATSE, revealed, in explaining Cinerama workings to the Council, that the operation requires the employment of 17 projectionists.

May Hold Italian Film Fete in '53

The possibility of holding another Italian film festival, again in New York, next year, was held out here yesterday by the Italian Film Export organization.

The IFE, commenting on the recently concluded "Salute to Italian Films Week," said that its success motivated the hope to hold another festival in New York and elsewhere next year. As previously reported, the IFE said it is planning to set up a distribution organization for Italian films in the U.S.

Herbert L. Smith, former assistant director of purchases for Columbia Pictures, has been promoted to the post of director of purchases. Smith replaces Max Seligman, former director, who will remain with the purchasing department in an advisory, executive capacity.

The appointment of Fred Izze to the post of assistant director of purchases was also announced.

Says U. S. Firms Can Take $20,000,000 Out of U. K.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—American film companies operating here will be allowed to convert approximately $20,000,000 of their earnings here during the year ending Sept. 30, 1953, Henry Strauss, Parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, told questioners in Commons today.

The amount is slightly more than half the anticipated total earnings of the American companies here for the year, and represents something less than two per cent of the dollar expenditure of imports from the United States.

The Parliamentary questioning of Strauss was addressed to the recently concluded Anglo-American film agreement.

Earlier, the Board of Trade had called a press conference to clarify misunderstandings which arose here over the terms and intentions of the revised agreement.

The Board's spokesman emphasized that the £2,100,000 ($5,900,000) which the American companies agreed to treat as non-convertible related only to additional film rentals arising from seat price increases in the recent revision of the Eady Plan. It does not imply, he said, that at the end of the agreement next September there will be a balance of unremittable earnings.

The British government's sole concern, the spokesman added, was to ensure that the utilization of American earnings here did not create an undue drain on Britain's dollars. Whitehall wants the dollars set to work in this country, either by spending or investment. There is nothing in the agreement to prevent one American company transferring unremittable sterling to another.

Zukor Honored by N.Y. State Masons

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures, was honored by members of the Centennial Lodge No. 763, Free and Accepted Masons of New York State, at a special meeting held yesterday at the Pythian Headquarters here. Zukor was presented the Grand Lodge 50-year service award medal by Raymond C. Ellis, deputy grand master of the Masons of New York.

Dr. Robert M. Cushing, worshipful master of the Lodge, presided. Will H. Hays, former president of the Motion Picture Association of America's predecessor organization, served as master of ceremonies. Louis Nizer, industry attorney also spoke. The meeting was attended by Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields.

Smith, A Malco Manager, Killed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 14.—W. Clyde Smith, 49, manager of a circuit of theatres here was killed early today when his car crashed into a bridge on Highway 88. Smith had been manager of Malco Theatres here for 15 years.

State Trooper Jack McKinley said Smith was driving toward Hot Springs when he failed to negotiate a curve, crashed into a bridge abutment and plunged into a creek. He died shortly after being admitted to the Army-Navy Hospital.

Stars Start Nov. 9 On Carolina Tours

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 14.—The annual "Movietime U.S.A." tour in the Carolinas will get under way here Nov. 9 with the opening of the 40th annual convention of the Theatre Owners Association of North and South Carolina.

Lou Smith, executive director of "Movietime," came here last week to confer with Mrs. Walter Griffith, executive secretary of the theatre owners. He said that from six to eight Hollywood personalities will arrive on Nov. 9, and the group will split into two units, one going to North Carolina towns and one to South Carolina.

Smith said stars, writers and others engaged in motion picture production will be asked to go on the tour but that the names will not be divulged until about ten days before the convention.

'Four Poster' Stars At Cocktail Party

Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison, stars of "The Four Poster," Columbia Pictures-Stanley Kramer production, observed their 10th wedding anniversary last night at a cocktail party at the Hotel Pierre, attended by more than 300 representatives from the newspaper, magazine, television and radio fields attended.

Coast Services Today For Jack Conway

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14. — Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn, for Jack Conway, veteran M-G-M director who died on Saturday. Said to be the star of the first picture made in Hollywod—a two-reeler called "Her Indian Hero"—Conway appeared in many early films until 1913, when he directed his first film, "The Old Armchair." Conway's last picture before becoming ill in 1948 was "Julia Misbehaves."

Surviving are his widow, the former Virginia Bushman, daughter of silent star Francis X. Bushman, two sons and a daughter.

Harry Yette Dies

BUFFALO, Oct. 14.—Harry P. Yette, 48, with the Schine circuit for 25 years and manager, for 21 years, of the Riverside Theatre here, died Sunday after suffering a stroke while returning to his home from the theatre. He is survived by the widow, Eva, two daughters, a brother and four sisters.

PHOTOPLAY for November has a full-page, four-color, three-dimensional, pin-up portrait of Marilyn Monroe, which carries the headlines "I Want Women to Like Me," and is guaranteed to do no such thing. The same issue has a similar color page and stories on Susan Hayward and Jane Powell, and a double color page on Rock Hudson and Pier Angeli. Photoplay applauds "Assignment Paris" in this thriving fan magazine, and M-G-M, Warner, 20th Century-Fox, Universal, RKO Radio and Paramount carry pages of advertising. . . . Trans-World Airlines carried on a postcard campaign on "Assignment Paris" for the benefit of the Orpheum in Minneapolis. The airline provided and mailed the cards from Paris to the theatre's mailing list. . . . What may well be the longest greeting on record is being tape-recorded in the lobby of the Capitol Theatre on Broadway, to be sent to Bing Crosby with the compliments of his patrons who are enjoying "Just for You" and want to "say a few words to Bing." It can be done elsewhere, with the tape used on local stations as a 15-minute broadcast, and the voices identified.

either topped or equalled first week grosses.

At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, a robust $82,000 is indicated for the third and final week of "Somebody Loves Me," which was ushered in with an initial seven-day gross of $77,000. Opening today at the Roxy is "The Thief."

A fine $145,000 seen for the third inning of "Because You're Mine" at Radio City Music Hall, which features a stage show, about equals the picture's take for its first week.

'Paleface' Solid

"Son of Paleface" at the Paramount is expected to hit a solid $70,000 for its second week. The current Paramount stage headliner is Louis Prima and his band.

Holding up strong at the Rivoli is "Snows of Kilimanjaro," with $53,000 estimated for the fourth week. Also doing well is "The Merry Widow" at Loew's State, where $27,000 is forecast for the third round.

Among the new films, "The World in His Arms" bowed to a good $30,000 at the Mayfair for its first seven days. At the Capitol, a fairly nice $43,000 was registered for the initial week of "Just for You."

The fourth week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is expected to hit a satisfactory $15,000, while the second week of "Lure of the Wilderness" at the Globe is due to gross a moderate $9,500. "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is forecast to do a nice $13,000 for its eighth week. A fairly good $10,500 is seen for the 11th inning of "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria.

Among off-Broadway houses, a healthy $9,700 was racked up by "The Magic Box" in its third week at the Normandie. "The Four Poster" will premiere today at the Sutton, replacing "The Man in the White Suit," which ended its long engagement with $4,700 for its 28th week.

"The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" continues strong at the Park Avenue, with $4,600 indicated for its fifth stanza. The second week of "Savage Triangle" is expected to do a nice $7,000 at the Paris. The ninth week of "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is due to rack up a good $4,000. "The Promoter" will premiere at the Fine Arts Oct. 28.

$70,000 for 'Ivanhoe'

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Oriental Theatre did better, Friday and Sunday with "Ivanhoe" than with the corresponding days of the first week with "Quo Vadis." Saturday was almost as good as the first Saturday of "Quo Vadis." The management predicts that the first week will go over $70,000, a terrific figure for the House.

$19,500 for 'Snows'

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Killimanjaro" is running more than $4,000 ahead of "David and Bathsheba" with a gross, for its first six days, of $19,500 at the Hippodrome Theatre.

"The Prisoner Of Zenda"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

STUART GRANGER and James Mason are the dashing principals who register strongly in this lush adventure story in resplendant color by Technicolor, based on the captivating Anthony Hope novel that served as highly popular screen fare in prior silent and talkie versions. It is an especially appealing story that has been enhanced in this impressive Pandro S. Berman production by colorful settings and costumes, and some modernization in plot. Richard Thorpe's fine direction has kept the action moving at an absorbing pace. This should be one of the better box-office films of the year.

The adaptation by Wells Root, from the novel and the Edward Rose dramatization, establishes Granger as a vacationing Englishman arriving in the country of which his cousin, a physical double, overly fond of wine and whiskey, is soon to be crowned king. Granger performs both roles with proper character differentiation which is especially notable when the cousins drink together the night before the coronation. The real king outdrinks everyone, and his wine is drugged by order of his throne-seeking brother, Robert Douglas. The king's adviser, Louis Calhern, has the Englishman impersonate the King at the coronation, and Douglas' coup d'etat, engineered by the superbly villainous James Mason, is foiled.

When Mason finds the real king and imprisons him, Granger is forced to continue the impersonation, but his newly-found love for the intended queen, Deborah Kerr, causes him to attempt finding the king. A Mason ambush does not succeed as Granger is aided by Jane Greer, jealous girl friend of Douglas, who fears the latter's throne ascendance and marriage to Miss Kerr.

It is Miss Greer who later arranges to have Granger swim the moat to the castle in which the king is imprisoned and let down the drawbridge for Calhern and his soldiers to take over. Douglas is stabbed in a battle with Mason over Miss Greer's affections and after a tremendous sword battle with Granger, in which hardly any cinema trick is omitted, Mason escapes by diving into the moat. With the proper king restored to the throne and newly cognizant of his duties, the Englishman regretfully leaves Miss Kerr and rides away.

John L. Balderston and Noel Langley wrote the screen play. Capable support is given by Lewis Stone, Robert Coote, Peter Brocco and Francis Pierlot. Alfred Newman composed the appropriate musical score.

Running time, 101 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 14.

"Battle Zone"

(Allied Artists) Hollywood, Oct. 14

WALTER WANGER'S best production for AA to date is a fine representation of the Korean War that is authentic, compelling and bears rare conviction. John Hodiak, Stephen McNally and Linda Christian perform well under the excellent direction of Lesley Selander. An unusually credible screenplay by Steve Fisher has avoided mock heroics and romantic banalities and makes for an impressive story. This appears to be a money-maker for all situations.

Filmed with Marine Corps cooperation, Hodiak and McNally appear as Marine "non-coms" in the combat photography division. They continue their World War II rivalry in the Korean War, competing for the love of Miss Christian, a Red Cross nurse, who switches her affections from Hodiak to McNally. Meanwhile, the Marines move from training at Camp Pendleton to the Inchon landing, up to the reservoir area. For the finale, a large offensive, made possible by intelligence work by Hodiak, McNally and others in the combat photographic division, gets underway.

There is plenty of action in this neatly balanced producton which has effectively emphasized a genuine and plausible story. William A. Calihan, Jr., earned a solid credit as associate producer.

Included in the cast are Dave Willock, Martin Milner, Jack Larson, Richard Emory, Philip Ahn, John Fontaine, Carleton Young, Todd Karnes and Gil Stratton, Jr.

Running time, 82 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 28.

Reade's Park Avenue Is Leased to Bank

The Park Avenue Theatre, here has been leased on a short-term basis to an undisclosed local banking institution, it was announced by Walter Reade Theatres.

The lease is for a period of two years commencing Nov. 1, and provides for the conversion of the theatre into banking quarters and office space for the lessee until a new building is erected for the bank. There will be no structural alterations to the theatre, it being contemplated that at the completion of the lease the premises will again be utilized for theatrical purposes. Walter Reade, Jr., president of Reade Theatres, Inc., declared that terms of the lease include an annual rental for the theatre "in excess of $100,000."

ally, $1,300,000 went to the company's wholly-owned subsidiary, United World Films. Repayment on the UW notes will be in the amount of $175,000 in March and Sept., 1953; $175,000 in March and Sept., 1954; $150,000 in March and Sept., 1955, and $150,000 in the same two months of 1956. The UW notes bear interest at the rate of 3½ per cent per annum.

Repayment interest under the general revolving credit was agreed upon as follows: "payment on the last day of each calendar month beginning last month an amount calculated at the rate of 1/24 of one per cent per month of the difference between the average daily amount of advances under the revolving credit outstanding during such calendar month and the average daily maximum amount of advances under the revolving credit that could properly have been outstanding during such month."

By-laws Amended

The company also notified the SEC tat by-laws were amended to establish the date for annual meetings of stockholders as the second Wednesday in March instead of the second Tuesday in July as previously stipulated. Other by-law amendments establish the office of board chairman, and assign to the executive vice-president powers and duties vested also in the company president.

New Five-year Pact For Muhl at U-I

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—A new five-year employment contract has been signed by Edward Muhl as general manager of operations at the Universal-International studio.

The pact, which will become effective next Jan. 1, is a replacement for an existing agreement signed Oct. 16, 1951.

Beginning Jan. 1, Muhl's salary will be $1,200 per week. Under the agreement, it will increase to $1,300 for the second year, and to $1,400 for the third year. At the beginning of the fourth year his salary will rise to $1,500 per week and continue at that figure for the duration of the contract.

Para. Mideast Group Leading Sales Drive

Paramount's Mideastern division, headed by Howard Minsky, occupies the number one position in the company's "Greater Confidence Parade of 1952" sales drive, according to a tabulation of the first month's figures.

Detroit, under branch manager Mike Simon, leads all other exchange cities, but is closely followed by quota-topping Kansas City, Washington, Omaha, Denver, Des Moines and Milwaukee.

Winners of the drive, which will continue for 13 weeks, through Nov. 29th, will share $40,000 in prize money. An additional $5,000 will be split among members of non-winning branches who display outstanding individual effort.

Among the top productions included in the drive period are: "Just for You," "Caribbean," "The Turning Point," "The Savage," "Somebody Loves Me" and "Hurricane Smith."

Owen Opens Para. Meeting in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—Hugh Owen, Paramount's Eastern - Southern division manager, is here from New York to conduct a week-long series of meetings with branch, sales and booking managers of the company's Atlanta, New Orleans, Jacksonville and Charlotte exchanges. He is accompanied to the meeting by his assistant, Al Fitter.

The meetings will be a follow-up to Paramount's recent division sales managers conclave in Chicago.

Univ. Stockholder Sues on Decca Deal

Universal Pictures, Decca Records, General Cinema Finance Corp., Realart Pictures and certain "U" employes have been named defendants in an action filed in New York Supreme Court by "U" minority stockholder Bertha T. Aine, charging that common stock and warrants of Universal were sold to Decca at prices greater than their market value and that Milton R. Rackmil, "U" and Decca president, and Nate J. Blumberg, "U" board chairman, were given employment contracts at excessive salaries and carrying other allegedly unreasonable benefits.

It was also alleged that other officers and employes of Universal were given employment contracts at excessive salaries, and that some of the defendants conceived of a plan and scheme whereby Universal would acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of Decca in exchange for Universal stock at a ratio advantageous to the Decca stockholders.

Neither Decca nor Rackmil is named as a defendant to a second cause of action, which alleges a plan and scheme involving a license for the reissuance of certain of Universal's pictures for an allegedly inadequate consideration.

Relief sought by the plaintiff is for an accounting of profits and damages; for a judgment declaring certain contracts to be unfair and inequitable, and for an injunction.

Stage for Theatre TV Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—James Fly, attorney for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, will make the opening statements at the engineering and accounting phase of the Federal Communications Commission's theatre television hearing scheduled to open here next Monday.

Fly and Cohn told this to the FCC today at a pre-hearing conference at which some 40 or 50 attorneys were present. Original estimate of this phase of the hearing was that it would last one week. But the attorneys today agreed that it would take two.

Part of the reason for the extended estimate is that the hearing won't meet on Thursdays, when the Commission transacts FCC business. Another reason is that although cross-questioning won't take place until the hearing re-opens Jan. 12, clarifying questions may be asked during this phase. All questions must be submitted in writing, the attorneys agreed, to Benedict Cottone, FCC general counsel. Cottone will represent the Commission at the hearing, along with four or five other FCC attorneys.

Mexican Import Duty On Film Increased

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—American pictures are affected in particular by increased import duties that have just been enforced by the Mexican government. Hollywood provides most foreign pictures played in this country.

The duties now are $4.62, plus 10 per cent per kilogram (2¼ lbs.) instead of $2.89 per kilogram.

Calls Snaper Sales Charges Political

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Commenting today on recent statements by Wilbur Snaper, national Allied president, impugning film salesmen's methods in dealing with exhibitors, David Beznor, general counsel for the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesman of America, said:

"What a melancholy commentary upon Mr. Snaper's sense of decency and fair play that he should stoop to hurling invectives upon the hard working salesmen who have done more than any other group to cement relationships between exhibitor and distributor and whose very livelihood depends upon their success in this undertaking.

"It is a hoary political maneuver to lash out and malign another's reputation to cover up personal shortcomings.

"When the duties of a man's position are so onerous as to overwhelm him with their complexities, he has indicated his inadequacy to hold a position with the responsibilities that the president of Allied is called upon to perform.

"Apparently, Mr. Snaper has cracked under the burden of operating an organization in an orderly fashion. Surely, the embarrassment to which he has subjected Allied members is such as to place Wilbur Snaper in an untenable position.

"His gratuitous outburst was completely incompatible with the sane, responsible viewpoint of the great majority of the Allied membership.

"For his difficulty in keeping pace with his manifold responsibilities, he has our deepest sympathy. For his unwarranted vituperation, Wilbur Snaper has our unmitigated contempt."

Wurtzel Films Go Into TV Release

Sol M. Wurtzel, veteran Hollywood producer, has leased his entire group of productions to Major Attractions, Inc. for a number of years and simultaneously approved distribution through United Television Corp. The deal, as disclosed here in a joint statement by Wurtzel, who is here from the Coast, and Arche Mayer, United President, not only includes existing pictures, but provides for new productions as well.

In the first group, produced in Hollywood as recently as 1949, the release schedule will include: "Dangerous Years," "Strange Journey," "Rendezvous 24," "Roses Are Red," "Crimson Key," "Deadline for Murder," "Back Lash," "Dangerous Millions," "Trouble Preferred," "Night Wind," "Fighting Back," "Arthur Takes Over," "Half-past Midnight," "Invisible Wall" and "Second Chance."

Miss. Exhibitors Map Tax Battle

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 14.—Meetings between Mississippi exhibitors and Congressmen will be held shortly under a plan to help repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax. The plan was adopted recently by the board of directors of the Mississippi Theatre Owners.

The board agreed that Congressmen and Senators would be pressed for an answer to two questions:

(1.) If a bill to eliminate the tax is introduced and brought to the floor, will he vote for it and work for its passage?

(2.) Will he use his influence to have the bill reported favorably to the Ways and Means Committee and to the floor?

The board meeting, attended by Duke Clark of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, also decided to use the argument of "sound business" in its anti-tax battle, emphasizing the need of small exhibitors to be saved from ruinous taxation.

Reserves Decision On 'O.Henry' Suit

New York Supreme Court Justice Morris Elder yesterday reserved decision on the Fine Arts Theatre suit brought against 20th Century-Fox and the Trans-Lux Lexington Corp., seeking injunctive relief which would bar "O. Henry's Full House" from opening at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street tomorrow. A decision is expected today.

The defense claimed that the owner of the Fine Arts had repudiated the contract for the picture. In addition, the defense asked that the case be brought to trial, declaring that the suit should not be decided by affidavits. Fine Arts counsel claimed that even if there was an oral release from the contract, as a matter of law, such a release was in operatum.

20th-Fox to Meet On 'My Pal Gus'

A series of conferences to be held during the next week at the 20th Century-Fox home office will aid in the decision to give the company's forthcoming release, "My Pal Gus," unusual distribution handling, it was announced by Al Lichtman, director of distribution.

The film is set to get a top advertising, publicity and exploitation promotion for its debut nationally in December.

Set $20,000,000 Goal For Italian Films Here

A goal of $20,000,000 per year for Italian films in the American market was set here last night by Dr. Renato Gualino, director general of Italian Films Export. In order to achieve this goal, Gualino added, the IFE will organize its own distribution company here.

Speaking at a farewell dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Gualino disclosed that the IFE has already filed the necessary papers to establish a separate distribution corporation which will handle Italian films in the American market. The dinner was tendered by the Italian film delegation in honor of the sponsoring committee of the recently-concluded "Salute to Italian Films Week."

Declared Gualino: "IFE will have established before the end of this year the nucleus of a national distribution company with five division offices in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Atlanta.

"We are ready to offer the services of our national organization to those independent distributors of Italian films who lack such national outlets," he added.

The $20,000,000 sought in the American market, Gualino observed, equals the gross revenue of American motion pictures in Italy, and the speedy achievement of this goal will eliminate the "film dollar gap." The IFE director expressed the view that dubbed Italian films can compete on equal terms with Hollywood films in the United States.

The Italian-American market will not be neglected either, Gualino said, adding that the IFE would offer from 25 to 30 films per year for audiences of Italian extraction.

Next month, Gualino told the as-

Over $300,000 annually is expected to be collected by the more than 1,300 theatres of New York State which will participate in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can-on-candy project, according to Joseph R. Vogel, chairman of the campaign.

Among the circuits already signed are: RKO, Warner, Schine, Loew's, Fabian, Brandt, William Berinstein, Buffalo Paramount, Leo Brecher, Cinema Circuit, Dipson, Interboro, Harris, J. J. Theatres, Kallet, Kaybern, Randforce, Raybond, Walter Reade, Rugoff & Becker, and others.

'Ivanhoe' Chosen for Christopher Award

M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" was yesterday designated as one of the winners of the monthly Christopher Awards "for the inspiration and high quality entertainment (that it provides) to a vast audience."

Father James Keller, M.M., founder and director of the Christophers, disclosed that the winners for October in other media are "Karen," the biography of a youthful victim of cerebral palsy, and the "I Love Lucy" TV show.

Bronze medallions will be presented to the winners for their contribution that represents "a significant step in the direction of providing the public with entertainment of enduring spiritual value," it was said.

The picture is going into its ninth week in Atlantic City; its fifth week in Miami, Baltimore, Minneapolis, St. Louis, and Philadelphia; its fourth week in Pittsburgh, and its third week in Washington.

New 'U' Bank Loan Is for $6,300,000

The new loan agreement concluded by Universal Pictures with the First National Bank of Boston and Guaranty Trust Co. of New York provides for a maximum credit of $6,300,000, Leon Goldberg, Universal treasurer, said yesterday. Due to an inadvertent error, Motion Picture Daily had reported that the new loan amounted to $17,000,000.

Goldberg said the bank agreement consists of a $5,000,000 revolving fund for Universal, to be reduced at the rate of $500,000 annually for four years, plus a $1,300,000 credit for the Universal subsidiary, United World, on which there are repayments of $175,000 annually for the first two years and $150,000 annually in the third and fourth years.

'U' Tells of End of Decca Merger Plans

Universal Pictures Co., in its answer to the minority stockholders suit brought by Florence Long, said that it has abandoned all plans to merge with Decca Records, Inc., the company which bought a controlling interest in Universal.

The plaintiff's attorney disclosed that in its answer Universal said merger plans were discarded in June, 1952. The Long suit was brought in March of this year in New York Supreme Court. It charged that Decca acquired the stock of Universal in order to gain control of the corporation and pass on the assets of Decca to Universal at an excessive price.

The official notice of the annual meeting discloses that directors or officers of the company during the fiscal year ended June 28 received fees and salaries totaling $348,580 and bonuses totaling $38,925, the total of these amounts having exceeded by $17,378 the sum paid to the group during the previous fiscal year.

The following individual compensation information also was set forth in the notice:

Johnston, board chairman, received $35,440 in fees and salary. Broidy, president, received $94,582 in salary and an $8,650 bonus, the total of these being less by $7,236 than the amount he received in the previous year. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, got $26,597 in salary, or less by $13,776 than the previous year's amount. Mirisch, vice-president, received a salary of $32,200 and bonus of $8,650, the total of the two exceeding by $10,476 the prior years' remuneration. Ritchey, vice-president, received $27,300, plus $4,325 bonus, or $1,251 more than previously. Branton, vice-president, received $29,400 salary and $8,650 bonus, his previous remuneration having been nothing. Morey, vice-president, received $27,625 salary and $4,325 bonus, or $2,876 more than previously.

According to the notice, the directors having interests in exchanges reported exchange gross sales commissions received for the fiscal year as follows:

Johnston, Cincinnati, 50 per cent owned, $21,379; Stubbins, Los Angeles, 50 per cent owned, $226,948; Stubbins, Seattle, 25 per cent owned, $85,572; Hurlbut, Detroit, 33-1/3 per cent owned, $72,653; Rifkin, Boston, 100 per cent owned, $123,489; Bromberg, Atlanta, 85 per cent owned, $418,687.

Johnston sold his interest in the Cincinnati exchange a year ago, and the commissions indicated were for the period from July 1, 1951, to Sept. 30, 1951, it was explained.

"The Iron Mistress"

(Warner Brothers)

ACTION AND ROMANCE are neatly blended in this exciting screen adaptation of the best-selling novel of recent years by Paul Wellman that stars Alan Ladd and Virginia Mayo in enhancing color by Technicolor. In addition to their marquee lure the stars offer one of their better performances as they make the most out of a James Webb screenplay that traces the rise of backwoodsman Jim Bowie to wealth and notoriety in New Orleans.

Miss Mayo portrays the belle with an appreciation of men and money who inspires Ladd with a desire for better things. After several thrilling knife and sword duels in which Ladd vanquishes numerous romantic rivals, a picturesque horse race and a high-stakes card game, Miss Mayo's weakling husband, well performed by Alf Kjellin, is disposed of, but Ladd's love for her has ended. He returns to the strikingly beautiful Phyllis Kirk, who had saved his life when he was wounded in an ambush. He discards his Bowie knife and forswears killing.

Henry Blanke's production is notable in its successful impression of lush settings. Gordon Douglas directed ably, emphasizing the impressive action and romance. A large and capable cast that lends support is headed by Joseph Calleia, Tony Caruso and Douglas Dick, and includes Ned Young, George Voskovic, Richard Carlyle, Donald Beddoe, Sarah Selby, Dick Paxton, Edward Colmans and Daria Massey.

Running time, 110 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 22.

"Toughest Man In Arizona"

(Republic Pictures)

VAUGHN MONROE is one of the big names of the popular music field and this follow-up to his Western debut box-office success of two years ago in "Singing Guns," is a well-performed Trucolor entry calculated to please. Monroe is notably credible as the hombre of the title, a Deputy Marshal who tracks down vicious desperado Victor Jory, fights off Indians and shyly romances Joan Leslie in the process. He pleasantly sings three songs: "A Man's Best Friend Is His Horse," "Hound Dog (Bay at the Moon)" and "The Man Don't Live Who Can Die Alone."

John K. Butler wrote the screenplay which provides Monroe ample opportunity to impress. He has a fine fist fight with Jory in mud and water, dives head-first out of a locked hearse to grab and fire discarded guns, and figures in the finale, a gun-battle showdown in a stable full of prancing horses. Miss Leslie is ably cast as the wife of telegrapher Henry Morgan, and is thought to be the sole survivor of an Indian massacre. Actually, Morgan is a moral coward desirous of making quick money and after escaping the Indians he joins forces with Jory's bandit brothers and aids in Jory's escape.

Morgan's telegraph wire tapping aids the Jory gang rob a stagecoach bearing a fortune in silver. Monroe recovers from wounds suffered in the Jory escape and by deduction and close querying of Jory's dance-hall girl friend, Jean Parker, establishes the gang's whereabouts. The gang is shot down and Morgan stands trial for the shooting of sheriff Edgar Buchanan, allowing thus the future marriage of Monroe and Miss Leslie.

Sidney Picker was the associate producer and R. G. Springsteen directed. Also in the cast are Ian MacDonald, Lee MacGregor, Bobby Hyatt, Charlita and Diana Christian.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 10.

sembled group, the IFE sound studios in the Skouras Theatre Building here will be available to all importers of Italian films for dubbing purposes. In seeking what Gualino described as a four per cent share of the American box-office dollar, a strong reliance will be placed on the consistent release of Italian films in American language versions, he said.

Addressing the many exhibitors attending the luncheon, Gualino said the IFE would seek their skill and experience in launching Italian films. "We are ready to stand with the promotional and advertising dollars necessary to achieve this result," Gualino declared. He also replied to Mayor Impellitteri's previous invitation to the Italians to make pictures in New York, declaring that already several producers and directors have intentions of making films in the city.

Gualino, who returns to Rome tomorrow, expressed gratitude to the sponsoring committee, headed by Winthrop W. Aldrich, Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America; John McCarthy, vice-president of MPAA; E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of IFE; and Jonas Rosenfield, executive director of the "Salute" committee.

Among American industry leaders on the dais were: Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures; Murray Silverstone, 20th Century-Fox International president; George Weltner, president of Paramount International Films; and McCarthy.

eign and domestic, will be in the hands of Arnold Picker, executive vice-president, who takes over around Nov. 15. Crown will direct foreign sales under Picker. Heretofore, RKO Radio's foreign distribution has been handled by Phil Reisman as vice-president, with R. K. Hawkinson as assistant foreign manager. Both of the latter posts will be dispensed with under the new arrangement. Reisman's resignation has been accepted by the board. Whether Hawkinson will continue in a new capacity appeared not to have been determined as of yesterday.

20 Years in Industry

Crown has been in the industry more than 20 years. He represented M-G-M in South America in the early 1930's. From 1935 to 1938 he was foreign manager of the old Grand National Pictures. He was co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs in 1939 and 1940 and served in the Army for two years thereafter. Returning to the industry, he was with Charles K. Feldman in Hollywood and then joined Film Classics. In 1945, Crown was appointed worldwide sales manager for Goldwyn and was elected a vice-president in 1950. Last summer he was the representative of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers at negotiations in Paris on a new film import and monetary agreement for American distributors with the French.

Indications are that no successor to Crown will be appointed immediately by Goldwyn Productions.

also attending, the meeting reviewed COMPO's activities since June. The governing trio expressed satisfaction with both the results of the membership drive and the progress of the campaign for repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax.

"The COMPO finance committee and the various exhibitor committees and sales personnel that conducted the membership drive," said the triumvirate in a statement issued after the meeting, "performed a magnificent job. It was an unprecedented example of what can be done by industry organization and cooperation."

The co-chairmen made it plain that the COMPO staff, headed by Coyne, is to devote all of its activities, if necessary, to the prosecution of the industry's tax repeal campaign, which is being conducted under the direction of Col. H. A. Cole of Dallas and Pat McGee of Denver, co-chairmen of the national tax repeal campaign committee.

The co-chairmen also placed on the record their thanks to the trade press for its cooperation in the membership drive and in the tax repeal campaign.

FPA-SAG Talks Will Resume Here Today

Counter-proposals will be submitted by the Film Producers Association to the Screen Actors Guild today when negotiations between representatives of the two groups resume here, Mel Gold, president of the National Television Film Council, disclosed yesterday.

Gold, who is also a member of the producers' negotiating committee, indicated that a wide gap currently exists on provisions governing spot announcements.

The status of SAG negotiations was revealed by Gold at an NTFC luncheon at the Hotel Warwick.

Samuel Spring, prominent attorney and author of the book, "Rights and Risks," warned TV producers about the legal dangers involved in the invasion of privacy. Spring, who was a guest speaker, advised those attending to seek the aid of counsel before deciding on whether or not someone's privacy had been invaded in a TV show. He explored the complexity of the law in regard to the problem, both in New York and elsewhere in the country.

PSI-TV Opens an Office in Boston

PSI-TV, Inc., producer-distributor, has opened a Boston office to service New England, it was announced by Manny Reiner, vice-president in charge of sales.

Memphis Ruling Makes 'Bank Nights' Legal

MEMPHIS, Oct. 15.—"Bank nights," as presently operated in Memphis film houses, are legal, according to a decision by City Commissioner Claude A. Armour, rendered after an investigation by the city police and receipt of legal advice from city attorney Frank B. Giannoti, Jr. Such giveaway schemes were banned in December, 1936, on the grounds that they were common gambling.

"We have asked theatres to refrain from the use of loudspeakers on the outside and the gathering of crowds to listen to drawing results," the commissioner said.

Giannoti said he based his legal opinion on a Tennessee Supreme Court ruling in 1936 in the Crescent Amusement case, originating in Nashville, where the "bank night" involved was similar to those now conducted jointly at four houses here owned by M. A. Lightman, Sr., and where the court held there was not a lottery. He pointed out that Memphis theatres are going one step further from a lottery by allowing registration for the drawings without buying a ticket. In the Nashville case, it was held theatre patrons got full money's worth from the film.

Name Kaiser-Frazer, 'U' Prize Winners

Winners of five Henry J. Corsair cars and $2,000 in cash prizes posted by Universal Pictures and the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. for the best promotional campaigns developed by showmen for "Steel Town," were announced by the two companies.

DOVER, Tenn., Oct. 15.—Fire destroyed the Dover Theatre and three business houses. The loss, estimated at $20,000, was covered by insurance. Owners J. T. Scurlock and Leroy Cherry expect to rebuild as soon as possible.

$19,350 for 'Snows'

ATLANTA, Oct. 15. — Topping last year's box-office "champ," "David and Bathsheba," by a wide margin at the Paramount Theatre here is Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," which racked up $19,350 in its first six days.

42 Pictures Are Now in Production

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.—With another one point increase in production, the total number of pictures in work reached 42. Nine new pictures were started and eight were finished.

Started were: "Timber Wolf," Allied Artists; "Love Song," "Pack Train" and "Slaves of Babylon," Columbia; "Invaders from Mars" (Notional Pictures), 20th Century Fox; "Miss Robinson Crusoe," Motion Picture Artists; "Toilers of the Sea" (Coronado), RKO Radio; "Sioux Uprising" and "Vermillion O'Toole," Universal.

Completed were: "Return to Paradise," Aspen Productions; "Dangerous When Wet," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; "Jamaica," Paramount; "Silver Ship," 20th Century-Fox; "Law and Order," Universal-International; "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "The Jazz Singer" and "Sea Rogue," Warner Brothers.

Ohio Atty. Gen. Seen Behind Appeal Pass

TOLEDO, Oct. 15. — The City of Toledo declined to appeal the industry's victory in the Ohio newsreel censorship case on the advice of the state's attorney-general, William C. O'Neil, according to defense sources. The deadline to appeal, last Friday, passed without the city taking any action.

Toledo exhibitor Martin G. Smith, backed by the Motion Picture Association of America and Allied Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, several weeks ago won a decision by Municipal Judge Wiley that censorship of newsreels by the state was unconstitutional. Failure of the city to appeal means that the industry loses the chance to take the case to the state or U. S. Supreme Court for a decision which could have made the Toledo ruling mandatory across the entire state.

Article on George Sidney

The Sunday issue of Pictorial Review will feature an article by Louella O. Parsons on George Sidney, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director. The story will trace Sidney's career with M-G-M and include his theories about making motion pictures. The next Sidney-directed film will be "Young Bess."

ITOA Lunch Oct. 30

Date for the luncheon to be given by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York to recently apointed RKO Radio sales executives is Thursday, Oct. 30. It was incorrectly reported here yesterday that the luncheon was scheduled for today.

Charlotte Reopens Soon

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 15.—The Charlotte theatre here will reopen soon. It has been closed since May 17. Owner S. W. Craver said it will operate on a policy of double feature bills with second-run pictures for family entertainment.

VOL. 72. NO. 75 NEW YORK, U. S. A., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1952 TEN CENTS

Theatres In COMPO Now Total 11,695

Governing Trio Expects Even Higher Figure Soon

The number of theatres which have become members in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations has reached 11,695, it was disclosed here yesterday by Trueman T. Rembusch, Samuel Pinanski and Al Lichtman, governing co-chairmen of the industry agency.

The triumvirate issued the membership report, which indicated that returns still are being received and that the final membership figure may be considerably larger, following a meeting in New York.

With Lichtman presiding and Robert W. Coyne, special counsel; Herman Robbins, treasurer, and Charles E. McCarthy, information director,

Canadians to Honor Industry Pioneers

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Six veterans of the industry in the Dominion who made their start prior to 1910 have been picked by a committee to receive special honors at a 50th anniversary banquet of the Canadian Picture Pioneers in the Royal York Hotel here on Nov. 5.

Guests will be Jule Allen, Premier Theatres, Toronto; G. N. Ganetakos, United Amusement Corp., Montreal; F. G. Spencer, Saint John, N. B.; A. J. Mason, Springhill, N. S.; John Schuberg, exhibitor of Vancouver, and L. Ernest Ouimet of Montreal.

Set $20,000,000 Goal For Italian Films Here

A goal of $20,000,000 per year for Italian films in the American market was set here last night by Dr. Renato Gualino, director general of Italian Films Export. In order to achieve this goal, Gualino added, the IFE will organize its own distribution company here.

Speaking at a farewell dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Gualino disclosed that the IFE has already filed the necessary papers to establish a separate distribution corporation which will handle Italian films in the American market. The dinner was tendered by the Italian film delegation in honor of the sponsoring committee of the recently-concluded "Salute to Italian Films Week."

Declared Gualino: "IFE will have established before the end of this year the nucleus of a national distribution company with five division offices in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Atlanta.

"We are ready to offer the services of our national organization to those independent distributors of Italian films who lack such national outlets," he added.

The $20,000,000 sought in the American market, Gualino observed, equals the gross revenue of American motion pictures in Italy, and the speedy achievement of this goal will eliminate the "film dollar gap." The IFE director expressed the view that dubbed Italian films can compete on equal terms with Hollywood films in the United States.

The Italian-American market will not be neglected either, Gualino said, adding that the IFE would offer from 25 to 30 films per year for audiences of Italian extraction.

Next month, Gualino told the as-

1,300 N. Y. Theatres Aid Rogers Drive

Over $300,000 annually is expected to be collected by the more than 1,300 theatres of New York State which will participate in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can-on-candy project, according to Joseph R. Vogel, chairman of the campaign.

Among the circuits already signed are: RKO, Warner, Schine, Loew's, Fabian, Brandt, William Berinstein, Buffalo Paramount, Leo Brecher, Cinema Circuit, Dipson, Interboro, Harris, J. J. Theatres, Kallet, Kaybern, Randforce, Raybond, Walter Reade, Rugoff & Becker, and others.

'Ivanhoe' Chosen for Christopher Award

M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" was yesterday designated as one of the winners of the monthly Christopher Awards "for the inspiration and high quality entertainment (that it provides) to a vast audience."

Father James Keller, M.M., founder and director of the Christophers, disclosed that the winners for October in other media are "Karen," the biography of a youthful victim of cerebral palsy, and the "I Love Lucy" TV show.

Bronze medallions will be presented to the winners for their contribution that represents "a significant step in the direction of providing the public with entertainment of enduring spiritual value," it was said.

Weiner, Marcus and Wurtele Honored

Three of Columbia's sales executives, with a combined total of 75 years association with the company, were honored at a luncheon yesterday at the 21 Club. The guests of honor, each of whom has been with Columbia for 25 years, were H. E. Weiner, division manager for Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey; B. C. Marcus, Midwestern division manager, and Lester Wurtele, Philadelphia branch manager.

Present at the luncheon were Jack Cohn, A. Montague, N. B. Spingold,

Bingo A Violation, Ohio Court Rules

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15. — Bingo, whether conducted for charity or profit, violates the state constitution, according to a decision by the Second District Court of Appeals. The unanimous decision upheld the opinion last December by Common Pleas Judge Cecil J. Randall of Franklin County, who held that bingo is a lottery, whether conducted for profit or charity.

The Court of Appeals decision was written by Judges Roscoe G. Hornbeck, William C. Wiseman and Fred J. Miller.

Allied Convention Roll Reaches 400

Some 400 Allied members and others have registered to date for the organization's annual convention, Nov. 15-17, at the Hotel Morrison in Chicago, Jack Kirsch, convention chairman, who has arrived here from that city, reports.

Kirsch, who arrived yesterday for three days of convention planning talks with Wilbur Snaper, Allied president, foresaw the possibility of the "greatest" convention in Allied's history.

'Son' Ohio Censor Appeal Is Beaten

Columbus, O., Oct. 15.— Ohio's Supreme Court has blocked the latest effort to test the constitutionality of Ohio film censorship by turning down a petition of Classic Pictures of New York which sought to force the censor board to take another look at "Native Son," previously rejected.

'Limelight' Opening On BBC Tonight

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Tomorrow evening's world premiere of Charles Chaplin's "Limelight" at the Odeon Theatre, Leicester Square, will be televised by the British Broadcasting's television network. In addition to showing the arrival of audience dignitaries, a precedent will be set in BBC televising excerpts from the film at the close of the program.

Princess Margaret will attend the premiere. The leading lady of Chaplin's 40th anniversary film is Claire Bloom, currently portraying Juliet in the new stage production here of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

'Sudden Fear' Big At NY RKO Houses

Joseph Kaufman's "Sudden Fear," RKO Radio release currently playing at Metropolitan RKO houses, is understood to have grossed $165,000 in five days at 19 theatres, out-grossing any previous production to play the circuit in the past year and a half.

'Fatima' Extensions In Additional Spots

Warner Brothers "The Miracle of Fatima" continues piling up holdovers and extended runs in its early playdates throughout the country, the company reports.

Extended run engagements include the Astor Theatre, New York, where it enters its ninth week today; the Astor, Boston; Madison, Detroit; Boyd, Philadelphia and the Center, Buffalo, all in fourth weeks, and the St. Francis, San Francisco, three weeks.

Second-week holdovers have been set at the Strand, Albany; Strand, Hartford; Roger Sherman, New Haven; Strand, Scranton; Paramount, Wilkes Barre; Stanley, Utica; Mayfair, Trenton; Palace, Stamford; Strand, Akron; Victory, Dayton; Strand, Erie and the Majestic, Providence.

Normal split-week situations where the picture has been held over for a minimum of seven days include Ritz, Clarksburg; Strand, Greensburg; Havens, Olean; Capitol, Dunkirk; Strand, Shenandoah; Capitol, Hazelton; Hollywood, Pottsville, and the State, Waterbury.

Loew's 'Big Five' Promotion Starts

"Loew's Big Five New Movie Season" will be launched at noon tomorrow with a Broadway send-off from in front of Loew's State Theatre. A caravan of floats, with girls in costume, will be greeted by city officials and stage and screen celebrities, after which they will tour the city.

Each float will represent one of the screen programs in "Loew's Big Five," the first of which is Stanley Kramer's "High Noon," starring Gary Cooper, opening at Loew's today. The second attraction is John Ford's "The Quiet Man," with John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara. Following will be the Rita Hayworth-Glenn Ford starrer, "Affair in Trinidad"; the new Betty Hutton musical, "Somebody Loves, Me," and M-G-M's "The Merry Widow," with Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas.

Grainger Reports 'Quiet' Holdovers

James R. Grainger, Republic executive vice-president in charge of sales and distribution, yesterday declared that heavy holdover business and many extended runs have been reported on pre-release openings on "The Quiet Man," John Ford's Technicolor production.

The picture is going into its ninth week in Atlantic City; its fifth week in Miami, Baltimore, Minneapolis, St. Louis, and Philadelphia; its fourth week in Pittsburgh, and its third week in Washington.

New 'U' Bank Loan Is for $6,300,000

The new loan agreement concluded by Universal Pictures with the First National Bank of Boston and Guaranty Trust Co. of New York provides for a maximum credit of $6,300,000, Leon Goldberg, Universal treasurer, said yesterday. Due to an inadvertent error, Motion Picture Daily had reported that the new loan amounted to $17,000,000.

Goldberg said the bank agreement consists of a $5,000,000 revolving fund for Universal, to be reduced at the rate of $500,000 annually for four years, plus a $1,300,000 credit for the Universal subsidiary, United World, on which there are repayments of $175,000 annually for the first two years and $150,000 annually in the third and fourth years.

'U' Tells of End of Decca Merger Plans

Universal Pictures Co., in its answer to the minority stockholders suit brought by Florence Long, said that it has abandoned all plans to merge with Decca Records, Inc., the company which bought a controlling interest in Universal.

The plaintiff's attorney disclosed that in its answer Universal said merger plans were discarded in June, 1952. The Long suit was brought in March of this year in New York Supreme Court. It charged that Decca acquired the stock of Universal in order to gain control of the corporation and pass on the assets of Decca to Universal at an excessive price.

Services Tomorrow For Frederick Ryan

Frederick R. Ryan, a member of the board of directors of Republic Pictures Corp. for many years, died yesterday at his home here at the age of 73.

Ryan, who in addition to the general practice of law, had been a specialist in corporation law and in the fields of petroleum and motion pictures. A Requiem Mass will be offered at St. Vincent Ferrer Church, tomorrow at 10 A.M. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Howard Stubbins, G. Ralph Branton, Herman Rifkin, Harold J. Mirisch, Arthur C. Bromberg, Edward Morey and Norton V. Ritchey.

The official notice of the annual meeting discloses that directors or officers of the company during the fiscal year ended June 28 received fees and salaries totaling $348,580 and bonuses totaling $38,925, the total of these amounts having exceeded by $17,378 the sum paid to the group during the previous fiscal year.

The following individual compensation information also was set forth in the notice:

Johnston, board chairman, received $35,440 in fees and salary. Broidy, president, received $94,582 in salary and an $8,650 bonus, the total of these being less by $7,236 than the amount he received in the previous year. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, got $26,597 in salary, or less by $13,776 than the previous year's amount. Mirisch, vice-president, received a salary of $32,200 and bonus of $8,650, the total of the two exceeding by $10,476 the prior years' remuneration. Ritchey, vice-president, received $27,300, plus $4,325 bonus, or $1,251 more than previously. Branton, vice-president, received $29,400 salary and $8,650 bonus, his previous remuneration having been nothing. Morey, vice-president, received $27,625 salary and $4,325 bonus, or $2,876 more than previously.

According to the notice, the directors having interests in exchanges reported exchange gross sales commissions received for the fiscal year as follows:

Johnston, Cincinnati, 50 per cent owned, $21,379; Stubbins, Los Angeles, 50 per cent owned, $226,948; Stubbins, Seattle, 25 per cent owned, $85,572; Hurlbut, Detroit, 33-1/3 per cent owned, $72,653; Rifkin, Boston, 100 per cent owned, $123,489; Bromberg, Atlanta, 85 per cent owned, $418,687.

Johnston sold his interest in the Cincinnati exchange a year ago, and the commissions indicated were for the period from July 1, 1951, to Sept. 30, 1951, it was explained.

"The Iron Mistress"

(Warner Brothers)

ACTION AND ROMANCE are neatly blended in this exciting screen adaptation of the best-selling novel of recent years by Paul Wellman that stars Alan Ladd and Virginia Mayo in enhancing color by Technicolor. In addition to their marquee lure the stars offer one of their better performances as they make the most out of a James Webb screenplay that traces the rise of backwoodsman Jim Bowie to wealth and notoriety in New Orleans.

Miss Mayo portrays the belle with an appreciation of men and money who inspires Ladd with a desire for better things. After several thrilling knife and sword duels in which Ladd vanquishes numerous romantic rivals, a picturesque horse race and a high-stakes card game, Miss Mayo's weakling husband, well performed by Alf Kjellin, is disposed of, but Ladd's love for her has ended. He returns to the strikingly beautiful Phyllis Kirk, who had saved his life when he was wounded in an ambush. He discards his Bowie knife and forswears killing.

Henry Blanke's production is notable in its successful impression of lush settings. Gordon Douglas directed ably, emphasizing the impressive action and romance. A large and capable cast that lends support is headed by Joseph Calleia, Tony Caruso and Douglas Dick, and includes Ned Young, George Voskovic, Richard Carlyle, Donald Beddoe, Sarah Selby, Dick Paxton, Edward Colmans and Daria Massey.

Running time, 110 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 22.

"Toughest Man In Arizona"

(Republic Pictures)

VAUGHN MONROE is one of the big names of the popular music field and this follow-up to his Western debut box-office success of two years ago in "Singing Guns," is a well-performed Trucolor entry calculated to please. Monroe is notably credible as the hombre of the title, a Deputy Marshal who tracks down vicious desperado Victor Jory, fights off Indians and shyly romances Joan Leslie in the process. He pleasantly sings three songs: "A Man's Best Friend Is His Horse," "Hound Dog (Bay at the Moon)" and "The Man Don't Live Who Can Die Alone."

John K. Butler wrote the screenplay which provides Monroe ample opportunity to impress. He has a fine fist fight with Jory in mud and water, dives head-first out of a locked hearse to grab and fire discarded guns, and figures in the finale, a gun-battle showdown in a stable full of prancing horses. Miss Leslie is ably cast as the wife of telegrapher Henry Morgan, and is thought to be the sole survivor of an Indian massacre. Actually, Morgan is a moral coward desirous of making quick money and after escaping the Indians he joins forces with Jory's bandit brothers and aids in Jory's escape.

Morgan's telegraph wire tapping aids the Jory gang rob a stagecoach bearing a fortune in silver. Monroe recovers from wounds suffered in the Jory escape and by deduction and close querying of Jory's dance-hall girl friend, Jean Parker, establishes the gang's whereabouts. The gang is shot down and Morgan stands trial for the shooting of sheriff Edgar Buchanan, allowing thus the future marriage of Monroe and Miss Leslie.

Sidney Picker was the associate producer and R. G. Springsteen directed. Also in the cast are Ian MacDonald, Lee MacGregor, Bobby Hyatt, Charlita and Diana Christian.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 10.

sembled group, the IFE sound studios in the Skouras Theatre Building here will be available to all importers of Italian films for dubbing purposes. In seeking what Gualino described as a four per cent share of the American box-office dollar, a strong reliance will be placed on the consistent release of Italian films in American language versions, he said.

Addressing the many exhibitors attending the luncheon, Gualino said the IFE would seek their skill and experience in launching Italian films. "We are ready to stand with the promotional and advertising dollars necessary to achieve this result," Gualino declared. He also replied to Mayor Impellitteri's previous invitation to the Italians to make pictures in New York, declaring that already several producers and directors have intentions of making films in the city.

Gualino, who returns to Rome tomorrow, expressed gratitude to the sponsoring committee, headed by Winthrop W. Aldrich, Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America; John McCarthy, vice-president of MPAA; E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of IFE; and Jonas Rosenfield, executive director of the "Salute" committee.

Among American industry leaders on the dais were: Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures; Murray Silverstone, 20th Century-Fox International president; George Weltner, president of Paramount International Films; and McCarthy.

'Life' Issue Boosts Italian Pictures

Italian pictures get a big boost in the current issue of Life, on newsstands today.

The cover is devoted to Italian actress Lucia Boce, under the heading, of "New Crop of Beauties in Italy." The seven-page article, which comes following the end of "Salute to Italian Films Week," covers such topics as realism in Italian films, a run-down of new product, the growing popularity of Italian films in the American market and arguments pro and con on dubbing.

Crown to RKO

eign and domestic, will be in the hands of Arnold Picker, executive vice-president, who takes over around Nov. 15. Crown will direct foreign sales under Picker. Heretofore, RKO Radio's foreign distribution has been handled by Phil Reisman as vice-president, with R. K. Hawkinson as assistant foreign manager. Both of the latter posts will be dispensed with under the new arrangement. Reisman's resignation has been accepted by the board. Whether Hawkinson will continue in a new capacity appeared not to have been determined as of yesterday.

20 Years in Industry

Crown has been in the industry more than 20 years. He represented M-G-M in South America in the early 1930's. From 1935 to 1938 he was foreign manager of the old Grand National Pictures. He was co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs in 1939 and 1940 and served in the Army for two years thereafter. Returning to the industry, he was with Charles K. Feldman in Hollywood and then joined Film Classics. In 1945, Crown was appointed worldwide sales manager for Goldwyn and was elected a vice-president in 1950. Last summer he was the representative of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers at negotiations in Paris on a new film import and monetary agreement for American distributors with the French.

Indications are that no successor to Crown will be appointed immediately by Goldwyn Productions.

COMPO Theatres

also attending, the meeting reviewed COMPO's activities since June. The governing trio expressed satisfaction with both the results of the membership drive and the progress of the campaign for repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax.

"The COMPO finance committee and the various exhibitor committees and sales personnel that conducted the membership drive," said the triumvirate in a statement issued after the meeting, "performed a magnificent job. It was an unprecedented example of what can be done by industry organization and cooperation."

The co-chairmen made it plain that the COMPO staff, headed by Coyne, is to devote all of its activities, if necessary, to the prosecution of the industry's tax repeal campaign, which is being conducted under the direction of Col. H. A. Cole of Dallas and Pat McGee of Denver, co-chairmen of the national tax repeal campaign committee.

The co-chairmen also placed on the record their thanks to the trade press for its cooperation in the membership drive and in the tax repeal campaign.

Brandts Buy Club

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Harry and William Brandt, New York theatre owners, have purchased the Arcady Club at the Hague-on-Lake George, an Albany realty firm announced. The club includes a golf course, and is 16 miles from the Sagamore Hotel on Lake George, which the Brandts acquired several years ago. The Arcady Club may be used for a boys' club, it has been reported.

Delay Towne Hearings

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Hearings on a change of venue from Chicago to Milwaukee by defendants in the Towne Theatre case (in which attorney Thomas C. McConnell is asking additional attorney fees to cover the period of the appeal from the original decision) and the Viking Theatre case have been postponed to Monday.

FPA-SAG Talks Will Resume Here Today

Counter-proposals will be submitted by the Film Producers Association to the Screen Actors Guild today when negotiations between representatives of the two groups resume here, Mel Gold, president of the National Television Film Council, disclosed yesterday.

Gold, who is also a member of the producers' negotiating committee, indicated that a wide gap currently exists on provisions governing spot announcements.

The status of SAG negotiations was revealed by Gold at an NTFC luncheon at the Hotel Warwick.

Samuel Spring, prominent attorney and author of the book, "Rights and Risks," warned TV producers about the legal dangers involved in the invasion of privacy. Spring, who was a guest speaker, advised those attending to seek the aid of counsel before deciding on whether or not someone's privacy had been invaded in a TV show. He explored the complexity of the law in regard to the problem, both in New York and elsewhere in the country.

PSI-TV Opens an Office in Boston

PSI-TV, Inc., producer-distributor, has opened a Boston office to service New England, it was announced by Manny Reiner, vice-president in charge of sales.

This marks PSI-TV's third regional office opening in the past two months, the others being in Chicago and Hollywood. Edward Ruff and Irving M. Farber will be in charge at Boston.

WICC-TV With ABC

Station WICC-TV in Bridgeport, Conn., New England's first ultra-high frequency television station and the second such station to sign a network affiliation, will join the ABC-TV network on or about Jan. 1, it was announced by Alfred R. Beckman, national director of ABC's radio and television station relations departments. In August of this year, ABC announced the first UHF network affiliation with the signing of station WSBA-TV in York, Pa., as a basic ABC-TV affiliate, effective Nov. 1. The addition of station WICC-TV to the ABC-TV network will bring the total number of network affiliates to 66.

India Film Heads Feted

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.—Stars, directors and producers of India attended a luncheon with Hollywood counterparts at which Jack L. Warner was host. This was the final formal studio function held for the Indian visitors during their week here. The Indian notables included Chadulal Shah, Raj Kapoor, B. N. Sircar and D. Subramanyam.

On Kodak U.K. Board

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Denis Wratten, head of Eastman Kodak's motion picture division here, has been appointed to the company's board of directors. Wratten served as president of the British Kinematograph Society for two years and lately was made president of the Royal Photographic Society.

Memphis Ruling Makes 'Bank Nights' Legal

MEMPHIS, Oct. 15.—"Bank nights," as presently operated in Memphis film houses, are legal, according to a decision by City Commissioner Claude A. Armour, rendered after an investigation by the city police and receipt of legal advice from city attorney Frank B. Giannoti, Jr. Such give-away schemes were banned in December, 1936, on the grounds that they were common gambling.

"We have asked theatres to refrain from the use of loudspeakers on the outside and the gathering of crowds to listen to drawing results," the commissioner said.

Giannoti said he based his legal opinion on a Tennessee Supreme Court ruling in 1936 in the Crescent Amusement case, originating in Nashville, where the "bank night" involved was similar to those now conducted jointly at four houses here owned by M. A. Lightman, Sr., and where the court held there was not a lottery. He pointed out that Memphis theatres are going one step further from a lottery by allowing registration for the drawings without buying a ticket. In the Nashville case, it was held theatre patrons got full money's worth from the film.

Winners of five Henry J. Corsair cars and $2,000 in cash prizes posted by Universal Pictures and the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. for the best promotional campaigns developed by showmen for "Steel Town," were announced by the two companies.

Five sets of prizes were awarded to theatremen in five population classifications: theatres in cities over 500,000; 100,000 to 500,000; 50,000 to 100,000; 25,000 to 50,000 and under 25,000. Group one first prize winner of a Henry J. was Jack Silverthorne of the Hippodrome in Cleveland; second prize of $250 went to Jack Sydney of Loew's Century in Baltimore and third prize of $150 went to Ken Hoel of the J. P. Harris Theatre in Pittsburgh.

McCarthy, Italians Meet

Tenn. Theatre Burned

DOVER, Tenn., Oct. 15.—Fire destroyed the Dover Theatre and three business houses. The loss, estimated at $20,000, was covered by insurance. Owners J. T. Scurlock and Leroy Cherry expect to rebuild as soon as possible.

$19,350 for 'Snows'

ATLANTA, Oct. 15. — Topping last year's box-office "champ," "David and Bathsheba," by a wide margin at the Paramount Theatre here is Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," which racked up $19,350 in its first six days.

42 Pictures Are Now in Production

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.—With another one point increase in production, the total number of pictures in work reached 42. Nine new pictures were started and eight were finished.

Started were: "Timber Wolf," Allied Artists; "Love Song," "Pack Train" and "Slaves of Babylon," Columbia; "Invaders from Mars" (Notional Pictures), 20th Century Fox; "Miss Robinson Crusoe," Motion Picture Artists; "Toilers of the Sea" (Coronado), RKO Radio; "Sioux Uprising" and "Vermillion O'Toole," Universal.

Completed were: "Return to Paradise," Aspen Productions; "Dangerous When Wet," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; "Jamaica," Paramount; "Silver Ship," 20th Century-Fox; "Law and Order," Universal-International; "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "The Jazz Singer" and "Sea Rogue," Warner Brothers.

Ohio Atty. Gen. Seen Behind Appeal Pass

TOLEDO, Oct. 15. — The City of Toledo declined to appeal the industry's victory in the Ohio newsreel censorship case on the advice of the state's attorney-general, William C. O'Neil, according to defense sources. The deadline to appeal, last Friday, passed without the city taking any action.

Toledo exhibitor Martin G. Smith, backed by the Motion Picture Association of America and Allied Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, several weeks ago won a decision by Municipal Judge Wiley that censorship of newsreels by the state was unconstitutional. Failure of the city to appeal means that the industry loses the chance to take the case to the state or U. S. Supreme Court for a decision which could have made the Toledo ruling mandatory across the entire state.

Article on George Sidney

The Sunday issue of Pictorial Review will feature an article by Louella O. Parsons on George Sidney, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director. The story will trace Sidney's career with M-G-M and include his theories about making motion pictures. The next Sidney-directed film will be "Young Bess."

Asks Allied Withdrawal From All-Industry Work

Cole Recommends Allied Members Resign From Arbitration, COMPO Jobs to Devote Full Time to Fight Against Sales Policies

DALLAS, Oct. 16.—A recommendation that members of Allied States withdraw from such all-industry endeavors as the preparation of a plan of industry arbitration, direction of the campaign for elimination of the 20 per cent Federal amusement tax and the administration of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations is advanced by H. A. Cole, president of Texas Allied and a director of the national organization, in a letter to Allied president Wilbur Snaper.

The letter, dated Oct. 9, and released for publication tomorrow, refers to the role of Abram F. Myers, Allied chairman and general counsel, in the drafting of an arbitration plan; to that of Trueman Rembusch, former Allied president, as a member of the three-man governing board of COMPO, and to Cole's own role as co-chairman of the COMPO campaign for admission tax repeal.

Cites Aid from Indiana Battle with Texas

Theatre business has improved and remained good in practically every Indiana community visited by the recent "Movietime" tours sponsored by exhibitors of that state, Trueman T. Rembusch, Indiana Allied president, reported here yesterday.

Trueman Rembusch

On the other hand, he said, there has been no comparable improvement in business in theatres in towns which were not included in the itinerary of the group

$5,435,000 Earned By UPT in First Nine Months of '52

Estimated earnings of United Paramount Theatres for the first nine months of 1952 amounted to $5,435,000, including capital gains of $1,465,000, compared with earnings of $9,537,000, including capital gains of $3,483,000 for the same period in 1951, Leonard H. Goldenson, UPT president, reported to stockholders yesterday.

Estimated consolidated earnings for the third quarter of this year were put at $1,627,000, compared with estimated

N. J. Allied Surveys Operating Houses

Allied of New Jersey decided to compile a statistical survey on whether theatres in that area are open, partially open, or closed, at their meeting Tuesday, it was revealed yesterday by Wilbur Snaper, New Jersey Allied and National Allied president. One hundred and thirteen New Jersey theatres were represented at the meeting.

According to Snaper a thorough

Hawkinson in New RKO Foreign Post

Robert K. Hawkinson, former assistant foreign sales manager of RKO Radio, yesterday was named foreign administration manager for the company by the new management.

In the post, a newly created one, Hawkinson will work under Alfred W. Crown, RKO Radio's new foreign sales manager. Both assume their new duties at once.

The RKO Radio board in making the announcement said it believes that

Mexican Film Quota Bill Becomes Law

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—The Mexican cinematograph quota bill, regarded as a sledge-hammer blow to American distributors, has passed both houses of this country's legislature, and now is virtually law. The Senate passed the bill yesterday following similar action a couple of weeks ago by Congress. President Aleman's signature is assured since he has openly favored the measure which would cut by about 50 per cent the screening time of American-made pictures in Mexican theatres.

PHIL REISMAN NAMED V-P OF JOSEPH KENNEDY INDUSTRIES

Phil Reisman, whose resignation as vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for RKO Radio was accepted by the new management of the company this week, has been named vice-president of Joseph P. Kennedy Industries. Reisman also will act as consultant to RKO, as required, the company stated yesterday.

Phil Reisman

Kennedy, who heads the company, was a dominant figure in the old FBO and Pathe companies and was instrumental in the consolidation of both with other units to make up the present RKO corporation. With Guy Currier, Boston attorney, Kennedy effected a merger of FBO with Keith-Albee-Orpheum in 1927, which gave the present company its first interests in exhibition. In 1930, Kennedy was instrumental in bringing Pathe into the RKO fold. In all of these ventures Reisman was closely associated with Kennedy.

Kennedy, a former U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, has been inactive in the industry for the past 20 years. He has extensive real estate holdings in New York, Chicago and Boston,

Cole Proposal On Meet Agenda: Myers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers said that Colonel F. H. A. Cole's proposal "has already been placed on the agenda" for the Allied board meeting in Chicago next month.

Col. Cole proposed that all Allied officials withdraw from all industry-wide organizations and campaigns as an answer to what he claimed were distributor price-raising tactics engaged in while the Allied leaders were busy on the all-industry matters.

Myers refused to comment on the Cole proposal in the meantime. He said Cole's letter was formally ad-

Rejects Injunction In 'O.Henry' Case

The injunctive relief sought by the Fine Arts Theatre was denied here yesterday by New York Supreme Court Justice Morris Elder.

Justice Elder, in rejecting the plaintiff's petition which sought to bar yesterday's opening of "O. Henry's Full House" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street, said the plaintiff failed to establish a clear and sufficient case. The dispute involved first-run rights to the film, made by 20th Century-Fox, which was one of the defendants in the suit.

Counsel for the Fine Arts said that his client would continue the claim for damages against 20th-Fox and the Trans-Lux Lexington Corp., operators of the 52nd Street house.

Files $1,530,000 Trust Suit Here

A $1,530,000 triple damage trust suit against the majors and others was filed here yesterday in Federal Court by the trustees of the defunct Tower Amusement Corp. and Triumph Amusement Corp., operators of the Tower Theatre, Bronx. The trustees in dissolution were identified as Abraham Leff and Samuel Strausberg. Besides the distributors, Metropolitan Playhouses and Skouras Theatres were named as defendants. The plaintiff charged the theatre closed due to its failure to obtain product. Unreasonable clearances and discriminatory practices were also alleged.

Compo Board Sets Chicago Meeting for December

The annual Council of Motion Picture Organizations board of directors meeting has been set tentatively for the second week in December in Chicago.

Approximately two months later, in February, there will be held in Hollywood another COMPO "round-table" conference of exhibitors and producers on production problems. Distribution also may be represented at this conference, although heretofore it has not been a "round-table" participant.

Virtually the entire Chicago board meeting will be devoted to discussing and analyzing the campaign for repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, according to those who have been planning the parley. Congress will convene a few weeks after the meeting and COMPO's tax fighting machinery will have to be in perfect working order for the Congressional assault which will climax the months of local anti-admission tax activity that will have occupied practically all of the industry agency's attention.

The board meeting will be presided over by Trueman T. Rembusch, Al Lichtman and Samuel Pinanski, COMPO's governing chairmen.

Chicago was selected as the site of the meeting at the request of Midwest and Far West board members who hitherto have had to travel to New York for such gatherings.

NSS Exchange Help Move to Join 'IA'

National Screen Service has been informed by IATSE Motion Picture Home Office Employes Local No. H-63 here that the "white collar" employes at the company's New York exchange have asked the union to represent them in collective bargaining, according to Russell M. Moss, H-63 executive vice-president.

Moss said the local's attorneys will petition the National Labor Relations Board for an election among the exchange workers to determine if the union is to represent them.

Win Appeal on Md. Censoring of 'Lives'

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—The City Court has ruled that deletions ordered in "Damaged Lives" by the Maryland State Board of Censors were unjustified.

This was the first appeal in this court on a censorship decision since the ruling of the Supreme Court in the "Miracle" and "Pinky" cases and the first time since Sidney R. Traub assumed chairmanship of the State Board that the board has been reversed on appeal.

The appeal was taken by John Rose of Rose Road Shows of Washington, owners of the film.

Canada Exports Down

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—Exports of films declined to $3,202,000 in the first eight months of this year, compared with $3,679,000 a year ago, the Canadian government reports.

Walsh Gets Bid for Pathe Strike Here

After negotiating without success since last July for a new union contract for the Pathe Industries "white collar" employes here, IATSE Motion Picture Home Office Employes Local No. H-63 has petitioned Richard F. Walsh, "IA" international president, for permission to strike, Russell M. Moss, H-63 executive vice-president, reported yesterday.

The local's contract with Pathe expired Sept. 30. It was signed last year following months of negotiations which ended in a strike of one-half day's duration.

Upon receiving the H-63 petition, Walsh at once appointed Joseph Basson, international representative, to confer with the local and the company to see if a strike could be avoided. Basson, currently out of town, is expected to arrange a meeting in about 10 days.

Moss said the local is demanding wage increases and certain extra benefits, such as free hospitalization and insurance. Management negotiators have been David Malamed and Leonard Cooper. Moss described the latter as a former business agent for the Screen Office and Professional Employes Guild, erstwhile CIO affiliate which now is allied with the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers of America.

A "white collar" workers' strike at Pathe could shut down the film processing plant since it is held unlikely that members of other "IA" locals represented there would cross picket lines. None crossed the lines when they were formed by H-63 in the dispute last year.

'The Thief' Opens To A Big $13,242

"The Thief" opened to a big $13,242 at the Roxy here, topping previous mid-week opening grosses, David T. Katz, Roxy managing director, disclosed yesterday.

The picture, which opened Wednesday, is the first United Artists release at the Roxy under the theatre's new policy of presenting films from all motion picture companies.

Tassos in New Post

John Tassos, former Paramount Pictures publicist, has been named director of public relations and publicity of the Roney Plaza and Gulf Stream Hotels in Miami Beach, the McAllister in Miami, and the Boca Raton Hotel and Club at Boca Raton, it was announced here by G. David Schine, president and general manager of Schine Hotels.

Arnall Opens Tour For Dem. Candidates

Washington, Oct. 16.—Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, revealed he will start out tomorrow on 10 days of speech-making on behalf of Democratic candidates Adlai Stevenson and John Sparkman. His tour, arranged by the Democratic national committee, will take him into Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, West Virginia and Georgia.

Para. Division Heads Holding 5 Meetings

All five of Paramount's domestic division sales managers are currently holding meetings with branch and booking managers and salesmen as a follow-up to the company's recent special three-day conclave in Chicago, which was presided over by A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp.

Principal topics for discussion are sales and merchandising plans for the balance of this year's releases and an appraisal of the top product being readied for 1953.

Hugh Owen, Eastern-Southern division manager, today winds up a week-long session with the Southern portion of his division in Atlanta, and will meet with the Eastern portion starting Tuesday

Al Kane, South Central division manager, is huddling with his sales team in Dallas, while J. J. Donohue, Central division manager, and Howard Minsky, Mid-Eastern division manager, are holding meetings in Chicago and Philadelphia, respectively.

George Smith, Western division manager, is presiding in Los Angeles at the first of four meetings. Later he will travel to San Francisco, Salt Lake and Seattle for similar sessions.

McCormick: Trade Press Unequalled

"Our industry is fortunate in having a group of trade papers unequalled in any other industry," Barrett S. McCormick told the enrollment of the showmanship course conducted by the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers at the Hotel Woodstock, last night.

He noted, "Trade advertising has a very important place in the motion picture business. It informs the retailer, the theatre man, about new product. It does, or should, present in one way or another the selling possibilities of the subject and stimulate his imagination and sense of showmanship."

Ampa School

fications of advertising, publicity and promotion.

He noted, "In these days of specialization one can become a little too specialized. There are too many people working in the business who know but one phase of it and they should know all three, because they are inseparably joined in the work that we do, and will continue to do, as long as show business survives."

Citing the growth of motion picture advertising over the past 40 years, McCormick opined that film advertisers have done more to influence all advertising than any other group.

McCormick noted, "This is a great business and I think it will continue to be a great business for a long time to come, with plenty of opportunity for those with initiative, imagination and ambition." He called for the group to "know your audience, feel with them in their interests and desires and never be superior. Remember, the great mass of people are, in one way or another, specialists in their own line of work or knowledge but are not in yours."

N. J. Allied Survey

discussion took place revolving around everyday problems in distributor relations. He noted that the delegate to the national Allied convention, Irving Dollinger, was instructed on the subject matter to be presented at the board meeting. Considerable discussion was held with an equal expression of opinion concerning an appeal for further government intervention.

Particular expression was made about the availability of pictures classified as specials where theatres charge the same admission prices, in the belief that if admission prices were matched, availability should be day and date.

Asks Allied Withdrawal

ers, preoccupied with such responsibilities, have neglected the interests of independent exhibitors with the result that "other elements in our industry have taken advantage of our preoccupation and through one means or another are shortsightedly doing the industry a great disservice."

Amplifying on that charge, Cole's letter cites a number of alleged trade practice abuses in the realms of competitive bidding, sales terms, advanced admission prices, clearance and circumvention of some Federal consent decree injunctions.

"To anyone who desires a bill of particulars," Cole's letter says, "it will be easy to furnish."

The letter reviews some Allied history and organization policies, citing its role in the bringing of the U. S. vs Paramount et al anti-trust suit and the results of the suit, including theatre divorcement, which it terms "a travesty of justice" which left the "large chain operations in a sounder, more powerful position than they ever enjoyed before."

"The injunctive relief granted by the courts in some particulars were good," the letter continues, "and some good results have been obtained. However, the film companies and their attorneys with customary adroitness have seized on some issues and some court decisions, to themselves introduce such abortions, not a part of the immediate court decision, as bidding.

Evaded Rules

"Through various devices they have also gotten around the court injunction against forcing higher admission prices. Using their bidding system in exactly the manner the court said that system would be used they have forced up terms and prices for their film, they have evaded the rules as to clearance. . . ."

The Cole letter complains of sales policies "forcing thousands of theatres out of business" and making it impossible for others to show "many worthwhile films" profitably. It mentions "Greatest Show on Earth," "Son of Paleface," "Jumping Jacks," "Quo Vadis" and "Ivanhoe."

"With the government suit in back of them," the Cole letter continues, "Allied to some extent abandoned its traditional militant leadership. Our leaders thought the time had come when we should build rather than tear down. With that thought in mind Allied gave its heartiest support to COMPO. . . our general counsel, Mr. Myers, was drafted and instructed by us to undertake the long, tedious job of formulating a plan for arbitration. Our former president, Trueman Rembusch, was drafted to became one of the three co-leaders of COMPO. For myself, I received instructions from our board of directors last spring to undertake the drive for repeal of the 20 per cent admission tax."

"I think the time has come," the Cole letter concludes, "when we in Allied must recognize the fact that we stand almost alone in an unselfish attempt to do an all-industry job and that in doing this we have sacrificed the interests of thousands of exhibitors because other elements in our industry have taken advantage of our preoccupation and through one means or another are shortsightedly doing the industry a great disservice."

"In view of all this, I have the following recommendation: That Allied free its personnel from their obligation to do these outside jobs. That Allied recommend to those of its members who have unselfishly taken these various jobs and obligations that they withdraw from them and resign from such positions. This recommendation is made with the greatest of reluctance because those jobs have not been completed and, while others probably can and will take over, the causes themselves will inevitably suffer. However, we can see no other conclusion."

Clarifying Statement

To eliminate an impression gained by trade press reporters that Cole's recommendation could be construed to mean that Allied exhibitor members should withdraw from the Federal tax repeal campaign, in the event the Allied board accepts his proposal, Cole issued the following clarifying statement:

"I do not advocate the withdrawal of all Allied members from the tax fight. I merely recommend to the Allied board that their three leaders, whom Allied had loaned to COMPO and the industry at large to do special jobs, be freed from their obligation to do those jobs.

"There is no implication in my letter that the Allied individual exhibitors should cease from their efforts to get their Congressmen pledged to tax repeal. I as an individual expect to do that part of our job and to personally contact my own Congressman in a continued effort for tax repeal. The tax fight must go on."

Cole's recommendation is scheduled to be submitted to the meeting of the Allied board of directors in Chicago, Nov. 15-16. If approved, it is generally anticipated that further Allied participation in either arbitration or COMPO, if not ruled out entirely, would be on an individual rather than an organizational basis.

Myers

dressed to Allied president Wilbur Snaper, but that actually it was meant for the Allied board "which commissioned all of us working on these industry matters." He said it would definitely be on the board agenda, and that he would be a fool to "attempt to predict or discuss what the board will do."

If the board should approve Cole's proposal, Myers made clear, all Allied officers working on industry-wide campaigns would have to quit. "There's no individual authority in such matters," he declared. "Every bit of authority that Cole or Trueman Rembusch or myself or Snaper wields in these undertakings springs from the board. The board designated us as its representatives. When it withdraws that designation, our power ends."

In New York yesterday, Snaper and Rembusch, interviewed individually, each commented on the Cole proposal in the same vein as Myers.

Arbitration Draft In the Mail Today

The distributor-amended draft of a projected industry arbitration system will be mailed today by the Motion Picture Association of America to representatives of Allied States Association, Theatre Owners of America, Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association, Western Theatre Owners and the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, it was indicated here yesterday by an MPAA spokesman.

Rembusch Says

of touring stars, headed by Forrest Tucker.

Here from Franklin, Ind., on business for the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, one of whose three governing chairmen he is, Rembusch took time out yesterday to lunch with trade press representatives and discuss with them the showmanship rivalry that has developed between Texas COMPO and the Indiana theatremen.

In Rembusch's opinion the friendly inter-state competition will serve to benefit the cause of showmanship in both states. Moreover, he said, the prospect of other states entering into the competition is good, with the result that exhibitors united under state banners all across the country may soon be racing each other for supremacy in showmanship.

Recently Indiana theatremen challenged the Texans for the "Showmanship Crown of the Entire World." Yesterday, in a telegram to Rembusch and Marc Wolfe, also an Indiana Allied leader, Kyle Rorex of Texas COMPO accepted the challenge and derided, in humorous vein, the Indiana claims to having surpassed the accomplishments of exhibitors in the Lone Star State. Rembusch laughingly labeled the wire "just another tornado out of Texas."

'Noxious Assignment'

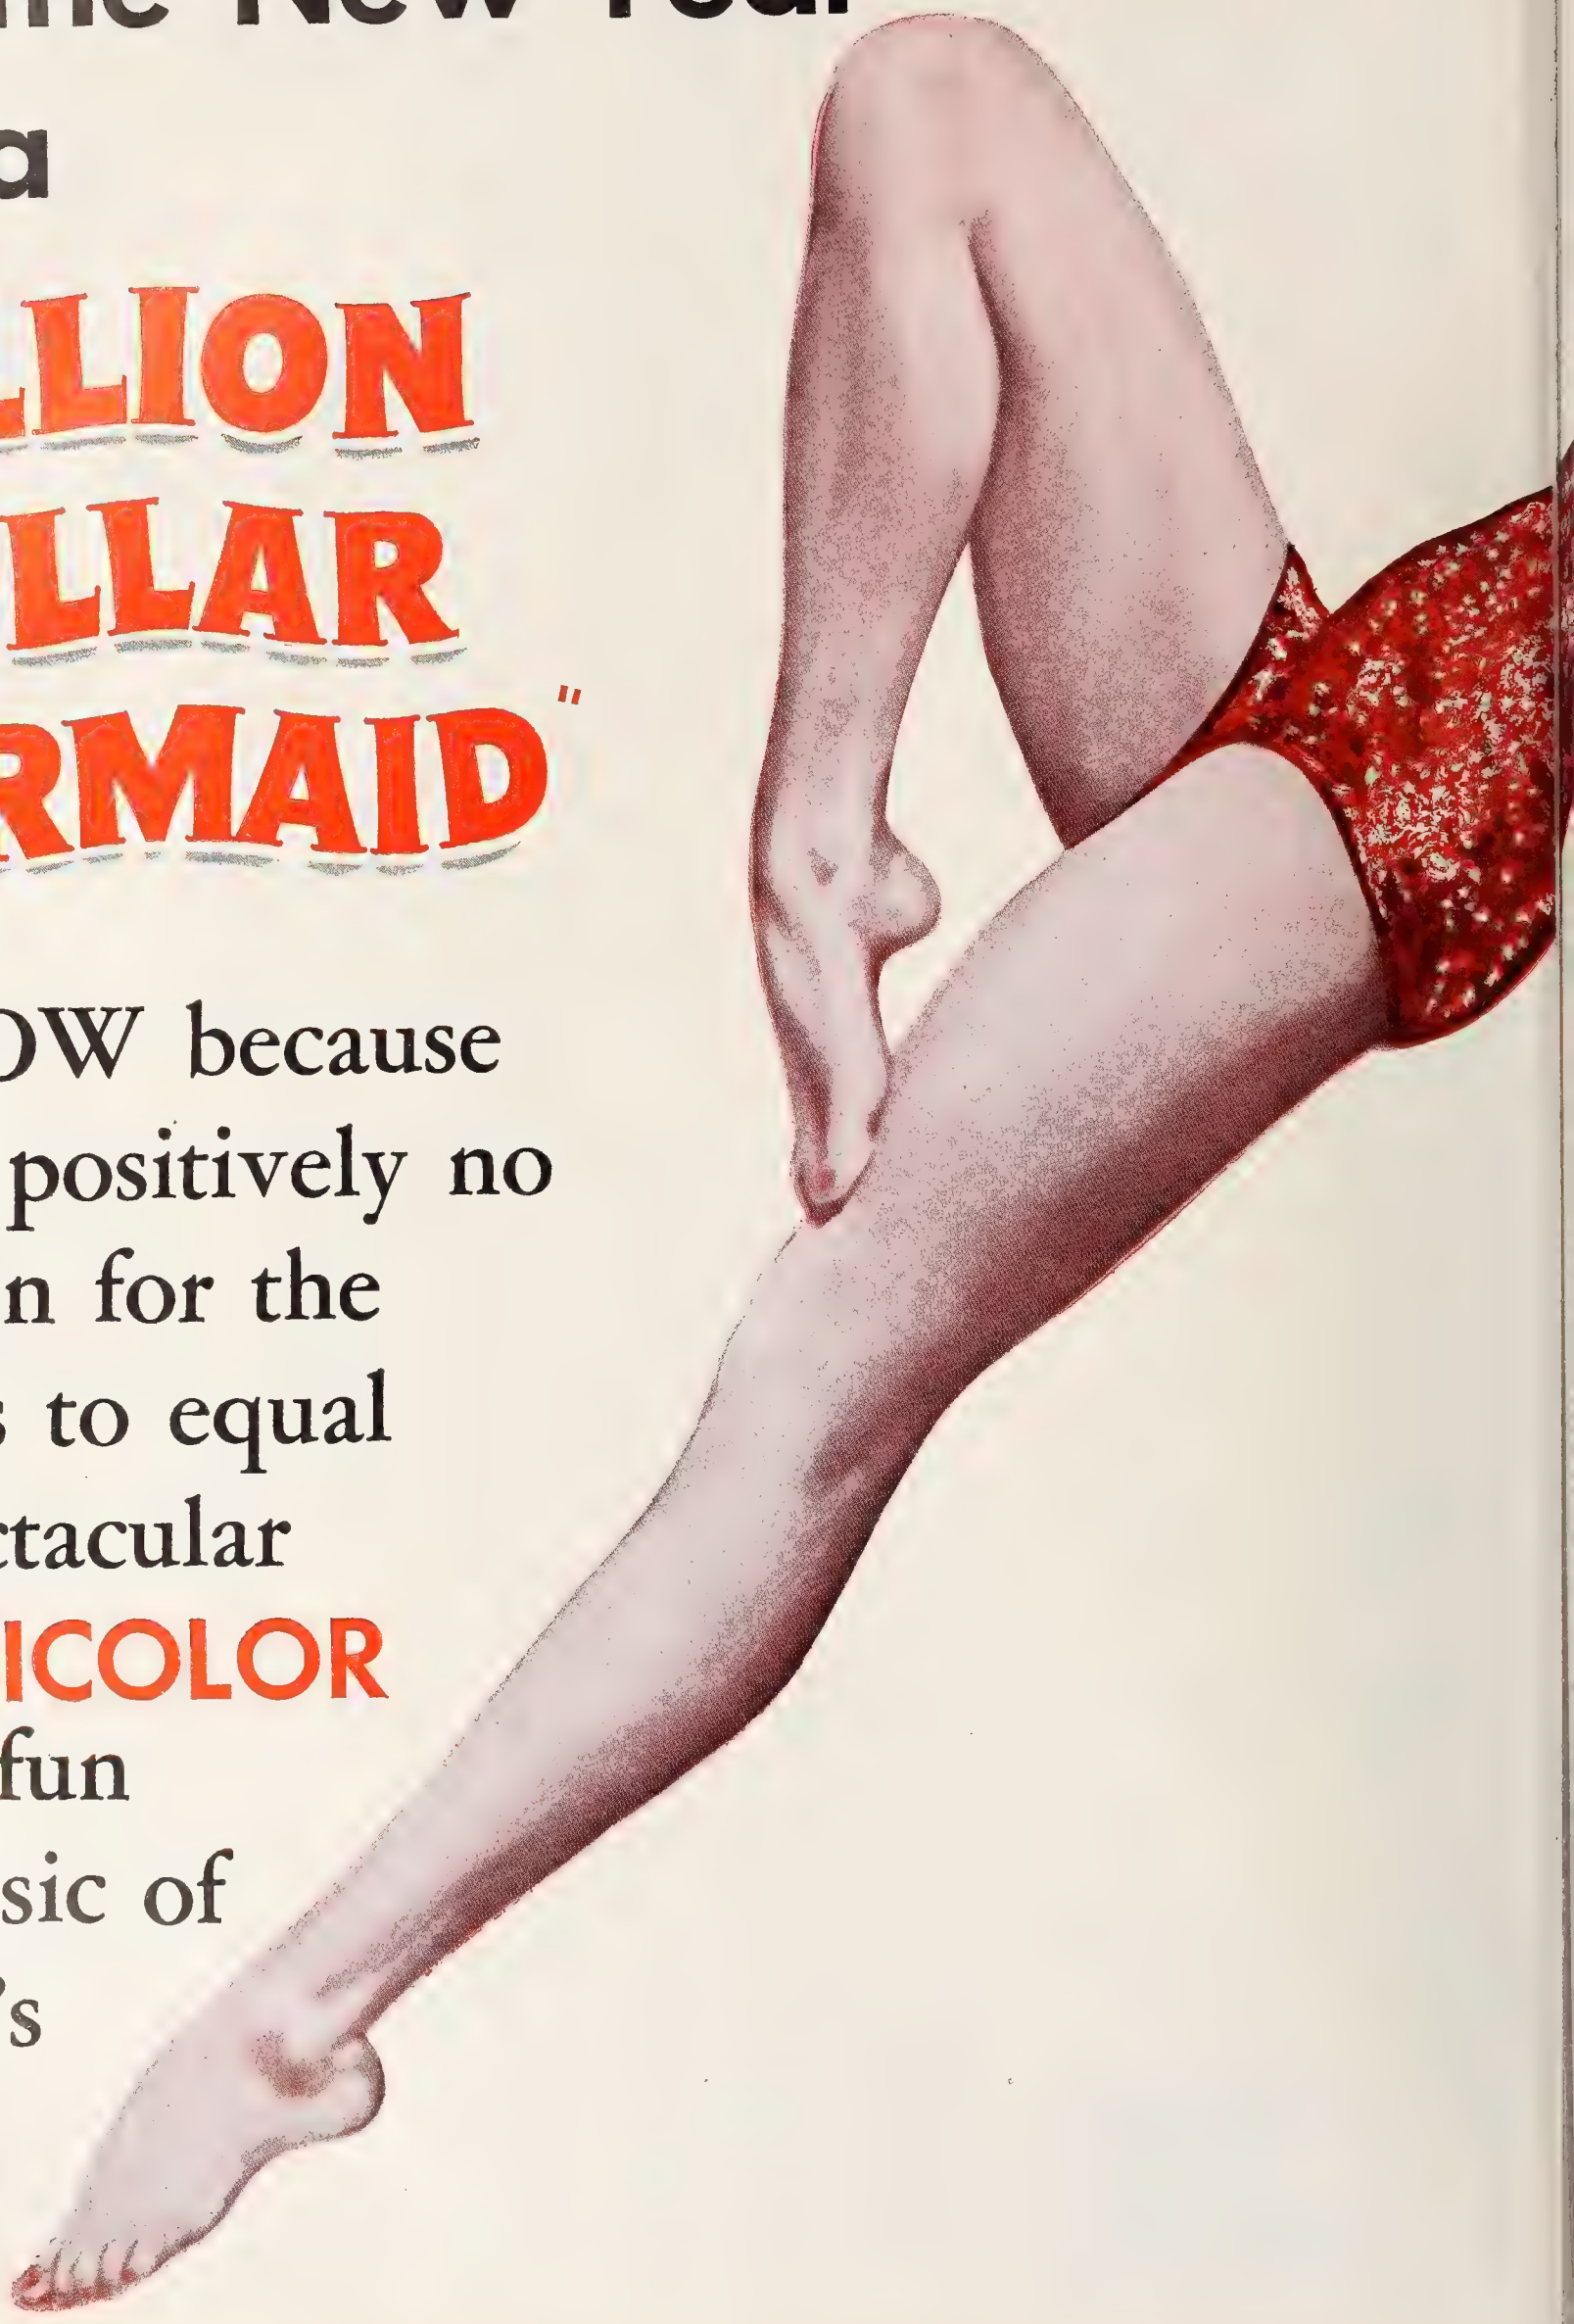
The Rorex wire, sent in behalf of R. J. O'Donnell, H. A. Cole, Edward H. Rowley, H. J. Griffith, Claude Ezell and others, stated that "Texas regrets that the gentlemen from Indiana leave no alternative other than the noxious assignment of comparison in the clarification of the triple claims made by the esteemed Indianians."

The wire then made comparisons of showmanship accomplishments along the lines of "anything you can do we Texans can do better—and bigger."

"While Texas regrets calling attention to the obvious conclusion," the wire read, "it must be guided by the record which reveals that Indiana must first emerge from her amateur status before her contention for the showmanship crown can become valid."



Rembusch departed for Franklin yesterday afternoon.

his home, and numerous other commercial investments.

Reisman, one of the real veterans of the industry, well known and highly regarded in film circles throughout the world, started his career in 1917 as a salesman for the old Triangle Film Co. After a year with Samuel Goldwyn he became Milwaukee manager for Triangle, then joined the old Hodkinson Film Co. in Minneapolis. He switched to Paramount there and in 1920 was named Minneapolis branch manager, and in 1922 was appointed district manager.

To Paramount in 1924

In 1924 he was transferred to Canada as Paramount general manager. The following year he was named Eastern division manager and assistant to the late Sidney R. Kent. From 1927 to 1930 he was general sales manager of Pathe, and from 1930 to 1932 was general sales manager of Universal. After one year as film buyer and booker for RKO Theatres he was named vice-president and general manager of RKO's export division in 1934. He was appointed foreign sales manager in 1939 and vice-president in charge of foreign distribution in 1942.

During the war he was in South America for the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs and was active in the foreign distribution division of the industry War Activities Committee. He is the recipient of numerous foreign decorations.

Hawkinson

"the combination of Arnold Picker, executive vice-president, Crown and Hawkinson gives the company one of the best informed and most able group of foreign department executives in the industry."

The board also expressed its gratitude to Samuel Goldwyn "for the gracious manner in which he acceded to the company's request that he release Mr. Crown from his current contract so that his services could be available to RKO Radio.

Crown was vice-president in charge of worldwide sales for Goldwyn.

Italian Film Group To Visit Hollywood

A contingent of Italian film representatives, headed by Nicola de Pirro, director of the Italian Government's Entertainment Industry Bureau, will leave here for Hollywood by plane tomorrow as guests of Arthur M. Loew, president of Loew's International Corp.

The group includes Dr. Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries; Italo Gemini, president of the Italian General Association of Show Business; Giuseppe La Guardia, banker, and Renzo Rufini, secretary-general of Italian Films Export.

While on the Coast, they will examine the techniques and organization of the Hollywood studios.

Another contingent, topped by Silvana Mangano and her husband, producer Dino de Laurentiis, will be the guests of Paramount Pictures. They, too, will fly from here tomorrow.

Companies Adopt Split-up of Japanese Import Licenses

Motion Picture Export Association member companies' presidents and foreign managers yesterday arrived at a tentative agreement on the split-up of import licenses which have been allocated for the second half of the current fiscal year by the Japanese government.

The 10 companies agreed to take one less license each than they had for the first half when the overall allocation was 63. Thus, with 59 permits to share in the second half under the slicing made by the Japanese, the companies are sharing 53, which means that six licenses are being held in abeyance until a decision can be made concerning their distribution. The companies gave themselves 30 days to reach such a decision.

Under the tentative arrangement the licenses are shared as follows: Loew's, eight; 20th-Fox, seven; Paramount, six; Warner, six; Columbia, five; RKO Radio, five; Universal, five; Republic, four; United Artists, four; Allied Artists, three.

Meanwhile, the MPEA will continue to press the Japanese government for an allocation at least equal to that for the first half, it was reported.

Australian and U. S. Tastes Held Alike

The film tastes of most Australians closely parallel those of Americans, according to Marshall Palmer, Australian exhibitor, currently visiting here. The similarity, explained Palmer, is one reason for the popularity of Hollywood films in Australia.

Palmer, owner of two theatres on the outskirts of Brisbane, said about 85 per cent of the films shown in Australia are American and approximately 10 per cent are British. The preference of Australian audiences, he added, are Westerns and musicals.

The Australian exhibitor blamed government restrictions for the dearth of native films. Also, he said, it is almost impossible to build a new theatre due to government control of materials. Palmer said that grosses on the whole have improved through the years. He added, though, that Australian exhibitors are worried about the possible introduction of TV there.

Palmer plans to leave here tomorrow for Montreal enroute home following a three-day visit here. He is on a seven-month trip around the world.

Says Zenith Has 3 Methods of Pay TV

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Zenith Radio Corp. today made public the contents of a letter sent by Commander Eugene F. McDonald, Jr., Zenith president, to leaders of the motion picture industry in which he claims that Zenith is prepared to service all home subscribers within range of a television station by using three different collection methods: collection on the phone bill, selling code cards at retail outlets, and use of coin slots on the sets themselves. The firm is planning a demonstration shortly, he wrote.

UPT Earns

consolidated earnings of $2,391,000 for the third quarter in 1951. Capital gains net for the third quarter amounted to $300,000 while the capital gains net for the same quarter last year was $2,297,000, it was stated.

49 Cents Per Share

Goldenson said that consolidated earnings, excluding capital gains, represent 49 cents per share for the third quarter and $1.20 per share for the nine months of 1952 on 3,300,830 shares outstanding as compared with 69 cents and $1.73 per share, respectively, on 3,260,213 shares for the corresponding periods of 1951. Consolidated earnings including capital gains amounted to 58 cents for the third quarter of 1952 and $1.65 for the nine months of 1952 as compared to $1.39 and $2.80 for the same periods of 1951.

During the third quarter, the UPT president reported, the company disposed of 24 theatres, 10 of which were by termination of joint interests, presumably in line with the consent decree.

Theatre television installations have been added in UPT operating companies in Dallas and Houston, while other installations are underway in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City and Buffalo, he disclosed.

The statement to stockholders put profits before Federal income tax and other items at $8,339,000 for the first nine months of 1952, compared to $10,944,000 for the same period in 1951. Third quarter profits before Federal taxes and other items for 1952 were $3,564,000, compared to $4,251,000 for 1951.

In the disposal of 24 theatres, the company received a net of $446,023 in cash and $212,850 in notes.

Goldenson stated that shortly after the end of the third quarter, UPT prepaid an additional $875,000 to the three banks which hold the two-and-a-half per cent notes issued under the company's loan agreement. Payments and prepayments now comprise maturities to and including Jan. 1, 1954, leaving a $3,500,000 balance of two-and-a-half per cent notes outstanding, it was added. Semi-annual principal payments on the $36,250,000 of three-and-a-half per cent notes which are still outstanding will, under the agreement, commence on July 1, 1956 and continue for 15 years, the company stated.

NEWS in Brief . . .

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Federal Judge Igoe today turned down the request of the Winston Theatre Corp., operating the Grand Theatre in the Loop here, that they be exempted from limitations of the Jackson Park decree. The requested exemption would have permitted them to play first run pictures for extended runs (of more than two weeks) without being required to seek permission from the court.

In the Essaness case, Federal Judge Walter La Buy today is hearing tesimony of Mrs. Mervyn Leroy, widow of Sidney M. Spiegel, Jr., one of the original partners of Essaness theatres.

Katharine Cornell, chairman of the Council of Living Theatre, has received a check for $25,000 from Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, a second payment on the Council's film, "Main Street to Broadway," which is being produced by Lester Cowan and which will be released by M-G-M. This money, and other monies accruing from the film, will be used by the Council to increase subscription memberships in "road show" cities throughout the country, and to further interest in general in the legitimate theatre.

The school is a non-profit organization.

SAG Signs With TV, Theatrical Producers

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Screen Actors Guild announced today the recent signing of collective bargaining contracts with 11 theatrical film producers and 19 television film producers. Columbia Pictures Corp. and Universal Pictures, long time contractees as theatrical producers, are included in this listing of television film producers.

On another TV front, Screen Writers Guild announced that its members voted 236 to four in favor of approving the proposed free lance television contract with major networks and agencies, following a mail ballot referendum.

Beresin Honored by Chicago Variety

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — Variety Club International chief barker Jack Beresin was guest of honor at a luncheon in the Congress Hotel here today.

Beresin, Col. William McCraw, and Richard Finnegan, consulting editor of the Sun-Times, were introduced by Joe Berenson, chief barker of Variety Club of Illinois. Other speakers were Jack Rose, John J. Jones, and Mrs. Meyer Gold, president of Variety women of Chicago. Finnegan also is chairman of the board of La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium, which received over $64,000 from the Variety theatre audience collections this year. The luncheon was followed by a board meeting, and a general meeting of the local talent has been called for Saturday.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE proposal made by H. A. Cole that Allied States' representatives withdraw from their roles in such all-industry endeavors as the establishment of an arbitration plan, administration of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations and direction of the campaign for elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax, when taken at face value, appears to be a course of action more drastic than called for by the circumstances he recites.

Cole's contention is that while Allied leaders were thus engaged in activities for the good of the industry, some elements therein were taking advantage of Allied's preoccupation by resorting to objectionable sales practices and imposing sales terms which put a number of top productions out of the reach of independent exhibitors. His letter, to Allied president Wilbur Snaper, cited alleged deviations on the part of distributors from the spirit if not the letter of the Paramount decree and named a half-dozen pictures to which special sales policies applied.

The practices related to the consent decree, of which Cole complains, and the sales policies applicable to the films he cites had their beginnings long before Abram Myers, Trueman Rembusch and Cole began devoting so much of their time to industry arbitration, administration of COMPO and the industry tax repeal campaign.

If, as Cole feels, sales policies and practices inimical to independent exhibitors as a body, increased

To Tell FCC of 'Great Service' Of Theatre TV

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — The Federal Communications Commission will be told tomorrow that theatre television is part of the technological progress of the motion picture industry and as such can be of great service to the people.

In addition, as the long-awaited theatre television hearings open tomorrow, the FCC will hear that existing common carrier facilities can't provide the wide band service which the industry feels is necessary to put a high-standard image on the theatre television screen.

These and other statements were made over the weekend at a background press conference by James Lawrence Fly and Vincent B. Welch, attorneys for the Motion Picture As-

"Plymouth Adventure"

[Dore Schary—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer]

DORE SCHARY'S personal production is possibly the best film ever made about the founding fathers of America and certainly is one of the finer pictures of the year. An extremely absorbing, progressively powerful and entirely credible historical drama, this looms as one of M-G-M's top grossers. Filmed expertly in unusually well-shaded color by Technicolor, the engrossing story evolves with a rare naturalness as neither loose ends nor knotty tyings are evident. Clarence Brown's direction is excellent and the flawless performance of Spencer Tracy is matched in lesser roles by stars Van Johnson, Gene Tierney, Leo Genn and Lloyd Bridges.

The screenplay by Helen Deutsch, based on the novel by Ernest Gebler, completely ignores the stereotyped concept of the Pilgrims and the hoary and hallowed myth of their crossing. Director Brown has achieved perfect balance of the exciting, realistic adventure episodes and the interwoven moments of romance. The characterizations are of genuine people reacting in a thoroughly human way to the crowded condi-

MPA Plans Extension of Ohio Censorship Fight

The Motion Picture Association of America has "in the works" a plan for uprooting film censorship elsewhere in Ohio now that the industry's victory in Toledo has been underscored by the city's failure to appeal, it was learned here at the weekend.

Allied Independent Theatres of Ohio, meanwhile, has sent a bulletin to all theatres in Toledo suggesting that newsreel leaders signifying that the state board of censors has approved the footage be snipped from the reels before they are run.

Robert Wile, Ohio ITO executive secretary, pointed out in the bulletin that Municipal Court Judge Wiley's decision that the state's censorship of newsreels is unconstitutional is the exhibitors' authority for exhibiting the news footage without the leaders.

The exact nature of the MPAA plan for extending the battle against Ohio film censorship was not revealed. However, it is understood that the next attack could be a repeat of the Toledo litigation in other cities or a direct bid for an Ohio Supreme Court ruling covering all of Ohio in light of the Toledo decision, or both.

Within the next two weeks, attorneys for MPAA member-companies will confer on the new Ohio plan. It is expected that shortly thereafter exhibitors in Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland and other Ohio cities will be invited to follow the example set by Martin G. Smith in Toledo and deliberately show uncensored newsreels in their theatres to force other municipal courts to rule.

or were in some way accentuated while Myers, Rembusch and himself were occupied with their all-industry endeavors, it is a matter of fact that Allied ranks boast other capable and vocal champions of the independent exhibitors' cause—including its president, Snaper—who were not pre-occupied with all-industry assignments.

Therefore, it would seem, the cause cited by Cole is not substantially related to the effect he complains of, and for that reason his recommendation, on the basis of available facts, appears uncalled for.

It is inconceivable that Allied, if it is so minded, cannot prosecute its complaints as effectively with three men contributing to all-industry endeavors as it can without. Nor is there much reason to believe that Allied, by forsaking the course of industry unity to espouse the other course exclusively, is better serving its members and the cause of the independent exhibitors.

If Cole feels that Allied has been poorly repaid for its valuable contributions to recent industry endeavors, he need only reflect that the realization of arbitration, an effective COMPO and tax repeal, each holds its own promise of reward. Those rewards need not be jeopardized simply because, as Cole sees it, there are other jobs to be done.

'Fatima' Holdovers Set Several 'Firsts'

Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Fatima" is setting new "firsts" in many of its holdover engagements recorded to date, the company reports.

The picture is holding over for a second week at the Strand, Scranton, and the Paramount, Wilkesbarre, marking the first time in five years that any attraction has been held over at either houses. The picture's fourth week holdover at the Center Theatre, Buffalo, is also the first time in five years for a fourth week in this situation. The holding of "Fatima" for a second week at the Stanley in Utica is the first time in the history of the house that any picture played a full second week.

of the corporation, the announcement revealed.

Roberts pointed out that Mayer's association is with the production company, which is currently presenting "This Is Cinerama" at the Broadway Theatre and which controls the licensing company, Cinerama, Inc.

Merian C. Cooper's position as general manager in charge of the corporation's production program is unchanged, said Roberts. Mayer referred to Cooper's position in the new organization as being essentially the same as that of the late Irving Thalberg, who was executive producer while Mayer was the head of production at M-G-M.

Mayer's new association with Cinerama, Roberts said, "will bring to that organization the benefits of the veteran producer's many years of practical showmanship, valuable alike in the ambitious production plans of the sponsors of the new entertainment medium, and in its plans for the installation of Cinerama equipment in many of the key cities of this country and in the capitals of Europe."

Since it opened at the Broadway Theatre on Sept. 30, the company's first production, "This Is Cinerama," has played to more than capacity at every performance. Press coverage that hailed the process as a revolution in entertainment has resulted in a mail demand from out-of-town that averages close to 1,000 letters a day, it was stated.

Beginning immediately, Mayer will devote himself to the company's production plans in association with Merian C. Cooper, and the expansion of its exhibition to cities other than New York. He will divide his time between the New York and the Hollywood headquarters of Cinerama, the latter to be opened soon, Roberts disclosed.

"Cinerama is as new and challenging as sound was," said Mayer. "It opens a whole new world to us. I am proud to join Lowell Thomas, Merian C. Cooper, Dudley Roberts, Frank Smith and their associates in an effort to realize the almost limitless possibilities of Cinerama as a medium of story telling, and in expanding its audience from one theatre to many theatres across America and in the capitals of the world."

Cinerama is the invention of Fred Waller. Fifteen years were spent in its development, and an investment estimated at $12,000,000. The adaptation of stereophonic sound was largely the work of Hazard Reeves.

Teamsters Hit U. S. On 16mm. TV Suit

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—International Brotherhood of Teamsters in national convention here resolved against the government's 16mm. suit seeking to compel film companies to supply theatrical films to television and also against "runaway" production practice by which American theatrical and television film producers produce abroad films to be exhibited here. Teamsters also awarded national theatres president Charles Skouras a gold membership card in token appreciation of long-time employer-employee relations.

17 Projectionists at Salaries Totaling $2,000 Weekly Used in Cinerama Show

The extent to which Cinerama can benefit projectionists, and at the same time add substantially to theatre operating costs, was brought out here with the disclosure that each day's performance of "This Is Cinerama" at the Broadway Theatre requires the service of 17 members of IATSE New York Projectionists Local No. 306.

The salaries of these 17 come to approximately $2,000 per week. The triple-projection, three dimensional effect system called for the installation of three booths at the theatre with two projection machines in each booth. Each booth is manned during each of two seven-hour shifts by two "306" members. The six operators on each shift are supervised by a foreman projectionist. In addition to the two foremen there are three other "306" members who during the two performances watch the functioning of the sound equipment.

The weekly gross at the Broadway since the Cinerama showings commenced on Sept. 30, reportedly has been $35,000.

Two Charged with NPA Violations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The National Production Authority reports hearing commissioner H. Bascom Thomas has ruled that two partners in a Texas drive-in theatre violated NPA orders and regulations by constructing the theatre early this year with more copper than permitted under government construction controls.

The partners are W. O. Beardon of Lubbock and I. R. Doyal of the Tascosa Drive-in Theatre in Amarillo. The original NPA complaint charged the partners with furnishing false information regarding the amount of copper wire used in building the theatre, but Thomas found that the violations were not accompanied by fraud or fraudulent representation on the part of either man.

However, Thomas directed that all priority assistance and allocations as well as authority to use controlled materials to build additional drive-ins be withdrawn from the partners for the duration of the Defense Production Act, now slated to expire June 30, 1953. He also ordered all privileges of self-authorization and automatic allotments be denied the two as long as the Act is on the books. He said that if controls are relaxed later and theatre builders are allowed some copper, the two men could obtain any further copper needed for the Tascosa Drive-in, provided the amount which be required, plus the 230 pounds already used do not exceed the NPA limit.

Mexican Exhibitors Hit Distributors

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—Charges of monopoly against exhibitors by the Producers and Distributors Association appearing in full-page newspaper advertisements addressed to the Senate were rebutted in like form by the Cinema Impresarios Association and the National Exhibitors Union.

Panther Sets 4 Films

Panther Productions, Inc. has completed shooting on "Violated," a feature made in and around New York City, and plans to produce three additional features for theatrical release during 1953. The first will be "The Male Urge," scheduled to go before the cameras Jan 15.

Says British Hold US Firms in Esteem

Never in the history of the industry has the standing of American distributors in England been better, both with exhibitors and the public, according to Douglas Granville, Universal's special representative for the United Kingdom and Ireland, who is here from London for home office conferences.

Granville said that despite adverse economic conditions in Britain, there is only a slight drop in theatre grosses. However, he added, "big pictures" will gross more today than in previous years.

At its present stage, TV in Britain has virtually no effect on the box-office, Granville said, adding that there are currently about 5,000,000 home television sets in Britain with a network of relay stations covering approximately 80 per cent of the population. The lack of TV competition was attributed to many factors, including the operation of only one station by the government, a station which goes on the air only a few hours during the evening. Commercial sponsored TV in Britain was seen by Granville from four to five years away.

Granville and Alfred E. Daff, Universal executive vice-president, who also attended the press conference, expressed complete satisfaction with the J. Arthur Rank Organization, which handles the distribution of Universal films in the United Kingdom. Daff added that Universal expects to retain its association with Rank many more years.

Due to construction restrictions. Granville saw little possibility for new theatres being built in England. He reported British exhibitors are fighting the entertainment tax which, he said, amounts to an over-all average of 39 per cent. Granville said that Rank is continuing his experimental utilization of theatre television equipment which is installed in a number of Rank theatres.

While in New York, Granville paid a visit to the Broadway Theatre and saw Cinerama for the first time. He prophesized that Cinerama "will completely revolutionize the industry" in time, and expressed hope that it would be shown in London shortly.

Granville, following his home office conferences, plans to visit Hollywood in about another two weeks.

. . . with RAY GALLO

ROUNDING up highlights of the recent meeting of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers in Washington, we believe it worth noting that this convention attracted nearly 1,000 delegates from all over the world, the largest SMPTE attendance ever in the East.

Stepping into the shoes of Bill Kunzmann, who resigned as convention vice-president, is John W. Servies of National Theatre Supply. Servies arranged a surprise testimonial luncheon for Bill at which he was presented with a gold key chain and money clip, along with a scroll signed by friends who attended the affair. Oscar Neu of Neumade Products was the M. C.

At the banquet, special tribute was paid to Dr. John I. Crabtree, former SMPTE president, and recipient of the Progress Medal Award. Dave Joy of National Carbon read the citation. . . . Peter Mole, retiring president, presented Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus with the Samuel Warner Memorial Award. . . . Axel G. Jensen of Bell Laboratories received both the David Sarnoff Gold Medal and the Society's Fellowship. . . . Henry Hood, another recipient of the Fellowship, was appointed engineering vice-president to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of F. T. Bowditch.

One of the major highlights of the convention was a Coffee Clubroom provided by RCA Victor in a separate room and foyer near the main meeting hall. Here conventioneers met friends and secured refreshments at any time during session hours. Nearly 50,000 cups of coffee were consumed, plus 100 gallons of citrus juice and 200 dozen doughnuts and rolls. RCA and its public relations man, Dick Hooper, originator of the idea, certainly installed a popular service.

sociation of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. The three attorneys will present the industry's theatre television case to the Commission—both at the engineering and accounting phase of the hearing, which is due to run for about two weeks starting tomorrow, and at the major presentation of the case, which is scheduled to open Jan. 12.

Bid for Space on Spectrum

The attorneys stressed the fact that the industry will not ask for licenses, but will merely ask that the FCC set aside space on the spectrum for eventual industry use for a theatre television service. They would not specify exactly how the industry would transmit theatre television programs, they said, because they wanted to be "free to adapt ourselves to whatever the Commission decides" should be done in the way of carrying the service.

All three attorneys declared that the industry was not "fighting" broadcasting or home television. Cohn maintained that "the technique of theatre television, particularly in color, can bring a new type of entertainment to the people." He said that theatre television was part of the development of "the logical, technological progress of the theatre industry," and that it was "to the credit" of the industry that it was making theatre television available to the public. Although home television was of great service to the people, he said, it had certain limitations which theatre television didn't have.

Welch emphasized his belief that theatre television programming would not conflict with home television programming.

Want Better Service

In discussing the present common carrier faciilties which theatre television could use, Fly said that the industry wanted a "more extensive and continuous service which presumably would overload the current A. T. and T. facilities." In addition, he declared, the industry "wanted a better type of service" than that provided by A. T. and T.'s current band width and its location in the spectrum.

Fly pointed out that even if A. T. and T. should establish the fact that it can render the service contemplated by the industry, that wouldn't necessarily mean that the Commission would authorize the company to do it. A. T. and T. "has no legal right to furnish all the required services in this field," he said. The Commission could authorize Western Union to do it, he went on, or it could authorize the industry to organize a company to provide the facilities.

Present at the conference along with Fly, Welch and Cohn was Ed Cooper, MPAA theatre television specialist.

In addition to MPAA and NETTC, almost 50 notices of appearances in the hearing have been filed with the Commission.

tions aboard ship, the overwhelming battering of the storming sea, long days without sufficient food and water, and the growing animosity between crew and passengers. Historical fact is followed in intensely dramatic terms and the film opens with the machinations behind the real estate swindle that resulted in the Pilgrims being landed in New England instead of their desired Virginia. The Pilgrims are shown to include business-seeking merchants and adventurers as well as those fleeing religious oppression.

The major fictional invention is the pivotal characterization of the Mayflower's captain, which Tracy brilliantly portrays as a fine but hard-bitten ruler, forsaking yet desperately searching for the goodness of heart and peace of mind which Miss Tierney so winningly exhibits as the wife of pious Pilgrim Genn. Tracy saves Genn's life when he is washed overboard in a storm but otherwise continues his efforts to win Miss Tierney's affection. When Tracy does so after the ship has safely reached port and Genn is surveying the land, Miss Tierney cannot choose between them and drowns herself.

Tracy quells a mutiny led by vicious mate Lloyd Bridges after he decides to keep the ship off shore as a shelter rather than return, while the Pilgrims build houses. Eventually he is won over to the Pilgrims' morality and leaves after aiding them much. Johnston and Dawn Addams are the supplementary romantic interest as John Alden and Priscilla but the poetic invention of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow which has no basis in fact is not used. Included in a large and competent cast are Barry Jones, John Dehner, Noel Drayton, Tommy Ivo and Lowell Gilmore. Miklos Rozsa wrote an appropriate musical score.

This is a rare film that holds appeal for every type of moviegoer and condescends to none. Avid viewers of spectacle, romance or drama will find this rewarding fare. Marquee-wise this is loaded, for Tracy, Johnson, Tierney and Genn attract a large following. The intelligent treatment of the Tracy-Tierney romance is in good taste and should prove no deterrent to exploitation tie-ups with schools because of the historical accuracy of the film. Toward this end there are the signing of the Mayflower Compact, the flight of William Brewster of the Separatist Church, the aforementioned facts concerning the trip, and a wealth of detail as to instruments and clothing. It is a production that involved the labor of some 1,200 men and the personal supervision of Schary. The result is well worthwhile.

Running time, 104 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 28.

RKO to Release 15 in Six Months

RKO Radio Pictures, under the new Stolkin management group, will have at least 15 pictures to release over a six-month period, it was learned here at the weekend. Most of the films were produced by independents releasing through RKO.

The 15 include: "Under the Red Sea," a Sol Lesser production; "Montana Belle"; "Androcles and the Lion," Gabriel Pascal; "Face to Face," Huntington Hartford; "Never Wave at a Wac," Independent Artists; "Blackbird, the Pirate," Grainger; "Beautiful But Dangerous"; "Hans Christian Anderson," Samuel Goldwyn; "Jet Pilot," "The Difference," Filmakers; "Break Up"; "No Time for Flowers," Mort Briskin; "Peter Pan," Walt Disney Productions; "The Murder," (tentative title); and "The Sea Devils."

Companies Willing To Confer on Draft

Distributors "stand ready" to meet with exhibitors on any disputed points of the arbitration draft, drawn up by the arbitration committee of the distributing companies and sent out to exhibitor organizations, Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, declared here at the weekend.

Added Johnston: "Let me repeat again what I have said before—the motion picture producing and distributing companies want to set up an arbitration system in cooperation with exhibitors. There is no other industry project in which our companies have invested more time and effort during the year. They are prepared to invest as much more as may be necessary to reach agreement in a spirit of earnest goodwill."

industry here to speculate on the purpose or implications of Cole's proposal and on the consequences such an action would have if approved by the Allied board next month.

One who indicated his name could be used in connection with his comment was Samuel Pinanski, one of the three members of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' governing committee. "No single individual or group is more important than the industry's campaign for repeal of the Federal admission tax," Pinanski said as he left here Friday for his Boston headquarters.

'Journal'

being alien to the usual editorial character of the paper.

The documented files on individuals within the Ralph Stolkin syndicate reveal more than reportorial purposefulness in the combing of 20-year or more old files of the Federal Trade Commission, the Chicago Better Business Bureau and last year's transcripts of the Kefauver hearings. What the purpose may be has many in the industry guessing.

Touches Animosities

The speculation touches personal and business animosities; the possibility of a bid for a proxy fight on behalf of individuals friendly to the paper to wrest control of RKO Pictures from the owners of the 29 per cent interest, or the expression of a continuing editorial disdain for the motion picture industry on the part of the Journal.

In connection with the latter, the Journal's uncomplimentary national "roundup" of the economic state of the industry at a time last summer when theatre attendance was on the increase for the first time in months is recalled by many.

Whatever the purpose, and company executives throughout the industry are convinced the Journal is going out of its way in an endeavor to "prove something," rather than simply present a story, the feeling is widespread that the attack upon the RKO Pictures group not only does that company incalculable harm but injures every other motion picture company as well.

No Parallels

Citing their reasons for believing the Journal's articles are not journalistic solely, executives point out not only that they have few, if any, parallels in Journal reporting, but that the first two were given the lead news position on the paper's page one, ordinarily reserved for spot news developments. A serialized exposé of business histories of individuals, they contend, would not be given that position had the Journal no axe to grind.

In addition, derisive references to members of the new RKO Pictures management whose business and professional character withstood the Journal's investigation, would not have been included either in an objective exposé or in a wholly unbiased news story, industry executives contend.

Many are anxious to see the Journal's suspected motive exposed, confident that if it is the investing public will be able properly to evaluate it without further loss of confidence in motion picture securities.

THE proposal made by H. A. Cole that Allied States' representatives withdraw from their roles in such all-industry endeavors as the establishment of an arbitration plan, administration of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations and direction of the campaign for elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax, when taken at face value, appears to be a course of action more drastic than called for by the circumstances he recites.

Cole's contention is that while Allied leaders were thus engaged in activities for the good of the industry, some elements therein were taking advantage of Allied's preoccupation by resorting to objectionable sales practices and imposing sales terms which put a number of top productions out of the reach of independent exhibitors. His letter, to Allied president Wilbur Snaper, cited alleged deviations on the part of distributors from the spirit if not the letter of the Paramount decree and named a half-dozen pictures to which special sales policies applied.

The practices related to the consent decree, of which Cole complains, and the sales policies applicable to the films he cites had their beginnings long before Abram Myers, Trueman Rembusch and Cole began devoting so much of their time to industry arbitration, administration of COMPO and the industry tax repeal campaign.

If, as Cole feels, sales policies and practices inimical to independent exhibitors as a body, increased

DORE SCHARY'S personal production is possibly the best film ever made about the founding fathers of America and certainly is one of the finer pictures of the year. An extremely absorbing, progressively powerful and entirely credible historical drama, this looms as one of M-G-M's top grossers. Filmed expertly in unusually well-shaded color by Technicolor, the engrossing story evolves with a rare naturalness as neither loose ends nor knotty tyings are evident. Clarence Brown's direction is excellent and the flawless performance of Spencer Tracy is matched in lesser roles by stars Van Johnson, Gene Tierney, Leo Genn and Lloyd Bridges.

The screenplay by Helen Deutsch, based on the novel by Ernest Gebler, completely ignores the stereotyped concept of the Pilgrims and the hoary and hallowed myth of their crossing. Director Brown has achieved perfect balance of the exciting, realistic adventure episodes and the interwoven moments of romance. ## $15,000 in Compo Dues from Texas

DALLAS, Oct. 19.—More than $15,000 in dues from theatres in Texas has been forwarded to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' headquarters in New York by Texas COMPO. This represents approximately $2,000 over the quota set up at the beginning of the recent drive, it was disclosed by Don Douglas, chairman of the Texas COMPO finance committee. Film salesmen from Dallas exchanges made the collections.

Circuit theatres paid in more than $6,500, and independents contributed more than $8,500.

MPA Plans Extension of Ohio Censorship Fight

The Motion Picture Association of America has "in the works" a plan for uprooting film censorship elsewhere in Ohio now that the industry's victory in Toledo has been underscored by the city's failure to appeal, it was learned here at the weekend.

Allied Independent Theatres of Ohio, meanwhile, has sent a bulletin to all theatres in Toledo suggesting that newsreel leaders signifying that the state board of censors has approved the footage be snipped from the reels before they are run.

Robert Wile, Ohio ITO executive secretary, pointed out in the bulletin that Municipal Court Judge Wiley's decision that the state's censorship of newsreels is unconstitutional is the exhibitors' authority for exhibiting the news footage without the leaders.

The exact nature of the MPAA plan for extending the battle against Ohio film censorship was not revealed. However, it is understood that the next attack could be a repeat of the Toledo litigation in other cities or a direct bid for an Ohio Supreme Court ruling covering all of Ohio in light of the Toledo decision, or both.

Within the next two weeks, attorneys for MPAA member-companies will confer on the new Ohio plan. It is expected that shortly thereafter exhibitors in Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland and other Ohio cities will be invited to follow the example set by Martin G. Smith in Toledo and deliberately show uncensored newsreels in their theatres to force other municipal courts to rule.

or were in some way accentuated while Myers, Rembusch and himself were occupied with their all-industry endeavors, it is a matter of fact that Allied ranks boast other capable and vocal champions of the independent exhibitors' cause —including its president, Snaper— who were not pre-occupied with all-industry assignments.

Therefore, it would seem, the cause cited by Cole is not substantially related to the effect he complains of, and for that reason his recommendation, on the basis of available facts, appears uncalled for.

It is inconceivable that Allied, if it is so minded, cannot prosecute its complaints as effectively with three men contributing to all-industry endeavors as it can without. Nor is there much reason to believe that Allied, by forsaking the course of industry unity to espouse the other course exclusively, is better serving its members and the cause of the independent exhibitors.

If Cole feels that Allied has been poorly repaid for its valuable contributions to recent industry endeavors, he need only reflect that the realization of arbitration, an effective COMPO and tax repeal, each holds its own promise of reward. Those rewards need not be jeopardized simply because, as Cole sees it, there are other jobs to be done.

'Fatima' Holdovers Set Several 'Firsts'

Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Fatima" is setting new "firsts" in many of its holdover engagements recorded to date, the company reports.

The picture is holding over for a second week at the Strand, Scranton, and the Paramount, Wilkesbarre, marking the first time in five years that any attraction has been held over at either houses. The picture's fourth week holdover at the Center Theatre, Buffalo, is also the first time in five years for a fourth week in this situation. The holding of "Fatima" for a second week at the Stanley in Utica is the first time in the history of the house that any picture played a full second week.

of the corporation, the announcement revealed.

Roberts pointed out that Mayer's association is with the production company, which is currently presenting "This Is Cinerama" at the Broadway Theatre and which controls the licensing company, Cinerama, Inc.

Merian C. Cooper's position as general manager in charge of the corporation's production program is unchanged, said Roberts. Mayer referred to Cooper's position in the new organization as being essentially the same as that of the late Irving Thalberg, who was executive producer while Mayer was the head of production at M-G-M.

Mayer's new association with Cinerama, Roberts said, "will bring to that organization the benefits of the veteran producer's many years of practical showmanship, valuable alike in the ambitious production plans of the sponsors of the new entertainment medium, and in its plans for the installation of Cinerama equipment in many of the key cities of this country and in the capitals of Europe."

Since it opened at the Broadway Theatre on Sept. 30, the company's first production, "This Is Cinerama," has played to more than capacity at every performance. Press coverage that hailed the process as a revolution in entertainment has resulted in a mail demand from out-of-town that averages close to 1,000 letters a day, it was stated.

Beginning immediately, Mayer will devote himself to the company's production plans in association with Merian C. Cooper, and the expansion of its exhibition to cities other than New York. He will divide his time between the New York and the Hollywood headquarters of Cinerama, the latter to be opened soon, Roberts disclosed.

"Cinerama is as new and challenging as sound was," said Mayer. "It opens a whole new world to us. I am proud to join Lowell Thomas, Merian C. Cooper, Dudley Roberts, Frank Smith and their associates in an effort to realize the almost limitless possibilities of Cinerama as a medium of story telling, and in expanding its audience from one theatre to many theatres across America and in the capitals of the world."

Cinerama is the invention of Fred Waller. Fifteen years were spent in its development, and an investment estimated at $12,000,000. The adaptation of stereophonic sound was largely the work of Hazard Reeves.

Teamsters Hit U. S. On 16mm. TV Suit

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—International Brotherhood of Teamsters in national convention here resolved against the government's 16mm. suit seeking to compel film companies to supply theatrical films to television and also against "runaway" production practice by which American theatrical and television film producers produce abroad films to be exhibited here. Teamsters also awarded national theatres president Charles Skouras a gold membership card in token appreciation of long-time employer-employee relations.

17 Projectionists at Salaries Totaling $2,000 Weekly Used in Cinerama Show

The extent to which Cinerama can benefit projectionists, and at the same time add substantially to theatre operating costs, was brought out here with the disclosure that each day's performance of "This Is Cinerama" at the Broadway Theatre requires the service of 17 members of IATSE New York Projectionists Local No. 306.

The salaries of these 17 come to approximately $2,000 per week. The triple-projection, three dimensional effect system called for the installation of three booths at the theatre with two projection machines in each booth. Each booth is manned during each of two seven-hour shifts by two "306" members. The six operators on each shift are supervised by a foreman projectionist. In addition to the two foremen there are three other "306" members who during the two performances watch the functioning of the sound equipment.

The weekly gross at the Broadway since the Cinerama showings commenced on Sept. 30, reportedly has been $35,000.

Two Charged with NPA Violations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The National Production Authority reports hearing commissioner H. Bascom Thomas has ruled that two partners in a Texas drive-in theatre violated NPA orders and regulations by constructing the theatre early this year with more copper than permitted under government construction controls.

The partners are W. O. Beardon of Lubbock and I. R. Doyal of the Tascosa Drive-in Theatre in Amarillo. The original NPA complaint charged the partners with furnishing false information regarding the amount of copper wire used in building the theatre, but Thomas found that the violations were not accompanied by fraud or fraudulent representation on the part of either man.

However, Thomas directed that all priority assistance and allocations as well as authority to use controlled materials to build additional drive-ins be withdrawn from the partners for the duration of the Defense Production Act, now slated to expire June 30, 1953. He also ordered all privileges of self-authorization and automatic allotments be denied the two as long as the Act is on the books. He said that if controls are relaxed later and theatre builders are allowed some copper, the two men could obtain any further copper needed for the Tascosa Drive-in, provided the amount which be required, plus the 230 pounds already used do not exceed the NPA limit.

Says British Hold US Firms in Esteem

Never in the history of the industry has the standing of American distributors in England been better, both with exhibitors and the public, according to Douglas Granville, Universal's special representative for the United Kingdom and Ireland, who is here from London for home office conferences.

Granville said that despite adverse economic conditions in Britain, there is only a slight drop in theatre grosses. However, he added, "big pictures" will gross more today than in previous years.

At its present stage, TV in Britain has virtually no effect on the box-office, Granville said, adding that there are currently about 5,000,000 home television sets in Britain with a network of relay stations covering approximately 80 per cent of the population. The lack of TV competition was attributed to many factors, including the operation of only one station by the government, a station which goes on the air only a few hours during the evening. Commercial sponsored TV in Britain was seen by Granville from four to five years away.

Granville and Alfred E. Daff, Universal executive vice-president, who also attended the press conference, expressed complete satisfaction with the J. Arthur Rank Organization, which handles the distribution of Universal films in the United Kingdom. Daff added that Universal expects to retain its association with Rank many more years.

Due to construction restrictions, Granville saw little possibility for new theatres being built in England. He reported British exhibitors are fighting the entertainment tax which, he said, amounts to an over-all average of 39 per cent. Granville said that Rank is continuing his experimental utilization of theatre television equipment which is installed in a number of Rank theatres.

While in New York, Granville paid a visit to the Broadway Theatre and saw Cinerama for the first time. He prophesized that Cinerama "will completely revolutionize the industry" in time, and expressed hope that it would be shown in London shortly.

Granville, following his home office conferences, plans to visit Hollywood in about another two weeks.

In the THEATRE Equipment World . . . . . with RAY GALLO

ROUNDING up highlights of the recent meeting of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers in Washington, we believe it worth noting that this convention attracted nearly 1,000 delegates from all over the world, the largest SMPTE attendance ever in the East.

Stepping into the shoes of Bill Kunzmann, who resigned as convention vice-president, is John W. Servies of National Theatre Supply. Servies arranged a surprise testimonial luncheon for Bill at which he was presented with a gold key chain and money clip, along with a scroll signed by friends who attended the affair. Oscar Neu of Neumade Products was the M. C.

At the banquet, special tribute was paid to Dr. John I. Crabtree, former SMPTE president, and recipient of the Progress Medal Award. Dave Joy of National Carbon read the citation. . . . Peter Mole, retiring president, presented Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus with the Samuel Warner Memorial Award. . . . Axel G. Jensen of Bell Laboratories received both the David Sarnoff Gold Medal and the Society's Fellowship. . . . Henry Hood, another recipient of the Fellowship, was appointed engineering vice-president to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of F. T. Bowditch.

One of the major highlights of the convention was a Coffee Clubroom provided by RCA Victor in a separate room and foyer near the main meeting hall. Here conventioneers met friends and secured refreshments at any time during session hours. Nearly 50,000 cups of coffee were consumed, plus 100 gallons of citrus juice and 200 dozen doughnuts and rolls. RCA and its public relations man, Dick Hooper, originator of the idea, certainly installed a popular service.

Shown below enjoying a "coffee klatch" are Jack O'Brien, Wally Wolf, and Barton Kreuzer, all of RCA, and Nate Golden, chief motion picture officer of the NPA.

To Tell FCC

sociation of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. The three attorneys will present the industry's theatre television case to the Commission—both at the engineering and accounting phase of the hearing, which is due to run for about two weeks starting tomorrow, and at the major presentation of the case, which is scheduled to open Jan. 12.

Bid for Space on Spectrum

The attorneys stressed the fact that the industry will not ask for licenses, but will merely ask that the FCC set aside space on the spectrum for eventual industry use for a theatre television service. They would not specify exactly how the industry would transmit theatre television programs, they said, because they wanted to be "free to adapt ourselves to whatever the Commission decides" should be done in the way of carrying the service.

All three attorneys declared that the industry was not "fighting" broadcasting or home television. Cohn maintained that "the technique of theatre television, particularly in color, can bring a new type of entertainment to the people." He said that theatre television was part of the development of "the logical, technological progress of the theatre industry," and that it was "to the credit" of the industry that it was making theatre television available to the public. Although home television was of great service to the people, he said, it had certain limitations which theatre television didn't have.

Welch emphasized his belief that theatre television programming would not conflict with home television programming.

Want Better Service

In discussing the present common carrier faciilties which theatre television could use, Fly said that the industry wanted a "more extensive and continuous service which presumably would overload the current A. T. and T. facilities." In addition, he declared, the industry "wanted a better type of service" than that provided by A. T. and T.'s current band width and its location in the spectrum.

Fly pointed out that even if A. T. and T. should establish the fact that it can render the service contemplated by the industry, that wouldn't necessarily mean that the Commission would authorize the company to do it. A. T. and T. "has no legal right to furnish all the required services in this field," he said. The Commission could authorize Western Union to do it, he went on, or it could authorize the industry to organize a company to provide the facilities.

Present at the conference along with Fly, Welch and Cohn was Ed Cooper, MPAA theatre television specialist.

In addition to MPAA and NETTC, almost 50 notices of appearances in the hearing have been filed with the Commission.

To Show German Films

tions aboard ship, the overwhelming battering of the storming sea, long days without sufficient food and water, and the growing animosity between crew and passengers. Historical fact is followed in intensely dramatic terms and the film opens with the machinations behind the real estate swindle that resulted in the Pilgrims being landed in New England instead of their desired Virginia. The Pilgrims are shown to include business-seeking merchants and adventurers as well as those fleeing religious oppression.

The major fictional invention is the pivotal characterization of the Mayflower's captain, which Tracy brilliantly portrays as a fine but hard-bitten ruler, forsaking yet desperately searching for the goodness of heart and peace of mind which Miss Tierney so winningly exhibits as the wife of pious Pilgrim Genn. Tracy saves Genn's life when he is washed overboard in a storm but otherwise continues his efforts to win Miss Tierney's affection. When Tracy does so after the ship has safely reached port and Genn is surveying the land, Miss Tierney cannot choose between them and drowns herself.

Tracy quells a mutiny led by vicious mate Lloyd Bridges after he decides to keep the ship off shore as a shelter rather than return, while the Pilgrims build houses. Eventually he is won over to the Pilgrims' morality and leaves after aiding them much. Johnston and Dawn Addams are the supplementary romantic interest as John Alden and Priscilla but the poetic invention of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow which has no basis in fact is not used. Included in a large and competent cast are Barry Jones, John Dehner, Noel Drayton, Tommy Ivo and Lowell Gilmore. Miklos Rozsa wrote an appropriate musical score.

This is a rare film that holds appeal for every type of moviegoer and condescends to none. Avid viewers of spectacle, romance or drama will find this rewarding fare. Marquee-wise this is loaded, for Tracy, Johnson, Tierney and Genn attract a large following. The intelligent treatment of the Tracy-Tierney romance is in good taste and should prove no deterrent to exploitation tie-ups with schools because of the historical accuracy of the film. Toward this end there are the signing of the Mayflower Compact, the flight of William Brewster of the Separatist Church, the aforementioned facts concerning the trip, and a wealth of detail as to instruments and clothing. It is a production that involved the labor of some 1,200 men and the personal supervision of Schary. The result is well worthwhile.

Running time, 104 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 28.

RKO to Release 15 in Six Months

RKO Radio Pictures, under the new Stolkin management group, will have at least 15 pictures to release over a six-month period, it was learned here at the weekend. Most of the films were produced by independents releasing through RKO.

The 15 include: "Under the Red Sea," a Sol Lesser production; "Montana Belle"; "Androcles and the Lion," Gabriel Pascal; "Face to Face," Huntington Hartford; "Never Wave at a Wac," Independent Artists; "Blackbird, the Pirate," Grainger; "Beautiful But Dangerous"; "Hans Christian Anderson," Samuel Goldwyn; "Jet Pilot," "The Difference," Filmakers; "Break Up"; "No Time for Flowers," Mort Briskin; "Peter Pan," Walt Disney Productions; "The Murder," (tentative title); and "The Sea Devils."

Miss Norton succeeds Don Prince, resigned. Before accepting the RKO post, she headed her own publicity organization.

Distributors "stand ready" to meet with exhibitors on any disputed points of the arbitration draft, drawn up by the arbitration committee of the distributing companies and sent out to exhibitor organizations, Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, declared here at the weekend.

Added Johnston: "Let me repeat again what I have said before—the motion picture producing and distributing companies want to set up an arbitration system in cooperation with exhibitors. There is no other industry project in which our companies have invested more time and effort during the year. They are prepared to invest as much more as may be necessary to reach agreement in a spirit of earnest goodwill."

industry here to speculate on the purpose or implications of Cole's proposal and on the consequences such an action would have if approved by the Allied board next month.

One who indicated his name could be used in connection with his comment was Samuel Pinanski, one of the three members of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' governing committee. "No single individual or group is more important than the industry's campaign for repeal of the Federal admission tax," Pinanski said as he left here Friday for his Boston headquarters.

'Journal'

being alien to the usual editorial character of the paper.

The documented files on individuals within the Ralph Stolkin syndicate reveal more than reportorial purposefulness in the combing of 20-year or more old files of the Federal Trade Commission, the Chicago Better Business Bureau and last year's transcripts of the Kefauver hearings. What the purpose may be has many in the industry guessing.

Touches Animosities

The speculation touches personal and business animosities; the possibility of a bid for a proxy fight on behalf of individuals friendly to the paper to wrest control of RKO Pictures from the owners of the 29 per cent interest, or the expression of a continuing editorial disdain for the motion picture industry on the part of the Journal.

In connection with the latter, the Journal's uncomplimentary national "roundup" of the economic state of the industry at a time last summer when theatre attendance was on the increase for the first time in months is recalled by many.

Whatever the purpose, and company executives throughout the industry are convinced the Journal is going out of its way in an endeavor to "prove something," rather than simply present a story, the feeling is widespread that the attack upon the RKO Pictures group not only does that company incalculable harm but injures every other motion picture company as well.

No Parallels

Citing their reasons for believing the Journal's articles are not journalistic solely, executives point out not only that they have few, if any, parallels in Journal reporting, but that the first two were given the lead news position on the paper's page one, ordinarily reserved for spot news developments. A serialized exposé of business histories of individuals, they contend, would not be given that position had the Journal no axe to grind.

In addition, derisive references to members of the new RKO Pictures management whose business and professional character withstood the Journal's investigation, would not have been included either in an objective exposé or in a wholly unbiased news story, industry executives contend.

Many are anxious to see the Journal's suspected motive exposed, confident that if it is the investing public will be able properly to evaluate it without further loss of confidence in motion picture securities.

Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, who was scheduled to leave here Saturday by plane for Paris, postponed his departure indefinitely. Johnston decided to put the trip off until he has recovered from a cold he contracted earlier last week.

Johnston was to have conferred this week in Paris with French government and film industry officials with a view to finding a basis for a resumption in negotiations for a new Franco-American film pact.

At most Broadway situations, weekend grosses remained sturdy. Theatremen, asked to comment on the box-office affect of the wide interest in the current Presidential campaign, expressed the view, in the main, that the affect was negligible. However, as Election Day draws closer, its consequence on the box-office will bear watching, most circuit executives felt.

the hearing on band widths and spectrum location for theatre television transmissions channels. The information was given after repeated requests from FCC general counsel Benedict Cottone and Commissioner Frieda Hennock and Walker.

MPAA counsel James Fly and NETTC counsel Marcus Cohn opened the hearing, held in the auditorium of the National Museum here, with brief statements. Fly told the Commission an "extensive theatre television service" was "certain." The problem of the hearing, he continued, was to find "ways and means" of realizing "the public potential in a widespread theatre television service in harmony with the public interest."

In their simplest terms, Fly said, the industry's petitions before the FCC "seek the allocation of adequate frequencies for the use of the industry in transmitting television programs and in distributing them to theatres."

Cohn declared the industry didn't propose "to take away any frequencies presently allocated to broadcasting services." He told the Commission that theatre television "fulfills a new need" not competitive with other broadcasting. Theatre television, he said, was the "natural continuation of the technical advances made by motion pictures in the last 50 years."

It was during the testimony of Earl Sponable, director of research for 20th Century-Fox, that Walker made his blast at exclusive theatre telecasts of fights. Interrupting Sponable's analysis of qualities of the screen images during fight telecasts, Walker said he had received many complaints from Congress and from the public about "your monopoly of fights," and said that "the public can't get them until they go to a theatre." The public "wants to know," he said, what's going to happen to fight telecasts.

Vincent Welch, MPAA attorney, told Walker there would be discussion on the point in the major portion of the hearing, due to start Jan. 12. "It's going to take more than discussion," Walker replied. He went on to say that some complaints have particularly mentioned that the theatres "had not been large enough for all the people who wanted to get in." Welch answered that the industry would be happy to install theatre television equipment in more theatres.

"I think the public isn't worrying too much about not getting into the theatres," Walker said. "I think they're woried about not getting fights on the home sets." He went on to say that if the same exclusive theatre telecast policy was followed for future fights, "the home viewers won't have a chance to see a fight."

Fly pointed out to Walker that MPAA and NETTC "didn't initiate the projects and carry on their network operation and they shouldn't have to account for it." He added that fights would be "a very minor segment" of theatre television in its future program.

Stuart Bailey, NETTC theatre television engineer, followed Sponable, giving brief testimony on the mechanics of a theatre television system and the quality of the image. A theatre television circuit, he said, "should be of sufficiently high quality to "allow the maintenance of the illusion" that the viewer was "immersed in the original scene." A truly competitive system, he continued, would ultimately require a total of six separate program distribution systems, "particularly between and within the larger centers of population."

When MPAA theatre television engineer Andrew Inglis took the stand with a 75-page exhibit of technical specifications for theatre television transmission systems, Cottone and Commissioners Walker and Hennock immediately pinned him down for more details. Commissioner Hennock questioned Inglis repeatedly until he declared that in order to transmit the 10 mc. bandwidth specified in the exhibit a channel of 30 mc. would really be needed. The 10 mc. band width would actually transmit, he explained, but it would be necessary to have an additional 10 mc. as a buffer on each side of it.

Welch then told the Commission that two 30 mc. channels would provide a theatre television system—and that six channels of 60 mc. each would supply a complete nation-wide competitive theatre television service. When the theatre television case was finished, he said, the industry's overall requirements would "prove out to be 400 mc."

Cottone pointed out that the hypothesis on which the industry based its specifications—the necessity of a technically superior screen image in theatre telecasting—"was not necessarily accepted."

Cottone then went on to ask Inglis where in the spectrum the industry though the 400 mc. should be located. Fly and Welch answered that such information was not part of Inglis' testimony but that a subsequent witness would deal with it. Commissioner Walker declared he though the information about location in the spectrum should have been part of the opening statement, and that he wanted the details. Walker, Cottone and the industry attorneys argued the point back and forth, until Walker suggested that perhaps the attorneys "didn't want to give the information to the Commission."

Following this Cohn gave the Commission as suggested locations for the theatre television channels the 5,925 band to the 6,875 band; the 3,500 band to the 3,700 band; and the 10,700 to the 11,700 band.

It was decided to postpone cross-questioning by previous agreement from attorneys on this phase of the testimony until the January hearing.

The Commissioners, however, asked repeated questions throughout the day. Present on the dais were Commissioners Eugene Merrill, Rosel Hyde, George Sterling, Hennock and Walker.

In addition to Cottone, the FCC attorneys who will handle the case are Mary Jane Morris, Stratford Smith and Jack Warner.

U.K.'s Tri-Opticon Three-Dimensional Process to Lesser

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20. — Sol Lesser today announced the acquisition of the U. S. rights to the British developed Tri-Opticon process which imparts a third dimensional illusion to films. Raymond Spottiswoode, technical director for Stero-Techniques, Ltd., a British company, is here now with film and projection equipment for trade and press showings.

Lesser plans launching 10 road show units to cover every major city shortly. Tri-Opticon has a revolutionary camera mount and a mechanical calculator developed by Stero-Technique, with the calculator correlating variable factors involved and coming up with mathematically and optically precise readings which the mount translates into the position of cameras. All other photographic equipment — cameras, lenses and films—are standard. Special glasses such as those made by Polaroid are required for viewing.

$128,000 indicated for its fourth inning. The Hall's next attraction, for which a date is yet to be set, is "The Happy Time."

At the Rivoli, a sturdy $48,000 is forecast for the fifth week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro," while a nice $57,000 is seen for the third and final week of "Son of Paleface" at the Paramount. "Springfield Rifle" on the screen and Duke Ellington on stage move into the Paramount tomorrow.

Moderate was the word used to describe the twin opening of "Four Poster" at the Victoria and the off-Broadway Sutton. The Victoria expects $22,000 for the first seven days, while the Sutton sees $11,500 for the same period.

'Limelight' Premiere Thursday

"Limelight" will have its premiere here Thursday at the continuous run Astor and the two-a-day 60th Street Trans-Lux. The last week of "The Miracle of Fatima" at the Astor is forecast to do an excellent $14,000, aided by parochial school children who flocked to the theatre during the ninth and final week.

Holding up strong is "The Merry Widow" at Loew's State, where $21,000 is seen for the fourth week. "Everything I Have Is Yours" opens there Oct. 29. A fair $30,000 is predicted for the second week of "Just for You" at the Capitol.

"The World in His Arms" at the Mayfair dropped to $17,500 for a second inning at the Mayfair. The fifth and final week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is expected to hit a fairly good $14,000. The Criterion's next attraction is "The Lusty Man," which opens Friday.

"Cairo Road" is set to open Oct. 31 at the Globe, currently playing "Lure of the Wilderness," now in its third week; only a satisfactory $8,500 is indicated.

At the Normandie, a good $6,700 is due for the fourth week of "The Magic Box." Next Tuesday, "The Promoter" will replace "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts, with a fair $3,500 indicated for the picture's current 10th week. The sixth week of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue is expected to yield a good $3,800.

of the company's sales districts and the promotion of Zucker, Feldman said, "The change in districts will enlarge the responsibilities of district and branch managers, thus accomplishing a further decentralization of sales policies in line with the company's grass roots policies inaugurated two years ago."

Heiber Appointed

Feldman also announced the appointment of Edward Heiber as branch manager in Cleveland to succeed Zucker. Heiber had been with Universal for 20 years in various capacities of branch and district manager until he resigned in 1947 to enter his own business.

Zucker joined Universal in Oct., 1946 as a special sales representative for the company's J. Arthur Rank pictures, following posts with other film companies. In June 1947 he was named branch manager in Cleveland.

Comprises 3 Districts

Under the new aligment of the company's 32 branch offices, the Western division under Foster M. Blake will now comprise three districts. In addition to Zucker's district they will be Barney Rose's district, which includes the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle exchanges with headquarters in San Francisco, and M. M. Gottlieb's district which will include the Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Indianapolis branches with headquarters in Chicago.

The Southern division under F. J. A. McCarthy comprises James V. Frew's district which includes the Atlanta, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Memphis and Jacksonville branches with headquarters in Atlanta, and Henry H. Martin's district comprising the Dallas, New Orleans, Oklahoma City and St. Louis branches, with headquarters in Dallas.

Includes Rosian's

The three districts in the Eastern division headed by P. T. Dana include P. F. Rosian's district comprising the Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington branches with headquarters in Cleveland; John J. Scully's district which will include the Boston, New Haven, Albany, Buffalo and Philadelphia branches and the Metropolitan New York district which is headed by David A. Levy.

20th-Fox Clarifies Zanuck's Future Status in Company

A clarification of Darryl F. Zanuck's contract with 20th Century-Fox, with particular reference to the circumstances under which he can enter upon part time, advisory service during the second decade of the agreement, starting Sept. 28, 1959, has been filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The clarification stipulates that Zanuck could go on an advisory service basis prior to the end of the first 10 years of the agreement should he determine that, because of incapacitation or inability to perform the services required of him, that step should be necessary.

Should Zanuck enter upon part time employment with 20th-Fox he will have the right to produce two pictures annually as an independent. In that event production and distribution terms for the pictures so made are to be indicated to 20th-Fox, which may accept, reject or modify them. Thereafter, Zanuck may negotiate with other companies, and if a firm proposal is received 20th-Fox must be notified and has 30 days in which to accept or reject the terms. If rejected, Zanuck may engage in independent production after first terminating his part time employment with the company and freeing it of all obligations.

'The Thief' Bows To $95,000; Grosses At Weekend Sturdy

A robust $95,000 for the first week of "The Thief" at the Roxy, which also features a stage show, paced New York first-run theatres this week. Among off-Broadway theatres, "O. Henry's Full House" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux is expected to hit a big $16,000 for its opening seven days, breaking the house's previous record, set by "Seven Days to Noon" during Christmas week of 1950.

At most Broadway situations, weekend grosses remained sturdy. Theatremen, asked to comment on the box-office affect of the wide interest in the current Presidential campaign, expressed the view, in the main, that the affect was negligible. ## FCC's Walker Hits Theatre TV of Fights

'Monopoly' Is Scored As Hearings Open

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Federal Communications Commission chairman Paul Walker scored the exclusive theatre telecasts of fights at the opening session of the theatre television hearing, which today began two weeks of testimony on engineering and accounting phases.

Walker declared the Commission had received many complaints about theatre television's "monopoly" of telecast fights and said the public was "worried" about not getting them on home television sets.

In addition, at today's kick-off session, attorneys and witnesses for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee were forced to give more detailed information than they planned to divulge at this time in

At a luncheon meeting, Mike Simon of M-G-M spoke.

Lamar Sarra, attorney and public relations chief for the Florida State Theatre circuit of 70-plus houses, opened the afternoon conclave with an address on existing taxes and problems facing exhibitors at the next Florida legislative session in 1953.

Next, Nat Williams, Thomasville, Ga., noted raconteur and theatre operator, served as moderator for a panel discussion on exhibitor problems versus distributor policies.

The principal discussion speaker, Hugh Martin, Sr., head of a 15-house Central Florida circuit, stated the "chances of survival of small town exhibitors" and said that his "main fear was not of television but of producing companies in Hollywood." He asked branch exchange managers at the meeting to relay to distributors the information that rural exhibitors need new pictures 30 days, more or less, after Florida release dates, before country people see the pictures in population centers and the small towners get "a dried-up cow."

the hearing on band widths and spectrum location for theatre television transmissions channels. The information was given after repeated requests from FCC general counsel Benedict Cottone and Commissioner Frieda Hennock and Walker.

MPAA counsel James Fly and NETTC counsel Marcus Cohn opened the hearing, held in the auditorium of the National Museum here, with brief statements. Fly told the Commission an "extensive theatre television service" was "certain." The problem of the hearing, he continued, was to find "ways and means" of realizing "the public potential in a widespread theatre television service in harmony with the public interest."

In their simplest terms, Fly said, the industry's petitions before the FCC "seek the allocation of adequate frequencies for the use of the industry in transmitting television programs and in distributing them to theatres."

Cohn declared the industry didn't propose "to take away any frequencies presently allocated to broadcasting services." He told the Commission that theatre television "fulfills a new need" not competitive with other broadcasting. Theatre television, he said, was the "natural continuation of the technical advances made by motion pictures in the last 50 years."

It was during the testimony of Earl Sponable, director of research for 20th Century-Fox, that Walker made his blast at exclusive theatre telecasts of fights. Interrupting Sponable's analysis of qualities of the screen images during fight telecasts, Walker said he had received many complaints from Congress and from the public about "your monopoly of fights," and said that "the public can't get them until they go to a theatre." The public "wants to know," he said, what's going to happen to fight telecasts.

Vincent Welch, MPAA attorney, told Walker there would be discussion on the point in the major portion of the hearing, due to start Jan. 12. "It's going to take more than discussion," Walker replied. He went on to say that some complaints have particularly mentioned that the theatres "had not been large enough for all the people who wanted to get in." Welch answered that the industry would be happy to install theatre television equipment in more theatres.

"I think the public isn't worrying too much about not getting into the theatres," Walker said. "I think they're woried about not getting fights on the home sets." He went on to say that if the same exclusive theatre telecast policy was followed for future fights, "the home viewers won't have a chance to see a fight."

Fly pointed out to Walker that MPAA and NETTC "didn't initiate the projects and carry on their network operation and they shouldn't have to account for it." He added that fights would be "a very minor segment" of theatre television in its future program.

Stuart Bailey, NETTC theatre television engineer, followed Sponable, giving brief testimony on the mechanics of a theatre television system and the quality of the image. A theatre television circuit, he said, "should be of sufficiently high quality to "allow the maintenance of the illusion" that the viewer was "immersed in the original scene." A truly competitive system, he continued, would ultimately require a total of six separate program distribution systems, "particularly between and within the larger centers of population."

When MPAA theatre television engineer Andrew Inglis took the stand with a 75-page exhibit of technical specifications for theatre television transmission systems, Cottone and Commissioners Walker and Hennock immediately pinned him down for more details. Commissioner Hennock questioned Inglis repeatedly until he declared that in order to transmit the 10 mc. bandwidth specified in the exhibit a channel of 30 mc. would really be needed. The 10 mc. band width would actually transmit, he explained, but it would be necessary to have an additional 10 mc. as a buffer on each side of it.

Welch then told the Commission that two 30 mc. channels would provide a theatre television system—and that six channels of 60 mc. each would supply a complete nation-wide competitive theatre television service. When the theatre television case was finished, he said, the industry's overall requirements would "prove out to be 400 mc."

Cottone pointed out that the hypothesis on which the industry based its specifications—the necessity of a technically superior screen image in theatre telecasting—"was not necessarily accepted."

Cottone then went on to ask Inglis where in the spectrum the industry though the 400 mc. should be located. Fly and Welch answered that such information was not part of Inglis' testimony but that a subsequent witness would deal with it. Commissioner Walker declared he though the information about location in the spectrum should have been part of the opening statement, and that he wanted the details. Walker, Cottone and the industry attorneys argued the point back and forth, until Walker suggested that perhaps the attorneys "didn't want to give the information to the Commission."

Following this Cohn gave the Commission as suggested locations for the theatre television channels the 5,925 band to the 6,875 band; the 3,500 band to the 3,700 band; and the 10,700 to the 11,700 band.

It was decided to postpone cross-questioning by previous agreement from attorneys on this phase of the testimony until the January hearing.

The Commissioners, however, asked repeated questions throughout the day. Present on the dais were Commissioners Eugene Merrill, Rosel Hyde, George Sterling, Hennock and Walker.

In addition to Cottone, the FCC attorneys who will handle the case are Mary Jane Morris, Stratford Smith and Jack Warner.

U.K.'s Tri-Opticon Three-Dimensional Process to Lesser

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20. — Sol Lesser today announced the acquisition of the U. S. rights to the British developed Tri-Opticon process which imparts a third dimensional illusion to films. Raymond Spottiswoode, technical director for Stero-Techniques, Ltd., a British company, is here now with film and projection equipment for trade and press showings.

Lesser plans launching 10 road show units to cover every major city shortly. Tri-Opticon has a revolutionary camera mount and a mechanical calculator developed by Stero-Technique, with the calculator correlating variable factors involved and coming up with mathematically and optically precise readings which the mount translates into the position of cameras. All other photographic equipment — cameras, lenses and films—are standard. Special glasses such as those made by Polaroid are required for viewing.

$128,000 indicated for its fourth inning. The Hall's next attraction, for which a date is yet to be set, is "The Happy Time."

At the Rivoli, a sturdy $48,000 is forecast for the fifth week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro," while a nice $57,000 is seen for the third and final week of "Son of Paleface" at the Paramount. "Springfield Rifle" on the screen and Duke Ellington on stage move into the Paramount tomorrow.

Moderate was the word used to describe the twin opening of "Four Poster" at the Victoria and the off-Broadway Sutton. The Victoria expects $22,000 for the first seven days, while the Sutton sees $11,500 for the same period.

'Limelight' Premiere Thursday

"Limelight" will have its premiere here Thursday at the continuous run Astor and the two-a-day 60th Street Trans-Lux. The last week of "The Miracle of Fatima" at the Astor is forecast to do an excellent $14,000, aided by parochial school children who flocked to the theatre during the ninth and final week.

Holding up strong is "The Merry Widow" at Loew's State, where $21,000 is seen for the fourth week. "Everything I Have Is Yours" opens there Oct. 29. A fair $30,000 is predicted for the second week of "Just for You" at the Capitol.

"The World in His Arms" at the Mayfair dropped to $17,500 for a second inning at the Mayfair. The fifth and final week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion is expected to hit a fairly good $14,000. The Criterion's next attraction is "The Lusty Man," which opens Friday.

"Cairo Road" is set to open Oct. 31 at the Globe, currently playing "Lure of the Wilderness," now in its third week; only a satisfactory $8,500 is indicated.

At the Normandie, a good $6,700 is due for the fourth week of "The Magic Box." Next Tuesday, "The Promoter" will replace "Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts, with a fair $3,500 indicated for the picture's current 10th week. The sixth week of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue is expected to yield a good $3,800.

of the company's sales districts and the promotion of Zucker, Feldman said, "The change in districts will enlarge the responsibilities of district and branch managers, thus accomplishing a further decentralization of sales policies in line with the company's grass roots policies inaugurated two years ago."

Heiber Appointed

Feldman also announced the appointment of Edward Heiber as branch manager in Cleveland to succeed Zucker. Heiber had been with Universal for 20 years in various capacities of branch and district manager until he resigned in 1947 to enter his own business.

Zucker joined Universal in Oct., 1946 as a special sales representative for the company's J. Arthur Rank pictures, following posts with other film companies. In June 1947 he was named branch manager in Cleveland.

Comprises 3 Districts

Under the new aligment of the company's 32 branch offices, the Western division under Foster M. Blake will now comprise three districts. In addition to Zucker's district they will be Barney Rose's district, which includes the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle exchanges with headquarters in San Francisco, and M. M. Gottlieb's district which will include the Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Indianapolis branches with headquarters in Chicago.

The Southern division under F. J. A. McCarthy comprises James V. Frew's district which includes the Atlanta, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Memphis and Jacksonville branches with headquarters in Atlanta, and Henry H. Martin's district comprising the Dallas, New Orleans, Oklahoma City and St. Louis branches, with headquarters in Dallas.

Includes Rosian's

The three districts in the Eastern division headed by P. T. Dana include P. F. Rosian's district comprising the Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington branches with headquarters in Cleveland; John J. Scully's district which will include the Boston, New Haven, Albany, Buffalo and Philadelphia branches and the Metropolitan New York district which is headed by David A. Levy.

20th-Fox Clarifies Zanuck's Future Status in Company

A clarification of Darryl F. Zanuck's contract with 20th Century-Fox, with particular reference to the circumstances under which he can enter upon part time, advisory service during the second decade of the agreement, starting Sept. 28, 1959, has been filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The clarification stipulates that Zanuck could go on an advisory service basis prior to the end of the first 10 years of the agreement should he determine that, because of incapacitation or inability to perform the services required of him, that step should be necessary.

Should Zanuck enter upon part time employment with 20th-Fox he will have the right to produce two pictures annually as an independent. In that event production and distribution terms for the pictures so made are to be indicated to 20th-Fox, which may accept, reject or modify them. Thereafter, Zanuck may negotiate with other companies, and if a firm proposal is received 20th-Fox must be notified and has 30 days in which to accept or reject the terms. If rejected, Zanuck may engage in independent production after first terminating his part time employment with the company and freeing it of all obligations.

Tax Payments Top Theatres' Profit: Myers

20% Levy Hit Also by Mich. Solon, Candidate

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—In a bitter blast against the 20 per cent Federal admission tax before today's luncheon session of the Allied Theatres of Michigan convention here, Abram F. Myers, Allied States general counsel, contended that with the possible exception of "a few great theatres like Radio City Music Hall there is not a movie house in the U. S. with net earnings even approximating the sums they turn into the Treasury in the form of admissions taxes."

At the same session, Charles E. Potter, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from this state, and Congressman John Dingell, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, also spoke against the tax. The latter said he was contemplating the introduction of a bill to exclude the film industry from the admission tax. The Michigan exhibitor organization, which

AIM TO REBUILD RKO, GRANT SAYS

Arbitration Will Cost Very Little, Says TOA's Levy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—Under the proposed system of industry arbitration an exhibitor will be able to obtain speedy and effective relief of any or most of his problems for less than $100, Herman M. Levy, Theatre Owners of America general counsel, today told the annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Florida at the Roosevelt Hotel here.

The Florida organization, following Levy's address, unanimously resolved that it favors the principle of arbitration for the industry and that it endorses and approves the plan of arbitration ultimately to be agreed upon and approved by TOA or by TOA arbitration committee.

This prospect, Levy declared, makes

To Seek Profit Basis in Two Years; Liquidation Rumors Held 'Nonsense'

The rebuilding of RKO Radio and the production of good films for theatres are the basic aims of the company's new management, Arnold Grant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, told a luncheon gathering of about 50 press representatives here yesterday.

In reiterating, with deliberate emphasis, these previously stated objectives of the Ralph Stolkin syndicate, Grant dismissed as "nonsense" all rumors that the purchasers of Howard Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Radio planned to liquidate company assets and bow out with some "quick capital gains."

At no time did Grant refer to the several articles published by the Wall Street Journal delineating alleged brushes with the Federal Trade Com-

To Theatre Telecast Nat'l Sales Conference Dec. 8

A national sales conference in 15 key cities from Coast-to-Coast will be theatre televised on Dec. 8, Nathan L. Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, disclosed here yesterday. The sponsor for the first "off-hour" commercial utilization of theatre television is the James Lees and Sons Co., carpet manufacturing firm.

Negotiations are currently underway for the renting of TV-equipped theatres in 15 cities from New York to Los Angeles, Halpern stated. Under the arrangement, Halpern explained, TNT will rent one theatre in each city for the telecast, which will be paid by TNT, it was explained, while selected theatres will receive a flat rental sum from TNT.

Asked if theatres will make a profit on the deal, Halpern responded, "I expect so."

The contract with Lees was sparked by Victor M. Ratner, director of Theatre Tele-Sessions, a subsidiary of TNT. Paul Lewis, vice-president in charge of radio and TV for the

Again Put Off Ascap, Dubonnet Case

Yesterday's scheduled hearing here in Federal Court of the Dubonnet Music Publishing Co. action to amend the Ascap consent decree to prevent, among other things, motion picture companies from engaging in music publishing, was put off until Oct. 28.

Yesterday's hearing date was set last June after the case had been referred to Judge Goddard by Judge Edelstein. Judge Goddard stated in June that an adjournment at that time was not to be construed as implying any recognition by the court that Dubonnet has any standing in a case involving amendment of the Ascap consent decree.

Earlier court rulings have been that Ascap members have no right to appeal for amendment of the decree. Their procedure can only be through complaint to the Justice Department which can move for amendment of the decree if it decides the circumstances warrant.

Set Shea Circuit Meet in Pittsburgh

Year to Study Sale Of RKO Films to TV

Nine months to a year will be required for RKO Radio's new management to complete its study of the advisability of selling its film backlog to television, Arnold Grant, chairman of the board, said yesterday.

"No one has been assigned to the task yet," he said. "When we are ready to undertake it we will have to employ experts on the subject. There are too many more pressing problems than that still before us."

"But I have more than a financial attachment to the interests of the 20th Century-Fox company. I have devoted the major part of my career and abilities to its service. The success of the company has been my life's work and will so continue.

No Outside Pictures

"I therefore have no intention of making outside pictures. I can elect to change my status from active production to an advisory capacity. This stipulation was made at the time the question of temporary salary reductions arose last year, in order to clarify certain phases of the existing contract.

"There is no basis for any rumors of my leaving the company or of making pictures independently. Moreover, I have no idea of what such rumors are based on, as I have never been contacted by anyone seeking to verify them."

He visited M-G-M offices in Italy, Barcelona, Madrid, Seville and Naples, conferring with publicity staffs on the publicity campaigns for "Quo Vadis" and "Ivanhoe." In Barcelona, Seadler reported, the new M-G-M studio to be devoted particularly to synchronization has gotten under construction.

Gunzburg Here on 3rd Dimension Plans

Milton Gunzburg, president of Natural Vision, third dimensional film medium, arrived in New York yesterday and after discussions with George J. Schaefer, who is associated with him, will discuss with major companies and independent producers further licensing of the third dimension medium. First licensing of Natural Vision was given by Gunzburg to Arch Oboler's "Bwana Devil," which will be released in late November.

Gunzburg also will arrange for licensing of Natural Vision for other productions and will investigate the transposing of stage plays to films using the new medium.

Aim Is to Re-Build RKO

mission, municipal better business bureaus and other groups by businesses with which members of the syndicate were associated during the past 20 years. It was clear, however, that Grant's remarks and his willingness to submit to questions concerning RKO Radio management's policies and aims were designed to counteract inferences injurious to the company which those articles could arouse.

Grant stressed that the new management, pursuing its course of rebuilding for the future, gave its first attention to distribution manpower, selecting what it regards as the "ablest, most capable executives" obtainable to market the 15 completed and unreleased pictures in the company's backlog and to liquidate profitably the product already in release.

This step was considered of prime importance, Grant said, in order to stem current RKO Radio losses of $100,000 weekly. Production is a long range problem and nothing is to be gained by hasty action, he observed.

The new management is well satisfied with the executive manpower already obtained for distribution and believes that it is capable of getting the company back into the black in a year or two and "keeping it there," Grant said.

The search is continuing for a "top level" production head, he reported, and when one has been found a studio organization capable of turning out a full schedule of expensive pictures will be built around him.

Replying to questions, Grant said there have been no resignations from the board but did not rule out the possibility of some changes later on. He said he felt it desirable to have some top executives on the board, such as Arnold Picker, executive vice-president, and perhaps neutral members. Among the new executives, only Picker and himself have been given contracts, Grant said.

He revealed that Stolkin, new RKO Radio president, does not plan to give full time to the company and, in fact, may be primarily concerned, together with other members of the controlling syndicate, only on the policy level. Grant described himself as the chief executive officer.

Answering another questioner, he said the company has not yet executed the $8,000,000 loan which, as a part of the stock sale agreement, Howard Hughes will make available to it. It is the company's intention, he said, to take down the loan at such time that it finds the greatest use for it.

Grant said the economies which have been effected in RKO Radio by the new management are not the answer to its problem and not too much emphasis is being placed thereon. He explained that economy measures are limited and could amount at best to about $750,000 annually in savings.

"That's not too important when your losses are running around $5,000,000 a year," Grant remarked.

He said that a full report on the interests of members of the board in other motion picture or theatre operations has been made to the Department of Justice in a conscious effort to avoid any possible anti-trust law violations and that, if any are believed to be present, the individuals concerned will take the several courses of action open to them.

Richard Condon, new RKO Radio director of advertising, publicity and exploitation, said that press gatherings, such as yesterday's, would be weekly events to give reporters an opportunity to meet the new executives. He said there would be no discussion "now or later" of the Wall Street Journal's articles.

Allied Meet to Show RCA Theatre TV

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The RCA large screen theatre television will be demonstrated over a special closed circuit into the Terrace Casino of the Morrison Hotel for the Allied national convention on Nov. 18, the second day of the meeting, it was announced here by Jack Kirsch, general convention chairman.

The demonstration will originate from a local TV studio and will be in the form of a round-table panel discussion of theatre television by the National Allied Theatre Committee with Nathan L. Halpern. Members of the committee are Trueman T. Rembusch, chairman; Kirsch, Leon R. Black, Wilbur Snaper, John Wolfberg and Nathan Yamins.

Fitzgibbons introduced a new ice cream confection being introduced by FPC theatres called 'Bon Bons.'

Says TV Station Boom a Year Away

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Harold E. Fellows, president of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, guest speaker at the two-day meeting of New England district members of that association, predicts that the big increase expected in the number of television stations after the Federal Communications Commission lifted its "freeze" on the construction of television stations last summer will not materialize for more than a year. He said that he does not believe that there will be more than 100 additional television stations in operation by the end of 1953.

National Pre-Selling

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION, Cosmpolitan, McCall's and Redbook magazines have advertisements for Universal-International's "Because of You" in their November issues, all on newsstands this week. "Because of You" stars Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler. It is being highly recommended to the membership of the General Federation of Women's Clubs by Dean Gray Edwards, chairman of the motion pictures committee. Mrs. Edwards has sent letters to 700 district chairmen of the clubs suggesting that they see "Because of You" and then recommend it to fellow club members and friends. "Because of You" will have its world premiere at the Randolph Theatre in Philadelphia late this month.

Invites Film Firms To TV Meetings

Victor Ratner, Theatre Tele-Sessions director, was asked yesterday whether motion picture companies have been asked to theatre telecast their regional or national sales meetings, similar to the telecast set by the James Lees carpet firm.

Ratner said he discussed the idea unofficially with one of his distribution friends, but no formal approach to a film company has been made as yet. He said he thought it was a good idea, however.

Theatre Telecast

D'Arcy Advertising Agency, was also a principal in the negotiations.

Halpern declined to disclose the budget allocated by Lees for the one-hour theatre TV program, nor would he comment on the amount participating theatres will receive from TNT. It will be on a flat rental basis, rather than on a per seat basis as in fight telecasts, however, he stated.

The program, which will originate from the NBC-TV studios in New York, will be aimed at an invited audience which will include top retail executives, architects and contractors, home economists for local newspapers, stockholders and community leaders. The merchandising message, which will feature two-way talks between the field and the studio, will include a statement of policy by Lees president. Other facets of the theatre TV show will include the showing of fabrics and a new approach to carpet merchandising.

Tele-Sessions director Ratner said he expects to announce a number of similar deals within the next six months. Halpern stated that the success of the first commercial use of the medium will influence other business organizations.

The following cities are slated for the telecast: Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Cleveland, Denver, St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Detroit, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Halpern said clearances for cable facilities have already been cleared by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. He said he expects to have a list of theatres carrying the telecast in about a week.

Selection of the theatres, he added, will be governed by the requirements of the sponsor. Under the terms, he stated, concession stands during the telecast will not be operated.

is conducting a strong anti-tax campaign, heard Dingel urge that all exhibitors everywhere band together to fight for repeal.

Potter declared that all taxes are too high and pledged a fight for reduction if elected to the Senate.

Myers in his address also assailed the government for attempting, in its anti-trust suit, to force distributors to sell 16mm. films to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres. He predicted that theatres will fare increasingly better in the competition with TV. "Yes," he said, "television has hurt the movies, no question about that. But please bear in mind that the movies during the last half century have survived automobiles, radio, mah jongg, canasta and a thousand time-consuming fads."

On the tax subject, Myers said the "cruel fact" was that American exhibitors are "caught in a vise. Mounting costs are crushing them against an unyielding wall of fixed admission prices —fixed because with the 20 per cent tax, they cannot be increased. They have endured this pressure to the breaking point, they cannot stand any more and some, as you know, have already been forced to close their theatres."

He added: "While Congress cannot undertake to bail out every individual business man who is down in his luck, it is no new thing for Congress to come to the aid of a whole industry, to grant it relief from the general tax laws and even to subsidize its operations."

The Arabian Room of the Hotel Tuller was packed to capacity for the Congressional luncheon. Also attending were Rep. John Machrowicz; Congressman George Dondero; Frank X. Martel, president of the Wayne County AFL; Congressman Louis Rabaut, and Congressman John Lesinski, Jr.

In the early morning sessions Leon J. Bamberger, RKO public relations director spoke of the newspaper as "our greatest ally," he also pleaded for support of the Will Rogers fund.

"The idea of newspapers charging a higher rate for amusement advertising than commercial advertising is out-of-tune with current times and we must all seek to eradicate it. The higher rate stems from the time, long before movies were born, when shows were provided only by traveling troups," Bamberger said.

"In the present movement among newspapers to assist our industry, the advertising managers of a number of them have lately offered exhibitors their general advertising rate," he noted.

Truman Rembusch was on hand to explain the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' nationwide battle for the repeal of the admission tax.

Wilbur Snaper, president of national Allied told those attending to give full support to the battle against the tax. When asked if the federal tax was repealed wouldn't the exhibitors face city and municipal taxes?, Snaper replied: "Let's get this one out of the way first. When we do I'm sure we have nothing to fear as far as other taxes being imposed on the exhibitor are concerned."

urer; Pete Lucas, Kissimmee, secretary; Maurice Hensler, Auburndale, chairman of the board; Mitchell Wolfson, Miami, Florida Theatre Owners of America director; and Hugh Martin, Sr., Clermont, regional TOA director.

Garner was made chairman of the financial committee; Lamar Sarra, Jacksonville, became head of the legislative committee; Mark Chartand, Miami, was selected to direct public relations; and Nat Williams, Quincy, was chosen conciliator.

The morning meeting opened with Roy Smith, Jacksonville, giving a talk on concession business. Jack Braunagel of Commonwealth Theatres, Kansas City, followed with an account of "The Operation of America's Drive-ins." Alfred Starr, TOA president, gave the main address at the luncheon session for members and guests.

During the afternoon, Braunagel conducted a three-hour "school for managers," going into all phases of theatre operations. More than 75 managers and district supervisors were present.

The convention closed with a banquet, at which Bill McCraw of Texas, representing Variety Clubs International, served as toastmaster at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Arbitration

inconsequential "irresponsible shouting, threatening and cajoling" in connection with planning an arbitration system. "I state with confidence that arbitration is a reality," he said. "It is here, and will stay here, despite attempts at sabotage by certain short-sighted individuals. You see, the principle of arbitration is a much stronger force than the people against or for it."

He said TOA had received copies of the industry arbitration plan approved by distribution, but that he had not had time to examine the document carefully. "After a preliminary reading, however, and based on the statement of Mr. Eric Johnston that the draft has not been submitted to exhibition on a take-it-or-leave-it basis, and based, further, on my personal knowledge of what obstacles have already been overcome, I state with confidence that arbitration is a reality."

'Most Welcome'

"Most welcome," Levy said, "will be the restrictions which the plan places on distributors' employment of competitive bidding, and, further, the use of competitive bidding only in accordance with a set of 'Rules of the Game' which have been so sorely needed for so long. If these rules are abided by there should be no more haphazard competitive bidding, and there should be an end to under-the-counter shenanigans. And if there be not then the aggrieved person will find satisfactory avenues of relief in this system of arbitration," Levy said.

"Guided by the principle that exhibitors must not be deprived of their right and privilege to go to litigation, if they so choose, the various Drafting Committees have preserved this prerogative for exhibitors. Under the plan, only distributors will be compelled to submit to arbitration. The exhibitor will be able to seek relief either in arbitration or in litigation. And, before going to either, he will be able to attempt to settle his problem under a system of Conciliation, which is part and parcel of the arbitration plan," according to Levy.

The TOA attorney observed that the "long, difficult, back-breaking task of compromise and sacrifice is behind us."

"True," he acknowledged, "there remain matters to be amicably adjusted before signature, but, as I have stated before, I am familiar with all suggestions of change and of additions made to date, and I cannot see how any one of them will be, or can be, permitted to become an insurmountable obstacle, if the approach to them is made in good faith by men of good will."

Raibourn

its ability to produce a large screen television picture that will compare favorably with the 35mm. motion picture image to which the public is accustomed.

Raibourn, president of Paramount Television Productions Inc., declared that on the basis of Paramount's studies in theatre television he would recommend, in addition to the 10 mc. bandwidth, 725 lines definition to provide quality comparable to a 35 mm. film.

In his opinion, Raibourn said, these standards would not equal 35 mm. quality, but would merely represent "a suitable compromise of all the factors" to allow a comparable image on the motion picture screen.

Other witnesses today who buttressed Raibourn's recommendation of a 10 mc. bandwidth and 725 lines definition for theatre television were Andrew F. Inglis and Frank H. McIntosh, engineers for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. All witnesses came in for considerable questioning on the part of the Commissioners and of FCC general counsel Benedict Cottone as to whether a 10 mc. bandwidth was really necessary.

Chairman Paul Walker pointed out that the Commission had limited color television demonstrations to a six mc. bandwith, and said that the industry was asking for a 10 mc. bandwidth for black and white transmission.

Short Subject

"I Remember the Glory"

(Art Films—20th Century-Fox)

Botticelli, the Italian master of brush and canvas, and his great art, typified by portrayals of the Madonna, are treated with consummate photographic skill in a short subject any exhibitor should be proud to offer his customers. Here is a 10-minute treat which, apart from what it reveals concerning the artist and the magnificent color and detail of his masterpieces, provides stirring glimpses of the beautiful city of Florence, Botticelli's birthplace, and the captivating Italian countryside. The catalyst is a "story" concerning a young war veteran who on a visit to a Washington museum, recalls the thrill he experienced when he first saw one of Botticelli's masterpieces in Italy.

Produced in color by Technicolor by Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont, and offering background music written by Jacques Belasco, "I Remember the Glory" is a glowing symphony of color, art and life that should leave theatre patrons eager to see the others in this Art Films series. Running time, 10 minutes.

IFE Expanding Foreign Markets

Jurisdiction of the American division of Italian Films Export has been extended to cover all of Canada and the Far East, with the exception of Japan which has a separate agreement with Rome, IFE disclosed here.

It was reported also that a five-man board of directors composed of three Americans and two Italians will direct the new distributing corporation which is being established by IFE. The directors will be named following the return here early next month from Rome of Dr. Renato Gualino, IFE general director, who flew to Rome last weekend for consultation with Italian producers, according to a spokesman for the organization. Gualino was named chief executive of the pending new corporation by IFE board members at a meeting here last week.

IFE stated that the top personnel of the distribution company has been set following discussions held here during the last two weeks; that the names of the executives will be disclosed shortly upon the signing of final papers, and that Gualino indicated the chairmanship of the board was being offered to one of the leading producers in Italy with announcement of his acceptance to be confirmed from Rome later this month.

Independent American distributors of Italian films will continue to negotiate directly with Italian producers for individual properties. Although these independents will have no organic tie-up with the new set-up, the facilities of the new division distribution offices and sound studios will be available to them as well as other already established IFE services.

Italian Delegation Received By Hartman at Para. Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21.—Members of the Italian film delegation which attended the "Salute to Italian Films Week" in New York, were welcomed here at a Paramount studio reception by Don Hartman, production executive. The delegation includes: Dr. Dino de Laurentiis and Dr. Carlo Ponti, producers, and their wives; actress Silvana Mangana, and Capt. Pilade Levi, manager of Paramount Films of Italy.

Ponti and de Laurentiis produced the new picture, "Sensualita," which Paramount International will distribute throughout its world-wide territory. The delegation also was honored at a cocktail party given by the Italian consul of Los Angeles, Dr. Mario Ungaro.

"The Steel Trap"

BERT FRIEDLOB has produced and Andrew Stone has written and directed a gripping thriller that piles suspense on suspense as Joseph Cotton, portraying an assistant bank manager who has stolen $1,000,000, tries to leave the country and avoid police detection. Although the story becomes implausible in spots, such as the credulity of Cotton's wife, Teresa Wright, who doesn't discover the theft until late in the film, every plot twist that can generate a bit more suspense is utilized. This is a well-made, well acted film that should prove a solid box-office attraction.

The story opens with Cotton tiring of his good but monotonous life after 11 years employment in a bank. At first he only thinks about the million dollar theft but it becomes an obsession when he learns there is no extradition law in Brazil. Since but one weekend remains before he is scheduled to work Saturdays, Cotton acts immediately. All of his carefully planned details go awry just a bit and he is forced to adopt high-pressure, aggressive methods.

There are several brushes with the law, including a customs inspector in New Orleans who checks his suitcase containing the money but is unable to check Cotton's tale about carrying the bank's money on a mission since bank president Jonathan Hale is out playing golf, it being Sunday. However, they fail to get plane reservations to Brazil and Cotton knows that the next morning the bank will discover the loss. Miss Wright decides she cannot condone the theft nor accompany Cotton. She returns home. After missing his home and wife, Cotton returns and barely manages to return the money, happy to resume his normal life.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

NPA Approves 11 Theatre Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The National Production Authority has authorized the construction of 11 more theatres. Nine are drive-ins. NPA also authorized the remodeling of two theatres. In most cases the agency made official allotments of construction materials; in some cases it merely authorized the use of materials already in the builder's possession.

The approved drive-ins are: Brooks Drive-in Theatre Corp., Presque Isle, Me., with an estimated construction cost of $32,580; Vance W. Haar, Dillsburg, Pa., $41,200; Pitts Kilmarnock Drive-in Theatre Corp., Kilmarnock, Va., $20,100; Black Hills Amusement Co., Rapid City, S. D., $110,000; Central States Theatre Corp., Charles City, Ia., $35,000; Claude Parrish, Topeka, Kans., $220,071; Lee E. Wilson, Shattuck, Okla., $10,000; Walter Matney, Decatur, Tex., $10,480; W. O. Woody, Bolivar, Mo., no amount given.

Two indoor theatres okayed were proposed by Martin Martell, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico, $79,000, and W. F. Aydelotte and R. H. Dowdy, Ft. Collins, Colo., $35,000.

Remodeling was okayed for Theatrical Enterprises Corp., San Diego, Cal., $12,000, and Washington Theatre Co., Washington, D. C., $10,000. The latter company has just remodeled the Gayety Theatre into the Sam S. Shubert Theatre, for stage productions.

Feature from Rank Set on Coronation

The New York office of the J. Arthur Rank Organization yesterday disclosed that there will be a full length feature film of the Coronation made, for the first time, in color by Technicolor that will include the actual ceremony in Westminster Abbey. Arrangements have been made with Technicolor, Ltd., giving the Rank organization all available facilities for the film, which will have global distribution.

The Rank organization said that considerable preparation and partial production has been in progress for sometime. The film will show in detail all events leading up to the ceremony as well as the actual crowning itself, it was said. Plans are being made for worldwide distribution shortly after the event thus requiring the expansion of Technicolor facilities in London for the handling of the necessary hundreds of prints, it was said.

The film is being produced by Castleton Knight whose earlier pictures include "Victory Parade," "The Royal Wedding Presents," "Royal Wedding" and "14th Olympiad—The Glory of Sport."

Exhibitors Seek Injunction vs. Mexican Import Law

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—An injunction against enactment of President Miguel Aleman's new law for the announced purpose of "aiding and moralizing" the film industry which the Senate approved after considerable debate, has been asked of a local Federal Court by the National Cinema Impresarios Association and the Mexican Exhibitors Association. The exhibitors contend the law establishes a state monopoly for distribution, eliminates private enterprise from film production and interferes with exhibition in that it dictates the number and kind of films that can be screened.

Forty-two Senators asserted the law does not establish a monopoly. The Senators were heckled from the galleries until they yelled that the hecklers were a claque paid by exhibitors. An exhibitor spokesman asserted that they had not hired the hecklers.

Enactment of the law now rests with President Aleman. His six-year term expires on Nov. 30.

Pioneers to Induct Eckman, Curtis

Samuel Eckman, Jr., managing director of M-G-M in Great Britain; Samuel Rosen, executive of Fabian Theatres, and Fred Quimby, short subjects executive producer for M-G-M, are among those who will be inducted at the Motion Picture Pioneers Jubilee Dinner, set for Nov. 25 at the Hotel Astor.

Other new members already accepted for induction include: Edward P. (Ted) Curtis, Eastman Kodak; Harold Fitzgerald of Fox-Wisconsin Theatres; Martin Levine, of Brandt Theatres; Will J. Comer of John Hamrick Theatres, Seattle, and Norman E. Gluck, of United World Films.

A large number of additional applications are currently being certified so that the new members can be inducted at the dinner at which N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures will be honored as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952." George Jessel will act as toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet as chairman.

Philippine Notables To Honor Skouras

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, will be honored today at a dinner in Manila by officials of the Philippine government and members of the local film industry, it was announced here yesterday. Skouras is on a trip to the Far East and Australia surveying film conditions.

Skouras has been fostering world brotherhood during the trip. He has made numerous speeches in its behalf in Hawaii and Japan and toured the Korean battlefront with Gen. James Van Fleet during which he spoke with hundreds of American soldiers and members of the Greek Battalion of the U.N. forces. Skouras is slated to leave Manila Saturday for Hong Kong from where he will go to Bangkok and Djakarta before continuing to Australia in early November.

20% Levy Hit Also by Mich. Solon, Candidate

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—In a bitter blast against the 20 per cent Federal admission tax before today's luncheon session of the Allied Theatres of Michigan convention here, Abram F. Myers, Allied States general counsel, contended that with the possible exception of "a few great theatres like Radio City Music Hall there is not a movie house in the U. S. with net earnings even approximating the sums they turn into the Treasury in the form of admissions taxes."

At the same session, Charles E. Potter, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from this state, and Congressman John Dingell, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, also spoke against the tax. The latter said he was contemplating the introduction of a bill to exclude the film industry from the admission tax. The Michigan exhibitor organization, which

Arbitration Will Cost Very Little, Says TOA's Levy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—Under the proposed system of industry arbitration an exhibitor will be able to obtain speedy and effective relief of any or most of his problems for less than $100, Herman M. Levy, Theatre Owners of America general counsel, today told the annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Florida at the Roosevelt Hotel here.

The Florida organization, following Levy's address, unanimously resolved that it favors the principle of arbitration for the industry and that it endorses and approves the plan of arbitration ultimately to be agreed upon and approved by TOA or by TOA arbitration committee.

To Theatre Telecast Nat'l Sales Conference Dec. 8

A national sales conference in 15 key cities from Coast-to-Coast will be theatre televised on Dec. 8, Nathan L. Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, disclosed here yesterday. The sponsor for the first "off-hour" commercial utilization of theatre television is the James Lees and Sons Co., carpet manufacturing firm.

Negotiations are currently underway for the renting of TV-equipped theatres in 15 cities from New York to Los Angeles, Halpern stated. Under the arrangement, Halpern explained, TNT will rent one theatre in each city for the telecast, which will be paid by TNT, it was explained, while selected theatres will receive a flat rental sum from TNT.

Asked if theatres will make a profit on the deal, Halpern responded, "I expect so."

The contract with Lees was sparked by Victor M. Ratner, director of Theatre Tele-Sessions, a subsidiary of TNT. Paul Lewis, vice-president in charge of radio and TV for the

INDUSTRY SET FOR ROGERS FUND SALUTE

The national personnel structure for the 1952 "Christmas Salute" to the Variety Clubs-Memorial Hospital has been completed, it was disclosed here yesterday by Charles Feldman of Universal Pictures, distributor chairman for the campaign.

The holiday scrolls, which constitute the backbone of the Christmas Salute, have been shipped, with all other campaign material, to exchange area chairmen for distribution to theatres through all company branch managers and their salesmen.

In 1951 over 98,000 persons employed in the industry signed the scrolls and contributed in excess of $95,000. In this year's Salute the goal is 150,000 signatures and $200,000, said Feldman.

The Salute will begin officially on Nov. 1, and continue through Jan. 1.

The distribution committee chairmen follow: Albany, Leo Greenfield; Atlanta, E. H. Brauer; Boston, Frank P. Dervin; Buffalo, John G. ## Again Put Off Ascap, Dubonnet Case

Yesterday's scheduled hearing here in Federal Court of the Dubonnet Music Publishing Co. action to amend the Ascap consent decree to prevent, among other things, motion picture companies from engaging in music publishing, was put off until Oct. 28.

Yesterday's hearing date was set last June after the case had been referred to Judge Goddard by Judge Edelstein. Judge Goddard stated in June that an adjournment at that time was not to be construed as implying any recognition by the court that Dubonnet has any standing in a case involving amendment of the Ascap consent decree.

Earlier court rulings have been that Ascap members have no right to appeal for amendment of the decree. Their procedure can only be through complaint to the Justice Department which can move for amendment of the decree if it decides the circumstances warrant.

Year to Study Sale Of RKO Films to TV

Nine months to a year will be required for RKO Radio's new management to complete its study of the advisability of selling its film backlog to television, Arnold Grant, chairman of the board, said yesterday.

"No one has been assigned to the task yet," he said. "When we are ready to undertake it we will have to employ experts on the subject. There are too many more pressing problems than that still before us."

with this studio and will not deviate for the 17 years that my contract calls for.

"But I have more than a financial attachment to the interests of the 20th Century-Fox company. I have devoted the major part of my career and abilities to its service. The success of the company has been my life's work and will so continue.

No Outside Pictures

"I therefore have no intention of making outside pictures. I can elect to change my status from active production to an advisory capacity. This stipulation was made at the time the question of temporary salary reductions arose last year, in order to clarify certain phases of the existing contract.

"There is no basis for any rumors of my leaving the company or of making pictures independently. Moreover, I have no idea of what such rumors are based on, as I have never been contacted by anyone seeking to verify them."

tor of Continental activities in Paris, was in the midst of an extensive campaign for "An American in Paris" while he was there.

He visited M-G-M offices in Italy, Barcelona, Madrid, Seville and Naples, conferring with publicity staffs on the publicity campaigns for "Quo Vadis" and "Ivanhoe." In Barcelona, Seadler reported, the new M-G-M studio to be devoted particularly to synchronization has gotten under construction.

Gunzburg Here on 3rd Dimension Plans

Milton Gunzburg, president of Natural Vision, third dimensional film medium, arrived in New York yesterday and after discussions with George J. Schaefer, who is associated with him, will discuss with major companies and independent producers further licensing of the third dimension medium. First licensing of Natural Vision was given by Gunzburg to Arch Oboler's "Bwana Devil," which will be released in late November.

Gunzburg also will arrange for licensing of Natural Vision for other productions and will investigate the transposing of stage plays to films using the new medium.

Aim Is to Re-Build RKO

mission, municipal better business bureaus and other groups by businesses with which members of the syndicate were associated during the past 20 years. It was clear, however, that Grant's remarks and his willingness to submit to questions concerning RKO Radio management's policies and aims were designed to counteract inferences injurious to the company which those articles could arouse.

Grant stressed that the new management, pursuing its course of rebuilding for the future, gave its first attention to distribution manpower, selecting what it regards as the "ablest, most capable executives" obtainable to market the 15 completed and unreleased pictures in the company's backlog and to liquidate profitably the product already in release.

This step was considered of prime importance, Grant said, in order to stem current RKO Radio losses of $100,000 weekly. Production is a long range problem and nothing is to be gained by hasty action, he observed.

The new management is well satisfied with the executive manpower already obtained for distribution and believes that it is capable of getting the company back into the black in a year or two and "keeping it there," Grant said.

The search is continuing for a "top level" production head, he reported, and when one has been found a studio organization capable of turning out a full schedule of expensive pictures will be built around him.

Replying to questions, Grant said there have been no resignations from the board but did not rule out the possibility of some changes later on. He said he felt it desirable to have some top executives on the board, such as Arnold Picker, executive vice-president, and perhaps neutral members. Among the new executives, only Picker and himself have been given contracts, Grant said.

He revealed that Stolkin, new RKO Radio president, does not plan to give full time to the company and, in fact, may be primarily concerned, together with other members of the controlling syndicate, only on the policy level. Grant described himself as the chief executive officer.

Answering another questioner, he said the company has not yet executed the $8,000,000 loan which, as a part of the stock sale agreement, Howard Hughes will make available to it. It is the company's intention, he said, to take down the loan at such time that it finds the greatest use for it.

Grant said the economies which have been effected in RKO Radio by the new management are not the answer to its problem and not too much emphasis is being placed thereon. He explained that economy measures are limited and could amount at best to about $750,000 annually in savings.

"That's not too important when your losses are running around $5,000,000 a year," Grant remarked.

He said that a full report on the interests of members of the board in other motion picture or theatre operations has been made to the Department of Justice in a conscious effort to avoid any possible anti-trust law violations and that, if any are believed to be present, the individuals concerned will take the several courses of action open to them.

Richard Condon, new RKO Radio director of advertising, publicity and exploitation, said that press gatherings, such as yesterday's, would be weekly events to give reporters an opportunity to meet the new executives. He said there would be no discussion "now or later" of the Wall Street Journal's articles.

Allied Meet to Show RCA Theatre TV

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The RCA large screen theatre television will be demonstrated over a special closed circuit into the Terrace Casino of the Morrison Hotel for the Allied national convention on Nov. 18, the second day of the meeting, it was announced here by Jack Kirsch, general convention chairman.

The demonstration will originate from a local TV studio and will be in the form of a round-table panel discussion of theatre television by the National Allied Theatre Committee with Nathan L. Halpern. Members of the committee are Trueman T. Rembusch, chairman; Kirsch, Leon R. Black, Wilbur Snaper, John Wolfberg and Nathan Yamins.

his tenure with RKO, expects to enter the television field.

As RKO Radio publicity director he is said to have introduced what is now known as area premieres, a policy which was used on such films as "Hitler's Children" and "Back to Bataan." He is also credited with applying television promotion with good results to the recent reissuance of "King Kong."

Candy Sales Topic At FPC Convention

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 21.—A special edition of the Toronto Globe and Mail with a headline welcoming the delegates to Famous Players Eastern division convention here featured a morning meeting devoted to candy sales.

The meeting was led by Jack Fitzgibbons, Jr., president of Theatre Confections, Ltd., who arranged the special edition.

Fitzgibbons introduced a new ice cream confection being introduced by FPC theatres called 'Bon Bons.'

Says TV Station Boom a Year Away

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Harold E. Fellows, president of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, guest speaker at the two-day meeting of New England district members of that association, predicts that the big increase expected in the number of television stations after the Federal Communications Commission lifted its "freeze" on the construction of television stations last summer will not materialize for more than a year. He said that he does not believe that there will be more than 100 additional television stations in operation by the end of 1953.

National Pre-Selling

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION, Cosmpolitan, McCall's and Redbook magazines have advertisements for Universal-International's "Because of You" in their November issues, all on newsstands this week. "Because of You" stars Loretta Young and Jeff Chandler. It is being highly recommended to the membership of the General Federation of Women's Clubs by Dean Gray Edwards, chairman of the motion pictures committee. Mrs. Edwards has sent letters to 700 district chairmen of the clubs suggesting that they see "Because of You" and then recommend it to fellow club members and friends. "Because of You" will have its world premiere at the Randolph Theatre in Philadelphia late this month.

Redbook* has chosen "The Four Poster," with Lili Palmer and Rex Harrison, as the "Picture of the Month," in the November issue. Also named are "Under the Red Sea," "Because You're Mine" and "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima."

Ruth Harbert of Good Housekeeping *explains in the November issue how Universal-International received special permission from the Treasury Department to show slowly disintegrating United States currency. In the issue of Life magazine on the newsstands Friday the technical processes of Cinerama are graphically shown in drawings and photographs. An enlargement of the roller-coaster scene fills up a good part of a page. Also in this issue, a number of pages are devoted to M-G-M's "Small Time Girl," starring Ann Miller. A dancing platform is pictured, an orchestra is placed under the platform and Ann Miller uses it as a dance floor.

Woman's Home Companion* is running a Lux ad featuring Gene Tierney, starring in "Way of A Gaucho," a 20th Century-Fox picture. Adding a new dimension to "Way of A Gaucho" promotion, the ad offers a film-inspired scarf to readers of the magazine by asking them to mail a coupon and some small pieces of silver to the Lux soap people.

Invites Film Firms To TV Meetings

Victor Ratner, Theatre Tele-Sessions director, was asked yesterday whether motion picture companies have been asked to theatre telecast their regional or national sales meetings, similar to the telecast set by the James Lees carpet firm.

Ratner said he discussed the idea unofficially with one of his distribution friends, but no formal approach to a film company has been made as yet. He said he thought it was a good idea, however.

Theatre Telecast

D'Arcy Advertising Agency, was also a principal in the negotiations.

Halpern declined to disclose the budget allocated by Lees for the one-hour theatre TV program, nor would he comment on the amount participating theatres will receive from TNT. It will be on a flat rental basis, rather than on a per seat basis as in fight telecasts, however, he stated.

The program, which will originate from the NBC-TV studios in New York, will be aimed at an invited audience which will include top retail executives, architects and contractors, home economists for local newspapers, stockholders and community leaders. The merchandising message, which will feature two-way talks between the field and the studio, will include a statement of policy by Lees president. Other facets of the theatre TV show will include the showing of fabrics and a new approach to carpet merchandising.

Tele-Sessions director Ratner said he expects to announce a number of similar deals within the next six months. Halpern stated that the success of the first commercial use of the medium will influence other business organizations.

The following cities are slated for the telecast: Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Cleveland, Denver, St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Detroit, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Halpern said clearances for cable facilities have already been cleared by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. He said he expects to have a list of theatres carrying the telecast in about a week.

Selection of the theatres, he added, will be governed by the requirements of the sponsor. Under the terms, he stated, concession stands during the telecast will not be operated.

is conducting a strong anti-tax campaign, heard Dingel urge that all exhibitors everywhere band together to fight for repeal.

Potter declared that all taxes are too high and pledged a fight for reduction if elected to the Senate.

Myers in his address also assailed the government for attempting, in its anti-trust suit, to force distributors to sell 16mm. films to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres. He predicted that theatres will fare increasingly better in the competition with TV. "Yes," he said, "television has hurt the movies, no question about that. But please bear in mind that the movies during the last half century have survived automobiles, radio, mah jongg, canasta and a thousand time-consuming fads."

On the tax subject, Myers said the "cruel fact" was that American exhibitors are "caught in a vise. Mounting costs are crushing them against an unyielding wall of fixed admission prices —fixed because with the 20 per cent tax, they cannot be increased. They have endured this pressure to the breaking point, they cannot stand any more and some, as you know, have already been forced to close their theatres."

He added: "While Congress cannot undertake to bail out every individual business man who is down in his luck, it is no new thing for Congress to come to the aid of a whole industry, to grant it relief from the general tax laws and even to subsidize its operations."

The Arabian Room of the Hotel Tuller was packed to capacity for the Congressional luncheon. Also attending were Rep. John Machrowicz; Congressman George Dondero; Frank X. Martel, president of the Wayne County AFL; Congressman Louis Rabaut, and Congressman John Lesinski, Jr.

In the early morning sessions Leon J. Bamberger, RKO public relations director spoke of the newspaper as "our greatest ally," he also pleaded for support of the Will Rogers fund.

"The idea of newspapers charging a higher rate for amusement advertising than commercial advertising is out-of-tune with current times and we must all seek to eradicate it. The higher rate stems from the time, long before movies were born, when shows were provided only by traveling troups," Bamberger said.

"In the present movement among newspapers to assist our industry, the advertising managers of a number of them have lately offered exhibitors their general advertising rate," he noted.

Truman Rembusch was on hand to explain the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' nationwide battle for the repeal of the admission tax.

Wilbur Snaper, president of national Allied told those attending to give full support to the battle against the tax. When asked if the federal tax was repealed wouldn't the exhibitors face city and municipal taxes?, Snaper replied: "Let's get this one out of the way first. When we do I'm sure we have nothing to fear as far as other taxes being imposed on the exhibitor are concerned."

urer; Pete Lucas, Kissimmee, secretary; Maurice Hensler, Auburndale, chairman of the board; Mitchell Wolfson, Miami, Florida Theatre Owners of America director; and Hugh Martin, Sr., Clermont, regional TOA director.

Garner was made chairman of the financial committee; Lamar Sarra, Jacksonville, became head of the legislative committee; Mark Chartand, Miami, was selected to direct public relations; and Nat Williams, Quincy, was chosen conciliator.

The morning meeting opened with Roy Smith, Jacksonville, giving a talk on concession business. Jack Braunagel of Commonwealth Theatres, Kansas City, followed with an account of "The Operation of America's Drive-ins." Alfred Starr, TOA president, gave the main address at the luncheon session for members and guests.

During the afternoon, Braunagel conducted a three-hour "school for managers," going into all phases of theatre operations. More than 75 managers and district supervisors were present.

The convention closed with a banquet, at which Bill McCraw of Texas, representing Variety Clubs International, served as toastmaster at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Arbitration

inconsequential "irresponsible shouting, threatening and cajoling" in connection with planning an arbitration system. "I state with confidence that arbitration is a reality," he said. "It is here, and will stay here, despite attempts at sabotage by certain short-sighted individuals. You see, the principle of arbitration is a much stronger force than the people against or for it."

He said TOA had received copies of the industry arbitration plan approved by distribution, but that he had not had time to examine the document carefully. "After a preliminary reading, however, and based on the statement of Mr. Eric Johnston that the draft has not been submitted to exhibition on a take-it-or-leave-it basis, and based, further, on my personal knowledge of what obstacles have already been overcome, I state with confidence that arbitration is a reality."

'Most Welcome'

"Most welcome," Levy said, "will be the restrictions which the plan places on distributors' employment of competitive bidding, and, further, the use of competitive bidding only in accordance with a set of 'Rules of the Game' which have been so sorely needed for so long. If these rules are abided by there should be no more haphazard competitive bidding, and there should be an end to under-the-counter shenanigans. And if there be not then the aggrieved person will find satisfactory avenues of relief in this system of arbitration," Levy said.

"Guided by the principle that exhibitors must not be deprived of their right and privilege to go to litigation, if they so choose, the various Drafting Committees have preserved this prerogative for exhibitors. Under the plan, only distributors will be compelled to submit to arbitration. The exhibitor will be able to seek relief either in arbitration or in litigation. And, before going to either, he will be able to attempt to settle his problem under a system of Conciliation, which is part and parcel of the arbitration plan," according to Levy.

The TOA attorney observed that the "long, difficult, back-breaking task of compromise and sacrifice is behind us."

"True," he acknowledged, "there remain matters to be amicably adjusted before signature, but, as I have stated before, I am familiar with all suggestions of change and of additions made to date, and I cannot see how any one of them will be, or can be, permitted to become an insurmountable obstacle, if the approach to them is made in good faith by men of good will."

Raibourn

its ability to produce a large screen television picture that will compare favorably with the 35mm. motion picture image to which the public is accustomed.

Raibourn, president of Paramount Television Productions Inc., declared that on the basis of Paramount's studies in theatre television he would recommend, in addition to the 10 mc. bandwidth, 725 lines definition to provide quality comparable to a 35 mm. film.

In his opinion, Raibourn said, these standards would not equal 35 mm. quality, but would merely represent "a suitable compromise of all the factors" to allow a comparable image on the motion picture screen.

Other witnesses today who buttressed Raibourn's recommendation of a 10 mc. bandwidth and 725 lines definition for theatre television were Andrew F. Inglis and Frank H. McIntosh, engineers for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. All witnesses came in for considerable questioning on the part of the Commissioners and of FCC general counsel Benedict Cottone as to whether a 10 mc. bandwidth was really necessary.

Chairman Paul Walker pointed out that the Commission had limited color television demonstrations to a six mc. bandwith, and said that the industry was asking for a 10 mc. bandwidth for black and white transmission.

Short Subject

"I Remember the Glory"

(Art Films—20th Century-Fox)

Botticelli, the Italian master of brush and canvas, and his great art, typified by portrayals of the Madonna, are treated with consummate photographic skill in a short subject any exhibitor should be proud to offer his customers. Here is a 10-minute treat which, apart from what it reveals concerning the artist and the magnificent color and detail of his masterpieces, provides stirring glimpses of the beautiful city of Florence, Botticelli's birthplace, and the captivating Italian countryside. The catalyst is a "story" concerning a young war veteran who on a visit to a Washington museum, recalls the thrill he experienced when he first saw one of Botticelli's masterpieces in Italy.

Produced in color by Technicolor by Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont, and offering background music written by Jacques Belasco, "I Remember the Glory" is a glowing symphony of color, art and life that should leave theatre patrons eager to see the others in this Art Films series. Running time, 10 minutes.

IFE Expanding Foreign Markets

Jurisdiction of the American division of Italian Films Export has been extended to cover all of Canada and the Far East, with the exception of Japan which has a separate agreement with Rome, IFE disclosed here.

It was reported also that a five-man board of directors composed of three Americans and two Italians will direct the new distributing corporation which is being established by IFE. The directors will be named following the return here early next month from Rome of Dr. Renato Gualino, IFE general director, who flew to Rome last weekend for consultation with Italian producers, according to a spokesman for the organization. Gualino was named chief executive of the pending new corporation by IFE board members at a meeting here last week.

IFE stated that the top personnel of the distribution company has been set following discussions held here during the last two weeks; that the names of the executives will be disclosed shortly upon the signing of final papers, and that Gualino indicated the chairmanship of the board was being offered to one of the leading producers in Italy with announcement of his acceptance to be confirmed from Rome later this month.

Independent American distributors of Italian films will continue to negotiate directly with Italian producers for individual properties. Although these independents will have no organic tie-up with the new set-up, the facilities of the new division distribution offices and sound studios will be available to them as well as other already established IFE services.

Italian Delegation Received By Hartman at Para. Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21.—Members of the Italian film delegation which attended the "Salute to Italian Films Week" in New York, were welcomed here at a Paramount studio reception by Don Hartman, production executive. The delegation includes: Dr. Dino de Laurentiis and Dr. Carlo Ponti, producers, and their wives; actress Silvana Mangana, and Capt. Pilade Levi, manager of Paramount Films of Italy.

Ponti and de Laurentiis produced the new picture, "Sensualita," which Paramount International will distribute throughout its world-wide territory. The delegation also was honored at a cocktail party given by the Italian consul of Los Angeles, Dr. Mario Ungaro.

"The Steel Trap"

BERT FRIEDLOB has produced and Andrew Stone has written and directed a gripping thriller that piles suspense on suspense as Joseph Cotton, portraying an assistant bank manager who has stolen $1,000,000, tries to leave the country and avoid police detection. Although the story becomes implausible in spots, such as the credulity of Cotton's wife, Teresa Wright, who doesn't discover the theft until late in the film, every plot twist that can generate a bit more suspense is utilized. This is a well-made, well acted film that should prove a solid box-office attraction.

The story opens with Cotton tiring of his good but monotonous life after 11 years employment in a bank. At first he only thinks about the million dollar theft but it becomes an obsession when he learns there is no extradition law in Brazil. Since but one weekend remains before he is scheduled to work Saturdays, Cotton acts immediately. All of his carefully planned details go awry just a bit and he is forced to adopt high-pressure, aggressive methods.

There are several brushes with the law, including a customs inspector in New Orleans who checks his suitcase containing the money but is unable to check Cotton's tale about carrying the bank's money on a mission since bank president Jonathan Hale is out playing golf, it being Sunday. However, they fail to get plane reservations to Brazil and Cotton knows that the next morning the bank will discover the loss. Miss Wright decides she cannot condone the theft nor accompany Cotton. She returns home. After missing his home and wife, Cotton returns and barely manages to return the money, happy to resume his normal life.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

NPA Approves 11 Theatre Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The National Production Authority has authorized the construction of 11 more theatres. Nine are drive-ins. NPA also authorized the remodeling of two theatres. In most cases the agency made official allotments of construction materials; in some cases it merely authorized the use of materials already in the builder's possession.

The approved drive-ins are: Brooks Drive-in Theatre Corp., Presque Isle, Me., with an estimated construction cost of $32,580; Vance W. Haar, Dillsburg, Pa., $41,200; Pitts Kilmarnock Drive-in Theatre Corp., Kilmarnock, Va., $20,100; Black Hills Amusement Co., Rapid City, S. D., $110,000; Central States Theatre Corp., Charles City, Ia., $35,000; Claude Parrish, Topeka, Kans., $220,071; Lee E. Wilson, Shattuck, Okla., $10,000; Walter Matney, Decatur, Tex., $10,480; W. O. Woody, Bolivar, Mo., no amount given.

Two indoor theatres okayed were proposed by Martin Martell, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico, $79,000, and W. F. Aydelotte and R. H. Dowdy, Ft. Collins, Colo., $35,000.

Remodeling was okayed for Theatrical Enterprises Corp., San Diego, Cal., $12,000, and Washington Theatre Co., Washington, D. C., $10,000. The latter company has just remodeled the Gayety Theatre into the Sam S. Shubert Theatre, for stage productions.

Feature from Rank Set on Coronation

The New York office of the J. Arthur Rank Organization yesterday disclosed that there will be a full length feature film of the Coronation made, for the first time, in color by Technicolor that will include the actual ceremony in Westminster Abbey. Arrangements have been made with Technicolor, Ltd., giving the Rank organization all available facilities for the film, which will have global distribution.

The Rank organization said that considerable preparation and partial production has been in progress for sometime. The film will show in detail all events leading up to the ceremony as well as the actual crowning itself, it was said. Plans are being made for worldwide distribution shortly after the event thus requiring the expansion of Technicolor facilities in London for the handling of the necessary hundreds of prints, it was said.

The film is being produced by Castleton Knight whose earlier pictures include "Victory Parade," "The Royal Wedding Presents," "Royal Wedding" and "14th Olympiad—The Glory of Sport."

Says 'Greatest Show' Small-Town Topper

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21. — Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth" is the most successful small town attraction in Paramount's history, George A. Smith, the company's Western division manager, told 21 representatives of the Denver, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles branches during a three-day sales meeting held here.

Exhibitors Seek Injunction vs. Mexican Import Law

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—An injunction against enactment of President Miguel Aleman's new law for the announced purpose of "aiding and moralizing" the film industry which the Senate approved after considerable debate, has been asked of a local Federal Court by the National Cinema Impresarios Association and the Mexican Exhibitors Association. The exhibitors contend the law establishes a state monopoly for distribution, eliminates private enterprise from film production and interferes with exhibition in that it dictates the number and kind of films that can be screened.

Forty-two Senators asserted the law does not establish a monopoly. The Senators were heckled from the galleries until they yelled that the hecklers were a claque paid by exhibitors. An exhibitor spokesman asserted that they had not hired the hecklers.

Enactment of the law now rests with President Aleman. His six-year term expires on Nov. 30.

Pioneers to Induct Eckman, Curtis

Samuel Eckman, Jr., managing director of M-G-M in Great Britain; Samuel Rosen, executive of Fabian Theatres, and Fred Quimby, short subjects executive producer for M-G-M, are among those who will be inducted at the Motion Picture Pioneers Jubilee Dinner, set for Nov. 25 at the Hotel Astor.

Other new members already accepted for induction include: Edward P. (Ted) Curtis, Eastman Kodak; Harold Fitzgerald of Fox-Wisconsin Theatres; Martin Levine, of Brandt Theatres; Will J. Comer of John Hamrick Theatres, Seattle, and Norman E. Gluck, of United World Films.

A large number of additional applications are currently being certified so that the new members can be inducted at the dinner at which N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures will be honored as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952." George Jessel will act as toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet as chairman.

Philippine Notables To Honor Skouras

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, will be honored today at a dinner in Manila by officials of the Philippine government and members of the local film industry, it was announced here yesterday. Skouras is on a trip to the Far East and Australia surveying film conditions.

Skouras has been fostering world brotherhood during the trip. He has made numerous speeches in its behalf in Hawaii and Japan and toured the Korean battlefront with Gen. James Van Fleet during which he spoke with hundreds of American soldiers and members of the Greek Battalion of the U.N. forces. Skouras is slated to leave Manila Saturday for Hong Kong from where he will go to Bangkok and Djakarta before continuing to Australia in early November.

Stolkin, Koolish, Gorman Resign RKO Radio Posts

Presidency, Board Vacancies to Be Filled In 10 Days; Resignations Follow 'Wall St. Journal' Articles on Business Backgrounds

Ralph E. Stolkin, head of the syndicate which one month ago today bought Howard Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures, and who three weeks ago today was elected president of the company, resigned that post and also withdrew from the company's board of directors yesterday.

RALPH STOLKIN A. L. KOOLISH

Resigning from the board with Stolkin were A. L. Koolish, his father-in-law and a member of the purchasing syndicate, and William Gorman, the representative on the board of Ray Ryan, another member of the syndicate. The latter two were not officers of RKO Pictures.

That the resignations were the direct result of the series of articles published by the Wall Street Journal during the past week detailing past business and other activities of the three was clear from the statement issued announcing their resignations, although the Journal was not mentioned by name. The statement of the three said:

"Our only interest in acquiring stock of RKO Pictures Corp. was our belief that the company can be, under able and independent management, brought to the full realization of its great potential.

"We recognize that a volume of unfavorable publicity directed against us as individuals has been or can be damaging to the company.

"Consistent with our original intent of doing that which is best for the company, and for that reason only, we have submitted our resignations."

Griffin Attacks Practice, Cites Theatre Importance

DETROIT, Oct. 22. — Lawrence Griffin, who recently became an exhibitor following his retirement from an executive post with a grocery chain, today attacked before a morning meeting today of Allied Theatres of Michigan the practice of free motion picture showings by business concerns and others.

Griffin emphasized in his address before the convention delegates the importance of the motion picture theatre to a community, no matter how large or how small.

During a discussion on the topic Griffin chose, a suggestion was made to appeal to the Michigan legislature to have laws passed which would make free motion pictures unlawful, even to the extent that exhibitors would be prohibited from constructing drive-ins

Tells FCC of Industry's Need for Exclusive Band

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The industry today asked the Federal Communications Commission to allocate for the exclusive use of theatre television the frequencies from 5,925 to 6,285 megacycles, which are currently allocated as common carrier frequencies.

This portion of the spectrum must be the "backbone" of theatre television distribution systems, National Exhibitor Theatre Television Committee consulting engineer Stuart Bailey told the FCC, enabling the extension of service over long distances.

This contention was the nub of today's testimony in the FCC hearings on the engineering and accounting phases of the theatre television hearing. Bailey told the commission that in the event the FCC considered exclusive allocation of these frequencies to theatre television undesirable, common carriers and others could use the frequencies on a non-interfering basis, with theatre television the primary user. Other suggestions made by Bailey in case the FCC did not want to make exclusive allocation of frequencies included classifying theatre television as an industrial radio service on a frequency-sharing basis with

Albany Unit Bids TOA Become A Defendant in Suit

ALBANY, Oct. 22.—Albany Theatre Owners of America, at a meeting today, voted to recommend that national TOA be made a party defendant in the Department of Justice anti-trust suit for the release of 16mm. pictures to TV stations.

The unit also reacted favorably to a report by executive director-counsel Lewis A. Sumberg on the arbitration plan considered at the recent national convention in Washington. Members agreed that it would be "particularly helpful to independent exhibitors." Sumberg described the proposal as one that would give "speedy and economical relief" to exhibitors.

Members reported that the local exchange area is suffering "disproportionately" from a print shortage. They believe the number should be increased by 50 per cent. The matter will first be discussed with branch managers. Sumberg and president Harry Lamont promised that if they do not get action "within a reasonable time" TOA will follow through on the national level.

Saul J. Ullman, distributor chairman for the Council of Motion Picture Organizations in the drive to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, reported on conferences he had held with elected representatives from this area.

Members were warned against playing ASCAP music unless they have signed the new licensing agreement. They will also ask to hold themselves in readiness for swift action if any bills "harmful" to the industry are presented at the next session of the legislature convening in January.

Sam Davis of Phoenicia was elected to the board of directors.

A luncheon meeting will be held here Nov. 17.

'Limelight' U. S. Premiere Today

The service consists of installation of a high-speed INS teletype printer to be installed for the day and night of Nov. 4 in a place designated by the customer. INS claims that the service is going to be used on election night at the Paramount, Capitol, and Palace in New York, as well as at other theatres there and throughout the country.

Claims Costs Low to Show Natural Vision

Theatre alteration costs for the presentation of Natural Vision films would be a maximum of $1,000 for a first-run house and from $200 to $300 for a subsequent run, it was estimated yesterday by Milton Gunzburg, president of Natural Vision, third dimensional film company. The alteration costs, which he considered low, would mainly consist of coupling two projectors, attaching 5,500-foot magazines, and using a reflective type screen.

Gunzburg noted that many small town theatres already have a reflective type screen and thought that the magazines could be easily rented. Otherwise all other equipment is standard. He said the $1,000 figure is based on alterations done by the Hollywood and Paramount Theatres in Hollywood for the premiere showing of Arch Obler's "Bwana Devil," on Nov. 27, but emphasized these were rather extensive alterations and the figure might be even lower.

Gunzburg, who is associated with George J. Schaefer, revealed the firm has contracts for four more Natural Vision films, all in color. Obler has a one-picture-a-year contract with the company. Of the other three films, one is expected to be ready for late 1953 release. While here Gunzburg is investigating the possibility of processing stage plays in Natural Vision.

Clark in Chicago Sets 2nd Film Fete

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Thirty of Hollywood's top films of the last 20 years will be presented during the second "Great Films Festival" at the Clark Theatre from Sunday, Nov. 9 through Sunday, Nov. 23.

Response to the first festival last February was such, according to general manager Bruce Trinz, that the theatre has adopted a policy of periodic film revivals based on requests of its patrons. Two pictures will be shown daily for 15 days on an around-the-clock basis. The Clark is open daily from 8:00 A.M. to 6:00 A.M.

WELFARE FUN IS PLANNED IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—Plans for a permanent welfare fund for men and women in the amusement and entertainment fields, including all channels of the motion picture business are scheduled for discussion at a special meeting to be held in the Paramount exchange screening room on Friday.

At a meeting held last week, at which representatives from all branches of the St. Louis film industry were present, affirmation of the need for such a plan was voiced. The drive for a special fund has been intensified by recent examples of people in the industry brought to severe financial plights by accidents and illness.

A temporary organization committee to consider possibilities of such a fund consist of Tom Bloomer, president, MPTO of Eastern Missouri, St. Louis and Southern Illinois; Betty Wendt, business agent, Film Exchange Employes Union, Local No. B1; Leroy Upton, president, Stage Hands Union Local No. 8; Ed Butler, Ticket Sellers; Harry Yaeger, Motion Picture Cameramen; Tony Blust, president, Moving Picture Machine Operators Local No. 143; Lou Lavatta, business agent, Ushers Union; James Gately business agent, Film Exchange Employes Union Local No. F1; F. J. (Mike) Lee, manager, United Artists, for film exchange managers; George Ware, for the St. Louis Loge of the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesmen of America, and Marcella Devinney and Marjorie Glynn, Republic Pictures, temporary secretaries.

Butterfield Requests New TV Channel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—W. S. Butterfield Theatres has requested the Federal Communications Commission to grant it a television station license in Grand Rapids and changed an earlier application for a TV channel in Flint, in the hope of obtaining quicker action.

Butterfield Theatres had applied for VHF channel 16 in Flint shortly after the TV freeze was lifted this year. However, another firm, Trendle Campbell Broadcasting Corp., also applied for this channel. Recently the FCC indicated it would hold a hearing on these applications at which it would study, among other things, the anti-trust record of Butterfield Theatres.

In its request to switch its Flint application to VHF channel 12, Butterfield noted that this would leave only one firm applying for VHF channel 16 and one for VHF channel 12, thus both Flint applications could be granted promptly without any need for hearings.

In addition, Bailey said, if the frequencies desired are not available on an exclusive basis, extra frequencies above the 10,700 mc band should be provided for short-haul local service, in order to relieve possible congestion in Metropolitan centers.

Motion Picture Association of America engineer Andrew F. Inglis estimated that a theatre television distribution service would need a total of 420 mc, regardless of whether the service was furnished by common carriers or operated by the motion picture industry. This number, he said, would provide for 14 channels, each 30 mc wide, with two of the 14 channels used for remote pick-up.

MPAA engineer Frank H. McIntosh told the commission that the industry could begin immediate construction of microwave relay facilities upon allocation of the channels, if equipment were available.

The hearing recessed today until Friday, to allow the commision to conduct routine business tomorrow.

'Miracle of Fatima' Holdovers Increase

Extended run engagements for "The Miracle of Fatima" continue at the Astor, Boston, and Boyd, Philadelphia, for fifth weeks in both situations, and for third weeks at the Downtown, Los Angeles, and Warner, Beverly Hills.

Second week holdovers have been set at the Mary Anderson, Louisville; Orpheum, New Orleans; Center, Fall River; Strand, Lowell; Palace, Rochester; Keith's, Syracuse; Missouri, Kansas City; Keith's, Indianapolis, and Olympia, Miami. After two weeks at the Majestic in Providence, "Fatima" moves over to the Carlton; after one week at the Palace, the picture moves over to the Grand in Columbus. In normal split-week situations at the Garde, New London, and Palace, Norwich, it holds for a week or more. "Fatima" has also been held for a third week at the Lyric Theatre in Manila, Philippines, it was reported here by Warner Brothers. This is the first engagement for the film outside the United States.

"Eight Iron Men"

(Stanley Kramer-Columbia)

WAR at its unglamorous worst and the impact of ugly battle on the personalities of fighting men are dealt with in alternately incisive, humorous and bitter terms in producer Stanley Kramer's "Eight Iron Men." With Edward Dmytryk at the directorial helm and a handful of little-known male actors underplaying their American soldier roles for maximum effect against the backdrop of the rain-soaked ruin and rubble of an embattled European town in World War II, Kramer's latest not only continues, but underscores the tradition of realism-plus-production economy associated with his name.

Exhibitors have here an often tense, continually absorbing drama to offer their patrons. Of course, each showman is, or should be, cognizant of the popularity rating of war films in his bailiwick. Where they rate high, "Eight Iron Men" certainly will click solidly. Where they are less popular, an all-out selling job, coupled with the magic of the Kramer reputation, should spell good business.

This story of the unwritten law of comradery which the travail of battle imposes was converted into a more conversational than active screenplay by Harry Brown from his own play, "A Sound of Hunting." Here we meet Bonar Colleano, the platoon's light-hearted member whose slumberland adventures as a civilian Casanova introduce on the screen at intervals some wonderfully funny sequences that come as welcome relief from the unhappy atmosphere of the blasted building wherein he and his fellow soldiers are holed up. Present also is staff sergeant Lee Marvin, a man agonized in deciding how and when an attempt is to be made to rescue a platoon member who is up to his ears in the water of a nearby foxhole that comes under the constant raking of German machine gun fire. Too, there is Richard Kiley, somewhat psychologically affected by the knowledge of the unfortunate soldier's predicament and who would throw caution to the winds in attempting a rescue. Arthur Franz, Nick Dennis, James Griffith and Dick Moore also register importantly in G.I. roles. Credited as associate producers are Edna and Edward Anhalt.

Running time, 80 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

"The Wac from Walla Walla"

(Republic Pictures)

JUDY CANOVA'S portrayal of the backwoods girl whose ignorance of big city customs is monumental follows the pattern of others of this series and should prove appealing to the Canova following. This issue has the usual elements of slapstick comedy and picks up in pace and interest when Miss Canova enlists in the Women's Army Corps. The star is at her best when she gets mixed up with a soldiers' platoon going over an obstacle course and later in a chase with some spies who seek a guided missile. A running gag throughout the film concerns the efforts of Miss Canova's father to patch together the statue of her heroic grandfather, and its subsequent breaking through various mishaps.

The story was written by Arthur Horman and has Miss Canova and June Vincent join the Army in an attempt to win the affection of Army hero Stephen Dunne. Miss Vincent is the scheming blonde who attempts to outshine the simple but sincere Miss Canova. Luck and Miss Canova's knowledge of backwoods family feuds combine to have her foil the efforts of spies Roy Barcroft and Allen Jenkins to obtain the guided missile and diagrams. During the proceedings Miss Canova sings four songs, "Lovey," "If Only Dreams Came True," "Boy, Oh Boy" and "Song of the Women's Army Corps."

Sidney Picker was associate producer and William Witney directed. Others in the cast are Irene Ryan, George Cleveland, George Chandler, Thurston Hall, Dick Wessel, Sarah Spencer and The Republic Rhythm Riders.

Running time, 83 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 10.

Short Subject

"Curtain Call"

(Art Films—20th Century-Fox)

A singularly enthralling short subject is 20th Century-Fox's "Curtain Call" which provides a 10-minute examination of the art of Edgar Degas, world-famous French painter of the 19th Century. One of seven films photographed in color by Technicolor in great museums and on location in Europe, under the production aegis of Boris Vermont and Marilyn Silverstone, this short is indeed a distinct credit to the motion picture screen and one which should generate profound audience enthusiasm.

A specialist in portraying on canvas the grace and charm of ballet girls, the vivid excitement of the racetrack and the meditative human countenance, Degas emerges here in all his greatness through the recollections of an art shop proprietor. The camera recalls from time to time the Parisian atmosphere wherein the artist lived and worked, thus merging in superb fashion glimpses of his famous paintings and the very life that inspired them. Jacques Belasco's beautiful music score complements the loveliness brought to the screen by Art Films Productions. Running time, 10 minutes.

Fitzgibbons Cited by Canadian Council

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—President J. J. Fitzgibbons of Famous Players Canadian Corp. is one of six who have been named for citations to be awarded by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, of which he is a past national president. The award recognizes outstanding service in the promotion of friendship among races and creeds.

At the end of World War II, Fitzgibbons was decorated by King George VI with the award of Commander of the Order of the British Empire for meritorious work in the patriotic cause.

TOA Issues Digest Of 1952 Convention

Theatre Owners of America has sent to members a 22-page "1952 Convention Digest," covering all matters dealt with at the organization's annual convention in Washington last month.

In addition to exerpts from speeches made at the convention by Eric A. Johnston, Alfred Starr, Elmer C. Rhoden, Mitchell Wolfson and others, the digest sets forth statements of policy with respect to the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, arbitration, taxation, theatre TV, etc. The data was assembled and compiled by Dick Pitts, TOA administrative assistant.

Put Off Biberman Bid

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.—The Screen Directors Guild directors have postponed for two weeks the appearance before it of Herbert Biberman, a member of the "Unfriendly Nine," who seeks reinstatement. A board representative said the directors want more time to study the case. Biberman will have to sign a SDG loyalty oath before readmission.

Griffin was elected director at large for three years term to succeed Ray Branch of Hastings.

The three-day convention ended with a banquet in the Tuller Hotel.

Arbitration Cost

further changes that met with distribution's approval all that would remain to be decided would be a formula for financing.

Distributor representatives, in discussing among themselves recently the amended draft, are understood to have expressed the opinion that neither exhibition nor distribution would want the other to carry more than its share of financial responsibility for an arbitration system.

It was expected that the cost of operating a system would not be excessive.

RKO Radio Resignations

The resignations also apply to the chief operating subsidiary of RKO Pictures, RKO Radio, and to all other subsidiaries with which the three were identified.

Neither Stolkin, Koolish nor Gorman could be reached for questioning last night but individuals close to the RKO Pictures' scene indicated that Stolkin, Koolish and Ryan have not sold or otherwise disposed of their individual stock holdings in the company and, so far as was known, have no intention of so doing at this time.

The Wall Street Journal had published three articles on members of the Stolkin syndicate, devoting one apiece to each of the three whose resignations were accepted yesterday. The first article dealt with business activities of Koolish, going back about 20 years, and including alleged brushes with better business bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission and other agencies over methods of business conduct. The second dealt with Ryan's alleged heavy wagering on sports and other events and testimony in last year's Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee hearings linking him with professional gamblers as an acquaintance of theirs.

The third article dealt with Stolkin and repeated much of the history of the Koolish article, due to the fact that Stolkin had been associated with his father-in-law in some of the business ventures which allegedly won the disapproval of civic and Federal agencies.

Also reported to have ended his association with RKO Pictures, although the company did not confirm it, is Sidney Korshak, Chicago attorney, who had been appointed "labor counsel" for the company by the new management. Korshak had a part in the Stolkin syndicate's negotiations for the purchase of the Hughes' stock. He was identified in the Wall Street Journal's articles as an attorney at one time for "Cherry Nose" Gioe, a Chicago gangster who was convicted of extortion for his part in the blackmailing of motion picture executives who dominated projectionists' and other industry unions in the 1930s.

Members of the Stolkin syndicate remaining on the RKO Pictures board are: Edward G. Burke and Sherrill C. Corwin, vice-president and studio representative. Also remaining are: Arnold Grant, chairman and chief executive officer William H. Clark, treasurer; and Gordon Youngman, member of the Bautzer, Grant, Youngman and Silbert law firm of Beverly Hills.

Grant said yesterday that "It is the intention of the board as soon as possible to fill the vacancies with men of outstanding calibre, who will be well qualified to represent the interests of all stockholders of RKO. It is hoped that this can be accomplished within the next 10 days."

Presumably, the post of president, when filled, will not include the chief executive duties held by Grant, unless he succeeds to the title and relinquishes the board chairmanship to another. Grant has been given complete administrative authority by the board.

Goldberg to Assist Norton

Fred Goldberg was yesterday named assistant publicity manager and head of the special events unit of RKO Radio Pictures by Kay Norton, publicity manager.

Goldberg formerly was newspaper contact for Paramount Pictures. He resigned recently to work with the Samuel Goldwyn organization on "Hans Christian Andersen."

Other staff positions announced were: Ruth Cosgrove to head the radio—TV and music department, assisted by Walter Wood. Al Stern, formerly trade paper contact, will join Jack Lewis in the writing department. John Springer and Betty Folker will handle magazines. Bob Boehnel will remain in his post as daily press contact and Jerry Cooper remains in charge of promotions. Frank Petraglia has been assigned to syndicate contact and handling of class "B" magazines.

Stolkin, Koolish, Gorman Resign RKO Radio Posts

Presidency, Board Vacancies to Be Filled In 10 Days; Resignations Follow 'Wall St. Journal' Articles on Business Backgrounds

Ralph E. Stolkin, head of the syndicate which one month ago today bought Howard Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures, and who three weeks ago today was elected president of the company, resigned that post and also withdrew from the company's board of directors yesterday.

RALPH STOLKIN A. L. KOOLISH

Resigning from the board with Stolkin were A. L. Koolish, his father-in-law and a member of the purchasing syndicate, and William Gorman, the representative on the board of Ray Ryan, another member of the syndicate. The latter two were not officers of RKO Pictures.

That the resignations were the direct result of the series of articles published by the Wall Street Journal during the past week detailing past business and other activities of the three was clear from the statement issued announcing their resignations, although the Journal was not mentioned by name. The statement of the three said:

"Our only interest in acquiring stock of RKO Pictures Corp. was our belief that the company can be, under able and independent management, brought to the full realization of its great potential.

"We recognize that a volume of unfavorable publicity directed against us as individuals has been or can be damaging to the company.

"Consistent with our original intent of doing that which is best for the company, and for that reason only, we have submitted our resignations."

Griffin Attacks Practice, Cites Theatre Importance

DETROIT, Oct. 22. — Lawrence Griffin, who recently became an exhibitor following his retirement from an executive post with a grocery chain, today attacked before a morning meeting today of Allied Theatres of Michigan the practice of free motion picture showings by business concerns and others.

Griffin emphasized in his address before the convention delegates the importance of the motion picture theatre to a community, no matter how large or how small.

During a discussion on the topic Griffin chose, a suggestion was made to appeal to the Michigan legislature to have laws passed which would make free motion pictures unlawful, even to the extent that exhibitors would be prohibited from constructing drive-ins

Tells FCC of Industry's Need for Exclusive Band

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The industry today asked the Federal Communications Commission to allocate for the exclusive use of theatre television the frequencies from 5,925 to 6,285 megacycles, which are currently allocated as common carrier frequencies.

This portion of the spectrum must be the "backbone" of theatre television distribution systems, National Exhibitor Theatre Television Committee consulting engineer Stuart Bailey told the FCC, enabling the extension of service over long distances.

This contention was the nub of today's testimony in the FCC hearings on the engineering and accounting phases of the theatre television hearing. Bailey told the commission that in the event the FCC considered exclusive allocation of these frequencies to theatre television undesirable, common carriers and others could use the frequencies on a non-interfering basis, with theatre television the primary user. Other suggestions made by Bailey in case the FCC did not want to make exclusive allocation of frequencies included classifying theatre television as an industrial radio service on a frequency-sharing basis with

Albany Unit Bids TOA Become A Defendant in Suit

ALBANY, Oct. 22.—Albany Theatre Owners of America, at a meeting today, voted to recommend that national TOA be made a party defendant in the Department of Justice anti-trust suit for the release of 16mm. pictures to TV stations.

The unit also reacted favorably to a report by executive director-counsel Lewis A. Sumberg on the arbitration plan considered at the recent national convention in Washington. Members agreed that it would be "particularly helpful to independent exhibitors." Sumberg described the proposal as one that would give "speedy and economical relief" to exhibitors.

Members reported that the local exchange area is suffering "disproportionately" from a print shortage. They believe the number should be increased by 50 per cent. The matter will first be discussed with branch managers. Sumberg and president Harry Lamont promised that if they do not get action "within a reasonable time" TOA will follow through on the national level.

Saul J. Ullman, distributor chairman for the Council of Motion Picture Organizations in the drive to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, reported on conferences he had held with elected representatives from this area.

Members were warned against playing ASCAP music unless they have signed the new licensing agreement. They will also ask to hold themselves in readiness for swift action if any bills "harmful" to the industry are presented at the next session of the legislature convening in January.

Sam Davis of Phoenicia was elected to the board of directors.

A luncheon meeting will be held here Nov. 17.

'Limelight' U. S. Premiere Today

Chicago, Oct. 22.—International News Service is offering a special election night service to theatres and other public gathering places to enable them to bring results of the election to their audiences. The service consists of installation of a high-speed INS teletype printer to be installed for the day and night of Nov. 4 in a place designated by the customer. INS claims that the service is going to be used on election night at the Paramount, Capitol, and Palace in New York, as well as at other theatres there and throughout the country.

Claims Costs Low to Show Natural Vision

Theatre alteration costs for the presentation of Natural Vision films would be a maximum of $1,000 for a first-run house and from $200 to $300 for a subsequent run, it was estimated yesterday by Milton Gunzburg, president of Natural Vision, third dimensional film company. The alteration costs, which he considered low, would mainly consist of coupling two projectors, attaching 5,500-foot magazines, and using a reflective type screen.

Gunzburg noted that many small town theatres already have a reflective type screen and thought that the magazines could be easily rented. Otherwise all other equipment is standard. He said the $1,000 figure is based on alterations done by the Hollywood and Paramount Theatres in Hollywood for the premiere showing of Arch Obler's "Bwana Devil," on Nov. 27, but emphasized these were rather extensive alterations and the figure might be even lower.

Gunzburg, who is associated with George J. Schaefer, revealed the firm has contracts for four more Natural Vision films, all in color. Obler has a one-picture-a-year contract with the company. Of the other three films, one is expected to be ready for late 1953 release. While here Gunzburg is investigating the possibility of processing stage plays in Natural Vision.

Clark in Chicago Sets 2nd Film Fete

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Thirty of Hollywood's top films of the last 20 years will be presented during the second "Great Films Festival" at the Clark Theatre from Sunday, Nov. 9 through Sunday, Nov. 23.

Response to the first festival last February was such, according to general manager Bruce Trinz, that the theatre has adopted a policy of periodic film revivals based on requests of its patrons. Two pictures will be shown daily for 15 days on an around-the-clock basis. The Clark is open daily from 8:00 A.M. to 6:00 A.M.

WELFARE FUN IS PLANNED IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—Plans for a permanent welfare fund for men and women in the amusement and entertainment fields, including all channels of the motion picture business are scheduled for discussion at a special meeting to be held in the Paramount exchange screening room on Friday.

At a meeting held last week, at which representatives from all branches of the St. Louis film industry were present, affirmation of the need for such a plan was voiced. The drive for a special fund has been intensified by recent examples of people in the industry brought to severe financial plights by accidents and illness.

A temporary organization committee to consider possibilities of such a fund consist of Tom Bloomer, president, MPTO of Eastern Missouri, St. Louis and Southern Illinois; Betty Wendt, business agent, Film Exchange Employes Union, Local No. B1; Leroy Upton, president, Stage Hands Union Local No. 8; Ed Butler, Ticket Sellers; Harry Yaeger, Motion Picture Cameramen; Tony Blust, president, Moving Picture Machine Operators Local No. 143; Lou Lavatta, business agent, Ushers Union; James Gately business agent, Film Exchange Employes Union Local No. F1; F. J. (Mike) Lee, manager, United Artists, for film exchange managers; George Ware, for the St. Louis Loge of the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesmen of America, and Marcella Devinney and Marjorie Glynn, Republic Pictures, temporary secretaries.

Humanitarian Award From Chicago Lodge

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A dinner-meeting of a committee of leading members of the local industry has been called for Monday night at the Covenant Club by Sam Levinson, chairman of the Chicago Cinema Lodge of B'nai B'rith, in order to start selecting an outstanding "humanitarian" engaged in the industry here for an award. The award is to be presented at a lodge dinner in February and is expected to become an annual event.

Although the award will be made on behalf of the Cinema Lodge, nonmembers have been asked to serve on the selection committee.

Among those who have been invited to the meeting are Nat Nathanson, who will serve as temporary chairman; Howard and Robert Lubliner, Mannie Gottlieb, Ben Lourie, Jack Rose, John, Harry and Elmer Balaban, Arthur Schoenstadt, Robert V. # Butterfield Requests New TV Channel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—W. S. Butterfield Theatres has requested the Federal Communications Commission to grant it a television station license in Grand Rapids and changed an earlier application for a TV channel in Flint, in the hope of obtaining quicker action.

Butterfield Theatres had applied for VHF channel 16 in Flint shortly after the TV freeze was lifted this year. However, another firm, Trendle Campbell Broadcasting Corp., also applied for this channel. Recently the FCC indicated it would hold a hearing on these applications at which it would study, among other things, the anti-trust record of Butterfield Theatres.

In its request to switch its Flint application to VHF channel 12, Butterfield noted that this would leave only one firm applying for VHF channel 16 and one for VHF channel 12, thus both Flint applications could be granted promptly without any need for hearings.

In addition, Bailey said, if the frequencies desired are not available on an exclusive basis, extra frequencies above the 10,700 mc band should be provided for short-haul local service, in order to relieve possible congestion in Metropolitan centers.

Motion Picture Association of America engineer Andrew F. Inglis estimated that a theatre television distribution service would need a total of 420 mc, regardless of whether the service was furnished by common carriers or operated by the motion picture industry. This number, he said, would provide for 14 channels, each 30 mc wide, with two of the 14 channels used for remote pick-up.

MPAA engineer Frank H. McIntosh told the commission that the industry could begin immediate construction of microwave relay facilities upon allocation of the channels, if equipment were available.

The hearing recessed today until Friday, to allow the commision to conduct routine business tomorrow.

'Miracle of Fatima' Holdovers Increase

Extended run engagements for "The Miracle of Fatima" continue at the Astor, Boston, and Boyd, Philadelphia, for fifth weeks in both situations, and for third weeks at the Downtown, Los Angeles, and Warner, Beverly Hills.

Second week holdovers have been set at the Mary Anderson, Louisville; Orpheum, New Orleans; Center, Fall River; Strand, Lowell; Palace, Rochester; Keith's, Syracuse; Missouri, Kansas City; Keith's, Indianapolis, and Olympia, Miami. After two weeks at the Majestic in Providence, "Fatima" moves over to the Carlton; after one week at the Palace, the picture moves over to the Grand in Columbus. In normal split-week situations at the Garde, New London, and Palace, Norwich, it holds for a week or more. "Fatima" has also been held for a third week at the Lyric Theatre in Manila, Philippines, it was reported here by Warner Brothers. This is the first engagement for the film outside the United States.

"Eight Iron Men"

(Stanley Kramer-Columbia)

WAR at its unglamorous worst and the impact of ugly battle on the personalities of fighting men are dealt with in alternately incisive, humorous and bitter terms in producer Stanley Kramer's "Eight Iron Men." With Edward Dmytryk at the directorial helm and a handful of little-known male actors underplaying their American soldier roles for maximum effect against the backdrop of the rain-soaked ruin and rubble of an embattled European town in World War II, Kramer's latest not only continues, but underscores the tradition of realism-plus-production economy associated with his name.

Exhibitors have here an often tense, continually absorbing drama to offer their patrons. Of course, each showman is, or should be, cognizant of the popularity rating of war films in his bailiwick. Where they rate high, "Eight Iron Men" certainly will click solidly. Where they are less popular, an all-out selling job, coupled with the magic of the Kramer reputation, should spell good business.

This story of the unwritten law of comradery which the travail of battle imposes was converted into a more conversational than active screenplay by Harry Brown from his own play, "A Sound of Hunting." Here we meet Bonar Colleano, the platoon's light-hearted member whose slumberland adventures as a civilian Casanova introduce on the screen at intervals some wonderfully funny sequences that come as welcome relief from the unhappy atmosphere of the blasted building wherein he and his fellow soldiers are holed up. Present also is staff sergeant Lee Marvin, a man agonized in deciding how and when an attempt is to be made to rescue a platoon member who is up to his ears in the water of a nearby foxhole that comes under the constant raking of German machine gun fire. Too, there is Richard Kiley, somewhat psychologically affected by the knowledge of the unfortunate soldier's predicament and who would throw caution to the winds in attempting a rescue. Arthur Franz, Nick Dennis, James Griffith and Dick Moore also register importantly in G.I. roles. Credited as associate producers are Edna and Edward Anhalt.

Running time, 80 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

"The Wac from Walla Walla"

(Republic Pictures)

JUDY CANOVA'S portrayal of the backwoods girl whose ignorance of big city customs is monumental follows the pattern of others of this series and should prove appealing to the Canova following. This issue has the usual elements of slapstick comedy and picks up in pace and interest when Miss Canova enlists in the Women's Army Corps. The star is at her best when she gets mixed up with a soldiers' platoon going over an obstacle course and later in a chase with some spies who seek a guided missile. A running gag throughout the film concerns the efforts of Miss Canova's father to patch together the statue of her heroic grandfather, and its subsequent breaking through various mishaps.

The story was written by Arthur Horman and has Miss Canova and June Vincent join the Army in an attempt to win the affection of Army hero Stephen Dunne. Miss Vincent is the scheming blonde who attempts to outshine the simple but sincere Miss Canova. Luck and Miss Canova's knowledge of backwoods family feuds combine to have her foil the efforts of spies Roy Barcroft and Allen Jenkins to obtain the guided missile and diagrams. During the proceedings Miss Canova sings four songs, "Lovey," "If Only Dreams Came True," "Boy, Oh Boy" and "Song of the Women's Army Corps."

Sidney Picker was associate producer and William Witney directed. Others in the cast are Irene Ryan, George Cleveland, George Chandler, Thurston Hall, Dick Wessel, Sarah Spencer and The Republic Rhythm Riders.

Running time, 83 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 10.

Short Subject

"Curtain Call"

(Art Films—20th Century-Fox)

A singularly enthralling short subject is 20th Century-Fox's "Curtain Call" which provides a 10-minute examination of the art of Edgar Degas, world-famous French painter of the 19th Century. One of seven films photographed in color by Technicolor in great museums and on location in Europe, under the production aegis of Boris Vermont and Marilyn Silverstone, this short is indeed a distinct credit to the motion picture screen and one which should generate profound audience enthusiasm.

A specialist in portraying on canvas the grace and charm of ballet girls, the vivid excitement of the racetrack and the meditative human countenance, Degas emerges here in all his greatness through the recollections of an art shop proprietor. The camera recalls from time to time the Parisian atmosphere wherein the artist lived and worked, thus merging in superb fashion glimpses of his famous paintings and the very life that inspired them. Jacques Belasco's beautiful music score complements the loveliness brought to the screen by Art Films Productions. Running time, 10 minutes.

further changes that met with distribution's approval all that would remain to be decided would be a formula for financing.

Distributor representatives, in discussing among themselves recently the amended draft, are understood to have expressed the opinion that neither exhibition nor distribution would want the other to carry more than its share of financial responsibility for an arbitration system.

It was expected that the cost of operating a system would not be excessive.

RKO Radio Resignations

The resignations also apply to the chief operating subsidiary of RKO Pictures, RKO Radio, and to all other subsidiaries with which the three were identified.

Neither Stolkin, Koolish nor Gorman could be reached for questioning last night but individuals close to the RKO Pictures' scene indicated that Stolkin, Koolish and Ryan have not sold or otherwise disposed of their individual stock holdings in the company and, so far as was known, have no intention of so doing at this time.

The Wall Street Journal had published three articles on members of the Stolkin syndicate, devoting one apiece to each of the three whose resignations were accepted yesterday. The first article dealt with business activities of Koolish, going back about 20 years, and including alleged brushes with better business bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission and other agencies over methods of business conduct. The second dealt with Ryan's alleged heavy wagering on sports and other events and testimony in last year's Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee hearings linking him with professional gamblers as an acquaintance of theirs.

The third article dealt with Stolkin and repeated much of the history of the Koolish article, due to the fact that Stolkin had been associated with his father-in-law in some of the business ventures which allegedly won the disapproval of civic and Federal agencies.

Also reported to have ended his association with RKO Pictures, although the company did not confirm it, is Sidney Korshak, Chicago attorney, who had been appointed "labor counsel" for the company by the new management. Korshak had a part in the Stolkin syndicate's negotiations for the purchase of the Hughes' stock. He was identified in the Wall Street Journal's articles as an attorney at one time for "Cherry Nose" Gioe, a Chicago gangster who was convicted of extortion for his part in the blackmailing of motion picture executives who dominated projectionists' and other industry unions in the 1930s.

Members of the Stolkin syndicate remaining on the RKO Pictures board are: Edward G. Burke and Sherrill C. Corwin, vice-president and studio representative. Also remaining are: Arnold Grant, chairman and chief executive officer William H. Clark, treasurer; and Gordon Youngman, member of the Bautzer, Grant, Youngman and Silbert law firm of Beverly Hills.

Grant said yesterday that "It is the intention of the board as soon as possible to fill the vacancies with men of outstanding calibre, who will be well qualified to represent the interests of all stockholders of RKO. It is hoped that this can be accomplished within the next 10 days."

Presumably, the post of president, when filled, will not include the chief executive duties held by Grant, unless he succeeds to the title and relinquishes the board chairmanship to another. Grant has been given complete administrative authority by the board.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE difficult and urgent task of reorganizing RKO Radio and restoring its operations to a smoothly functioning and commercially healthy state were interrupted this week by forces beyond the control of management. In the resignations from the board of directors of Ralph Stolkin, A. L. Koolish and William Gorman, and of Stolkin from the presidency, there was a major diversion which is of more consequence as an immediately delaying factor in the re-building of a working company than any other influence it may exert on the future of RKO Radio.

That is because much of the immediate reorganizing work and planning of Arnold Grant, board chairman and chief executive officer, and his staff necessarily has been interrupted and diverted by the circumstances leading up to the resignations and by the basic task of filling the vacancies. The diversion is of less consequence insofar as the future is concerned because none of the three, Stolkin, Koolish and Gorman, was slated for any vitally active role in the management of the company.

The significance of the added trial imposed upon the company and Grant's management is to be measured for the most part in time lost. It is to be assumed that the setback will be overcome as swiftly as pos-

Technicolor Set for 3 AA Features

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Allied Artists and Technicolor, Inc., have completed negotiations under which the former obtains three Technicolor feature commitments for the 1953 schedule, not counting the previously announced "Affair in Monte Carlo" made in England with Associated British-Pathe.

The three films, as announced by president Steve Broidy, and to be made here, are "Wichita," "The Annapolis Story" and "The Black Knight," all under the personal supervision of Walter Mirisch.

This marks the first time Technicolor will be used in the history of the company, in line with the studio's new policy of upgrading product wherever possible.

"Affair in Monte Carlo" stars Merle Oberon, Richard Todd, Leo Genn and was produced by Victor Saville.

Eyssell to Head 'Andersen' Benefit for Rogers Hospital

G. S. Eyssell, president of Rockefeller Center, Inc., has accepted the chairmanship of the world premiere benefit performance of Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" for the Variety Clubs Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at New York's Criterion Theatre on the evening of Nov 24, it was announced here yesterday by A. Montague, Columbia Pictures vice - president, and president of the Memorial Hospital organization.

G. S. Eyssell

"In establishing the premiere, the trustees of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital said it was their intention to make this an annual event which not only would raise money for the institution but also create a traditional hallmark for the motion picture industry," said the announcement of the benefit performance.

"The selection of "Hans Christian Andersen," according to the trustees, was made because it is an American motion picture of special merit which carries with it a great deal of international significance," it was stated.

Eyssell has appointed the following to the executive committee of the inaugural Memorial Hospital premiere: Ned E. Depinet; Montague; Joseph Vogel, Loew's Theatres; Harry Kalmine, Warner Theatres; Leonard Goldenson, United Paramount Theatres; Sol A. Schwartz, RKO Theatres; Al Lichtman, 20th Century-Fox;

Italian Film Exports And Production Have Increased

Exportation of Italian films has increased 683.4 percent since 1946 with 62 countries now distributing Italian product, compared to 16 in '46, and film production almost quadrupled, from 32 in 1945 to 112 in 1951, according to "The Italian Motion Picture Industry—1952," an 18-page brochure on all phases of the Italian post-war film industry just issued by Italian Films Export. It is available for distribution to exhibitors, distributors, libraries, universities and the press.

Jonas Rosenfield, Jr., IFE public relations director here, edited the brochure and Dr. Leandro Forno, head of IFE's bureau of information, did the research for what is reputedly the first compilation of such data to be published here.

Production figures show a steady increase. For 1952 it is estimated 130 films will be completed. At present, 180 firms are producing films.

Italian imports declined 50 per cent from 1947 to 1951; 790 films were given permits in 1947 and only 342 last year. Over the same period, box-office grosses in the 2,000 regular motion picture theatres, plus the 5,300 houses which exhibit films twice a week or less, increased approximately $45,000,000, to a total of $117,000,000.

The report also notes the increase in government-encouraged, bi-national co-productions combining Italian and foreign capital and talent.

sible, very likely in less time than the 10 days the company has indicated.

It is to be hoped that despite its extraordinary trials in recent weeks, RKO Radio will emerge from this critical period stronger because of them. Evidence that that is the wish of every branch of the industry is to be found on all sides. There is widespread regret over the company's tribulations, delaying its quick return to the business of making and marketing good product. There is a sincere desire to help it overcome its setbacks and to see it solidly on its feet again.

Morale within the company is good and was wholly unaffected by this week's resignations from the board, because the working people of RKO Radio are fully aware that the future of the company depends less on who sits on its board than it does on how well each and every employee performs his daily tasks.

They know, as Grant said, the vacancies will be filled "as soon as possible with men of outstanding calibre who will be well qualified to represent the interests of all stockholders of RKO."

Meanwhile, there is work to be done and they are hard at it.

More N. J. Houses In Rogers Project

The enlistment of 87 theatres of Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey in the Will Rogers Memorial collection-can-on-candy-stand project, was disclosed here by William Phillips, Loew's division manager. This brings New Jersey representation in the plan above 50 per cent of the state's 330 theatres.

E. D. Martin, head of Martin Theatres in Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee, has notified J. R. Vogel, chairman of the collection-can projects, that his 103 theatres have joined the campaign. Also in the South, M. A. Lightman's 36 Malco theatres in the Memphis area joined up.

In Chicago, David Wallerstein reported that Chicago theatres had endorsed the plan. Jack Rose was named city chairman of the project. The first batch of Chicago theatres to send in an official list was the Balaban and Katz and the Great States circuits, for a total of 94 theatres.

scheduled to depart today for Memphis to attend conventions of the Tennessee Theatre Owners Association and the Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas Theatres Association. It could not be learned yesterday whether he had or would file a formal request with Arbitration Conference officials for the meeting TOA is seeking.

The TOA president's statement disclosed that "the available members of the TOA arbitration committee have discussed the arbitration plan as approved by distribution and submitted to TOA." He added that as to the "few matters" TOA would like to change "and as to the suggestions made by our membership from the floor of our recent annual convention, we of TOA stand ready for a call for group analysis, study and discussion."

Starr continued: "We feel confident as we felt right along that based on previous drafting history no major obstacles will stand in the way of industry acceptance of the plan. We call on all parties in interest to give the subject immediate attention whether it be by convening of the (10-member) drafting committee or of the entire industry arbitration conference."

Allied States Association also has received a copy of the distributor-amended draft and has made plans to discuss and act on it at the organization's national convention in Chicago, Nov. 17-19. The other smaller exhibitor associations likewise have been supplied with copies of the draft, but have not yet acted on the document.

N. E. Representatives Set for Allied Meet

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The Independent Exhibitors of New England reports that the following members will represent it at the annual convention of national Allied to be held in Chicago next month:

Norman Glassman, president; Nate Yamins, national delegate; Theodore Rosenblatt, Melvin Safner and Meyer Stanzler of Rhode Island, Walter Littlefield and Julian Rifkin of Massachusetts, Kenneth Forkey of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Accompanying the representatives will be Ray Feeley, business manager of the organization.

"The Black Castle"

(Universal-International)

AS THE TITLE INDICATES, this is a melodrama about the frightening violent events that occur in the castle of horrors of a crafty but vicious Count far from the realms of justice. In this case Stephen McNally is the thoroughly hateful one-eyed villain to whose castle Richard Greene goes seeking word about two former soldier friends, whom he rightfully believes have been murdered by McNally. This is a solidly made, creditably performed "meller" that can be ably exploited.

Boris Karloff is on hand as a doctor and confidant of McNally's attractive wife, Paula Corday, and Lon Chaney, Jr. stomps around the castle as a mute muscle man of McNally's. Nathan Juran directed this neat William Alland production and has pointed up the mysterious atmosphere in all possible ways. Besides heavy, creaking doors the action includes the usual sudden entrances and exits, foreboding looks, an underground jail, an alligator pit, and a considerable amount of sword-play.

The story and screenplay by Jerry Sackheim eventually explains McNally's evil as due to the loss of an eye he suffered while trying to take over some African territory. His effort was foiled by Greene-led natives. Greene gets evidence of the murder of his friends but returns to the castle when Miss Corday, with whom he is in love, is imprisoned after admitting her love for Greene in order to hide his true identity from McNally. Greene is captured and he and Miss Corday are given a drug by Karloff that makes them appear dead. Although McNally discovers this plan, Greene and Miss Corday escape interment in coffins with the aid of a loyal servant; McNally is killed.

In the supporting cast are Michael Pate, Tudor Owen, Otto Waldis, John Hoyt and Henry Corden.

Running time, 81 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

WALTER PASHKIN

"The Promoter"

(Universal-International)

ALEC GUINNESS reputedly is one of the strongest box-office attractions that the British screen has to offer American patrons with a taste for sophisticated comedy and subtle characterizations, and his latest film is a highly entertaining comedy. It is a droll tale of the blithe daring by which Guinness starts out as a solicitor's clerk and rises up the ladder of social and business success that is in the excellent tradition of his "Kind Hearts and Coronets," "The Lavender Hill Mob," and "The Man in the White Suit." Undoubtedly, this J. Arthur Rank presentation will be well received at the art houses, and it has general release potentialities too.

Glynis Johns and Valerie Hobson are charming and turn in good performances as two of the main women in Guinness' life. Miss Hobson, a Countess who is instrumental in his rise, sponsors a ball and clerk Guinness, mailing the invitations, sends one to himself. He establishes various contacts at the ball in a thoroughly amusing manner. Miss Johns is a dancing instructress also seeking a fortune. Guinness is enamored of her, but she leaves him for a wealthy man. In later years she returns to a financially successful Guinness but he ignores her and chooses her friend, Petula Clark, instead.

This is a Ronald Neame production that was produced by John Bryan and directed by Neame from an Eric Ambler screenplay. Included in the support are Edward Chapman, Veronica Turleigh, George Devine, Gibb McLaughlin, Frank Pettingell, Joan Hickson, Michael Hordern, Alison Leggatt, Peter Copley and Deirdre Doyle.

Running time, 88 minutes. General audience classification. October release.

Allied May Suggest

is substantially the same document which Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, drew up following meetings of the industry lawyers' drafting committee. Myers wrote that draft on the basis of recommendations made by himself and the other attorneys.

The distribution attorneys and sales managers, meeting subsequently, made in the Myers draft what are generally regarded as minor changes "here and there" in phrasing, punctuation, etc.

It is understood that if the Allied board and convention next month recommends changes in the draft's format for conciliation, it will do so on the basis of the organization's long experience in the conciliation of trade practice problems and disputes with distributors. The Allied film committee, for which Wilbur Snaper, Allied president, serves as coordinator in New York, has for a number of years engaged in conciliation activity. Recently, however, the committee has found the distributors increasing difficult to deal with and may take "drastic" steps in this connection, according to a recent statement by Snaper.

Fred Schwartz, Century Circuit; Si H. Fabian, Fabian Theatres; Richard Walsh, IATSE; Arthur Schwartz, composer; Walter Vincent, theatrical executive; Herman Robbins, National Screen Service, and Maurice Bergman, Universal Pictures, who will also serve as publicity chairman.

Goldwyn, who is contributing the motion picture for the premiere, made the following comment on the work of the organization:

"I started Will Rogers on his film career by giving him his first job in motion pictures. Naturally, I would feel very close to any charitable organization bearing his name. But more than that, I think it is very important that the motion picture industry take care of its own. I hope this event will call attention to the fine work the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital is doing and the urgent need of its continual support by our people."

Charles B. Moss, executive director of the Criterion, is donating the facilities of the theatre for the premiere.

Now in its 27th year of service, the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake is dedicated to the relief of suffering of tuberculosis free to anyone in the entertainment industry. The hospital, which has maintained an average of more than 90 per cent in cures, is building up a modern and highly-specialized research laboratory to aid in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

Officers of the Rogers Hospital, besides Montague, are: R. J. O'Donnell, chairman of the board; Chick Lewis, executive vice-president; Walsh, vice-president; Harry Brandt, vice-president; Robert Mochrie, vice-president; Robbins, vice-president; Max A. Cohen, secretary, and Fabian, treasurer.

Pictures take months to make . . . may be unmade in split seconds.

For the superlative showings of which modern projection equipment is capable depend upon superlative film care.

Film coating, for example, lubrication, and inspection—all require precise knowledge, expert handling. And in cleaning, splicing, and winding, the film must be held "just so" in hands wearing the right type of glove; here, the slightest scratch means trouble.

On subjects such as these—ranging from choice of film to projection and film storage—representatives of the Eastman Technical Service for Motion Picture Film are trained to advise and work with the industry.

Salesmen Will Skip Raise for More Expenses

Prefer Higher Allowance For Costs to More Wages

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—Expense allowance increases rather than wage raises will be the goal of the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesmen of America in the negotiations which will be held this winter for new contracts effective next February, it was learned here at the weekend.

The 1,000-member Colosseum, apparently willing to forego wage increases if higher expense allowances can be won, will hold its annual convention in Atlanta on Nov. 21-23. It remains to be seen whether the expenses-over-wages approach will prevail when the subject comes up at the convention. At any rate, this approach appears to represent the consensus of the Colosseum membership at this time.

The Colosseum members now re-

Five Myths About Industry Are Scored by Arthur Mayer

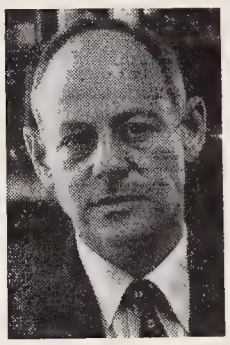
Five misconceptions or "myths" concerning the motion picture industry were listed by Arthur L. Mayer, former executive vice-president of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations on Saturday in an address before the Women's Press Club at the Hotel Statler here.



Mayer's address was the second he has made recently for COMPO in behalf of the industry. He spoke several days previously before the Film Council of Springfield, Mass.

The beliefs that Mayer attacked Saturday were: (1) that the public is hungry for mature pictures with messages but is deprived of them by uneducated Hollywood "tycoons," (2) that the motion picture industry is on the verge of bankruptcy, (3) that it is now being replaced in the affections of the American people by television, (4) that foreign films are superior to

Pre-Election Tax Repeal Effort Urged

Cole, McGee Bidding for Pressure on Candidates

All state and Congressional district committees in the industry's national tax repeal campaign were urged at the weekend by H. A. Cole and Pat McGee, campaign co-chairmen, to make special efforts before Election Day, Nov. 4, to hold meetings between Congressional candidates anl exhibitors for discussion of repeal.

"These meetings," according to a statement issued by the co-chairmen through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations office here, "should be arranged so that several exhibitors, especially those smaller exhibitors who are in distress, can meet the Congressional candidate and tell him their story."

The chairmen said they have found it is not enough for one exhibitor, however important he may be, to talk to a Congressman on the subject.

Theatres in Compo Rise to 13,000

The number of theatres which have become members in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations has jumped from 11,695 to approximately 13,000 in the past week, it was revealed here at the weekend.

COMPO officials are said to expect that there will be no let up in filings for membership and payment of dues until virtually the entire potential of theatres in the U. S. has joined. The organization is in process of determining exactly what that potential was.

Costs Up, Receipts Down—Taxes Hurt

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 26.—Pointing up the necessity of repealing the Federal 20 per cent admission tax, in order to keep theatres open, the Mississippi Theatre Owners notes that there has been a 20 per cent rise in the cost of theatre operation and a 22 per cent drop in gross receipts.

'Moulin Rouge' for Easter '53 Release

"Moulin Rouge," made abroad by John Huston for United Artists release at Eastertime in 1953, will open at the Los Angeles Wilshire Theatre on Dec. 26 in order to be eligible for the Academy Award, it was revealed Friday by the film's star, Jose Ferrer, who also has a profit-sharing arrangement on the picture.

Ferrer expects his working relationship with John Huston to resolve shortly into a partnership for the making of "Matador," the Barnaby Conrad novel, in Technicolor, in Spain, in May. No release deal has been made as yet. Ferrer plans a public appearance tour with "Rouge" similar to his efforts for "Cyrano."

The actor revealed Huston had been responsible for an altered shooting process in Technicolor which attains hitherto unachieved affects while working on a film.

WNBC Runs Film 'Plugs' on Saturdays

Station WNBC, key radio station of the National Broadcasting network, on Saturday began presenting spot announcements during the afternoon football broadcasts, to run weekly, to promote movie-going generally and recommend outstanding films to listeners. This is in furtherance of the mutual promotion pact with the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of the City of New York.

Theatres in the Metropolitan area will display specially prepared posters and exhibit special trailers urging theatre audiences to listen to Sketch Henderson's programs on WNBC and WNBT for recommended films.

Theatre TV Hearings May End Today or Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The first phase of the theatre television hearings will probably wind up tomorrow or Tuesday, according to Motion Picture Association of America and National Exhibitors Theatre Television committee attorneys, who are presenting the industry's case to the Commission.

It was thought the hearings would run for two weeks, but the postponement of cross-examination until January and an apparent Commission desire for a speedy wind-up of the engineering and accounting phase of the hearing account for the early closing date.

At one point in last week's final session it seemed likely that there might be cross-examination, when Ernest D. North, general attorney for the long lines division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., asked chairman Walker to delay the admission of three MPAA-NETTC exhibits dealing with theatre television cost information.

In the course of the hearing 22 exhibits have been accepted without objection, but when these three were offered North declared that AT and T would like to study them carefully and asked that Walker postpone admitting them until after cross-examination in January.

James Fly, MPAA attorney, suggested that Stuart Bailey and Frank McIntosh MPAA-NETTC engineers who had offered and discussed the exhibits in question, be cross-examined on them immediately, but Walker granted North's request and postponed admission of the cost exhibits until the January portion of the hearing.

The McIntosh and Bailey cost figures were broken down into minute details for inter-and intra-city theatre television transmission, covering items for each point on the relay system which ranged from the cost of land to the cost of gasoline for maintenance trucks. The figures will be totalled and correlated on Monday, MPAA-NETTC attorneys said, when cost expert Manfred K. Toeppen will take the stand. Only remaining witness in the hearing will be John W. Clark, tube expert.

Earlier in the session the Commission heard brief but technically detailed descriptions of three methods of theatre television projection. Richard Hodgson described the film storage method; Skipwith W. Athey, the direct projection method; and Earl Sponable, the Eidophor system. Sponable also detailed a series of cross-polarization tests in relation to conserving available space on the spectrum.

Pidgeon Next SAG Head

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—Walter Pidgeon is next president of Screen Actors Guild succeeding Ronald Reagon, who served for five years. This was determined over the weekend as the deadline for nominations by petition passed. Pidgeon is unanimous choice of nominating committee for post.

Joseph Leaving Publicity Post

John Joseph, M-G-M's Eastern publicity manager, has resigned. He will relinquish his post at the end of the year but will probably leave the M-G-M home office before that time for a vacation.

John Joseph

Joseph has been with M-G-M for about four years, going to the organization from Universal, where he had been national director of advertising and publicity for 12 years. The chief factor in his leaving M-G-M was his wish—and that of his family—to live in Los Angeles, where he still maintains his home, he stated.

Howard Dietz, M-G-M's vice-president in charge of advertising, publicity and promotion, in commenting upon Joseph's resignation said: "It is with considerable regret that we have accepted Joseph's resignation. He has always been a valuable asset to our organization."

ecutive committee, and I know that a man of his ability and integrity will make constructive contributions to the advancement of the entire motion picture industry.

"Mr. Grant has an intimate and expert knowledge of the motion picture business and its problems gained through his long association with various phases of the industry in addition to his service on the boards of directors of Columbia Pictures and United Artists.

"This experience will stand him in good stead as the directing head of RKO, one of the leading companies in the business. In his new task he is bringing to the company a group of young, talented executives who are determined to advance the best interests not only of RKO but of the industry as a whole.

"In these times the industry faces new and perplexing problems and must adjust and adapt itself to changing conditions. I have no doubt whatever that the industry, all branches of it, will meet the new challenges with great success. Mr. Grant will be of inestimable help in making this a certainty."

Grant to Meet Press on 'Dramatic Developments'

The second of what is planned as a series of weekly luncheon meetings of RKO Radio's new executives with press representatives will be held at the Hotel Warwick here today, at which Arnold Grant, RKO Radio board chairman, will further discuss the operating policy for the company.

The company's announcement, saying that "several dramatic developments" are to be expected at the luncheon, touched off speculation that the company may be prepared to announce acquisition of a new studio head, president and board members, although no board meeting has been held for the election of the latter.

Speculation places the name of Arnold Picker, RKO Radio executive vice-president, who is due here tomorrow from Europe, near the top of the list as probable choice for president and the board of directors. Coast reports have R. J. O'Donnell, Interstate circuit head, also under consideration for the presidency.

'Moulin Rouge' for Easter '53 Release

"Moulin Rouge," made abroad by John Huston for United Artists release at Eastertime in 1953, will open at the Los Angeles Wilshire Theatre on Dec. 26 in order to be eligible for the Academy Award, it was revealed Friday by the film's star, Jose Ferrer, who also has a profit-sharing arrangement on the picture.

Ferrer expects his working relationship with John Huston to resolve shortly into a partnership for the making of "Matador," the Barnaby Conrad novel, in Technicolor, in Spain, in May. No release deal has been made as yet. Ferrer plans a public appearance tour with "Rouge" similar to his efforts for "Cyrano."

The actor revealed Huston had been responsible for an altered shooting process in Technicolor which attains hitherto unachieved affects while working on a film.

Theatres in the Metropolitan area will display specially prepared posters and exhibit special trailers urging theatre audiences to listen to Sketch Henderson's programs on WNBC and WNBT for recommended films.

Theatre TV Hearings May End Today or Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The first phase of the theatre television hearings will probably wind up tomorrow or Tuesday, according to Motion Picture Association of America and National Exhibitors Theatre Television committee attorneys, who are presenting the industry's case to the Commission.

It was thought the hearings would run for two weeks, but the postponement of cross-examination until January and an apparent Commission desire for a speedy wind-up of the engineering and accounting phase of the hearing account for the early closing date.

At one point in last week's final session it seemed likely that there might be cross-examination, when Ernest D. North, general attorney for the long lines division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., asked chairman Walker to delay the admission of three MPAA-NETTC exhibits dealing with theatre television cost information.

In the course of the hearing 22 exhibits have been accepted without objection, but when these three were offered North declared that AT and T would like to study them carefully and asked that Walker postpone admitting them until after cross-examination in January.

James Fly, MPAA attorney, suggested that Stuart Bailey and Frank McIntosh MPAA-NETTC engineers who had offered and discussed the exhibits in question, be cross-examined on them immediately, but Walker granted North's request and postponed admission of the cost exhibits until the January portion of the hearing.

The McIntosh and Bailey cost figures were broken down into minute details for inter-and intra-city theatre television transmission, covering items for each point on the relay system which ranged from the cost of land to the cost of gasoline for maintenance trucks. The figures will be totalled and correlated on Monday, MPAA-NETTC attorneys said, when cost expert Manfred K. Toeppen will take the stand. Only remaining witness in the hearing will be John W. Clark, tube expert.

Earlier in the session the Commission heard brief but technically detailed descriptions of three methods of theatre television projection. Richard Hodgson described the film storage method; Skipwith W. Athey, the direct projection method; and Earl Spónable, the Eidophor system. Sponable also detailed a series of cross-polarization tests in relation to conserving available space on the spectrum.

Joseph Leaving Publicity Post

John Joseph, M-G-M's Eastern publicity manager, has resigned. He will relinquish his post at the end of the year but will probably leave the M-G-M home office before that time for a vacation.

John Joseph

Joseph has been with M-G-M for about four years, going to the organization from Universal, where he had been national director of advertising and publicity for 12 years. The chief factor in his leaving M-G-M was his wish—and that of his family—to live in Los Angeles, where he still maintains his home, he stated.

Howard Dietz, M-G-M's vice-president in charge of advertising, publicity and promotion, in commenting upon Joseph's resignation said: "It is with considerable regret that we have accepted Joseph's resignation. He has always been a valuable asset to our organization."

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertising during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

RKO Pictures Will Recover, Grant Avers

Says New Directors Will Be Named in 48 Hours

Confidence that RKO Radio will recover from its current ills was expressed here yesterday by Arnold Grant, chairman of the board, at a second press luncheon, held at the Warwick Hotel to introduce the "executive team" of the company.

It is his judgment, Grant said, that while RKO Radio Pictures is a "sick company," it should "not die from the ailment." On the contrary, Grant predicted that "the patient will live for many, many years and recover."

Grant, who has been functioning as chief executive of the company since Howard Hughes sold his controlling stock interest, said the board is meeting daily in an attempt to fill the

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—It would cost about $60,000,000 to build a system that would supply virtually all the indoor theatres in nine large Eastern cities with competing theatre television programs, industry sources said today.

The figure applies only to building costs. It covers the expense of setting up a New York City-Washington intercity relay system which would carry three simultaneously competing circuits in the nine cities. However, for the $60,000,000 figure, theatres would be able to choose from six competing circuits, each with a different program.

It was expected that this information would be part of testimony to be given to the Federal Communications Commission's theatre television hear-

UK Wage Dispute Threatens Shutdown of Production

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A meeting of producers with studio union heads today, called to attempt to prevent a shutdown of production because of inability to make progress in negotiations for wage increases, was adjourned until Wednesday by mutual consent.

The meeting had been requested by Tom O'Brien, head of the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employes, one of the unions involved in the negotiations, after an unauthorized work stoppage had been staged at J. Arthur Rank's Pinewood studio last week. Similar tactics were adopted at other motion picture studios subsequently.

O'Brien, George Elvin of the Association of Cine and Allied Technicians, and Frank Haxell of the Electrical Trades Union attended today's meeting with leading producers. The British Film Producers Association considered closing down all studios on the theory that it would be impossible to arrange shooting schedules in the event the impromptu work stoppages continue.

Among productions held up are Walt Disney's "Sword and the Rose" at Pinewood, and "The Red Beret," in which Alan Ladd is starring at Shepperton.

Negotiations between the producers and studio unions have been in progress for more than a year. Producers are demanding relaxation in what they call restrictive practices as the price of pay-rises.

Royal Performance Aids UK Trade Fund

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Total proceeds of the annual Royal Film Performance, held at M-G-M's Leicester Square Empire Theatre here tonight with "Because You're Mine" as the feature attraction, will amount to approximately £30,000 ($84,000), including Wednesday receipts from a replica performance at Leeds, Thursday at Liverpool, and revenue from program advertising. Proceeds are contributed to the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund.

Present at the performance were the Queen, her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and Princess Margaret. A 60-minute stage presentation followed the film, with Charles Chaplin, Sir Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, Yvonne de Carlo, Gene Kelly, Douglas Fairbanks, Kirk Douglas, Evelyn Keyes, Rock Hudson and others participating.

Rogers to Make More Films for Theatres

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Roy Rogers, performing with Dale Evans and a large company in the Hobart Arena at Troy, O., disclosed that he plans to make another series of films for theatre distribution. Rogers' manager, Arthur Rush, stated that an announcement would be made shortly from Rogers' Hollywood office on the distributor and production schedule.

Name Chairmen for Pioneers Dinner

Committee chairmen for the Motion Picture Pioneers "Jubilee Dinner" at the Hotel Astor here on Tuesday, Nov. 25, were announced yesterday by Jack Cohn, president of the Pioneers, and Ned E. Depinet, chairman of the dinner, which will honor N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures, as the Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952.

Harry J. Takiff, secretary-treasurer of the Pioneers, and Marvin Kirsch, vice-president, have been appointed administrators for the dinner. John J. O'Connor, vice-president of Universal, will be in charge of honored guests. Gilbert Josephson, exhibitor, will be in charge of physical arrangements for the dinner and reception. Charles Alicoate of Film Daily, and Ray Gallagher of Motion Picture Herald, will be in charge of admissions and new member inductions. David A. Bader will be in charge of new members, and George Jessel will serve as toastmaster.

Technicolor 9-Month Net Is $1,499,507

Consolidated net profit after taxes on Technicolor's income for the nine months ending Sept. 30, is estimated to be $1,499,507, equivalent to $1.60 per share.

This compares to a net of $1,561,525, equivalent to $1.68 per share for the corresponding nine months of 1951, with taxes for that period adjusted to the effective rate paid for the entire year.

The estimated consolidated net profit after taxes on income for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1952 is $474,087, which is equivalent to 50 cents per share. This compares to a net of $500,131 which is equivalent to 54 cents a share, for the corresponding quarter in 1951.

First TV Saturation Set by 'U' for 'Trees'

Universal will use a saturation television spot campaign for the first time in connection with the world premiere of "It Grows on Trees" at the Paramount Theatre in New Haven on Wednesday, Nov. 5, the company discloses.

TV of Coronation To Be Restricted

London, Oct. 27.—The Coronation Commission has ruled against television being permitted to cover the actual ceremony. Newsreels, however, including color films, are authorized to provide complete coverage.

The J. Arthur Rank Organization has completed arrangements for a full length picture in Technicolor and Associated British-Pathe will have a full-length picture.

Protests against the TV ceremonial ban have caused Prime Minister Churchill to call a special Cabinet meeting to help him draft a statement on the issue to be read to the House of Commons tomorrow.

Seadler Heads MPA Ad-Publicity Group

Silas F. Seadler, director of advertising of M-G-M, has been named chairman of the Advertising and Publicity Directors Committee of the Motion Picture Association of America. He succeeds Charles Simonelli, Eastern ad-publicity manager and national exploitation chief of Universal.

The committee chairmanship is a rotating post involving a minimum tenure of six months.

Simonelli, who served as chairman for nine months, won a unanimous vote of thanks from the committee for his "able guidance" of the group's activities since the first of the year.

"THE GREATEST THEATER AU
IS VERDICT AFTE

FOR THE FIRST TIME in memory a motion picture has been sneak previewed in 51 DIFFERENT CITIES. The picture? STANLEY KRAMER'S "THE HAPPY TIME." The reactions? BREATHTAKING! Who said so? They are listed on the previous page.

Our reasons for this HISTORY-MAKING PROCEDURE were simple: we wanted to prove unequivocally to exhibitors what we already knew about this picture; we wanted them to have the full appreciation of the picture's potentialities which could only come from a theater screening; we knew that its ROLLICKING, INFECTIOUS, DELIGHTFUL GAIETY would be enjoyed tenfold when seen with an audience; we knew that every person in each of the 51 audiences would become a press agent for "THE HAPPY TIME."

All of that happened.

NCE REACTION EVER SEEN"

This, then, is our grateful acknowledgment to our exhibitor friends for their cooperation in arranging the previews—and for their expressions of tremendous enthusiasm afterwards.

this year and the beginning of 1953.

Lichtman as chairman will be aided by W. C. Gehring, executive assistant general sales manager; Edwin W. Aaron, Western sales manager, and Arthur Silverstone, Eastern and Canadian sales manager.

Charles Einfeld, ad-publicity vice-president, will outline advertising, publicity and exploitation plans and discuss the line-up of pictures being offered during the branch managers' testimonial which will end Dec. 27.

Also to be discussed are plans for the company's "Anniversary Week" which is to be celebrated over Thanksgiving.

Pictures for the remainder of 1952 which will be included in the discussions are Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "Bloodhounds of Broadway," "The Steel Trap," "The Thief of Venice," "Pony Soldier" and "My Pal Gus."

Division managers scheduled to attend the meeting are: Herman Wobber, Western; Harry Ballance, Southern; Martin Moskowitz, Empire State; M. A. Levy, Midwest; Glenn Norris, Atlantic; Tom McCleaster, Central and Peter Myers, Canadian. Also on hand will be Buck Stoner and Paul Wilson, assistant division managers in the Western and Southern territories, respectively.

Branch managers Jim Connolly, Boston; Ben Simon, New Haven, and Tom Gilliam, Chicago will also be in attendance since their exchanges are now supervised by the home office.

member, and David Tannenbaum, Wald-Krasna president.

A principal consideration of the termination was Jerry Wald's agreement to continue, on a non-exclusive basis, as production advisor in connection with RKO's planned production of "High Heels" and "Size 12," both of which Harriet Parsons will produce. Miss Parsons' contract with Wald-Krasna has been taken over by RKO. Milton Pickman will continue as Wald-Krasna vice-president and general manager.

Tannenbaum said negotiations which Wald-Krasna has been conducting with another studio "will be concluded at once."

Under the RKO deal, Wald-Krasna produced four pictures which the distributing company will continue to handle: "The Blue Veil," "Clash by Night," "Behave Yourself" and "The Lusty Men."

ing today by Manfred Toeppen, but due to an accounting error in the exhibits which were part of Toeppen's presentation, and which was just discovered over the week-end, his appearance was postponed until the Jan. 12 portion of the hearing.

Due to the fact that Toeppen's appearance was canceled, the engineering and cost phase of the hearing ended early today, after testimony by John W. Clark. Following the close of the hearing, a reliable industry informant gave reporters the figures on construction and operating costs of the New York City-Washington theatre television system, which Toeppen will present in January. Toeppen is the cost analyst for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

In the $60,000,000 figure there are three definite construction figures, the spokesman said, including $1,500,000 as the cost of constructing an intra-city relay system for Washington, which would service 93 theatres in the metropolitan area; and $650,000 for building the necessary program source links, both mobile and fixed, to pick up programs. The third definite figure, $3,300,000, covers the cost of constructing the New York-Washington inter-city relay system, which will supply the nine cities.

According to the industry source, the specific Washington figures, taking into account differing engineering and cost problems presented by each city, and including the $3,300,000 figure, can be extended to total the $60,000,000 for over-all capital costs. Eighty per cent of the total $60,000,000 figure will go into the costs of intra-city distribution for theatres within the nine cities.

Besides New York and Washington, the cities that would be covered by the projected system are Trenton, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Reading, Allentown, Wilmington and Baltimore.

Operating costs for the system as revealed by qualified industry experts, are based on a three-year amortization period for the capital costs. They stress the fact that a high rate of amortization was chosen because some of the equipment will probably wear out rapidly —and that the operating costs will therefore be comparatively high during the three-year amortization period.

The cost of operating the inter-city transmission will run at about $1,600,000 a year; the cost of the Washington intra-city system at $580,000 yearly; and the cost of the program source link operation at $250,000 a year.

The operating cost figures cover six hours of operation daily, but the spokesman said that the costs would not vary too much for three, nine or 12 operating hours.

Industry Attorneys Satisfied With Progress of Theatre TV Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — Industry attorneys expressed themselves as completely satisfied with the progress of the industry's theatre television case today, as the hearing before the Federal Communications Commission on the engineering and cost phases of theatre television recessed until Jan. 12.

They cited Commissioners, Commission staffers and attorneys for parties in the case, who told them that the presentation of the industry's case had been "impressive" and "bullet-proof." One non-industry attorney said the industry's case had been "the best presentation" in any allocations proceeding before the FCC.

Vincent Welch, attorney for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre television Committee, declared that although progress would be slow all along the way in the presentation of the theatre television case, mainly due to the great bulk of testimony, they thought that the first week of hearing had come off very well.

They also noted that the attitude of the commission and the FCC staff, sparked by chairman Paul Walker's opening day blast at exclusive theatre telecasts of fights, had "improved as the case went along."

Final witness today was John W. Clark, who told the Commission that the Klystron tube was high-powered enough to provide 900D UHF microwave transmission as well as to provide transmission over the broad band which the industry thinks is necessary for theatre television transmission. Answering some doubts expressed by Commissioners and the staff as to whether there was equipment available today to do the job the industry wants done, Clark said the Klystron tube was actually in effective use today. It was expensive, he pointed out, but he added that Varian Associates were continuing with research which would eventually cut the price.

Since Franco-American negotiations broke off several weeks ago no American pictures have been sent to France. The talks between the two governments ended abruptly when the French withdrew a previous offer to permit the bulk of some $6,000,000 in blocked earnings to be remitted forthwith at the capital account rate. Meanwhile, France, in what was interpreted here as a goodwill gesture, remitted at the official rate $1,200,000, a sum which had been tagged for remittance for quite some time.

vacancies caused by the resignation of Ralph E. Stolkin, A. L. Koolish and William Gorman from the board of the operating company, RKO Radio Pictures. Grant said that he expects to be able to announce the board's selections within 24 or 48 hours.

Grant said it would take some time before a new president is selected by the board, replacing Stolkin. The chief executive explained that, barring the appointment of an interim president, he thought it advisable for the company to first fill board vacancies. The new directors, he added, would then be able to choose a president after obtaining experience in operating the company.

The major problem of selecting a studio head and getting the studio back in full scale production will be attacked by Grant on his trip to the West Coast, which he plans in another week or so, it was revealed.

The second in a series of weekly press conferences highlighted the introduction of the "executive team" in the East, composed of 16 department heads. Grant said the eventual department executives, including those at the studio, will number 25.

Picker Absent

Absent from the luncheon was Arnold Picker, newly-appointed executive vice-president of the company, who is due here today from Europe. Grant said that Picker while abroad suggested a number of minor changes in RKO's foreign operations.

Grant said he did not know the intentions of the Stolkin syndicate, whether members of the group would sell their 26 per cent stock interest purchased from Hughes. Grant added that he acted as an attorney for the purchasing group, but was not familiar with the background of each member.

The board chairman held that the Stolkin group's voice in management would be no different from the influence of any group of minority stockholders. Grant denied that R. J. O'Donnell, head of Interstate circuit, had been approached for the presidency of RKO.

The following were introduced by Grant as part of the "executive team" which would be in charge of sales and distribution of RKO product. In order of their introduction, they are:

Jay Bonafield, executive vice-president and general manager of RKO Pathe; Garrett Van Wagner, comptroller; William Zimmerman, head of the legal department; Robert K. Hawkinson, foreign administration manager; Alfred Crown, foreign sales manager; Richard Condon, advertising-publicity director; William Clark, treasurer; Charles Boasberg, general sales manager; Walter Branson, assistant general sales manager, and Harry Pimstein, assistant to Grant.

"DEAR Mr. Anthony," is the way this gag has started for years, "my wife went out for a loaf of bread seven years ago and hasn't returned yet. My problem is, shall I still wait or shall I go out for the bread myself?" On his return from service in the Pacific, late in 1945, Sgt. Harry S. Miller and NBC staffer Leo Russotto composed a beautiful ballad, "Your Love," which they showed to Jan Pearce who promised to record the tune. For any number of reasons, busy schedule, out-of-town engagements, Metropolitan Opera commitments, etc., Jan has been unable to do the number. Yesterday, in front of the RKO Bldg., Miller asked ye scribbler, "Shall Leo and I still wait or shall we take our song to Tony Martin?" . . . . CBStarting Nov. 1, Jack Lescoulie will announce the "Jackie Gleason Show." . . . Atlas TV Corp. has completed five one-reel Football Hi-Lites narrated by Ford Bond. . . . Frank Bunetta, producer-director of DuMont's new dramatic series, "Dark of Night," acquires new laurels for his effective lights and shadows technique plus the imaginative location selections. . . . Peter Arnell sez, and we quote: "It won't do those flying saucers any good to come to earth because they won't find a space to park." Unquote. . . . The song, "Lights On—Votes Out," used extensively on WOR-Mutual's campaign to get people to vote this year, was composed by Nick and Charles Kenny. . . .

George Ansbro, ABC staff announcer, who was granted special permission to continue on "Young Widder Brown," at the time when the Red and Blue Networks were divorced, is NBCelebrating his 15th year on that program. . . . Rated, and deservedly so, as one of the best-liked performers in night clubs, Joe E. Lewis, Sunday night on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," might have chosen material better suited for the home viewers. . . . NBC's second telefilm of the series of conversations with elder wise men, will feature Robert Frost, four-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry. Produced by Richard deRochemont and filmed at Frost's home in Ripton, Vt., the subject will be seen Sunday, Nov. 23, at 5:30 P.M.

General Foods (Jello) has signed Bob Hope to star in two new programs involving lots of moolah. Both shows will be aired via NBC, one series to be heard across the board mornings from 9:30-9:45 A.M., starting Nov. 10, and the second program a half-hour deal set for every Wednesday evening with the launching taking place next January 7. . . . Important advances and new methods in black and white and color film processing and printing will be discussed by Eastman Kodak engineers at the next SMPTE meeting, Thursday, at the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York City. . . . In an endeavor to clear up misunderstandings in the exchange of actors here and abroad, Actor's Equity prexy Ralph Bellamy will film the next 13 chapters of his "Man Against Crime," CBS-TV series so he can spend a month in Europe for direct meetings with European artist reps. . . . "Stage a Number," produced every Wednesday at 9 P.M. via DuMont by Roger Gerry, is an hour of diversified entertainment. It also serves as a "showcase" not only for new talent but likewise tosses a spotlight directly on new directors, producers and purveyors of talent. . . . Beauteous Rebel Randall, the Hollywood Deejay, whose phone calls every CBSunday at 4:00 P.M. on the Regent cigarette-sponsored program, "America Calling," permits GI's stationed all over the globe to speak to their families, is a former model and film actress. (Rebel? her first name should be Patriot.)

Jack Kirkwood, whose MBScintillating wit is beamed daily from Hollywood, has been named "Mr. Entertainment." During his long and varied career, Jack appeared in dramatic stock, vaudeville, musical comedy, sang in light and comic opera, was an orchestra manager, plays the trumpet, cello and drums and write the scripts, gags, blackouts for his programs. . . . Dr. Gino Hamilton's "Jazz Arts Concerts," heard every Saturday at 10:30 P.M. via NBC, sounds to us like a newer and better version of the original "Basin St. Chamber Music Society" doings. In fact, the series stacks up like fine TV material. . . . Alice J. Heinecke's words about music, published in Sesac's Monthly Journal, are highly interesting and informative accounts of people and their adventures with the musical muse.

RKO Pictures Will Recover, Grant Avers

Says New Directors Will Be Named in 48 Hours

Confidence that RKO Radio will recover from its current ills was expressed here yesterday by Arnold Grant, chairman of the board, at a second press luncheon, held at the Warwick Hotel to introduce the "executive team" of the company.

It is his judgment, Grant said, that while RKO Radio Pictures is a "sick company," it should "not die from the ailment." On the contrary, Grant predicted that "the patient will live for many, many years and recover."

Grant, who has been functioning as chief executive of the company since Howard Hughes sold his controlling stock interest, said the board is meeting daily in an attempt to fill the

Confabs on Hughes Loan Underway

Talks to effect the $8,000,000 Howard Hughes' loan, negotiated by the Stolkin syndicate when it acquired Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures, are proceeding in New York, Arnold Grant, board chairman, revealed here yesterday.

He said those participating in the talks are Thomas Slack, Hughes' attorney, William Zimmerman, head of RKO Pictures' legal department, and William Clark, the company's treasurer.

Goldenson Has A Public Relations Plan

Hollywood, Oct. 27.—The Motion Picture Industry Council has set up machinery for cooperating in a plan conceived by Leonard Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres, through which exhibitors nationally will be provided with material for local public relations use. Lou Greenspan, former publicist and trade paper editor, has been appointed to coordinate material for exhibitors' use, including news stories, special features, speeches and radio-TV data.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—It would cost about $60,000,000 to build a system that would supply virtually all the indoor theatres in nine large Eastern cities with competing theatre television programs, industry sources said today.

The figure applies only to building costs. It covers the expense of setting up a New York City-Washington intercity relay system which would carry three simultaneously competing circuits in the nine cities. However, for the $60,000,000 figure, theatres would be able to choose from six competing circuits, each with a different program.

It was expected that this information would be part of testimony to be given to the Federal Communications Commission's theatre television hear-

Rackmil to Leave Today

Milton R. Rackmil, president of Universal Pictures and of Decca, returned here yesterday from the Coast, where he conferred with "U" studio executives. He will leave today for England mainly on Decca business, according to a spokesman for Decca.

Rackmil is due back in about two weeks.

UK Wage Dispute Threatens Shutdown of Production

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A meeting of producers with studio union heads today, called to attempt to prevent a shutdown of production because of inability to make progress in negotiations for wage increases, was adjourned until Wednesday by mutual consent.

The meeting had been requested by Tom O'Brien, head of the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employes, one of the unions involved in the negotiations, after an unauthorized work stoppage had been staged at J. Arthur Rank's Pinewood studio last week. Similar tactics were adopted at other motion picture studios subsequently.

O'Brien, George Elvin of the Association of Cine and Allied Technicians, and Frank Haxell of the Electrical Trades Union attended today's meeting with leading producers. The British Film Producers Association considered closing down all studios on the theory that it would be impossible to arrange shooting schedules in the event the impromptu work stoppages continue.

Among productions held up are Walt Disney's "Sword and the Rose" at Pinewood, and "The Red Beret," in which Alan Ladd is starring at Shepperton.

Negotiations between the producers and studio unions have been in progress for more than a year. Producers are demanding relaxation in what they call restrictive practices as the price of pay-rises.

Royal Performance Aids UK Trade Fund

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Total proceeds of the annual Royal Film Performance, held at M-G-M's Leicester Square Empire Theatre here tonight with "Because You're Mine" as the feature attraction, will amount to approximately £30,000 ($84,000), including Wednesday receipts from a replica performance at Leeds, Thursday at Liverpool, and revenue from program advertising. Proceeds are contributed to the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund.

Present at the performance were the Queen, her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and Princess Margaret. A 60-minute stage presentation followed the film, with Charles Chaplin, Sir Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, Yvonne de Carlo, Gene Kelly, Douglas Fairbanks, Kirk Douglas, Evelyn Keyes, Rock Hudson and others participating.

Rogers to Make More Films for Theatres

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Roy Rogers, performing with Dale Evans and a large company in the Hobart Arena at Troy, O., disclosed that he plans to make another series of films for theatre distribution. Rogers' manager, Arthur Rush, stated that an announcement would be made shortly from Rogers' Hollywood office on the distributor and production schedule.

Name Chairmen for Pioneers Dinner

Committee chairmen for the Motion Picture Pioneers "Jubilee Dinner" at the Hotel Astor here on Tuesday, Nov. 25, were announced yesterday by Jack Cohn, president of the Pioneers, and Ned E. Depinet, chairman of the dinner, which will honor N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures, as the Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952.

Harry J. Takiff, secretary-treasurer of the Pioneers, and Marvin Kirsch, vice-president, have been appointed administrators for the dinner. John J. O'Connor, vice-president of Universal, will be in charge of honored guests. Gilbert Josephson, exhibitor, will be in charge of physical arrangements for the dinner and reception. Charles Alicoate of Film Daily, and Ray Gallagher of Motion Picture Herald, will be in charge of admissions and new member inductions. David A. Bader will be in charge of new members, and George Jessel will serve as toastmaster.

Technicolor 9-Month Net Is $1,499,507

Consolidated net profit after taxes on Technicolor's income for the nine months ending Sept. 30, is estimated to be $1,499,507, equivalent to $1.60 per share.

This compares to a net of $1,561,525, equivalent to $1.68 per share for the corresponding nine months of 1951, with taxes for that period adjusted to the effective rate paid for the entire year.

The estimated consolidated net profit after taxes on income for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1952 is $474,087, which is equivalent to 50 cents per share. This compares to a net of $500,131 which is equivalent to 54 cents a share, for the corresponding quarter in 1951.

First TV Saturation Set by 'U' for 'Trees'

Universal will use a saturation television spot campaign for the first time in connection with the world premiere of "It Grows on Trees" at the Paramount Theatre in New Haven on Wednesday, Nov. 5, the company discloses.

The spots, which will be used during station breaks on the New Haven television station, will range from 20 seconds to one minute.

J. H. Moskowitz Returns

Joseph H. Moskowitz, vice-president and special studio representative of 20th Century-Fox, returned to his New York office yesterday after a five-month visit to the Coast.

TV of Coronation To Be Restricted

London, Oct. 27.—The Coronation Commission has ruled against television being permitted to cover the actual ceremony. Newsreels, however, including color films, are authorized to provide complete coverage.

The J. Arthur Rank Organization has completed arrangements for a full length picture in Technicolor and Associated British-Pathe will have a full-length picture.

Protests against the TV ceremonial ban have caused Prime Minister Churchill to call a special Cabinet meeting to help him draft a statement on the issue to be read to the House of Commons tomorrow.

Seadler Heads MPA Ad-Publicity Group

Silas F. Seadler, director of advertising of M-G-M, has been named chairman of the Advertising and Publicity Directors Committee of the Motion Picture Association of America. He succeeds Charles Simonelli, Eastern ad-publicity manager and national exploitation chief of Universal.

The committee chairmanship is a rotating post involving a minimum tenure of six months.

Simonelli, who served as chairman for nine months, won a unanimous vote of thanks from the committee for his "able guidance" of the group's activities since the first of the year.

"THE GREATEST THEATER AU
IS VERDICT AFTE

FOR THE FIRST TIME in memory a motion picture has been sneak previewed in 51 DIFFERENT CITIES. The picture? STANLEY KRAMER'S "THE HAPPY TIME." The reactions? BREATHTAKING! Who said so? They are listed on the previous page.

Our reasons for this HISTORY-MAKING PROCEDURE were simple: we wanted to prove unequivocally to exhibitors what we already knew about this picture; we wanted them to have the full appreciation of the picture's potentialities which could only come from a theater screening; we knew that its ROLLICKING, INFECTIOUS, DELIGHTFUL GAIETY would be enjoyed tenfold when seen with an audience; we knew that every person in each of the 51 audiences would become a press agent for "THE HAPPY TIME."

All of that happened.

ENCE REACTION EVER SEEN"

51 SNEAK PREVIEWS!

This, then, is our grateful acknowledgment to our exhibitor friends for their cooperation in arranging the previews — and for their expressions of tremendous enthusiasm afterwards.

this year and the beginning of 1953.

Lichtman as chairman will be aided by W. C. Gehring, executive assistant general sales manager; Edwin W. Aaron, Western sales manager, and Arthur Silverstone, Eastern and Canadian sales manager.

Charles Einfeld, ad-publicity vice-president, will outline advertising, publicity and exploitation plans and discuss the line-up of pictures being offered during the branch managers' testimonial which will end Dec. 27.

Also to be discussed are plans for the company's "Anniversary Week" which is to be celebrated over Thanksgiving.

Pictures for the remainder of 1952 which will be included in the discussions are Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "Bloodhounds of Broadway," "The Steel Trap," "The Thief of Venice," "Pony Soldier" and "My Pal Gus."

Division managers scheduled to attend the meeting are: Herman Wobber, Western; Harry Ballance, Southern; Martin Moskowitz, Empire State; M. A. Levy, Midwest; Glenn Norris, Atlantic; Tom McCleaster, Central and Peter Myers, Canadian. Also on hand will be Buck Stoner and Paul Wilson, assistant division managers in the Western and Southern territories, respectively.

Branch managers Jim Connolly, Boston; Ben Simon, New Haven, and Tom Gilliam, Chicago will also be in attendance since their exchanges are now supervised by the home office.

member, and David Tannenbaum, Wald-Krasna president.

A principal consideration of the termination was Jerry Wald's agreement to continue, on a non-exclusive basis, as production advisor in connection with RKO's planned production of "High Heels" and "Size 12," both of which Harriet Parsons will produce. Miss Parsons' contract with Wald-Krasna has been taken over by RKO. Milton Pickman will continue as Wald-Krasna vice-president and general manager.

Tannenbaum said negotiations which Wald-Krasna has been conducting with another studio "will be concluded at once."

Under the RKO deal, Wald-Krasna produced four pictures which the distributing company will continue to handle: "The Blue Veil," "Clash by Night," "Behave Yourself" and "The Lusty Men."

ing today by Manfred Toeppen, but due to an accounting error in the exhibits which were part of Toeppen's presentation, and which was just discovered over the week-end, his appearance was postponed until the Jan. 12 portion of the hearing.

Due to the fact that Toeppen's appearance was canceled, the engineering and cost phase of the hearing ended early today, after testimony by John W. Clark. Following the close of the hearing, a reliable industry informant gave reporters the figures on construction and operating costs of the New York City-Washington theatre television system, which Toeppen will present in January. Toeppen is the cost analyst for the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

In the $60,000,000 figure there are three definite construction figures, the spokesman said, including $1,500,000 as the cost of constructing an intra-city relay system for Washington, which would service 93 theatres in the metropolitan area; and $650,000 for building the necessary program source links, both mobile and fixed, to pick up programs. The third definite figure, $3,300,000, covers the cost of constructing the New York-Washington inter-city relay system, which will supply the nine cities.

According to the industry source, the specific Washington figures, taking into account differing engineering and cost problems presented by each city, and including the $3,300,000 figure, can be extended to total the $60,000,000 for over-all capital costs. Eighty per cent of the total $60,000,000 figure will go into the costs of intra-city distribution for theatres within the nine cities.

Besides New York and Washington, the cities that would be covered by the projected system are Trenton, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Reading, Allentown, Wilmington and Baltimore.

Operating costs for the system as revealed by qualified industry experts, are based on a three-year amortization period for the capital costs. They stress the fact that a high rate of amortization was chosen because some of the equipment will probably wear out rapidly —and that the operating costs will therefore be comparatively high during the three-year amortization period.

The cost of operating the inter-city transmission will run at about $1,600,000 a year; the cost of the Washington intra-city system at $580,000 yearly; and the cost of the program source link operation at $250,000 a year.

The operating cost figures cover six hours of operation daily, but the spokesman said that the costs would not vary too much for three, nine or 12 operating hours.

Industry Attorneys Satisfied With Progress of Theatre TV Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — Industry attorneys expressed themselves as completely satisfied with the progress of the industry's theatre television case today, as the hearing before the Federal Communications Commission on the engineering and cost phases of theatre television recessed until Jan. 12.

They cited Commissioners, Commission staffers and attorneys for parties in the case, who told them that the presentation of the industry's case had been "impressive" and "bullet-proof." One non-industry attorney said the industry's case had been "the best presentation" in any allocations proceeding before the FCC.

Vincent Welch, attorney for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre television Committee, declared that although progress would be slow all along the way in the presentation of the theatre television case, mainly due to the great bulk of testimony, they thought that the first week of hearing had come off very well.

They also noted that the attitude of the commission and the FCC staff, sparked by chairman Paul Walker's opening day blast at exclusive theatre telecasts of fights, had "improved as the case went along."

Final witness today was John W. Clark, who told the Commission that the Klystron tube was high-powered enough to provide 900D UHF microwave transmission as well as to provide transmission over the broad band which the industry thinks is necessary for theatre television transmission. Answering some doubts expressed by Commissioners and the staff as to whether there was equipment available today to do the job the industry wants done, Clark said the Klystron tube was actually in effective use today. It was expensive, he pointed out, but he added that Varian Associates were continuing with research which would eventually cut the price.

to Paris last weekend but called it off because he had developed a cold.

Since Franco-American negotiations broke off several weeks ago no American pictures have been sent to France. The talks between the two governments ended abruptly when the French withdrew a previous offer to permit the bulk of some $6,000,000 in blocked earnings to be remitted forthwith at the capital account rate. Meanwhile, France, in what was interpreted here as a goodwill gesture, remitted at the official rate $1,200,000, a sum which had been tagged for remittance for quite some time.

vacancies caused by the resignation of Ralph E. Stolkin, A. L. Koolish and William Gorman from the board of the operating company, RKO Radio Pictures. Grant said that he expects to be able to announce the board's selections within 24 or 48 hours.

Grant said it would take some time before a new president is selected by the board, replacing Stolkin. The chief executive explained that, barring the appointment of an interim president, he thought it advisable for the company to first fill board vacancies. The new directors, he added, would then be able to choose a president after obtaining experience in operating the company.

The major problem of selecting a studio head and getting the studio back in full scale production will be attacked by Grant on his trip to the West Coast, which he plans in another week or so, it was revealed.

The second in a series of weekly press conferences highlighted the introduction of the "executive team" in the East, composed of 16 department heads. Grant said the eventual department executives, including those at the studio, will number 25.

Picker Absent

Absent from the luncheon was Arnold Picker, newly-appointed executive vice-president of the company, who is due here today from Europe. Grant said that Picker while abroad suggested a number of minor changes in RKO's foreign operations.

Grant said he did not know the intentions of the Stolkin syndicate, whether members of the group would sell their 26 per cent stock interest purchased from Hughes. Grant added that he acted as an attorney for the purchasing group, but was not familiar with the background of each member.

The board chairman held that the Stolkin group's voice in management would be no different from the influence of any group of minority stockholders. Grant denied that R. J. O'Donnell, head of Interstate circuit, had been approached for the presidency of RKO.

The following were introduced by Grant as part of the "executive team" which would be in charge of sales and distribution of RKO product. In order of their introduction, they are:

Jay Bonafield, executive vice-president and general manager of RKO Pathe; Garrett Van Wagner, comptroller; William Zimmerman, head of the legal department; Robert K. Hawkinson, foreign administration manager; Alfred Crown, foreign sales manager; Richard Condon, advertising-publicity director; William Clark, treasurer; Charles Boasberg, general sales manager; Walter Branson, assistant general sales manager, and Harry Pimstein, assistant to Grant.

Davis Cites Rank Films' Advances Here

Says 'U' Board Changes Are Up to Directors

J. Arthur Rank British productions have made good progress in the American market in the past year and prospects for continued advances are bright, John Davis, Rank Organization managing director, declared here yesterday as he prepared to leave for London today by plane following business conferences in New York, Chicago and Toronto.

Davis could offer no information concerning possible changes in the make-up of the Universal-International board in consequence of Rank's having sold his stock in the company to Decca Records, whose president, Milton R. Rackmil, now is president of U-I also. "That would be entirely up to the Universal board," Davis said.

Rank organization representatives on the U-I board include J. Arthur Rank, G. I. Woodham-Smith and Robert S. Benjamin, president of the Rank Organization of the U. S. U-I

WILLIAM B. ZOELLNER, head of M-G-M's short subject and newsreel sales, will arrive in Washington today from Charlotte and will return to New York on Friday.

CHARLES P. SKOURAS, JOHN BERTERO and JOHN LAVERY, Wesco Theatres executives, left Hollywood for New York by plane yesterday for a two-week stay.

Roundtree Elected

Lightman was named chairman of the board.

Other officers elected include: Roy Cochran of North Little Rock, vice-president for Arkansas; R. B. Cox of Batesville, vice-president for Mississippi; Nathan Flexer of Waverly, vice-president for Tennessee; Jim Carbery of Little Rock, secretary-treasurer; national representatives to the Theatre Owners of America, Jack Bomar of Little Rock, Max Connett of Newton, Miss. and M. A. Lightman, Sr. of Memphis.

Elected to the board of directors, besides Lightman, were K. K. King, Bill Sockwell, Mrs. Jesse Howe, Louis Haven, Jr., Gordon Hutchins, Miss Nona White, Orris Collins, Bert Bays, E. W. Clinton, Charles Eudy, Ben Jackson, Earl Elkins, R. X. Williams, T. M. Jourdan, Norman B. Fair, Mrs. H. A. Fitch, W. E. Ruffin, Jr., Mrs. Louise Mask, Lipe Hensley, Jack Marshall and E. P. Sapinsley.

"Movie advertisements have three or four times the readership of any other ads of comparable size in newspaper," Leon Bamberger of RKO Radio, New York, told the convention. "We must all work to eradicate 'premium' rates which newspapers charge us for our advertising. There is no intelligent reason why we should be required to spend one cent more than any other business," he said.

Exhibitor leaders here for the convention condemned in interviews the 20 per cent Federal admission tax. Col. H. A. Cole, Dallas; Pat McGee, Denver, and Duke Clark, Dallas, all said that the tax was "discriminatory" and was ruining the business.

Alfred Starr, Nashville, TOA president, called the fears that television will put theatres out of business "nonsense."

"Television's principal function," he said, "is to sell soap."

'Limelight' Strong As N. Y. 1st-Runs Feature Holdovers

"Limelight" opened strong at the Astor and the two-a-day 60th Street Trans-Lux in a seven-day period marked by hold-overs in most first-run situations in New York.

An excellent $37,000 was seen for the initial week of the Charles Chaplin film at the Astor, which is maintaining its continuous run policy, while at the 60th Street Trans-Lux, a near capacity $14,000 is expected for the two-a-day performance. Tickets for weekend nights at the Trans-Lux house were reported sold out through November.

A good $67,000 was forecast for the opening week of "Springfield Rifle" at the Paramount, which also features Duke Ellington and his orchestra on stage.

"The Thief" will be held over another week at the Roxy, which sees a fine $68,000 for the second inning. "Snows of Kilimanjaro" is still holding up strong at the Rivoli, where $36,000 is expected for the film's sixth week.

The fifth and final week of "Because You're Mine" at Radio City Music Hall is expected to do a nice $115,000. "The Happy Time" will have its premiere there tomorrow.

"Everything I Have Is Yours" moves into Loew's State today, replacing "The Merry Widow," which is expected to do a very good $20,000 for its fifth and final week.

"Prisoner of Zenda" bows in at the Capitol on Tuesday. The third and final week of "Just for You," the Capitol current attraction, is forecast to hit a satisfactory $21,000. "The Lusty Men" at the Criterion is due to rack up a fairly good $22,000 for its opening stanza.

The fourth and final week of "Lure of the Wilderness" at the Globe is predicted to do a moderate $8,500. It will be replaced on Friday by "Cairo Road." Indications are that "World in His Arms" at the Mayfair will do a satisfactory $15,500 for its third week. At the Victoria, a moderately fair $14,000 is seen for the second week of "Fourposter."

Among off-Broadway houses, a nice $3,400 is forecast for the seventh and final week of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue. "The Promoter" will move into the Fine Arts tomorrow, replacing "Stranger in Between," which is expected to do a fair $2,900 in its final six days of its 11th week.

Reno's Crest Says 'Snows' Breaks 'David's' Record

RENO, Oct. 28.—The Crest Theatre here reports its all-time opening day record was smashed by Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." The film grossed $1,800 during its first day's showing, eclipsing "David and Bathsheba's" $1,550 gross.

Report Record Grosses for 'Snows' in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," which had a premiere here, is drawing record grosses at the Chinese and Los Angeles theatres, it was stated. Saturday figures at the Chinese were said to show a total of $3,650, with the Los Angeles reporting $4,500, following $2,100 for Thursday's premiere performance.

Sen. Lodge Favors 20% Tax Repeal

Boston, Oct. 28.—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. (R. Mass.) stated that he will support legislation for the repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax to motion picture theatres. He declared that the tax is discriminatory and is the primary cause for the closing of many theatres. Lodge is up for reelection.

Canadian Meet

as a challenge to the film industry to do a better job. He also felt that TV would lead to new personalities in pictures.

Taking up this cue, the meeting discussed a proposal for a "National Moving Picture Week" in Canada, which would feature the personal appearance of screen stars from both Hollywood and England. The Council also sought friendly support from the daily press. In this connection a press relations committee was appointed, including James Nairn, publicity director, Famous Players, Toronto; H. C. D. Main, Sutton, Ontario; Hye Bossin, Toronto, and Ray Lewis. Toronto. More than 30 delegates from all industry branches were welcomed to Ottawa by Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who noted that women's organizations had been receiving more cooperation from distributors and exhibitors.

The day's program concluded with a banquet following which a planning committee dealt with important measures for consideration tomorrow.

Delegates to the annual meeting included Maritime Motion Exhibitors Association's F. G. Spencer and A. J. Mason; Alberta Theatres Association's Ken M. Leach and Roy Chown; Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries' William Lester and Charles Bourassa; Manitoba Motion Picture Exhibitors' David Rothstein and Robert Hurwitz; Saskatchewan Motion Picture Exhibitors' Wilbur Winterton and George R. Miller; Motion Picture Association of Ontario's Morris Stein and Main, and British Columbia Exhibitors Association's Len B. Johnson.

Guests included Ben Norrish, president of Associated Screen News, Montreal; N. A. Taylor, president of 20th Century Theatres, Toronto; Leonard Brockington, president, Odeon Theatres, and J. J. Chisholm, Toronto.

Review

"Androcles and the Lion"

(RKO Radio Pictures)

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW's drama about early Christianity has been faithfully translated to the screen by Gabriel Pascal. There is much in the film to commend it as good entertainment, an excellent cast, spectacular scenes, beautiful women and Shavian wit.

Sophisticated audiences should revel in the many twists and turns in the clash of personalities and ideas presented in the picture, which despite its spectacular overtones, remains a pictorial and dramatic articulation of ideas. But less sophisticated audiences may feel the picture's interest ebbing somewhat by overlong debate. A rich vein of humor is presented, however, for all levels—for those who enjoy a belly laugh and for those who prefer intellectual shafts of wit for humor.

In Shaw's work, as in Shakespeare's, every Roman is an Englishman and it will take a few moments before an audience accepts the events portrayed as credible. Those that jump the hurdle sooner will enjoy the picture more fully.

Such salable names as Jean Simmons, Victor Mature and Maurice Evans play feature roles. Alan Young, Robert Newton, Elsa Lanchester and Reginald Gardiner are among those who fill out the competent cast.

The story line concerns a group of persecuted Christians who are about to be thrown to the lions, to feed the passions of the Roman mob, to die so that Caesar and his decadent courtesans can be entertained. In the group is Alan Young, who portrays Androcles, the meek, warm-hearted man whose Christianity extends to animals. There is beautiful Jean Simmons who falls in love with the heathen Roman captain, Victor Mature. Also in the band is Robert Newton as Ferrovius, a giant whose Christian soul struggles to keep his strength in check.

Adversaries who are won over, if not out of conviction then out of expediency, include Maurice Evans as Caesar, who ordains Christianity for all the Empire, overwhelmed by the strength of Newton and fear of the lion, and overwhelmed by a religion which makes men stronger than his soldiers.

Lewis J. Rachmil was associate producer to Pascal, while Chester Erskine directed, from a screen adaptation by Erskine and Ken Englund. Harry Horner designed the production. Others in the cast include Reginald Gardiner, Gene Lockhart, Alan Mowbray, Noel William, John Hoyt, Jim Backus and Lowell Gilmore.

Running time 98 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Davis Cites Rank Films' Advances Here

Says 'U' Board Changes Are Up to Directors

J. Arthur Rank British productions have made good progress in the American market in the past year and prospects for continued advances are bright, John Davis, Rank Organization managing director, declared here yesterday as he prepared to leave for London today by plane following business conferences in New York, Chicago and Toronto.

Davis could offer no information concerning possible changes in the make-up of the Universal-International board in consequence of Rank's having sold his stock in the company to Decca Records, whose president, Milton R. Rackmil, now is president of U-I also. "That would be entirely up to the Universal board," Davis said.

Rank organization representatives on the U-I board include J. Arthur Rank, G. I. Woodham-Smith and Robert S. Benjamin, president of the Rank Organization of the U. S. U-I

Krim will leave tomorrow for New York following two weeks of conferences with producers.

Name Jerry Wald a 'V-P' of Columbia

Producer Jerry Wald yesterday was named vice-president and executive producer of Columbia Pictures, Harry Cohn, president, announced in a statement released by the home office.

Jerry Wald

Wald-Krasna Productions two days ago terminated by mutual agreement its production-distribution pact with RKO Radio. The cancelled contract had two months to run. Wald, under the cancellation agreement, will serve RKO Radio in an advisory capacity on certain productions for an indefinite period.

Wald will fill at once his new position with Columbia.

Although only 40 years old, Wald

Little Fear of TV At Canadian Meet

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 28.—Little fear over competition of television was evident at the annual convention of the Motion Picture Industry Council of Canada, which opened its two-day session at Chateau Laurier Hotel today with doors closed to the press.

J. J. Fitzgibbons, chairman of the Council, expressed the view that television was not a direct competitor to the film industry in Canada but would serve to encourage the exhibitors to greater effort in the matter of public service.

Television has its place in the community, he said, but it was recognized

RKO Radio Sets Release Dates of Nine

'Androcles' Kicks Off 5—Month Product Line-up

Release dates for nine productions from RKO Radio Pictures, described by the company as top attractions, were disclosed here yesterday by Charles Boasberg, general sales manager.

Boasberg cited "Androcles and the Lion," "Blackbeard the Pirate," "Hans Christian Andersen," "Never Wave at a Wac," "The Bystander," "Beautiful but Dangerous," "Peter Pan," "Montana Belle," and "Face to Face." These are the nine pictures set for release or pre-release engagements from now through February.

"Androcles and the Lion," Gabriel Pascal's interpretation of the George Bernard Shaw comedy, went into national release yesterday. The stars in the picture include Jean Simmons, Victor Mature, Alan Young, Robert Newton, and Maurice Evans.

Hope Rising That Mexican Quota Dies

American distribution officials here are hopeful that Mexico may yet forego adoption of a screening quota which would cut by half the number of U.S. pictures sent to that country each year.

It was pointed out here yesterday that President Aleman has not signed the quota bill which recently passed both houses of the Mexican Congress.

'Super-organization' Is Needed: Starr

Memphis, Oct. 28.—"It takes a super-organization to protect us from crackpots and people who attack us to serve selfish interests," Theatre Owners of America president Alfred Starr of Nashville, today told delegates to the convention of the Theatre Owners of Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee. "We are the target of every taxing agency in the nation," he added.

Personal Mention

IRVING MAAS, Motion Picture Export Association representative who has been in Tokyo during the past several weeks, yesterday was due to fly from there to Indonesia and Pakistan.

WILLIAM B. ZOELLNER, head of M-G-M's short subject and newsreel sales, will arrive in Washington today from Charlotte and will return to New York on Friday.

CHARLES P. SKOURAS, JOHN BERTERO and JOHN LAVERY, Wesco Theatres executives, left Hollywood for New York by plane yesterday for a two-week stay.

Roundtree Elected

Lightman was named chairman of the board.

Other officers elected include: Roy Cochran of North Little Rock, vice-president for Arkansas; R. B. Cox of Batesville, vice-president for Mississippi; Nathan Flexer of Waverly, vice-president for Tennessee; Jim Carbery of Little Rock, secretary-treasurer; national representatives to the Theatre Owners of America, Jack Bomar of Little Rock, Max Connett of Newton, Miss. and M. A. Lightman, Sr. of Memphis.

Elected to the board of directors, besides Lightman, were K. K. King, Bill Sockwell, Mrs. Jesse Howe, Louis Haven, Jr., Gordon Hutchins, Miss Nona White, Orris Collins, Bert Bays, E. W. Clinton, Charles Eudy, Ben Jackson, Earl Elkins, R. X. Williams, T. M. Jourdan, Norman B. Fair, Mrs. H. A. Fitch, W. E. Ruffin, Jr., Mrs. Louise Mask, Lipe Hensley, Jack Marshall and E. P. Sapinsley.

"Movie advertisements have three or four times the readership of any other ads of comparable size in newspaper," Leon Bamberger of RKO Radio, New York, told the convention. "We must all work to eradicate 'premium' rates which newspapers charge us for our advertising. There is no intelligent reason why we should be required to spend one cent more than any other business," he said.

Exhibitor leaders here for the convention condemned in interviews the 20 per cent Federal admission tax. Col. H. A. Cole, Dallas; Pat McGee, Denver, and Duke Clark, Dallas, all said that the tax was "discriminatory" and was ruining the business.

Alfred Starr, Nashville, TOA president, called the fears that television will put theatres out of business "nonsense."

"Television's principal function," he said, "is to sell soap."

'Limelight' Strong As N. Y. 1st-Runs Feature Holdovers

"Limelight" opened strong at the Astor and the two-a-day 60th Street Trans-Lux in a seven-day period marked by hold-overs in most first-run situations in New York.

An excellent $37,000 was seen for the initial week of the Charles Chaplin film at the Astor, which is maintaining its continuous run policy, while at the 60th Street Trans-Lux, a near capacity $14,000 is expected for the two-a-day performance. Tickets for weekend nights at the Trans-Lux house were reported sold out through November.

A good $67,000 was forecast for the opening week of "Springfield Rifle" at the Paramount, which also features Duke Ellington and his orchestra on stage.

"The Thief" will be held over another week at the Roxy, which sees a fine $68,000 for the second inning. "Snows of Kilimanjaro" is still holding up strong at the Rivoli, where $36,000 is expected for the film's sixth week.

The fifth and final week of "Because You're Mine" at Radio City Music Hall is expected to do a nice $115,000. "The Happy Time" will have its premiere there tomorrow.

"Everything I Have Is Yours" moves into Loew's State today, replacing "The Merry Widow," which is expected to do a very good $20,000 for its fifth and final week.

"Prisoner of Zenda" bows in at the Capitol on Tuesday. The third and final week of "Just for You," the Capitol current attraction, is forecast to hit a satisfactory $21,000. "The Lusty Men" at the Criterion is due to rack up a fairly good $22,000 for its opening stanza.

The fourth and final week of "Lure of the Wilderness" at the Globe is predicted to do a moderate $8,500. It will be replaced on Friday by "Cairo Road." Indications are that "World in His Arms" at the Mayfair will do a satisfactory $15,500 for its third week. At the Victoria, a moderately fair $14,000 is seen for the second week of "Fourposter."

Among off-Broadway houses, a nice $3,400 is forecast for the seventh and final week of "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue. "The Promoter" will move into the Fine Arts tomorrow, replacing "Stranger in Between," which is expected to do a fair $2,900 in its final six days of its 11th week.

Reno's Crest Says 'Snows' Breaks 'David's' Record

RENO, Oct. 28.—The Crest Theatre here reports its all-time opening day record was smashed by Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." The film grossed $1,800 during its first day's showing, eclipsing "David and Bathsheba's" $1,550 gross.

Report Record Grosses for 'Snows' in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," which had a premiere here, is drawing record grosses at the Chinese and Los Angeles theatres, it was stated. Saturday figures at the Chinese were said to show a total of $3,650, with the Los Angeles reporting $4,500, following $2,100 for Thursday's premiere performance.

Sen. Lodge Favors 20% Tax Repeal

Boston, Oct. 28.—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. (R. Mass.) stated that he will support legislation for the repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax to motion picture theatres. He declared that the tax is discriminatory and is the primary cause for the closing of many theatres. Lodge is up for reelection.

Canadian Meet

as a challenge to the film industry to do a better job. He also felt that TV would lead to new personalities in pictures.

Taking up this cue, the meeting discussed a proposal for a "National Moving Picture Week" in Canada, which would feature the personal appearance of screen stars from both Hollywood and England. The Council also sought friendly support from the daily press. In this connection a press relations committee was appointed, including James Nairn, publicity director, Famous Players, Toronto; H. C. D. Main, Sutton, Ontario; Hye Bossin, Toronto, and Ray Lewis. Toronto. More than 30 delegates from all industry branches were welcomed to Ottawa by Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who noted that women's organizations had been receiving more cooperation from distributors and exhibitors.

The day's program concluded with a banquet following which a planning committee dealt with important measures for consideration tomorrow.

Delegates to the annual meeting included Maritime Motion Exhibitors Association's F. G. Spencer and A. J. Mason; Alberta Theatres Association's Ken M. Leach and Roy Chown; Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries' William Lester and Charles Bourassa; Manitoba Motion Picture Exhibitors' David Rothstein and Robert Hurwitz; Saskatchewan Motion Picture Exhibitors' Wilbur Winterton and George R. Miller; Motion Picture Association of Ontario's Morris Stein and Main, and British Columbia Exhibitors Association's Len B. Johnson.

Guests included Ben Norrish, president of Associated Screen News, Montreal; N. A. Taylor, president of 20th Century Theatres, Toronto; Leonard Brockington, president, Odeon Theatres, and J. J. Chisholm, Toronto.

Review

"Androcles and the Lion"

(RKO Radio Pictures)

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW's drama about early Christianity has been faithfully translated to the screen by Gabriel Pascal. There is much in the film to commend it as good entertainment, an excellent cast, spectacular scenes, beautiful women and Shavian wit.

Sophisticated audiences should revel in the many twists and turns in the clash of personalities and ideas presented in the picture, which despite its spectacular overtones, remains a pictorial and dramatic articulation of ideas. But less sophisticated audiences may feel the picture's interest ebbing somewhat by overlong debate. A rich vein of humor is presented, however, for all levels—for those who enjoy a belly laugh and for those who prefer intellectual shafts of wit for humor.

In Shaw's work, as in Shakespeare's, every Roman is an Englishman and it will take a few moments before an audience accepts the events portrayed as credible. Those that jump the hurdle sooner will enjoy the picture more fully.

Such salable names as Jean Simmons, Victor Mature and Maurice Evans play feature roles. Alan Young, Robert Newton, Elsa Lanchester and Reginald Gardiner are among those who fill out the competent cast.

The story line concerns a group of persecuted Christians who are about to be thrown to the lions, to feed the passions of the Roman mob, to die, so that Caesar and his decadent courtesans can be entertained. In the group is Alan Young, who portrays Androcles, the meek, warm-hearted man whose Christianity extends to animals. There is beautiful Jean Simmons who falls in love with the heathen Roman captain, Victor Mature. Also in the band is Robert Newton as Ferrovius, a giant whose Christian soul struggles to keep his strength in check.

Adversaries who are won over, if not out of conviction then out of expediency, include Maurice Evans as Caesar, who ordains Christianity for all the Empire, overwhelmed by the strength of Newton and fear of the lion, and overwhelmed by a religion which makes men stronger than his soldiers.

Lewis J. Rachmil was associate producer to Pascal, while Chester Erskine directed, from a screen adaptation by Erskine and Ken Englund. Harry Horner designed the production. Others in the cast include Reginald Gardiner, Gene Lockhart, Alan Mowbray, Noel William, John Hoyt, Jim Backus and Lowell Gilmore.

Running time 98 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Exhibitor Meetings With Congressmen Said to Be Best Bet in Tax Fight

The only one safe rule to follow in seeking commitments from Congressmen to vote for repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax is for several exhibitors, properly armed with facts and figures, to sit down with the Congressman from their district and present their case. This was emphasized here yesterday by Col. H. A. Cole and Pat McGee, co-chairmen of the National Tax Repeal Committee, in a statement released through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

The co-chairmen stated that experience in the campaign has shown such procedure to be invariably productive of results. They said it also prevents future misunderstanding, either by the Congressman or the exhibitors. They urge all Congressional district campaign committees to follow this procedure in the future.

Production Methods Scored As Antiquated by Schary

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—"The greatest need of the industry is for new methods of film production," according to Dore Schary, executive vice-president in charge of production at M-G-M.

"Hollywood," Schary told a luncheon group of Chrysler Corp. executives, "is using the same methods it used 20 years ago," and much saving in time and money and a resultant improvement in picture quality could be had if new engineering technics were applied to the making of pictures.

The guest of L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler, and K. T. Keller, chairman of the board, Schary said also "that it wouldn't make economic sense for Hollywood to sell its large backlog of films to television."

"We would be removing ourselves from our greatest source of revenue, theatre exhibition to a mass audience," he declared.

It was Schary's belief, based on single-bill experiments, that "the double feature is here to stay." The mass audience wants it and feels it would not be getting it's money's worth" from a single bill program. His studio, he said, does not, however, prefer to exhibit its product that way.

Schary said motion picture reve-

Says Distributors Should Heed Cole's Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Abram F. Myers, Allied States Association general counsel, today warned distributors not to "shrug off" the proposal of Col. H. A. Cole that Allied leaders withdraw from all-industry efforts in order to devote their time to Allied exhibitors' problems in obtaining films.

In a bulletin to Allied members, Myers advised "our friends in New York" not to underestimate the feeling among exhibitors on the issue of increased prices for pictures. In addition, Myers said, "Don't shrug off Col. Cole's sincere warning and don't attempt to deride him or others who are trying to impress you with the gravity of the situation."

Myers told Allied members that Cole's suggestion was on the agenda

$197,600 Salary for Columbia Pictures' Harry Cohn in '51-52

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — Harry Cohn earned $197,600 as president of Columbia Pictures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, the Securities and Exchange Commission was informed today.

The company's annual report cited the following salaries of executives; Jack Cohn, executive vice-president, $145,000; A. Schneider, vice-president and treasurer, $130,000; N. B. Spingold, vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity, $94,600; A. Montague, vice-president in charge of domestic sales, $130,000.

The figures, it was explained, include expense allowances which are not required to be accounted for, of $15,600 for Harry Cohn, $15,600 for Jack Cohn and $8,600 for Spingold. Directors and officers as a group during the year earned $1,148,000, the report stated.

A comparison of salaries between the fiscal years 1951 and 1952 discloses that of the five executives listed the remuneration of only Harry Cohn and Spingold differed in the two years, with Spingold taking the heavier cut. In 1951, Cohn's salary was listed at $201,400 compared to $197,600 in 1952, while Spingold in 1951 earned $108,000 compared to $94,600 in 1952.

Name Tulipan 20th Newspaper Contact

Ira Tulipan, trade press contact at 20th Century-Fox's home office, has been promoted to newspaper publicity contact, it was announced here yesterday by Edward E. Sullivan, publicity manager. Tulipan succeeds Meyer Hutner, who was recently named associate publicity manager.

A member of the publicity and advertising staffs of the company since 1942, Tulipan was previously with Warner Brothers, following entry into the industry through exhibition. He initially managed the Majestic Theatre in Boston when it was a showcase for foreign films.

Joining Warner Brothers, he served on the trade paper and short subjects publicity staffs until he left to become promotion manager of Dome Chemicals Co. Returning to the industry in 1942, he joined 20th Century-Fox's press book staff where he remained until 1943 when he entered the Army. Returning to 20th Century-Fox in a writing capacity, he subsequently became press book editor before assuming his post as trade press contact.

In 1950 he was responsible for intra-industry publicity arising from the national showmanship campaign sponsored by 20th Century-Fox launched in Chicago under the slogan of "Movies Are Better Than Ever." He has at various times done graduate work in films at Columbia University, New York University and the New School for Social Research.

Liberalized Rental Pact Seen in Italy

Conferences in Rome between Italian production and exhibition leaders on that country's rental ceiling law appear to have taken a turn favorable to the American position that the ceiling should be raised, it was indicated yesterday in film export circles here.

The talks are centering around Article X of the Italian film law. They are preliminary discussions which in due course will give way to Italo-American meetings on the subject.

The direction of the preliminary talks, it was reported here, seems to be toward favoring the substitution of a voluntary production-exhibition agreement for the present ceiling law.

The Motion Picture Association of America, which will be represented in the final talks on the subject of Italian rental ceilings, always has taken a strong position against the imposition of such ceilings by any country.

Italo-American Co-Production Envisioned by Italian Film Men

Negotiation of co-production agreements between the U.S. and Italian motion picture industries is definitely possible, it was revealed by Nicola De Pirro, director of the Italian Government's Entertainment Industry, on the eve of the Italian Film Delegation's department for Rome yesterday on the Queen Elizabeth.

The party included Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries of Italy; Italo Gemini, president of the Italian General Association of Show Business; Guiseppe La Guardia, prominant Italian banker; and Renzo Rufini, secretary-general of Italian Films Export.

De Pirro and Monaco agreed "co-Production agreements would be of mutual economic usefulness" and would also "be helpful to the further development of cultural relations between the two countries."

2 Suits Ask $2,730,000

Two operating companies of the Elmwood Theatre, Queens, yesterday filed a triple-damage anti-trust suit for damages totaling $2,730,000 in Federal District Court here against eight majors and some circuits.

Sogmore Realty Inc., current operator of the Elmwood, sued for $1,080,000, while Copark Inc., which operated the theatre from 1946 to 1949, sued for $1,650,000.

Besides the majors, defendants in the suit also include the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Randforce Amusement Corp., Skouras Theatres Corp. and Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc. The action charges discriminatory trade practices in violation of the U. S. anti-trust laws.

William Gold represents the plaintiffs.

S. Arthur Glixon Honored Dec. 7

S. Arthur Glixon, motion picture industry attorney and a B'nai B'rith leader, will be honored for "his outstanding services to community welfare and human rights," at a testimonial breakfast on Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Hotel Delmonico here.

Announcement of the event, which will be held in conjunction with the Joint Defense Appeal campaign of Cardozo Lodge of B'nai B'rith, was made by Karl Tausig, who is serving as chairman of the Lodge's JDA activities.

Glixon has produced several motion pictures for B'nai B'rith, including "There Is So Much to Do," "When Freedom Calls," "This Is B'nai B'rith," "Door to Hope" and "Dealing in Futures."

Minneapolis Loge Reelects Murphy

MINNNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—Reel-Fellows—social organization which also is the local loge of the Colosseum—has reelected Joe Murphy president. Harold Lundquist was named vice-president and George Fosdick, secretary-treasurer. # Short Subjects

"The Young Immortal"

(Art Films-20th Century-Fox)

Four hundred years ago there lived in Rome a young painter named Raphael whose masterpieces include the "Sistine Madonna" and murals such as "The Escape of Saint Peter" and "Fire in the Borgo," both painted in the Vatican. In this short subject, producers Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont have used a modern-day youth forum on great names of the past as the starting point for a thrilling examination of Raphael's great works. The famous subjects executed by the artist rise upon the screen in vivid color by Technicolor to provide art-oriented audiences, and even those whose interest in great paintings is only casual, with a wealth of eye-stimulating enjoyment. An inspiring music score, written by Jacques Belasco, is included. Running time, 10 minutes.

"Light in the Window"

(Art Films-20th Century-Fox)

The art of Jan Vermeer, famous Dutch painter, is presented in radiant color by Technicolor in this 10-minute production of Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont. No series of films on art, such as these two have produced, would be complete without according treatment to the works of this Dutchman who put on canvas with genuine warmth the plainer aspects of life in his native land. "Light in the Window" stands as a superior short subject that will lend just the right amount of cultural tone to any theatre's program, and certainly will command the plaudits of audiences who look for a dash of the educational when they go to the theatre.

The famous paintings of the artist are introduced in conjunction with a "story" about a man of Dutch origin and his son who spend an afternoon in a museum. Also brought to life on the screen is the city of Delft in Holland, where Vermeer was born and where he produced his masterpieces. The soundtrack carries a fine music score by Jacques Belasco. Running time, 10 minutes.

'Hollywood in Dallas' Selections Are Made

DALLAS, Oct. 29.—Robert J. O'Donnell, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations, has completed the selection of eight pictures from which scenes will be prepared by Virgil Miers for the "Hollywood in Dallas" ice extravaganza, for a pre-selling campaign of individual pictures on which the Adolphus Hotel here will spend approximately $50,000. Scheduled to open at the hotel about Dec. 1, the show will be produced by Dorothy Franey and feature the theme of "Movietime" which was successfully staged by Texas COMPO last year.

O'Donnell selected scenes from the following: "Salome," "Million Dollar Mermaid," "Road to Bali," "Hans Christian Andersen, "Call Me Madam," "Moulin Rouge," "Mississippi Gambler" and "April in Paris."

On another Texas COMPO front, Kyle Rorex, executive director, disclosed that 3,123 "Get Out the Vote" trailer packages made by the organization were ordered by exhibitors from every state in the country.

fifth TOA unit to signify approval of the arbitration plan.

M. A. Lightman, Jr., chairman of the unit's board, said the action amounted to a vote of confidence in TOA and left the two matters to the discretion of TOA. Tennessee's exhibitors had taken this action Monday and Arkansas' exhibitors Tuesday.

Second, Tri-States set in motion a plan to take its fight against the 20 per cent Federal admission tax direct to Congress.

Congressman Clifford Davis of Memphis, in a speech to the convention, said the tax was discriminatory and he had always been against it and would continue to fight it.

Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, whose House committee passes on all tax bills, said he would arrange for a committee from Tri-States to have a hearing before his committee, if they wanted to come to Washington and present their case. They agreed they would do this.

Congressman Mills told how his committee once had the 20 per cent tax cut to 10 per cent in a bill that passed the House only to have the 20 per cent tax restored in the Senate.

Mills said he was convinced that the tax was too high and kept down attendance at theatres. He told how attendance had fallen off in his district in Arkansas where there was no television. He said he had been convinced that admission prices could not be cut and theatres kept open so the tax had to be reduced to keep many theatres in operation.

Lightman, Jr., of Memphis, and Kermit Stengel of Nashville, were named as a committee to get Tennessee Congressmen and exhibitors together to "open the theatres' books and show the tax must be repealed or reduced."

M. B. Smith, theatre advertising expert, and Jack Braunagel, circuit executive, spoke at today's closing sessions suggesting methods of improving theatre advertising and drive-in operations.

The new Goldwyn vice-president started his sales career with Producers Distributors Corp. in 1925. He then became associated successively with Warner Brothers and United Artists, joining RKO Radio in 1939. In quick succession he was appointed RKO Eastern sales manager, general sales manager and in 1946, vice-president and board member.

Award to Fitzgibbons

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — J. J. tion vice-president, was awarded a plaque for his chairmanship of the 1951 campaign when collections totalled $104,100. This amount exceeded the 1952 total which was $81,198. The presentation was made by Ned E. Depinet who urged that the brotherhood spirit be gotten "into our hearts" and recalled his onetime NCCJ chairmanship and the outstanding collection of a small local suburban theatre which was greater than some large theatres.

In accepting the award Reagan spoke of the help he received from "the boys in the field" and such executives as Schwartz and Henderson Richey.

Medal to Salmon

Montague Salmon, Rivoli Theatre manager, received a Silver Brotherhood Medal for his efforts which for the past seven years have resulted in average annual collections of $1,000. In explaining his success Salmon cited the encouragement given him by George Skouras and urged circuit representatives to give similar encouragement to their theatre managers.

J. Robert Rubin of Loew's, NCCJ general counsel, presided over the meeting, at which it was decided to have a dinner celebration rather than a luncheon. Suggestions were offered to make the dinner an unusual event with possible participation by other industries and famed personalites, such as the presidential candidates.

Youngstein Reports

Max Youngstein, United Artists vice-president and NCCJ public relations chairman, read a report on the 1952 campaign in the absence of chairman George Skouras. The report revealed the collections had not come up to expectations or to the preceding year's total but reviewed the difficulties of the campaign. These included the unavoidable absence of George Skouras at the campaign's beginning, the illness of Maurice Bergman which kept him out for almost the entire campaign, and the short-notice fill-in job "well performed" by Hank Linnet.

According to the report the collections decline was also due to the "failure to organize the exhibition field" for with the exception of several circuits most quotas were not met. He noted that only 400 out of 16,000 theatres had contributed and emphasized that only $10 or $15 per theatre in the U. S. is needed to surpass the collection record. However, the motion picture industry publicity job for the NCCJ was termed the greatest of any field, as it has been for the last five years.

Lauds Industry

Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, NCCJ president, lauded the industry's past work, including trade press coverage, towards achieving brotherhood and enumerated some of the organization's achievements with the monies collected. He observed that most of the work is preventive and explained that cultural interchange had been increased with such groups as the Japanese-American Cultural Society. Towards that end he praised the current tour of Spyros Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president, over Europe and the Far East during which Skouras is working for brotherhood by meeting and talking with many peoples.

New Chapters Set

Several new chapters have been set up, including one in Manila. Followers of Buddhism, Hinduism and Shintoism have been welcomed to participate in working with Catholics, Jews, and Protestants towards brotherhood. Dr. Clinchy revealed progress had been made towards better human relations by interchange of teachers of different faiths and deleting bigotries from certain religious textbooks. Efforts are now being made by the NCCJ to work with the various unions and having them initiate Brotherhood movements.

On the dais at the luncheon were: Rubin, Depinet, Reagan, Youngstein, Dr. Clinchy, William F. Rodgers and Ed Churchill. Others present included: Russell Downing, William German, Richard Walsh, Austin Keough, Herman Robbins, Taylor Mills, Edmund Reek, Mike Clofine, Walton Ament, Tom Mead, A. J. Richard, William Gehring, William White, Sam Rinzler, Ed Lachman, Si Seadler, Harry Goldberg, Jerry Pickman, Arthur Israel, Monroe Goodman, Sid Blumenstock, Emanuel Frisch, Fred Schwartz, Gil Golden, Walter Reade, Jr., and trade press representatives.

Davis Appointed

Martin Davis of the Goldwyn office has been appointed coordinator for the premiere.

Tickets for the premiere, which will take place on the evening of Nov. 24 at the Criterion Theatre, will be scaled at $5, $10, $15 and $25.

In establishing the premiere, the trustees of the hospital will make this an annual event aimed not only at raising money for the institution but to create a traditional hallmark for the motion picture industry.

Other officers are: vice-president, Dave G. Griesdorf of Canadian Odeon; secretary-treasurer, R. W. Bolstad of Famous Players, and executive-secretary, Arch H. Jolley, all of Toronto.

As an outcome of discussions on television and other developments the Council moved to form a Canadian film institute for the good of public relations, and J. Arthur Hirsch of Montreal was named chairman of the special planning committee.

Minister Robert Winters told the conference films are next in usefulness only to church and school. Mayor Charlotte Whitton said theatres are cooperating much better now with authorities to give suitable children programs.

The Council will meet next year at Toronto.

Myers Says

for the November Allied board meeting, along with the distributors' draft of an arbitration system, which had just been received.

Myers said Cole was "accused of engaging in a hollow gesture as ballyhoo for Allied's 1952 convention" when he made his proposal after "viewing the present desperate condition of independent exhibitors and the treatment accorded them by the film companies."

Myers said that it was "a very serious matter when exhibitors report that that they are not benefiting and cannot benefit from the current crop of good pictures" because they can't afford to exhibit them "on the terms demanded."

'All-around Gouging'

One might expect to find all elements in the industry united in an attempt to "pull the movie business out of the current depression, intact," Myers declared, yet there was never so much "all-around gouging."

The prevalent belief among Allied exhibitors, he said, is that while their leaders were engaged in a sincere effort to aid the whole industry," the film companies, like weasels, have been getting into the exhibitors' chicken coops and have now grown so bold that it will require a strenuous concerted effort to save the remaining chickens—that is, unless the companies heed the Colonel's warning and voluntarily mend their ways."

Schary Scores

nue was only 15 per cent off from its peak year, but that rising costs of film production has cut into film earnings. The total yearly revenue of the industry is $3,000,000,000, Schary said, adding that half the total this year would come from overseas.

50% Financial Failures

Of the 400 films Hollywood produces each year, Schary numbered 60 as of recognized quality and about 50 per cent as financial failures. "Of the 200 plays produced on Broadway last year only five per cent were successful and 75 to 78 per cent were financial failures," Schary said.

Schary was optimistic in regard to television competition. He said the newcomer reaches into the theatre medium for the mediocre and that people who had the film-going habit before television are going back to film houses, but will be more selective in their choice of films.

"Hollywood pictures," he declared, "will have to be bigger and better. Eventually, Schary believes, Hollywood will make only top pictures."

"Cinerama," the producer said, "is mechanically years away from practical theatre use. It is wonderfully effective for big scenes but violates the truth of intimacy on which movie story-telling relies," he added.

"Breaking Through the Sound Barrier"

(London Films-United Artists)

BREATHTAKING aerial photography of jet planes in the sky is included in this exploitable drama about pioneering in the building of planes that travel at supersonic speed, but the emphasis in this English import is on rather slow-paced drama. The Terence Rattigan story and screenplay is too concerned with the psychological difficulties undergone by the family of plane manufacturer Ralph Richardson, whose vision of jet planes drives him on despite the deaths of his son and son-in-law in plane crashes.

There is a stiff-upper-lip quality about the dramatic situations that may have been immensely popular with British audiences but may prove tedious and repititious to American patrons. Marquee-wise this stacks up well with Richardson, Ann Todd and Nigel Patrick of recent "Encore" fame. Exhibitors can exploit the outstanding action footage and the inherent drama.

Patrick is presented as an RAF flier who marries Miss Todd and is chosen by Richardson, his father-in-law, to be the test pilot of a new model jet plane. Richardson's son, Denholm Elliot, is not interested in flying but takes lessons in an attempt to satisfy Richardson. His solo test ends in a fatal crash before the eyes of his family. Patrick carries on his jet tests although a rival firm's ace flier is killed testing a jet. Eventually Patrick is killed but his recorded reactions aid in designing a new model. Before his death Patrick had induced friend John Justin to test jets for Richardson. Justin's theory about pushing the throttle forward while in a dive rather than pulling it back is the correct one, and the "sound barrier" is broken. Miss Todd then comes to better understand Richardson and his unceasing striving for airplane progress.

David Lean produced and directed. Also in the cast are Dinah Sheridan, Joseph Tomelty, Jack Allen, Ralph Michael, Vincent Holman, Douglas Muir and Leslie Phillips.

Running time, 109 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"Montana Belle"

(RKO Radio Pictures)

JANE RUSSELL'S marquee lure is well known and this Western in Trucolor serves as little more than a vehicle to display her talents. The Dalton Gang has been highly serviceable story-wise and the screenplay by Norman S. Hall and Horace McCoy links Miss Russell as an outlaw's widow who joins the four Daltons, but what should have been an explosive combination just never is, although at one time Miss Russell even heads a rival gang. She is more at home in figure-emphasizing costumes in some brief scenes as a saloon entertainer, swaying, strutting and throatily singing "The Gilded Lily" and "My Sweetheart, the Man in the Moon." Forrest Tucker is the most convincing of the cast. Both story and performances are rarely credible.

The film opens with Miss Russell joining the gang after she has been saved from a hanging by Scott Brady. Miss Russell's affections are fought over by Brady and gang assistant Tucker, but an impending robbery of the saloon of George Brent causes the brothers to leave Tucker and Miss Russell in their cabin hideout. Unknown to them, Brent has agreed to trap the gang for a $100,000 fee to be paid by the Bankers' Protective Association, headed by John Litel.

During the absence of the Daltons some gun practice results in a posse raiding the hideout. Miss Russell and Tucker escape, assume they have been double crossed, and form their own gang. They arrive early at Brent's saloon and rob it while the Daltons are ambushed but get little money. Their further efforts are successful and Miss Russell gambles her way into a partnership with Brent, who realizes her identity, but hopes to trap the Daltons. Eventually he succeeds and the Daltons are eliminated. Miss Russell is forced into a bank job and is wounded. She promises to wait for Brent, to whom she had confessed all.

This was produced by Howard Welsch and directed by Robert Peters. Others in the cast are Andy Devine, Jack Lambert, Ray Teal, Rory Mallinson, Roy Barcroft, Holly Bane and Ned Davenport.

Running time, 81 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29.—The Hal Wallis-Paramount comedy team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, and Alan Ladd have received top honors in Modern Screen magazine's 10th annual "Popularity Awards," Paramount reported.

Ladd, who stars in Paramount's "Thunder in the East," "Botany Bay" and George Stevens' "Shane," received the "All-Time Ten-Year Popularity Champion Award." Martin and Lewis, currently in Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks" and the soon-to-be-seen "The Stooge," were given a plaque as "Hollywood's All-Time Champion Comedy Team."

"Bloodhounds of Broadway"

DAMON RUNYON'S distinctive type of Broadway citizens are amusingly set forth in this musical adaptation in color by Technicolor which is an effective combination of music and story that features the sparkling talents of Mitzi Gaynor. A George Jessel production, this has several fresh and appealing production numbers that are attractively mounted and engagingly performed. In addition to Miss Gaynor, who is equally adept in rendering a sweet lullaby, "Bye Low," and slinking her way through a spicy finale titled "Jack Of Diamonds," there is a remarkable moppet, Sharon Baird, who does a fine tap-dance, and Mitzi Green, who ably handles a comedy role and some dance sequences.

Scott Brady is starred as a Broadway bookie with an unusual ability for numerical computations who flees a gambling investigation. He is saved by the false testimony of his girl friend, singer Marguerite Chapman, and returns from a Florida hide-out with Miss Gaynor, a simple hill-billy girl who offered him hospitality when his car broke down in the mountains and subsequently saved his life. Brady has Miss Gaynor tutored in song and dance but arouses the jealousy of Miss Chapman.

Michael O'Shea, a boyhood pal of Brady's who became a cop after reform school, is appointed to supply evidence at a new crime committee's hearing. After Miss Gaynor captivates Hollywood and record talent scouts, Miss Chapman has a showdown with her. Miss Chapman loses and runs off to inform the police. Brady departs for a hideout but is tracked down by Miss Gaynor and her two bloodhounds. She convinces him to give himself up, pay off back taxes, and serve a year's sentence. At the end of that time Brady is working at the club at which Miss Gaynor sings, as a cashier, and other members of the gang are employed honestly too.

The two bloodhounds and Wally Vernon, Edwin Max, and George E. Stone supply comedy relief. Others in the cast are Henry Slate, Richard Allan, Ralph Volkie, Charles Buchinski, and Timothy Carey. Other songs include "I Wish I Knew," "I've Got A Feeling You're Foolin'," and "80 Miles Outside of Atlanta." Harmon Jones directed, from a screen play by Sy Gomberg and an adaptation by Albert Mannheimer.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

"Ride the Man Down"

(Republic Pictures)

A LAVISH PRODUCTION has been accorded this actionful Western in Trucolor. With the aid of star names for the marquee it should do well at the box-office. Rod Cameron, Brian Donlevy and Ella Raines are starred; also present are Forrest Tucker, Barbara Britton, Chill Wills, and J. Carrol Naish. It is set in the days when cattle empires were built by strong-muscled and strong-willed men and contains a good deal of fighting and shooting.

Assistant producer Joseph Kane directed and has balanced the action with a well-developed romance. Donlevy is an unscrupulous ranchman intent upon taking over much of the ranch left in the weak hands of Miss Raines' uncle after the death of her father. She is the spit-fire type, a chip-off-the-olld-block but sorely needs the aid which is given her by loyal ranch foreman Rod Cameron. Cameron is romantically inclined to homebody type Barbara Britton but her dislike of his efforts to block the dangerous Donlevy's manœuvers result in his attraction to Miss Raines. Despite murder and treachery, Cameron succeeds in foiling Donlevy's plans and establishes Miss Raines as the ranch owner. At the finale Cameron chooses Miss Raines.

This is based on a Saturday Evening Post story by Luke Short. The screen play was written by Mary McCall Jr. Others in a competent cast include Jim Davis, Taylor Holmes, James Bell, Paul Fix, Jack LaRue, Roy Barcroft, Claire Carleton, Al Caudebec and Roydon Clark.

Running time 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 15.

"Voodoo Tiger"

(Columbia Pictures)

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER stars as "Jungle Jim" in this mediocre series entry that offers the usual amount of fighting, dangerous animals and menacing natives in haphazard fashion that may please the adventure fans, especially among the younger set. In tracking down a former SS officer who alone knows the locale of lost art treasures and a trio of crooks also desiring the paintings, Weissmuller frequently battles numerous natives, exhibits his swimming prowess, and vanquishes a lion although armed only with a knife.

Spencer G. Bennet directed this economical Sam Katzman production and emphasized action. The story and screenplay were written by Samual Newman and are routine. The natives in Weissmuller's territory are depicted as voodoo worshipers of the tiger. It develops that the SS officer escaping a pursuing U. S. Army officer aided by Weissmuller, commandeers an airplane containing night club entertainer Jeanne Dean and her trained tiger. When the ex-Nazi, Michael Fox, orders the plane inland it crashes in the jungle where the natives capture all but venerate Miss Dean, who performs a torrid dance.

Weissmuller and his party containing the U. S. officer, among others, track down the three crooks chasing Fox but they are ambushed and captured by the natives. Weissmuller kills a lion in a test for his life and escapes with his party and Fox. The pursuing natives kill the crooks and are killed when Weissmuller dynamites a lone exit.

Running time, 67 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Exhibitor Meetings With Congressmen Said to Be Best Bet in Tax Fight

The only one safe rule to follow in seeking commitments from Congressmen to vote for repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax is for several exhibitors, properly armed with facts and figures, to sit down with the Congressman from their district and present their case. This was emphasized here yesterday by Col. H. A. Cole and Pat McGee, co-chairmen of the National Tax Repeal Committee, in a statement released through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

The co-chairmen stated that experience in the campaign has shown such procedure to be invariably productive of results. They said it also prevents future misunderstanding, either by the Congressman or the exhibitors. They urge all Congressional district campaign committees to follow this procedure in the future.

Production Methods Scored As Antiquated by Schary

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—"The greatest need of the industry is for new methods of film production," according to Dore Schary, executive vice-president in charge of production at M-G-M.

"Hollywood," Schary told a luncheon group of Chrysler Corp. executives, "is using the same methods it used 20 years ago," and much saving in time and money and a resultant improvement in picture quality could be had if new engineering technics were applied to the making of pictures.

The guest of L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler, and K. T. Keller, chairman of the board, Schary said also "that it wouldn't make economic sense for Hollywood to sell its large backlog of films to television."

"We would be removing ourselves from our greatest source of revenue, theatre exhibition to a mass audience," he declared.

It was Schary's belief, based on single-bill experiments, that "the double feature is here to stay." The mass audience wants it and feels it would not be getting it's money's worth" from a single bill program. His studio, he said, does not, however, prefer to exhibit its product that way.

$197,600 Salary for Columbia Pictures' Harry Cohn in '51-52

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — Harry Cohn earned $197,600 as president of Columbia Pictures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, the Securities and Exchange Commission was informed today.

The company's annual report cited the following salaries of executives; Jack Cohn, executive vice-president, $145,000; A. Schneider, vice-president and treasurer, $130,000; N. B. Spingold, vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity, $94,600; A. Montague, vice-president in charge of domestic sales, $130,000.

The figures, it was explained, include expense allowances which are not required to be accounted for, of $15,600 for Harry Cohn, $15,600 for Jack Cohn and $8,600 for Spingold. Directors and officers as a group during the year earned $1,148,000, the report stated.

A comparison of salaries between the fiscal years 1951 and 1952 discloses that of the five executives listed the remuneration of only Harry Cohn and Spingold differed in the two years, with Spingold taking the heavier cut. In 1951, Cohn's salary was listed at $201,400 compared to $197,600 in 1952, while Spingold in 1951 earned $108,000 compared to $94,600 in 1952.

Name Tulipan 20th Newspaper Contact

Ira Tulipan, trade press contact at 20th Century-Fox's home office, has been promoted to newspaper publicity contact, it was announced here yesterday by Edward E. Sullivan, publicity manager. Tulipan succeeds Meyer Hutner, who was recently named associate publicity manager.

A member of the publicity and advertising staffs of the company since 1942, Tulipan was previously with Warner Brothers, following entry into the industry through exhibition. He initially managed the Majestic Theatre in Boston when it was a showcase for foreign films.

Joining Warner Brothers, he served on the trade paper and short subjects publicity staffs until he left to become promotion manager of Dome Chemicals Co. Returning to the industry in 1942, he joined 20th Century-Fox's press book staff where he remained until 1943 when he entered the Army. Returning to 20th Century-Fox in a writing capacity, he subsequently became press book editor before assuming his post as trade press contact.

In 1950 he was responsible for intra-industry publicity arising from the national showmanship campaign sponsored by 20th Century-Fox launched in Chicago under the slogan of "Movies Are Better Than Ever." He has at various times done graduate work in films at Columbia University, New York University and the New School for Social Research.

Liberalized Rental Pact Seen in Italy

Conferences in Rome between Italian production and exhibition leaders on that country's rental ceiling law appear to have taken a turn favorable to the American position that the ceiling should be raised, it was indicated yesterday in film export circles here.

The talks are centering around Article X of the Italian film law. They are preliminary discussions which in due course will give way to Italo-American meetings on the subject.

The direction of the preliminary talks, it was reported here, seems to be toward favoring the substitution of a voluntary production-exhibition agreement for the present ceiling law.

The Motion Picture Association of America, which will be represented in the final talks on the subject of Italian rental ceilings, always has taken a strong position against the imposition of such ceilings by any country.

Italo-American Co-Production Envisioned by Italian Film Men

Negotiation of co-production agreements between the U.S. and Italian motion picture industries is definitely possible, it was revealed by Nicola De Pirro, director of the Italian Government's Entertainment Industry, on the eve of the Italian Film Delegation's department for Rome yesterday on the Queen Elizabeth.

The party included Eitel Monaco, president of the National Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries of Italy; Italo Gemini, president of the Italian General Association of Show Business; Guiseppe La Guardia, prominant Italian banker; and Renzo Rufini, secretary-general of Italian Films Export.

De Pirro and Monaco agreed "co-Production agreements would be of mutual economic usefulness" and would also "be helpful to the further development of cultural relations between the two countries."

UN Names 3rd Lap Sales Drive Winners

United Artists' Los Angeles, Cleveland and New Haven exchanges have taken first-prize money in the third six-week lap of the company's "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," it was announced by vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is serving as drive captain.

The drive now is in the first week of its home stretch, at the conclusion of which, on Dec. 6, grand prizes will be awarded for best showings over the entire drive period, which began on June 15.

2 Suits Ask $2,730,000

Two operating companies of the Elmwood Theatre, Queens, yesterday filed a triple-damage anti-trust suit for damages totaling $2,730,000 in Federal District Court here against eight majors and some circuits.

Sogmore Realty Inc., current operator of the Elmwood, sued for $1,080,000, while Copark Inc., which operated the theatre from 1946 to 1949, sued for $1,650,000.

Besides the majors, defendants in the suit also include the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Randforce Amusement Corp., Skouras Theatres Corp. and Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc. The action charges discriminatory trade practices in violation of the U. S. anti-trust laws.

William Gold represents the plaintiffs.

S. Arthur Glixon Honored Dec. 7

S. Arthur Glixon, motion picture industry attorney and a B'nai B'rith leader, will be honored for "his outstanding services to community welfare and human rights," at a testimonial breakfast on Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Hotel Delmonico here.

Announcement of the event, which will be held in conjunction with the Joint Defense Appeal campaign of Cardozo Lodge of B'nai B'rith, was made by Karl Tausig, who is serving as chairman of the Lodge's JDA activities.

Glixon has produced several motion pictures for B'nai B'rith, including "There Is So Much to Do," "When Freedom Calls," "This Is B'nai B'rith," "Door to Hope" and "Dealing in Futures."

Short Subjects

"The Young Immortal"

(Art Films-20th Century-Fox)

Four hundred years ago there lived in Rome a young painter named Raphael whose masterpieces include the "Sistine Madonna" and murals such as "The Escape of Saint Peter" and "Fire in the Borgo," both painted in the Vatican. In this short subject, producers Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont have used a modern-day youth forum on great names of the past as the starting point for a thrilling examination of Raphael's great works. The famous subjects executed by the artist rise upon the screen in vivid color by Technicolor to provide art-oriented audiences, and even those whose interest in great paintings is only casual, with a wealth of eye-stimulating enjoyment. An inspiring music score, written by Jacques Belasco, is included. Running time, 10 minutes.

"Light in the Window"

(Art Films-20th Century-Fox)

The art of Jan Vermeer, famous Dutch painter, is presented in radiant color by Technicolor in this 10-minute production of Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont. No series of films on art, such as these two have produced, would be complete without according treatment to the works of this Dutchman who put on canvas with genuine warmth the plainer aspects of life in his native land. "Light in the Window" stands as a superior short subject that will lend just the right amount of cultural tone to any theatre's program, and certainly will command the plaudits of audiences who look for a dash of the educational when they go to the theatre.

The famous paintings of the artist are introduced in conjunction with a "story" about a man of Dutch origin and his son who spend an afternoon in a museum. Also brought to life on the screen is the city of Delft in Holland, where Vermeer was born and where he produced his masterpieces. The soundtrack carries a fine music score by Jacques Belasco. Running time, 10 minutes.

'Hollywood in Dallas' Selections Are Made

DALLAS, Oct. 29.—Robert J. O'Donnell, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations, has completed the selection of eight pictures from which scenes will be prepared by Virgil Miers for the "Hollywood in Dallas" ice extravaganza, for a pre-selling campaign of individual pictures on which the Adolphus Hotel here will spend approximately $50,000. Scheduled to open at the hotel about Dec. 1, the show will be produced by Dorothy Franey and feature the theme of "Movietime" which was successfully staged by Texas COMPO last year.

O'Donnell selected scenes from the following: "Salome," "Million Dollar Mermaid," "Road to Bali," "Hans Christian Andersen, "Call Me Madam," "Moulin Rouge," "Mississippi Gambler" and "April in Paris."

On another Texas COMPO front, Kyle Rorex, executive director, disclosed that 3,123 "Get Out the Vote" trailer packages made by the organization were ordered by exhibitors from every state in the country.

fifth TOA unit to signify approval of the arbitration plan.

M. A. Lightman, Jr., chairman of the unit's board, said the action amounted to a vote of confidence in TOA and left the two matters to the discretion of TOA. Tennessee's exhibitors had taken this action Monday and Arkansas' exhibitors Tuesday.

Second, Tri-States set in motion a plan to take its fight against the 20 per cent Federal admission tax direct to Congress.

Congressman Clifford Davis of Memphis, in a speech to the convention, said the tax was discriminatory and he had always been against it and would continue to fight it.

Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, whose House committee passes on all tax bills, said he would arrange for a committee from Tri-States to have a hearing before his committee, if they wanted to come to Washington and present their case. They agreed they would do this.

Congressman Mills told how his committee once had the 20 per cent tax cut to 10 per cent in a bill that passed the House only to have the 20 per cent tax restored in the Senate.

Mills said he was convinced that the tax was too high and kept down attendance at theatres. He told how attendance had fallen off in his district in Arkansas where there was no television. He said he had been convinced that admission prices could not be cut and theatres kept open so the tax had to be reduced to keep many theatres in operation.

Lightman, Jr., of Memphis, and Kermit Stengel of Nashville, were named as a committee to get Tennessee Congressmen and exhibitors together to "open the theatres' books and show the tax must be repealed or reduced."

M. B. Smith, theatre advertising expert, and Jack Braunagel, circuit executive, spoke at today's closing sessions suggesting methods of improving theatre advertising and drive-in operations.

diately upon his return to New York. Following meetings with Goldwyn and James A. Mulvey, company president, he will leave here tonight by plane for the East. He succeeds Alfred W. Crown, who resigned as Goldwyn vice-president in charge of worldwide sales to join RKO Radio as foreign sales manager.

The new Goldwyn vice-president started his sales career with Producers Distributors Corp. in 1925. He then became associated successively with Warner Brothers and United Artists, joining RKO Radio in 1939. In quick succession he was appointed RKO Eastern sales manager, general sales manager and in 1946, vice-president and board member.

Award to Fitzgibbons

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — J. J. tion vice-president, was awarded a plaque for his chairmanship of the 1951 campaign when collections totalled $104,100. This amount exceeded the 1952 total which was $81,198. The presentation was made by Ned E. Depinet who urged that the brotherhood spirit be gotten "into our hearts" and recalled his onetime NCCJ chairmanship and the outstanding collection of a small local suburban theatre which was greater than some large theatres.

In accepting the award Reagan spoke of the help he received from "the boys in the field" and such executives as Schwartz and Henderson Richey.

Medal to Salmon

Montague Salmon, Rivoli Theatre manager, received a Silver Brotherhood Medal for his efforts which for the past seven years have resulted in average annual collections of $1,000. In explaining his success Salmon cited the encouragement given him by George Skouras and urged circuit representatives to give similar encouragement to their theatre managers.

J. Robert Rubin of Loew's, NCCJ general counsel, presided over the meeting, at which it was decided to have a dinner celebration rather than a luncheon. Suggestions were offered to make the dinner an unusual event with possible participation by other industries and famed personalites, such as the presidential candidates.

Youngstein Reports

Max Youngstein, United Artists vice-president and NCCJ public relations chairman, read a report on the 1952 campaign in the absence of chairman George Skouras. The report revealed the collections had not come up to expectations or to the preceding year's total but reviewed the difficulties of the campaign. These included the unavoidable absence of George Skouras at the campaign's beginning, the illness of Maurice Bergman which kept him out for almost the entire campaign, and the short-notice fill-in job "well performed" by Hank Linnet.

According to the report the collections decline was also due to the "failure to organize the exhibition field" for with the exception of several circuits most quotas were not met. He noted that only 400 out of 16,000 theatres had contributed and emphasized that only $10 or $15 per theatre in the U. S. is needed to surpass the collection record. However, the motion picture industry publicity job for the NCCJ was termed the greatest of any field, as it has been for the last five years.

Lauds Industry

Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, NCCJ president, lauded the industry's past work, including trade press coverage, towards achieving brotherhood and enumerated some of the organization's achievements with the monies collected. He observed that most of the work is preventive and explained that cultural interchange had been increased with such groups as the Japanese-American Cultural Society. Towards that end he praised the current tour of Spyros Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president, over Europe and the Far East during which Skouras is working for brotherhood by meeting and talking with many peoples.

New Chapters Set

Several new chapters have been set up, including one in Manila. Followers of Buddhism, Hinduism and Shintoism have been welcomed to participate in working with Catholics, Jews, and Protestants towards brotherhood. Dr. Clinchy revealed progress had been made towards better human relations by interchange of teachers of different faiths and deleting bigotries from certain religious textbooks. Efforts are now being made by the NCCJ to work with the various unions and having them initiate Brotherhood movements.

On the dais at the luncheon were: Rubin, Depinet, Reagan, Youngstein, Dr. Clinchy, William F. Rodgers and Ed Churchill. Others present included: Russell Downing, William German, Richard Walsh, Austin Keough, Herman Robbins, Taylor Mills, Edmund Reek, Mike Clofine, Walton Ament, Tom Mead, A. J. Richard, William Gehring, William White, Sam Rinzler, Ed Lachman, Si Seadler, Harry Goldberg, Jerry Pickman, Arthur Israel, Monroe Goodman, Sid Blumenstock, Emanuel Frisch, Fred Schwartz, Gil Golden, Walter Reade, Jr., and trade press representatives.

Davis Appointed

Martin Davis of the Goldwyn office has been appointed coordinator for the premiere.

Tickets for the premiere, which will take place on the evening of Nov. 24 at the Criterion Theatre, will be scaled at $5, $10, $15 and $25.

In establishing the premiere, the trustees of the hospital will make this an annual event aimed not only at raising money for the institution but to create a traditional hallmark for the motion picture industry.

Other officers are: vice-president, Dave G. Griesdorf of Canadian Odeon; secretary-treasurer, R. W. Bolstad of Famous Players, and executive-secretary, Arch H. Jolley, all of Toronto.

As an outcome of discussions on television and other developments the Council moved to form a Canadian film institute for the good of public relations, and J. Arthur Hirsch of Montreal was named chairman of the special planning committee.

Minister Robert Winters told the conference films are next in usefulness only to church and school. Mayor Charlotte Whitton said theatres are cooperating much better now with authorities to give suitable children programs.

The Council will meet next year at Toronto.

Myers Says

for the November Allied board meeting, along with the distributors' draft of an arbitration system, which had just been received.

Myers said Cole was "accused of engaging in a hollow gesture as ballyhoo for Allied's 1952 convention" when he made his proposal after "viewing the present desperate condition of independent exhibitors and the treatment accorded them by the film companies."

Myers said that it was "a very serious matter when exhibitors report that that they are not benefiting and cannot benefit from the current crop of good pictures" because they can't afford to exhibit them "on the terms demanded."

'All-around Gouging'

One might expect to find all elements in the industry united in an attempt to "pull the movie business out of the current depression, intact," Myers declared, yet there was never so much "all-around gouging."

The prevalent belief among Allied exhibitors, he said, is that while their leaders were engaged in a sincere effort to aid the whole industry," the film companies, like weasels, have been getting into the exhibitors' chicken coops and have now grown so bold that it will require a strenuous concerted effort to save the remaining chickens—that is, unless the companies heed the Colonel's warning and voluntarily mend their ways."

Schary Scores

nue was only 15 per cent off from its peak year, but that rising costs of film production has cut into film earnings. The total yearly revenue of the industry is $3,000,000,000, Schary said, adding that half the total this year would come from overseas.

50% Financial Failures

Of the 400 films Hollywood produces each year, Schary numbered 60 as of recognized quality and about 50 per cent as financial failures. "Of the 200 plays produced on Broadway last year only five per cent were successful and 75 to 78 per cent were financial failures," Schary said.

Schary was optimistic in regard to television competition. He said the newcomer reaches into the theatre medium for the mediocre and that people who had the film-going habit before television are going back to film houses, but will be more selective in their choice of films.

"Hollywood pictures," he declared, "will have to be bigger and better. Eventually, Schary believes, Hollywood will make only top pictures."

"Cinerama," the producer said, "is mechanically years away from practical theatre use. It is wonderfully effective for big scenes but violates the truth of intimacy on which movie story-telling relies," he added.

"Breaking Through the Sound Barrier"

(London Films-United Artists)

BREATHTAKING aerial photography of jet planes in the sky is included in this exploitable drama about pioneering in the building of planes that travel at supersonic speed, but the emphasis in this English import is on rather slow-paced drama. The Terence Rattigan story and screenplay is too concerned with the psychological difficulties undergone by the family of plane manufacturer Ralph Richardson, whose vision of jet planes drives him on despite the deaths of his son and son-in-law in plane crashes.

There is a stiff-upper-lip quality about the dramatic situations that may have been immensely popular with British audiences but may prove tedious and repititious to American patrons. Marquee-wise this stacks up well with Richardson, Ann Todd and Nigel Patrick of recent "Encore" fame. Exhibitors can exploit the outstanding action footage and the inherent drama.

Patrick is presented as an RAF flier who marries Miss Todd and is chosen by Richardson, his father-in-law, to be the test pilot of a new model jet plane. Richardson's son, Denholm Elliot, is not interested in flying but takes lessons in an attempt to satisfy Richardson. His solo test ends in a fatal crash before the eyes of his family. Patrick carries on his jet tests although a rival firm's ace flier is killed testing a jet. Eventually Patrick is killed but his recorded reactions aid in designing a new model. Before his death Patrick had induced friend John Justin to test jets for Richardson. Justin's theory about pushing the throttle forward while in a dive rather than pulling it back is the correct one, and the "sound barrier" is broken. Miss Todd then comes to better understand Richardson and his unceasing striving for airplane progress.

David Lean produced and directed. Also in the cast are Dinah Sheridan, Joseph Tomelty, Jack Allen, Ralph Michael, Vincent Holman, Douglas Muir and Leslie Phillips.

Running time, 109 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"Montana Belle"

(RKO Radio Pictures)

JANE RUSSELL's marquee lure is well known and this Western in Trucolor serves as little more than a vehicle to display her talents. The Dalton Gang has been highly serviceable story-wise and the screenplay by Norman S. Hall and Horace McCoy links Miss Russell as an outlaw's widow who joins the four Daltons, but what should have been an explosive combination just never is, although at one time Miss Russell even heads a rival gang. She is more at home in figure-emphasizing costumes in some brief scenes as a saloon entertainer, swaying, strutting and throatily singing "The Gilded Lily" and "My Sweetheart, the Man in the Moon." Forrest Tucker is the most convincing of the cast. Both story and performances are rarely credible.

The film opens with Miss Russell joining the gang after she has been saved from a hanging by Scott Brady. Miss Russell's affections are fought over by Brady and gang assistant Tucker, but an impending robbery of the saloon of George Brent causes the brothers to leave Tucker and Miss Russell in their cabin hideout. Unknown to them, Brent has agreed to trap the gang for a $100,000 fee to be paid by the Bankers' Protective Association, headed by John Litel.

During the absence of the Daltons some gun practice results in a posse raiding the hideout. Miss Russell and Tucker escape, assume they have been double crossed, and form their own gang. They arrive early at Brent's saloon and rob it while the Daltons are ambushed but get little money. Their further efforts are successful and Miss Russell gambles her way into a partnership with Brent, who realizes her identity, but hopes to trap the Daltons. Eventually he succeeds and the Daltons are eliminated. Miss Russell is forced into a bank job and is wounded. She promises to wait for Brent, to whom she had confessed all.

This was produced by Howard Welsch and directed by Robert Peters. Others in the cast are Andy Devine, Jack Lambert, Ray Teal, Rory Mallinson, Roy Barcroft, Holly Bane and Ned Davenport.

Running time, 81 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

'Barrier' to UA; Will Open in N.Y. Nov. 6

Producer-director David Lean's British-made "Breaking Through the Sound Barrier," starring Ann Todd, has been acquired from Lopert Films by United Artists and will open at the Victoria Theatre here Nov. 6, William J. Heineman, UA distribution vice-president, announced.

Bloom in New Post

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—Al Bloom, former manager of the 7-Hi Drive-in Theatre in suburban Minneapolis, has joined the staff of Greater Amusements. Bloom is a former film and drama critic for the old Minneapolis Times.

Martin-Lewis, Ladd Cited by Magazine

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29.—The Hal Wallis-Paramount comedy team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, and Alan Ladd have received top honors in Modern Screen magazine's 10th annual "Popularity Awards," Paramount reported.

Ladd, who stars in Paramount's "Thunder in the East," "Botany Bay" and George Stevens' "Shane," received the "All-Time Ten-Year Popularity Champion Award." Martin and Lewis, currently in Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks" and the soon-to-be-seen "The Stooge," were given a plaque as "Hollywood's All-Time Champion Comedy Team."

"Bloodhounds of Broadway"

DAMON RUNYON's distinctive type of Broadway citizens are amusingly set forth in this musical adaptation in color by Technicolor which is an effective combination of music and story that features the sparkling talents of Mitzi Gaynor. A George Jessel production, this has several fresh and appealing production numbers that are attractively mounted and engagingly performed. In addition to Miss Gaynor, who is equally adept in rendering a sweet lullaby, "Bye Low," and slinking her way through a spicy finale titled "Jack Of Diamonds," there is a remarkable moppet, Sharon Baird, who does a fine tap-dance, and Mitzi Green, who ably handles a comedy role and some dance sequences.

Scott Brady is starred as a Broadway bookie with an unusual ability for numerical computations who flees a gambling investigation. He is saved by the false testimony of his girl friend, singer Marguerite Chapman, and returns from a Florida hide-out with Miss Gaynor, a simple hill-billy girl who offered him hospitality when his car broke down in the mountains and subsequently saved his life. Brady has Miss Gaynor tutored in song and dance but arouses the jealousy of Miss Chapman.

Michael O'Shea, a boyhood pal of Brady's who became a cop after reform school, is appointed to supply evidence at a new crime committee's hearing. After Miss Gaynor captivates Hollywood and record talent scouts, Miss Chapman has a showdown with her. Miss Chapman loses and runs off to inform the police. Brady departs for a hideout but is tracked down by Miss Gaynor and her two bloodhounds. She convinces him to give himself up, pay off back taxes, and serve a year's sentence. At the end of that time Brady is working at the club at which Miss Gaynor sings, as a cashier, and other members of the gang are employed honestly too.

The two bloodhounds and Wally Vernon, Edwin Max, and George E. Stone supply comedy relief. Others in the cast are Henry Slate, Richard Allan, Ralph Volkie, Charles Buchinski, and Timothy Carey. Other songs include "I Wish I Knew," "I've Got A Feeling You're Foolin'," and "80 Miles Outside of Atlanta." Harmon Jones directed, from a screen play by Sy Gomberg and an adaptation by Albert Mannheimer.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

"Ride the Man Down"

(Republic Pictures)

A LAVISH PRODUCTION has been accorded this actionful Western in Trucolor. With the aid of star names for the marquee it should do well at the box-office. Rod Cameron, Brian Donlevy and Ella Raines are starred; also present are Forrest Tucker, Barbara Britton, Chill Wills, and J. Carrol Naish. It is set in the days when cattle empires were built by strong-muscled and strong-willed men and contains a good deal of fighting and shooting.

Assistant producer Joseph Kane directed and has balanced the action with a well-developed romance. Donlevy is an unscrupulous ranchman intent upon taking over much of the ranch left in the weak hands of Miss Raines' uncle after the death of her father. She is the spit-fire type, a chip-off-the-olld-block but sorely needs the aid which is given her by loyal ranch foreman Rod Cameron. Cameron is romantically inclined to homebody type Barbara Britton but her dislike of his efforts to block the dangerous Donlevy's manœuvers result in his attraction to Miss Raines. Despite murder and treachery, Cameron succeeds in foiling Donlevy's plans and establishes Miss Raines as the ranch owner. At the finale Cameron chooses Miss Raines.

This is based on a Saturday Evening Post story by Luke Short. The screen play was written by Mary McCall Jr. Others in a competent cast include Jim Davis, Taylor Holmes, James Bell, Paul Fix, Jack LaRue, Roy Barcroft, Claire Carleton, Al Caudebec and Roydon Clark.

Running time 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 15.

"Voodoo Tiger"

(Columbia Pictures)

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER stars as "Jungle Jim" in this mediocre series entry that offers the usual amount of fighting, dangerous animals and menacing natives in haphazard fashion that may please the adventure fans, especially among the younger set. In tracking down a former SS officer who alone knows the locale of lost art treasures and a trio of crooks also desiring the paintings, Weissmuller frequently battles numerous natives, exhibits his swimming prowess, and vanquishes a lion although armed only with a knife.

Spencer G. Bennet directed this economical Sam Katzman production and emphasized action. The story and screenplay were written by Samual Newman and are routine. The natives in Weissmuller's territory are depicted as voodoo worshipers of the tiger. It develops that the SS officer escaping a pursuing U. S. Army officer aided by Weissmuller, commandeers an airplane containing night club entertainer Jeanne Dean and her trained tiger. When the ex-Nazi, Michael Fox, orders the plane inland it crashes in the jungle where the natives capture all but venerate Miss Dean, who performs a torrid dance.

Weissmuller and his party containing the U. S. officer, among others, track down the three crooks chasing Fox but they are ambushed and captured by the natives. Weissmuller kills a lion in a test for his life and escapes with his party and Fox. The pursuing natives kill the crooks and are killed when Weissmuller dynamites a lone exit.

Running time, 67 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

TOA's Bid for Arbitration Meet Declined

Allied Wants Members To Consider Draft First

Theatre Owners of America's bid for an immediate conference on arbitration has been declined by Allied States on the ground that the latter wants to submit the distributor-amended draft of an industry system to its annual convention in Chicago next month before participating in any further industry conferences on the subject.

This was learned here yesterday, a week after Alfred Starr, TOA president, announced that his organization had "a few" changes it would like to make in the draft and called on all parties to the Industry Arbitration Conference to set up at once a meeting at which the changes could be suggested and acted upon.

It was also learned yesterday that

Sullivan to Telecast 'The Goldwyn Story'

Ed Sullivan's TV "Toast of the Town" show will bring to television the life story of Samuel Goldwyn, he revealed last night as he returned to New York after Coast conferences with Goldwyn.

To be called "The Goldwyn Story," the program will be televised in two successive installments, on Dec. 14 and 21, and will cover Goldwyn's life and career up to and including the making of "Hans Christian Andersen." "Toast of the Town" is heard over the CBS TV network Sunday nights from 8:00 to 9:00 P.M.

Plans for the telecast include appearances by Goldwyn star discoveries on the "live" portions of the shows, with film flash-backs carrying the story from Goldwyn's adventures as a film pioneer to the current era.

Loew's-U.A.T.C. Split May Be Settled

The possibility that the Loew's-United Artists Theatre Circuit joint-interest case may be settled out of court was held out yesterday by a source close to one of the principals in the dispute.

The spokesman said negotiations may result in an amicable settlement despite the action of Loew's seeking a court-appointed referee to dissolve the eight jointly-held interests. The case is currently in Federal Court here, awaiting a hearing date on the petition filed by Loew's.

20th Holders Get Tax-Free Exchange

Twentieth Century-Fox stockholders were notified yesterday that the split-up of the company as required by the consent decree "did not result in a taxable gain or loss" to them in the exchange of stock, according to a ruling by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Donald A. Henderson, secretary of the company, informed stockholders that the Internal Revenue Bureau has ruled that the cost or other tax basis in the old stock should be allocated to the stock in the two new companies as follows: 74.1445 per cent to the holders' stock in 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. and 25.8555 per cent to the holders' stock in National Theatres, Inc.

The notification also carried a statement of 20th-Fox president Spyros P. Skouras condemning the 16 mm. suit.

Drive-ins Now Total 3,483, M. P. Almanac Reports

U. S. and Canadian drive-in theatres number 3,483, their car capacity total being 4,702,050, it is reported in the 1952-53 edition of Motion Picture and Television Almanac, published today.

The total compares with 820 in 1948. The Almanac estimates 1952 receipts for all theatres at $1,225,000,000, including earnings of drive-ins, which return approximately 20 per cent of the gross revenue.

This year the Almanac, a Quigley publication, contains 1,062 pages, almost 350 of them devoted to biographies in a section titled "Who's Who in Motion Pictures and Television." Other sections, which indicate the scope of the coverage included in the volume, pertain to corporations, theatre circuits, television and radio, drive-ins, services, theatre equipment and materials, organizations, codes and censorship, the world market, the press and non-theatrical motion pictures.

The book this year contains considerable added detailed information on the television industry, hence the change in title from Motion Picture Almanac which the volumes of previous years carried.

In a foreword to this 24th edition, Martin Quigley points out that it appears in "the midst of an array of changing conditions and new developments that affect the art and business of public entertainment the world over. These conditions and developments entail an imperative and an increasing need for authoritative information and statistics concerning the events, institutions and personnel of the entertainment world. . . ."

Reilly, public relations director of American Weekly.

The topics discussed were: "How To Write All Types Of Publicity Stories"; "The Function and Uses of a Press Book"; "Contacting the National Magazines for Mutual Interest"; "How One National Magazine Helps Promote Pictures"; "The Power and Effectiveness of Magazine Promotions in Pre-Selling Pictures;" "What Magazines Are Doing in Pre-Selling Films"; "The Importance of the Motion Picture Industry to the Sunday Supplement."

Crockett, presented a study made by Coronet's research department showing that four out of five adult film goers are magazine readers. Newspaper advertising is the timetable of the motion picture industry, he said, but magazines tell you where to go in advance.

Jesse L. Lasky addressed the class on the subject of "A Producer's Appreciation of Promotions."

Martin discussed the film habits of Seventeen's market, girls of 13 to 19, who, he said, had been forced into a semi-adult status because of world conditions and a more complex society. They are not interested in "kid type pictures, adolescent type pictures, adolescent type stories but real life dramas, comedies, musicals, romances — and, yes, even problem pictures." He revealed that a recent A. J. Wood & Co. poll of over 2,200 teen-age girls showed that films ranked first on the list of items they buy. He opined that these girls, about 7½ million of them who have about 3.7 billion dollars a year to spend, are the "No. 1 movie fans."

Miss Soracco detailed Look Magazine's exploitation of films, using posters, banners, Look covers, tearsheets, trade releases and other displays.

In the complaint, Ansco seeks damages of $1,332,000, Andwell, $7,755,000, and Ancore, $2,808,000.

Among other measures of relief sought, the suit asked the court for a permanent and temporary injunction to distributor defendants, barring them from the "unnatural scarcity of first-rate features." Representing the plaintiff was the law firm of Weisman, Celler, Quinn, Allen and Spett.

"Million Dollar Mermaid"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

ESTHER WILLIAMS stars in this resplendent swimming extravaganza which utilizes a fictionalized Annette Kellerman story and opulent color by Technicolor and should prove an immense success at the box-office. A stellar cast, including Victor Mature, Walter Pidgeon, and David Brian, perform well under the excellent direction of Mervyn LeRoy, and the overwhelming swimming numbers are set off by proper emphasis of the drama and romance in the Everett Freeman screenplay.

The impact of spectacle is attained without sacrificing pace or interest and the production numbers, especially the Busby Berkeley-staged fountain and smoke number, have rarely been matched in their color, imagination, size, and splendor. Arthur Hornblow, Jr. rates kudos for the production.

Miss Williams, who swims, dives, and does undewater ballet as superbly as ever and looks beautiful in a variety of form-caressing bathing suits, is presented as an Australian girl who became a champion swimmer after successfully battling physically handicapped legs in her youth. With her father, Walter Pidgeon, she goes to London by boat when poverty causes him to seek employment there with a music conservatory. En route she meets Mature, a fast-talking promoter, and his assistant, Jesse White, who have a kangaroo that boxes to promote.

When the employment opportunity disappears and Pidgeon is forced to work in a saloon, Miss Williams agrees to swim the Thames as a publicity stunt for Mature's kangaroo. She succeeds while crowds cheer her on and she goes to New York with Mature to gain employment at the Hippodrome. Hippodrome impresario Brian cannot use her so she and Mature agree to ballyhoo a resort but Miss Williams appears in a one-piece suit which results in her arrest for "indecent exposure." This turns out to be a boon for she is acquitted and then stars in Mature's own aqua show.

Complications arise which cause a rift between Mature and Miss Williams. She goes on to star for Brian and eventually agrees to marry him after making a Hollywood film. However, a production catastrophe causes her hospitalization with a spine injury and Mature, newly successful as the manager of Rin-Tin-Tin, finally wins her.

Jesse White provides some fine comic relief. Maria Tallchief contributes some ballet as Pavlova. Others in the cast include Howard Freeman, Charles Watts, Wilton Graff, Donna Corcoran, James Bell, Frank Ferguson, James Flavin, and William Bouchey.

Running time, 115 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

TOA's Bid

neither Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president and Arbitration Conference host, nor Henderson Richey, Conference secretary, received from Starr a formal request for a meeting to consider the TOA recomendations. Thus, it turned out, Starr's bid was made only in the form of a statement to the press.

January Likely

It appears now, according to industry observers, that another all-industry conference on arbitration or a meeting of the arbitration drafting committee will not take place until December or January, most likely in the latter month in view of the possibility that each and every TOA and Allied unit will want time to meet and act on the draft individually. Thus far, five of TOA's 20 units have approved whatever arbitration plan TOA leaders ultimately sanction. No Allied units have acted in this connection.

In his address, Dunham defended Westerns as depicting a part of the American way of life. On the subject of television programs, Dunham observed that there is considerable room for improvement from a quality standpoint. He foresaw much groping by TV for the kind of educational program that would continually interest televiewers and he warned that such programs "must never attempt to go commercial as their aims would be lost."

'Christmas Salute'

increase the yield in this year's campaign," said Montague, "is immediately understandable when one examines the mounting costs of operating such an institution.

"We are proud that the hospital management still is able to maintain its low per-case cost, which is almost half that of the national average. This is indeed a tribute to the technical skill and the executive management to be found at Will Rogers.

"It is gratifying to know that when one contributes to this cause he can be assured that his money will be put to maximum good use in the battle against tuberculosis, and that the benefits are concentrated on 'our own' in the entertainment field.

"But costs are rising, and everyone who has any kind of a job in the industry must deem it his personal obligation to give more than before. All employes have a stake in the Variety Clubs-Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, and all share its success, its protection, and its responsibility," Montague concluded.

The goal of the 1952 Christmas Salute is 150,000 signers of the scroll, to produce more than $200,000.

Berk and Krumgold, in association with George A. Bowman and Co., Inc., brokers, have consummated a long term lease with an aggregate rental of $200,000 for the 1500-seat Avalon Theatre in the Bronx, N. Y. The lessee is a corporation headed by Joseph Green, New York circuit operator. The theatre is presently being completely rehabilitated, and will open with a policy of vaudeville and pictures.

RKO's Grant

RKO executives in whose honor the luncheon was given.

Grant, one of the two main speakers at the luncheon, said that he could not assure exhibitors that RKO's films would not be sold to home TV "forever in the future," claiming that new innovations two to ten years hence may make such sales non-competitive to motion picture theatres. He cited Cinerama as one of a number of possible art forms which may develop so extensively in theatres across the country that the sale of current theatrical films to TV would not be competitive.

Elucidating on the television theme, the RKO board chairman expressed confidence that the industry, which had survived many competitive mediums in the past will meet the current competition of home television.

The highlights of Grant's remarks were in answer to a series of questions propounded to him by Harry Brandt, president of ITOA, in his invitation. Similar questions were raised by trade reporters in the past and brought forth similar responses from the RKO chief executive.

No Liquidation

He again scotched reports of any intention to liquidate the assets of RKO, stressing that the job of the new management was to revitalize the company. Grant acknowledged the company was in "temporary distress" and called upon exhibitor support during the current period, which he saw lasting from six months to a year.

Another speaker, Emanuel Frisch, president of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association, expressed confidence in the team of Grant, Picker, Boasberg, and Branson. Such a team, Frisch predicted, will produce, distribute and publicize the kind of product needed by exhibitors.

Brandt presented an album to the three RKO executives, containing congratulatory wires and letters from exhibitor leaders throughout the country.

Besides the above-mentioned speakers, the following guests were on the dais:

Charles Skouras, Harry Arthur, Gordon Youngman, Bernard Kranze, Ted O'Shea, Bert Stern, William Namenson, J. Joshua Goldberg, Bert M. Stearn, Morey Goldstein, Sidney Lust, Solomon Strausberg, Spyros S. Skouras, Jr., William J. German, William H. Clark, Wilbur Snaper, Harry M. Kalmine, Richard F. Walsh, Herman Robbins, Fred J. their action, according to the company. At the same time, it was added, Abbott and Costello expressed regret over any injury that might have been caused Universal by charges made during the litigation.

The suit was filed in Nov., 1951. It asked damages and abrogation of their contract with the company, questioning the accounting methods used and the company's right to reissue A. and C. films through Realart.

By SHERWIN KANE

A serious Federal offense, presumably equal in heinousness to counterfeiting, has been developed by some jurists, with the encouragement of the Attorney General's prosecutors. In their parlance it has become known as "conscious parallelism of action."

The offense is committed when more than one business man, bowing to the dictates of his market, sells his service or commodity on the same basis as does his competitors. It has loomed large in the trial of a number of motion picture anti-trust suits for treble damages in recent years.

It is, therefore, interesting to note what the Hon. Lowell B. Mason of the U. S. Federal Trade Commission had to say on the subject in a recent speech before the 23rd annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Toronto.

Commissioner Mason, commenting on the governmental and legal theories being applied to industry, assumed he was regarding their inevitable aftermath from the van-

Newsreel Crews Poised for Election Day Activities

The newsreel companies today are completing preparations for on-the-spot coverage of the events of tomorrow, Election Day, when the nation will go to the polls to signify whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson will succeed Harry S. Truman as President of the United States.

When the candidates themselves cast their votes, when one concedes victory to the other, when victory celebrations commence in New York's Times Square and other spots, newsreel camera and sound men will be on hand to record the reactions for theatre audiences.

Camera crews have been assigned to the headquarters of both Presidential candidates; to Independence, Mo., where President Truman will cast his ballot, and to cities around the country where controversial figures competing in Congressional contests will go to the polling booths.

Newsreel processors and editors will start to work on the reels early Wednesday morning and the editions

Total assets of the IATSE amounted to $932,219 and liabilities totaled $30,987, according to the industry union's financial statement for the year ended last July 31.

The statement listed total cash receipts for the year as $671,354, and total cash disbursements as $566,541.

A special listing of convention transportation and per diem funds indicate that cash receipts for these purposes totaled $123,036 and cash disbursements totaled $14,436.

Local Level Accent Put on MPIC Drive

An effort to place news-worthy stories about the industry in local newspapers throughout the country highlights the public relations plan adopted last week by the Motion Picture Industry Council in Hollywood, Leonard Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres and author of the plan, explained here.

Goldenson said that under the plan, local theatre managers will be fed news stories about the industry which they will be asked to pass on to their local newspaper editors.

tage point of the year 2052. Said he:

"It must be borne in mind that as early as 1953 the following things were declared illegal—mind you, only on paper. No one could charge or quote the same price as his competitors because, if he did, he was guilty of 'conscious parallelism of action.'

"Hence, all businessmen were malefactors if they were smart enough to know they couldn't get more for their wares than their competitors, and weren't dumb enough to take less.

"If, when hailed before a court, a defendant endeavored to prove his prices were not frozen by conscious parallelism but fluctuated with the exigencies of the competitive market, then his evidences of price dissimilarities would land him in jail for illegal price discrimination.

"On March 8, 2003, the Department of Justice sued 50,000 businessmen for pricing their goods by conscious parallelism, and the Federal Trade Commission sued 50,000 for quoting different prices (to wholesalers and retailers). No one dared any longer to sell anything at any price without first receiving clearance from the Bureau of Economic Control."

And of triple damages, the Federal Trade Commissioner had this to say:

"The American Congress supplemented its own enforcement (of the anti-trust laws) by the offer of treble damages to any one who could prove injury . . . beside which there was an allowance of comfortable attorneys' fees and costs as an added attraction, so lawyers got into the game, too.

"No one could complain of this technique as long as the government was inadequately prepared to enforce the laws for the public welfare; but when the regulations against all interstate commerce became so ambivalent that whatever you did was illegal, and government proceeded to move into the enforcement stage, private triple damage suits lost moral justification and became the happy hunting ground for the reincarnations of Black Beard, Jean Lafitte, Captain Kidd and Long Ben.

"Private treble damage suits were so profitable to lawyers during the year 2003 that three Supreme Court Justices, six Appeals Judges, and 932 other Federal officials resigned to enter the field.

"But by the year 2001 so many treble damages had been assessed against companies that marshall's levies and court sales shifted the entire corporate structure of American business from the entrepennuers who had started companies to industrial cuckoo birds—so-called because they never built nests themselves but merely moved into possession of going concerns through treble damage ligitation."

Many in this industry will rightfully regard Commissioner Mason's remarks as more prophetic than fanciful.

radio station WINS. The Embassy Newsreel Theatres will feature TV sets in its lobbies. Most other circuits and independents also expect to brief their audiences via loudspeakers.

Important returns, unless a landslide develops, are not expected until late in the evening. In New York, patrons are being advised by news stories that they will be out of the theatre and back home to get the significant results by TV.

Loew's Theatres in Manhattan will be serviced by radio station WMGM, those in Queens by the Long Island Press and the Long Island Star-Journal, while those in Brooklyn will be serviced by the Brooklyn Eagle. The Paramount on Broadway will be serviced by a special ticker supplied by International News Service. An INS spokesman said the Paramount was the only theatre to contract for the service in New York. It will feature the use of special flashes on the screen.

Fox West Coast Theatres has made arrangements for all of its houses to announce late returns at intervals or by slides.

The same practice will prevail pretty much in most key theatres throughout the country.

A. T. & T., Bell Allot More Facilities for Election

The long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in co-operation with the Bell System, will make additional communications facilities available to the nation's television, radio and press association networks for Election Day news coverage.

A. F. Jacobson, long lines director of operations pointed out that the addition of these facilities would enable the broadcasters and news agencies to bring to the public the fastest, most comprehensive news report of any Presidential election in history.

The announcement said that on-the-spot election programs would be transmitted over almost 30,000 miles of inter-city television channels and would be available to 110 television stations in 67 cities. It is estimated that of the more than 18,700,000 television sets now in use, 99 per cent of them would be able to receive Election Day programs over the network.

will be shipped out the evening of that day instead of on Thursday as normally.

Virtually all of the reels shipped Wednesday will be devoted exclusively to the Election Day events. This definitely applies to Warner Pathe Newsreel and Paramount Newsreel. It very likely will be the case with Fox Movietone News, Universal Newsreel and News of the Day, although these companies released no information on that point at the week-end.

Since the reels will not be made up until the new President and Vice-President are elected beyond all doubt, the companies concede that crews, processors and editors are in for some hectic last minute action, particularly if the returns show a neck-and-neck race throughout the day and evening. Negatives will be shipped to laboratories by plane and the prints will be delivered in the same fashion when they are ready.

"It Grows on Trees"

(Universal-International)

A NOVEL IDEA has been cleverly developed into a highly exploitable, amusing comedy that was heartily enjoyed by a sneak preview audience and should be similarly received wherever it plays. Money, as exhibitors well know, does not grow on trees, but it does in this Leonard Goldstein production that was smartly directed by Arthur Lubin and is very engagingly played by a cast headed by Irene Dunne.

The story and screenplay by Leonard Praskins and Barney Slater, based on a Cosmopolitan magazine story, presents Miss Dunne as the wife of Dean Jagger, a struggling accountant. Her impractical purchase of two young trees turns into a gold mine when the trees start bearing five and ten dollar bills Jagger is a very honest fellow and brushes off his wife's efforts to inform him about the trees. She collects the bills in her coffee and sugar jars and writes to Washington concerning their legality.

Convinced it is a gag, Treasury Department official Les Tremayne replies that the money is legal and convinces other officials to write her similarly. Miss Dunne believes the letters and gives Jagger $100 for expense money for a business trip. She also refurnishes her home and pays off the mortgage, giving the money to bank teller Richard Crenna, who is engaged to Miss Dunne's daughter, Joan Evans.

Unknown to Miss Dunne, the money has other characteristics of leaves, such as fading and crumbling. Jagger returns after having been arrested for passing counterfeit money and Crenna is demoted after he refuses to remember who gave him the money. Miss Dunne's neighbor, Edith Meiser, who had stolen the money from the coffee and sugar jars, is arrested making a bank deposit. Miss Dunne reveals all to the newspapers, government officials investigate as the trees are dying and all ends happily as a new bud reveals money.

Miss Dunne's performance is adroit and bulwarks the cast, which includes Frank Ferguson, Malcolm Lee Beggs, Forrest Lewis, Sandy Descher, Dee Pollack, and Bob Sweeney.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. November release.

WALTER PASHKIN

"Hangman's Knot"

(Columbia Pictures)

RANDOLPH SCOTT stars in this unusually fine Western that is loaded with suspense, has been finely photographed in color by Technicolor, and has first-rate production values. Scott was associate producer with Harry Joe Brown and with the considerable aid of writer-director Roy Huggins, an immensely entertaining outdoor drama that is long on action and short on words has been fashioned. It should keep box-offices busy.

The story concerns a band of Confederate soldiers, led by Scott in 1865, who achieve their mission of ambushing and capturing a Union shipment of gold, only to discover the Civil War had ended a month previous. They are beset by local Yankees seeking the gold who have a legitimate excuse for eliminating them.

Eventually the Rebels are surrounded in a mountain stage station. The gold causes lust and dissension within their ranks, as the vigilantes await outside the station. An additional irritant is a party of four hostages, including nurse Donna Reed and cowardly trader Richard Denning. An escape is planned and culminates in the dynamiting and burning of the station, furious gunplay, and the death of just about everyone but Scott, Miss Reed and one or two others.

Performances are uniformly good. In notable support of the stars are Claude Jarman, Jr., Ray Teal, Frank Faylen, Glenn Langan and Lee Marvin. Also in the cast are Jeanette Nolan, Clem Bevans, Guinn (Big Boy) Williams, Monte Blue, John Call and Reed Howes.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

"Thunder in the East"

(Paramount)

THE LAND OF INDIA is the locale of this melodrama, starring the marquee names of Alan Ladd, Deborah Kerr, Charles Boyer and Corinne Calvet. Best results in selling "Thunder in the East" should be found in accenting the action highlights in the film, for it falls short in other departments. The cast, headed by Ladd, should also help the box-office.

The tale, which runs along formula lines, finds Ladd, a free-booting American adventurer in India on a munitions selling mission. He tries to sell guns to the Maharajah of an Indian province, threatened by nefarious bandits feeding on the unrest caused by India's independence from Britain. The Maharajah's secretary, Charles Boyer, turns him down on the philosophical grounds that the only means to quell unrest is by non-violence. The duel between the conflicting philosophies of fighting fire-with-fire and non-violence represents the crux of the problem posed by the picture. In a contrived climax, Ladd's viewpoint of striking back wins out.

The love interest is supplied by Deborah Kerr, who plays the part of a young blind Englishwoman caught with her countrymen in the midst of Indian unrest.

Everett Riskin produced, while Charles Vidor directed from a screenplay by Joe Swerling, based on a novel by Alan Moorehead. Others in the cast include Cecil Kellaway, Mark Cavell, John Abbott, Philip Bourneuf and John Williams.

Running time, 98 minutes. General audience classification. For January release.

MURRAY HOROWITZ

Short Subject

"Joy of Living"

Renoir's distinctive style of painting, which is familiar to multitudes, even to those who give only casual attention to art shop windows, is given intimate attention in this, one of 20th-Fox's short subject series on great masterpieces. Producers Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont have put on the screen in color by Technicolor numbers of famous Renoir works dealing with the enchantment of Paris in springtime, with its sidewalk cafes, flower markets, handsome men and beautiful women, and many other subjects. The life and beauty which the great artist put on canvas is brought to the fore by the camera as a young man walking in New York's Central Park calls to mind the Paris of Renoir.

This film manifestly is a most desirable item for any theatre's program. Certainly it deserves to be advertised along with the feature, not only for the entertainment value it carries but because pictures of this quality tend to add to a theatre's reputation as a center of enlightenment as well as of amusement. Running time, 10 minutes.

FCC Authorizes 10 More TV Stations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Federal Communications Commission has authorized Great Plains Television Properties, Inc., to build two commercial television stations—one in Sioux City, Ia., and one in Little Rock, Ark.

Great Plains, which has already received a grant for a television station in Duluth, is owned by Transcontinental Properties, Inc. Largest stockholders in Transcontinental are Alfred Berger and Herbert Scheftel, who operate newsreel theatres in the Midwest, Florida and the West Coast.

The Commission also authorized the construction of eight additional commercial television stations. They are: Star Broadcasting Co., Pueblo, Colo.; WATR, Inc., Waterbury, Conn.; Tri-City Radio Corp., Muncie, Ind.; Booth Radio and Television Stations, Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.; radio station WISE, Inc., Ashville, N. C.; Neptune Broadcasting Corp.; Atlantic City, N. J.; WCSC, Inc., Charleston, S. C., and Associated Broadcasters, Inc., Bethlehem, Pa.

In all, the FCC has made 92 television station grants since the "freeze" was lifted last July. Five of these stations are already in operation—two in Denver; one in Lubbock, Tex.; one in Austin, Tex. and one in Portland, Ore. There were 108 stations in operation before the freeze was lifted.

There are almost 900 television applications still pending before the Commission.

Asks NCAA to Probe Basketball TV

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—De Paul University has petitioned the National Collegiate Athletic Association to investigate detrimental effects of the televising of basketball games on attendance, Walter Byers, executive director of the NCCA revealed here. The matter has been turned over to the NCAA TV committee for study and consideration.

De Paul, which uses the Chicago Stadium, with a seating capacity of over 20,000, as its home court, claims that attendance at its games was down materially during the past season on nights when other major games were telecast, citing attendance of only 10,000 at a double header last Feb. 23 when the Illinois-Iowa game at Champaign was televised over a Chicago station on the same night.

Broderick Crawford Forms Film Firm

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2. — Broderick Crawford Enterprises has been formed for the purpose of packaging, producing and developing motion picture and television properties.

Crawford will function as president, Milton Cashy as vice-president and treasurer, and Robert L. Cashy as secretary and general manager in charge of production.

By SHERWIN KANE

A serious Federal offense, presumably equal in heinousness to counterfeiting, has been developed by some jurists, with the encouragement of the Attorney General's prosecutors. In their parlance it has become known as "conscious parallelism of action."

The offense is committed when more than one business man, bowing to the dictates of his market, sells his service or commodity on the same basis as does his competitors. It has loomed large in the trial of a number of motion picture anti-trust suits for treble damages in recent years.

It is, therefore, interesting to note what the Hon. Lowell B. Mason of the U. S. Federal Trade Commission had to say on the subject in a recent speech before the 23rd annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Toronto.

Commissioner Mason, commenting on the governmental and legal theories being applied to industry, assumed he was regarding their inevitable aftermath from the van-

When the candidates themselves cast their votes, when one concedes victory to the other, when victory celebrations commence in New York's Times Square and other spots, newsreel camera and sound men will be on hand to record the reactions for theatre audiences.

Camera crews have been assigned to the headquarters of both Presidential candidates; to Independence, Mo., where President Truman will cast his ballot, and to cities around the country where controversial figures competing in Congressional contests will go to the polling booths.

Newsreel processors and editors will start to work on the reels early Wednesday morning and the editions

tage point of the year 2052. Said he:

"It must be borne in mind that as early as 1953 the following things were declared illegal—mind you, only on paper. No one could charge or quote the same price as his competitors because, if he did, he was guilty of 'conscious parallelism of action.'

"Hence, all businessmen were malefactors if they were smart enough to know they couldn't get more for their wares than their competitors, and weren't dumb enough to take less.

"If, when hailed before a court, a defendant endeavored to prove his prices were not frozen by conscious parallelism but fluctuated with the exigencies of the competitive market, then his evidences of price dissimilarities would land him in jail for illegal price discrimination.

"On March 8, 2003, the Department of Justice sued 50,000 businessmen for pricing their goods by conscious parallelism, and the Federal Trade Commission sued 50,000 for quoting different prices (to wholesalers and retailers). No one dared any longer to sell anything at any price without first receiving clearance from the Bureau of Economic Control."

And of triple damages, the Federal Trade Commissioner had this to say:

"The American Congress supplemented its own enforcement (of the anti-trust laws) by the offer of treble damages to any one who could prove injury . . . beside which there was an allowance of comfortable attorneys' fees and costs as an added attraction, so lawyers got into the game, too.

"No one could complain of this technique as long as the government was inadequately prepared to enforce the laws for the public welfare; but when the regulations against all interstate commerce became so ambivalent that whatever you did was illegal, and government proceeded to move into the enforcement stage, private triple damage suits lost moral justification and became the happy hunting ground for the reincarnations of Black Beard, Jean Lafitte, Captain Kidd and Long Ben.

"Private treble damage suits were so profitable to lawyers during the year 2003 that three Supreme Court Justices, six Appeals Judges, and 932 other Federal officials resigned to enter the field.

"But by the year 2001 so many treble damages had been assessed against companies that marshall's levies and court sales shifted the entire corporate structure of American business from the entrepennuers who had started companies to industrial cuckoo birds—so-called because they never built nests themselves but merely moved into possession of going concerns through treble damage ligitation."

Many in this industry will rightfully regard Commissioner Mason's remarks as more prophetic than fanciful.

radio station WINS. The Embassy Newsreel Theatres will feature TV sets in its lobbies. Most other circuits and independents also expect to brief their audiences via loudspeakers.

Important returns, unless a landslide develops, are not expected until late in the evening. In New York, patrons are being advised by news stories that they will be out of the theatre and back home to get the significant results by TV.

Loew's Theatres in Manhattan will be serviced by radio station WMGM, those in Queens by the Long Island Press and the Long Island Star-Journal, while those in Brooklyn will be serviced by the Brooklyn Eagle. The Paramount on Broadway will be serviced by a special ticker supplied by International News Service. An INS spokesman said the Paramount was the only theatre to contract for the service in New York. It will feature the use of special flashes on the screen.

Fox West Coast Theatres has made arrangements for all of its houses to announce late returns at intervals or by slides.

The same practice will prevail pretty much in most key theatres throughout the country.

A. T. & T., Bell Allot More Facilities for Election

The long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in co-operation with the Bell System, will make additional communications facilities available to the nation's television, radio and press association networks for Election Day news coverage.

A. F. Jacobson, long lines director of operations pointed out that the addition of these facilities would enable the broadcasters and news agencies to bring to the public the fastest, most comprehensive news report of any Presidential election in history.

The announcement said that on-the-spot election programs would be transmitted over almost 30,000 miles of inter-city television channels and would be available to 110 television stations in 67 cities. It is estimated that of the more than 18,700,000 television sets now in use, 99 per cent of them would be able to receive Election Day programs over the network.

will be shipped out the evening of that day instead of on Thursday as normally.

Virtually all of the reels shipped Wednesday will be devoted exclusively to the Election Day events. This definitely applies to Warner Pathe Newsreel and Paramount Newsreel. It very likely will be the case with Fox Movietone News, Universal Newsreel and News of the Day, although these companies released no information on that point at the weekend.

Since the reels will not be made up until the new President and Vice-President are elected beyond all doubt, the companies concede that crews, processors and editors are in for some hectic last minute action, particularly if the returns show a neck-and-neck race throughout the day and evening. Negatives will be shipped to laboratories by plane and the prints will be delivered in the same fashion when they are ready.

"It Grows on Trees"

(Universal-International)

A NOVEL IDEA has been cleverly developed into a highly exploitable, amusing comedy that was heartily enjoyed by a sneak preview audience and should be similarly received wherever it plays. Money, as exhibitors well know, does not grow on trees, but it does in this Leonard Goldstein production that was smartly directed by Arthur Lubin and is very engagingly played by a cast headed by Irene Dunne.

The story and screenplay by Leonard Praskins and Barney Slater, based on a Cosmopolitan magazine story, presents Miss Dunne as the wife of Dean Jagger, a struggling accountant. Her impractical purchase of two young trees turns into a gold mine when the trees start bearing five and ten dollar bills Jagger is a very honest fellow and brushes off his wife's efforts to inform him about the trees. She collects the bills in her coffee and sugar jars and writes to Washington concerning their legality.

Convinced it is a gag, Treasury Department official Les Tremayne replies that the money is legal and convinces other officials to write her similarly. Miss Dunne believes the letters and gives Jagger $100 for expense money for a business trip. She also refurnishes her home and pays off the mortgage, giving the money to bank teller Richard Crenna, who is engaged to Miss Dunne's daughter, Joan Evans.

Unknown to Miss Dunne, the money has other characteristics of leaves, such as fading and crumbling. Jagger returns after having been arrested for passing counterfeit money and Crenna is demoted after he refuses to remember who gave him the money. Miss Dunne's neighbor, Edith Meiser, who had stolen the money from the coffee and sugar jars, is arrested making a bank deposit. Miss Dunne reveals all to the newspapers, government officials investigate as the trees are dying and all ends happily as a new bud reveals money.

Miss Dunne's performance is adroit and bulwarks the cast, which includes Frank Ferguson, Malcolm Lee Beggs, Forrest Lewis, Sandy Descher, Dee Pollack, and Bob Sweeney.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. November release.

WALTER PASHKIN

"Hangman's Knot"

(Columbia Pictures)

RANDOLPH SCOTT stars in this unusually fine Western that is loaded with suspense, has been finely photographed in color by Technicolor, and has first-rate production values. Scott was associate producer with Harry Joe Brown and with the considerable aid of writer-director Roy Huggins, an immensely entertaining outdoor drama that is long on action and short on words has been fashioned. It should keep box-offices busy.

The story concerns a band of Confederate soldiers, led by Scott in 1865, who achieve their mission of ambushing and capturing a Union shipment of gold, only to discover the Civil War had ended a month previous. They are beset by local Yankees seeking the gold who have a legitimate excuse for eliminating them.

Eventually the Rebels are surrounded in a mountain stage station. The gold causes lust and dissension within their ranks, as the vigilantes await outside the station. An additional irritant is a party of four hostages, including nurse Donna Reed and cowardly trader Richard Denning. An escape is planned and culminates in the dynamiting and burning of the station, furious gunplay, and the death of just about everyone but Scott, Miss Reed and one or two others.

Performances are uniformly good. In notable support of the stars are Claude Jarman, Jr., Ray Teal, Frank Faylen, Glenn Langan and Lee Marvin. Also in the cast are Jeanette Nolan, Clem Bevans, Guinn (Big Boy) Williams, Monte Blue, John Call and Reed Howes.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

"Thunder in the East"

(Paramount)

THE LAND OF INDIA is the locale of this melodrama, starring the marquee names of Alan Ladd, Deborah Kerr, Charles Boyer and Corinne Calvet. Best results in selling "Thunder in the East" should be found in accenting the action highlights in the film, for it falls short in other departments. The cast, headed by Ladd, should also help the box-office.

The tale, which runs along formula lines, finds Ladd, a free-booting American adventurer in India on a munitions selling mission. He tries to sell guns to the Maharajah of an Indian province, threatened by nefarious bandits feeding on the unrest caused by India's independence from Britain. The Maharajah's secretary, Charles Boyer, turns him down on the philosophical grounds that the only means to quell unrest is by non-violence. The duel between the conflicting philosophies of fighting fire-with-fire and non-violence represents the crux of the problem posed by the picture. In a contrived climax, Ladd's viewpoint of striking back wins out.

The love interest is supplied by Deborah Kerr, who plays the part of a young blind Englishwoman caught with her countrymen in the midst of Indian unrest.

Everett Riskin produced, while Charles Vidor directed from a screenplay by Joe Swerling, based on a novel by Alan Moorehead. Others in the cast include Cecil Kellaway, Mark Cavell, John Abbott, Philip Bourneuf and John Williams.

Running time, 98 minutes. General audience classification. For January release.

"Joy of Living"

(Art Films-20th Century-Fox)

Renoir's distinctive style of painting, which is familiar to multitudes, even to those who give only casual attention to art shop windows, is given intimate attention in this, one of 20th-Fox's short subject series on great masterpieces. Producers Marilyn Silverstone and Boris Vermont have put on the screen in color by Technicolor numbers of famous Renoir works dealing with the enchantment of Paris in springtime, with its sidewalk cafes, flower markets, handsome men and beautiful women, and many other subjects. The life and beauty which the great artist put on canvas is brought to the fore by the camera as a young man walking in New York's Central Park calls to mind the Paris of Renoir.

This film manifestly is a most desirable item for any theatre's program. Certainly it deserves to be advertised along with the feature, not only for the entertainment value it carries but because pictures of this quality tend to add to a theatre's reputation as a center of enlightenment as well as of amusement. Running time, 10 minutes.

FCC Authorizes 10 More TV Stations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Federal Communications Commission has authorized Great Plains Television Properties, Inc., to build two commercial television stations—one in Sioux City, Ia., and one in Little Rock, Ark.

Great Plains, which has already received a grant for a television station in Duluth, is owned by Transcontinental Properties, Inc. Largest stockholders in Transcontinental are Alfred Berger and Herbert Scheftel, who operate newsreel theatres in the Midwest, Florida and the West Coast.

The Commission also authorized the construction of eight additional commercial television stations. They are: Star Broadcasting Co., Pueblo, Colo.; WATR, Inc., Waterbury, Conn.; Tri-City Radio Corp., Muncie, Ind.; Booth Radio and Television Stations, Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.; radio station WISE, Inc., Ashville, N. C.; Neptune Broadcasting Corp.; Atlantic City, N. J.; WCSC, Inc., Charleston, S. C., and Associated Broadcasters, Inc., Bethlehem, Pa.

In all, the FCC has made 92 television station grants since the "freeze" was lifted last July. Five of these stations are already in operation—two in Denver; one in Lubbock, Tex.; one in Austin, Tex. and one in Portland, Ore. There were 108 stations in operation before the freeze was lifted.

There are almost 900 television applications still pending before the Commission.

Asks NCAA to Probe Basketball TV

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—De Paul University has petitioned the National Collegiate Athletic Association to investigate detrimental effects of the televising of basketball games on attendance, Walter Byers, executive director of the NCCA revealed here. The matter has been turned over to the NCAA TV committee for study and consideration.

De Paul, which uses the Chicago Stadium, with a seating capacity of over 20,000, as its home court, claims that attendance at its games was down materially during the past season on nights when other major games were telecast, citing attendance of only 10,000 at a double header last Feb. 23 when the Illinois-Iowa game at Champaign was televised over a Chicago station on the same night.

plans for financing.

Roy M. Brewer, IATSE Coast representative, recently came East to assist in planning what is described as a superstructure for locals here. He explained what the locals on the Coast have accomplished, with special emphasis on the contracts between independent producers and the IATSE.

Participants in the Hollywood council include such non-IATSE unions as the Screen Actors Guild and Screen Extras Guild. Whether the Eastern council ultimately will include other than "IA" locals is not yet known.

In addition to Walsh, Francavilla and D'Inzilla, New York Council planners include:

Daniel Doran, Studio Mechanics Local 52; James DiGangi, Assistant Directors Local 161; Herman Gelber and Harry Garfman, Local 306; Jay Rescher and Fred Fordham, Cameramen's Local 644; George Waugh and Paul D. ## RKO Radio to Follow Policy Of Test Runs on New Films

RKO Radio Pictures plans to follow a policy of test engagements on several of its forthcoming pictures in order to determine the type of campaigns that will be most beneficial to exhibitors. This plan was announced here Monday by Charles Boasberg, general sales manager, at a luncheon for the trade press.

Boasberg pointed out that the test runs would enable the sales department to determine audience reaction and the extent of patronage based on advertising and promotion. Campaigns then can be revised, Boasberg said. He added that it was not the intention of the company to hold back on releases, but rather to help theatres to cash in to a greater extent on RKO product.

Greater freedom of movement in defining new sales plans was envisioned by Boasberg, who said that in cooperation with Arnold Picker, new executive vice-president in charge of distribution, quicker decisions were now possible. For example, Boasberg said while "Androcoles and the Lion" was scheduled to go into general release last weekend, the picture has been withdrawn until after Jan. 1 in order to prepare a new advertising campaign. The RKO sales manager said he felt the company had a big money picture in "Androcoles," as a result of a weekend opening in Denver where it did record business at the Paramount Theatre. The film also

RKO Radio Plans Cut to Two Divisions

North-South Unit To Be Dropped in New Setup

By AL STEEN

Plans for the realignment of RKO Radio Pictures' sales department call for the reduction of the present three-division setup to a two-division arrangement, it was reported here. RKO currently maintains Eastern, Western and North-South divisions, but it is understood that the latter unit will be eliminated and integrated with the other two divisions.

The Canadian district now is a part of the North-South division, with Carl Peppercorn heading the Dominion branches. It is understood that the Canadian offices will be split geographically into the Eastern and Western divisions.

Other districts now within the North-South scope and which will be affected by the proposed switch to two divisions are the Southeastern, under

Talk of Prejudice Toward Theatre TV 'Silly': FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Federal Communications Commission today derided talk from some segments of the industry which labeled as prejudiced the Commission's attitude toward theatre television.

Both Commissioners and staffers said that it was "silly" to accuse the FCC of prejudice against theatre television in view of the fact that the Commission authorized channels for theatre television service some time ago. The channels are allocated on a common carrier basis, they said, but are available to theatre television.

All pointed out that the theatre television hearings had hardly started and that the bulk of the evidence was still to come. "The Commission always keeps an open mind until it reaches a decision," one Commissioner said. A different Commissioner added that "we have no view one way or the other and won't have any until we have heard the evidence and see what the situation is."

"Nobody in the Commission, including the chairman, is going to make up his mind until the record is completed," another said, "and then we'll make a decision based on the record."

Still another maintained that "there isn't any question about prejudice because theatre television is here already. It's just a question of who is going to be licensed for the theatre television service."

The attitude of Commission officials agreed with the opinion of lawyers, both in and out of the industry, who sat through the portion of the theatre television hearing that ended last week. The consensus of the attorneys who represent parties to the case was that the Commission had "bent over backwards to be fair."

Fabian Optimistic On FCC Sentiment

Optimism that the Federal Communications Commission will grant the industry theatre television frequencies was expressed here by Si Fabian, chairman of the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

Fabian scored reports that the FCC, which has just completed the first phase of its theatre TV hearings, has been unreceptive to the industry's bid for channels.

Services Held for James

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4. — Services were held in Flint, Mich., for Wallace O. James, former theatre operator here, who died in Flint last week. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery. At the time of his death he managed a drive-in near Flint.

See Post-Election Upswing on B'way

With the elections over, Broadway theatremen look forward to a boost at the box-office. This week, business at most New York first-runs was spotty and the drop in some situations was attributed to people staying at home keyed to radio and television sets to follow campaign developments.

Last night, in an effort to buoy the box-office, many Broadway theatres featured announcements of important election returns.

"The Happy Time" at Radio City Music Hall hit a nice $128,000 for its opening week. At Loew's State, "Everything I Have Is Yours" opened to a fair $20,000 for its first seven days. A house record for the off-Broadway Fine Arts Theatre was broken by "The Promoter," a robust $15,000 having been chalked up for its first seven days, beating the previous high set by "The Lavender Hill Mob" in Oct., 1951.

Election returns were broadcast to theatre audiences by the Paramount, Roxy, Criterion, Loew's State and the Capitol, with most houses following the policy of not interrupting the feature for announcements. Radio City Music Hall utilized its TV set in the main lounge for keeping patrons posted on the progress of returns.

'Limelight' Strong

Holding up strong is "Limelight" at the Astor, where a fine $35,000 was seen for the second week. At the two-day Trans-Lux 60th Street, featuring the same film, a solid $12,300 is indicated for the second stanza.

"Operation Secret" will have a premiere today at the Paramount, replacing "Springfield Rifle," which bowed out at a pretty good $55,000 for its second week. A steady $32,000 is forecast for the seventh week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli. The fourth and final week of "Just for You" at the Capitol registered a satisfactory $21,000. "Prisoner of Zenda" opened there yesterday.

Another Election Day opening was "Way of a Gaucho" at the Roxy. "The Thief" closed there with a fairly good $44,000 realized in the last six days of its third week. The second week of "The Lusty Men" at the Criterion did a fair $15,000. "Cairo Road" at the Globe opened to a moderate $12,000 for its initial seven days.

"Breaking Through the Sound Barrier" will open at the Victoria tomorrow. "The Fourposter" wound up its engagement there with a moderate $12,000 for its third week. "The Fourposter" is remaining at the off-Broadway Sutton, which expects a steady $9,000 for the film's third stanza.

A fairly nice $15,000 is indicated for the fourth week of "The World in His Arms" at the Mayfair. Holding up strongly is "O Henry's Full House" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux, where the picture is due to hit $10,000 for its third week. A satisfactory $4,500 is forecast for the sixth inning of "The Magic Box" at the Normandie, which has scheduled "Angel Street" for a Nov. 10 opening.

17 from MGM In Six Months

M-G-M has set 12 pictures for tentative release for the four months starting Jan. 1. These, in addition to the five scheduled for November and December, will give exhibitors 17 productions from M-G-M, during the six-month period.

Pictures announced for January to the end of April are scheduled at three a month. There will also be two others for special handling. They are "Lili," with Leslie Caron, Mel Ferrer, Jean Pierre Aumont, Zsa Zsa Gabor, and Kurt Kasznar, and "The Story of Three Loves," starring Leslie Caron, Farley Granger, Ethel Barrymore, James Mason, Moira Shearer, Kirk Douglas and Pier Angeli.

For January, the releases will be "Above and Beyond," starring Robert Taylor, Eleanor Parker and James Whitmore; "The Desperate Search," with Howard Keel, Jane Greer, and Patricia Medina; "The Bad and the Beautiful," with Lana Turner, Kirk Douglas, Walter Pidgeon, Dick Powell, Barry Sullivan and Gloria Grahame.

For February, the pictures will be "The Clown," starring Red Skelton and Timmy Considine; "Jeopardy," with Barbara Stanwyck, Barry Sullivan and Ralph Meeker; and "The Naked Spur," with color in Technicolor, featuring James Stewart, Janet Leigh, Robert Ryan, Ralph Meeker and Millard Mitchell.

"Sombrero," in Technicolor, will be the first picture in March and will have Ricardo Montalban, Pier Angeli, Vittorio Gassman, Cyd Charisse, and Yvonne DeCarlo. Two others in March, are "Rogue's March," starring Peter Lawford, Richard Greene and Janice Rule, and "I Love Melvin," Technicolor, starring Donald O'Conner and Debbie Reynolds.

For April, "Dream Wife" will be the first, with Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr, Walter Pidgeon and Betta St. John. This will be followed by "Small Town Girl," in Technicolor, starring Jane Powell and Farley Granger, and "Connie" with Van Johnson and Janet Leigh.

policy if it pays off at NT's Roxy.

The Roxy will inaugurate its year-round ice show policy a few days before Christmas, Skouras said, reopening the house after a two-week alteration period. Skouras estimated that stage alterations and marquee changes will cost an estimated $85,000. The ice show, which will feature a cast numbering between 85 to 90 persons, will last from 45 minutes to an hour, Skouras added.

Stage production, the NT president explained, will be under the general direction of Arthur Knorr, while David T. Katz will remain as Roxy executive director. The purpose of the change in policy, Skouras explained, is to make the Roxy a show-case, similar in stature to Radio City Music Hall. No decision, he said, has been made as to pricing.

Skouras said the new board of NT will meet again on the Coast Nov. 20 to decide on a dividend declaration.

He reported NT business in some areas better as compared to last year and in other territories worse. He added that the decrease was felt in the TV areas.

NT has divested itself of 45 per cent of the 90 theatres required to be sold under the terms of the consent decree, Skouras reported. He added that NT would go into drive-in operation if approval is gained from the government.

Skouras, as chairman of the research committee of the Theatre Owners of America, said that little has been accomplished by the group in the way of third-dimension films, explaining the millions needed for research is unavailable. He praised the Cinerama process, adding that a number of angles still must be worked out before its widespread adoption.

opened in St. Louis, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, but there will be no more bookings until early 1953.

Another example of greater freedom was the determination at the first screening of "The Murder" to change the title to "The Bystander." The decision was made, Boasberg said, after a brief conference, whereas formerly such a move would have required considerable contact with the studio.

Boasberg announced that the Huntington Hartford omnibus picture containing two short stories, "Face to Face," would be released in three versions. The picture will be available as a single release, or may be booked separately. Theatres with double feature policies may book each of the two stories as a single feature at different times, one being Joseph Conrad's "The Secret Sharer" and the other, "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky," by Stephen Crane. Together, the two stories run 92 minutes. Separately, the former runs 50 minutes and the latter 42 minutes.

Boasberg said RKO had fortified its position with the strongest lineup in its history. The nine productions slated for release between now and Feb. 1 represent a combined negative cost of $18,000,000, he said. Scheduled for test runs are "Blackbeard and the Pirate," "Androcoles and the Lion" and "Montana Belle." Pre-release engagements are being set for Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" and Walt Disney's "Peter Pan."

The press luncheon was attended also by Walter Branson, assistant general sales manager; Kay Norton, publicity director; Maury Segal, trade press contact, and Fred Goldberg, assistant to Miss Norton.

Profit from actual operations—before deductions for charges and taxes —were better in the third quarter of 1952, ending on Sept. 27, than in the same period in 1951, totaling $1,474,843 in the 1952 quarter, against $1,424,688 in the 1951 quarter.

There were 3,914,913 shares of common stock outstanding last Sept. 27.

National Pre-Selling

PRODUCER JESSE LASKY, who is planning a new picture to be titled "The Big Brass Band," addressing last week's showmanship class of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, cited the help given to film picture companies by national magazines. He called to the group's attention the feature stories of pictures in production and their stars that are run by national magazines, and how these stories condition the minds of prospective movie-goers for the time when the pictures arrive in theatres.

International, and Columbia. Others are expected to participate at a later date.

Theatres involved are Loew's State, Ohio and Stillman; RKO's Palace and Warner's Allen, Hippodrome, Tower, Lower Mall and Fairmount. With the exception of the Fairmount, all are downtown houses.

Produced by MCA

The half-hour "live" program will be produced by MCA with Bill Gordon as master of ceremonies. Local film men will form a rotating panel to give information about current and coming attractions and to participate in a quiz for which prizes will be free admission tickets to the theatre of the winner's choice. Also appearing on the program will be any film personalities—stars, producers, directors, or publicity men —who happen to be in town. Whenever possible, clips from pictures will also be used.

It is estimated that the cost of the film-TV program, shared by the producer-theatre sponsors, will approximate $1,000 a week.

Lesser in New Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4.—Sol Lesser and Olle Nordemar, president of Art Films, Sweden, jointly announced the formation of Aurora Productions, to produce features in Scandinavia and handle the distribution of certain Lesser productions there. Nordeman, who produced "Kon-Tiki," will make two features annually.

supplied by American aid, were cited as the "difficulties which face us that could be surmounted if we keep a united front."

Recently returned from a nine-week global business tour that covered 30,000 miles and included visits to 20 countries and 25 cities in the Near East, Far East and Europe, Aboaf found that "no matter what the conditions are, war, pestilence or poverty, the people are desirous of entertainment."

Production is on the upswing in Italy, Germany, France, Japan, and India and in some cases has cost American films preferred playing time and a subsequent slight loss of revenue, according to Aboaf. He said, "The foreign market is there in a healthy condition and it is for us to do what we can to keep our business there in the face of local production and protection."

Aboaf revealed that the recent missions by Hindu and Italian dignitaries had not been favorably looked upon in those countries because of what was deemed unflattering coverage by the American press. He felt that Italy's currency head, Jaschi, might resort to restrictive measures if more satisfactory business arrangements resulting in greater Italian monies were not forthcoming. He noted the first Indian Technicolor film, "Aan," is a great success and that there is an Indian-Pakistan feud going on over Kashmir and also distribution rights. This has resulted in a ban on foreign importations primarily aimed at Indian films, but it is not expected to long hamper American film exhibition. He approvingly termed the recent French negotiations offer of $1,200,000 a good-will gesture.

Aboaf said that Universal-International was doing particularly well with its films and that the type of picture desired varied with the country. Theatre building or reconstruction is going on in many places. In Cairo the theatres burned during the January riots have been beautifully reconstructed and frequently enlarged with the aid of government finances. These are reopening within the next few weeks. In Israel where there is a stark food shortage a new 1,600 seat theatre has been built by an American firm.

Theatres Run Down

Exhibition in Japan is thriving but many of the theatres are being run down due to lack of care. The U. S. Army has released all theatres in the country except the "Ernie Pyle". Of the 3,600 theatres, 10 per cent play American films, 30 per cent play Japanese films, and the remaining 60 per cent play a mixed program. Aboaf declared conditions were "potentially extremely good" although at present there is an importation limitation due to disagreement over distribution rights by distributors. There is a great sum of money spent on the "Kachicko" or pin ball machine craze and Sunday baseball draws huge crowds but as the ball games begin early many in attendance go to see a motion picture afterward.

Palm Springs Will Start Telemeter Use

Palm Springs, Cal., Nov. 4.—General use of Telemeter's television reception facilities by the residents of this heretofore video-less community will commence late this week, according to Telemeter executives, with residents tapping the coaxial cable connecting with giant receiving antennae erected on a mountain nine miles distant.

Racing against the calendar, Telemeter Corp. flew four-one-ton reels of coaxial cable from New York last Saturday to set up multiple-set reception of election results at the Racquet Club tonight.

RKO Radio Plans Cut to Two Divisions

North-South Unit To Be Dropped in New Setup

By AL STEEN

Plans for the realignment of RKO Radio Pictures' sales department call for the reduction of the present three-division setup to a two-division arrangement, it was reported here. RKO currently maintains Eastern, Western and North-South divisions, but it is understood that the latter unit will be eliminated and integrated with the other two divisions.

The Canadian district now is a part of the North-South division, with Carl Peppercorn heading the Dominion branches. It is understood that the Canadian offices will be split geographically into the Eastern and Western divisions.

Other districts now within the North-South scope and which will be affected by the proposed switch to two divisions are the Southeastern, under

It is understood the case will not go to trial for six or more months following filing of answers.

Urges Follow-ups On Candidates

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—Ohio exhibitors are urged to remind victorious candidates in the Ohio Senatorial and Congressional races that now they have an opportunity to vote for repeal of the Federal admission tax, in an ITO of Ohio bulletin by secretary Robert Wile.

"This is vital to the success of the campaign," said Wile, who asked exhibitors to send congratulatory wires and to include the repeal reminder.

RKO Radio to Follow Policy Of Test Runs on New Films

RKO Radio Pictures plans to follow a policy of test engagements on several of its forthcoming pictures in order to determine the type of campaigns that will be most beneficial to exhibitors. This plan was announced here Monday by Charles Boasberg, general sales manager, at a luncheon for the trade press.

Boasberg pointed out that the test runs would enable the sales department to determine audience reaction and the extent of patronage based on advertising and promotion. Campaigns then can be revised, Boasberg said. He added that it was not the intention of the company to hold back on releases, but rather to help theatres to cash in to a greater extent on RKO product.

Greater freedom of movement in defining new sales plans was envisioned by Boasberg, who said that in cooperation with Arnold Picker, new executive vice-president in charge of distribution, quicker decisions were now possible. For example, Boasberg said while "Androcoles and the Lion" was scheduled to go into general release last weekend, the picture has been withdrawn until after Jan. 1 in order to prepare a new advertising campaign. The RKO sales manager said he felt the company had a big money picture in "Androcoles," as a result of a weekend opening in Denver where it did record business at the Paramount Theatre. The film also

Dixie Lee Crosby Funeral Rites Held

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4.—Funeral services for Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of Bing Crosby, who died of cancer Saturday, were held yesterday in Beverly Hills. A Requiem mass was offered at the Roman Catholic Church of the Good Shepherd with Msgr. Patrick J. Concannon officiating.

The former singing and dancing star is also survived by four sons: Gary Evan, twins Philip Land and Dennis Michael, and Lindsay Harry.

Funeral Services For Thomas Spry

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—Funeral services for Thomas B. Spry, who died at his home in Scituate, Mass., were held today at the Crosby Memorial Funeral Home. Spry died last Friday.

He was for many years the Boston franchise holder for First National Pictures. He then became the first Boston branch manager for Warner Brothers. He resigned that position because of ill health about 15 years ago. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth.

Henry Edwards Dies

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4.—British film actor and director Henry Edwards died Sunday. He is featured in the Herbert Wilcox production, "Trent's Last Case," with Orson Welles and Margaret Lockwood, which premiered here Friday. He also appeared in "The Magic Bow," "Green for Danger" and "Dear Mr. Prohack."

Talk of Prejudice Toward Theatre TV 'Silly': FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Federal Communications Commission today derided talk from some segments of the industry which labeled as prejudiced the Commission's attitude toward theatre television.

Both Commissioners and staffers said that it was "silly" to accuse the FCC of prejudice against theatre television in view of the fact that the Commission authorized channels for theatre television service some time ago. The channels are allocated on a common carrier basis, they said, but are available to theatre television.

All pointed out that the theatre television hearings had hardly started and that the bulk of the evidence was still to come. "The Commission always keeps an open mind until it reaches a decision," one Commissioner said. A different Commissioner added that "we have no view one way or the other and won't have any until we have heard the evidence and see what the situation is."

"Nobody in the Commission, including the chairman, is going to make up his mind until the record is completed," another said, "and then we'll make a decision based on the record."

Still another maintained that "there isn't any question about prejudice because theatre television is here already. It's just a question of who is going to be licensed for the theatre television service."

The attitude of Commission officials agreed with the opinion of lawyers, both in and out of the industry, who sat through the portion of the theatre television hearing that ended last week. The consensus of the attorneys who represent parties to the case was that the Commission had "bent over backwards to be fair."

Fabian Optimistic On FCC Sentiment

Optimism that the Federal Communications Commission will grant the industry theatre television frequencies was expressed here by Si Fabian, chairman of the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

Fabian scored reports that the FCC, which has just completed the first phase of its theatre TV hearings, has been unreceptive to the industry's bid for channels.

Services Held for James

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4. — Services were held in Flint, Mich., for Wallace O. James, former theatre operator here, who died in Flint last week. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery. At the time of his death he managed a drive-in near Flint.

James, who also managed theatres in Chicago, Detroit and New York, is survived by his widow, a daughter and two sons.

See Post-Election Upswing on B'way

With the elections over, Broadway theatremen look forward to a boost at the box-office. This week, business at most New York first-runs was spotty and the drop in some situations was attributed to people staying at home keyed to radio and television sets to follow campaign developments.

Last night, in an effort to buoy the box-office, many Broadway theatres featured announcements of important election returns.

"The Happy Time" at Radio City Music Hall hit a nice $128,000 for its opening week. At Loew's State, "Everything I Have Is Yours" opened to a fair $20,000 for its first seven days. A house record for the off-Broadway Fine Arts Theatre was broken by "The Promoter," a robust $15,000 having been chalked up for its first seven days, beating the previous high set by "The Lavender Hill Mob" in Oct., 1951.

Election returns were broadcast to theatre audiences by the Paramount, Roxy, Criterion, Loew's State and the Capitol, with most houses following the policy of not interrupting the feature for announcements. Radio City Music Hall utilized its TV set in the main lounge for keeping patrons posted on the progress of returns.

'Limelight' Strong

Holding up strong is "Limelight" at the Astor, where a fine $35,000 was seen for the second week. At the two-day Trans-Lux 60th Street, featuring the same film, a solid $12,300 is indicated for the second stanza.

"Operation Secret" will have a premiere today at the Paramount, replacing "Springfield Rifle," which bowed out at a pretty good $55,000 for its second week. A steady $32,000 is forecast for the seventh week of "Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli. The fourth and final week of "Just for You" at the Capitol registered a satisfactory $21,000. "Prisoner of Zenda" opened there yesterday.

Another Election Day opening was "Way of a Gaucho" at the Roxy. "The Thief" closed there with a fairly good $44,000 realized in the last six days of its third week. The second week of "The Lusty Men" at the Criterion did a fair $15,000. "Cairo Road" at the Globe opened to a moderate $12,000 for its initial seven days.

"Breaking Through the Sound Barrier" will open at the Victoria tomorrow. "The Fourposter" wound up its engagement there with a moderate $12,000 for its third week. "The Fourposter" is remaining at the off-Broadway Sutton, which expects a steady $9,000 for the film's third stanza.

A fairly nice $15,000 is indicated for the fourth week of "The World in His Arms" at the Mayfair. Holding up strongly is "O Henry's Full House" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux, where the picture is due to hit $10,000 for its third week. A satisfactory $4,500 is forecast for the sixth inning of "The Magic Box" at the Normandie, which has scheduled "Angel Street" for a Nov. 10 opening.

17 from MGM In Six Months

M-G-M has set 12 pictures for tentative release for the four months starting Jan. 1. These, in addition to the five scheduled for November and December, will give exhibitors 17 productions from M-G-M, during the six-month period.

Pictures announced for January to the end of April are scheduled at three a month. There will also be two others for special handling. They are "Lili," with Leslie Caron, Mel Ferrer, Jean Pierre Aumont, Zsa Zsa Gabor, and Kurt Kasznar, and "The Story of Three Loves," starring Leslie Caron, Farley Granger, Ethel Barrymore, James Mason, Moira Shearer, Kirk Douglas and Pier Angeli.

For January, the releases will be "Above and Beyond," starring Robert Taylor, Eleanor Parker and James Whitmore; "The Desperate Search," with Howard Keel, Jane Greer, and Patricia Medina; "The Bad and the Beautiful," with Lana Turner, Kirk Douglas, Walter Pidgeon, Dick Powell, Barry Sullivan and Gloria Grahame.

For February, the pictures will be "The Clown," starring Red Skelton and Timmy Considine; "Jeopardy," with Barbara Stanwyck, Barry Sullivan and Ralph Meeker; and "The Naked Spur," with color in Technicolor, featuring James Stewart, Janet Leigh, Robert Ryan, Ralph Meeker and Millard Mitchell.

"Sombrero," in Technicolor, will be the first picture in March and will have Ricardo Montalban, Pier Angeli, Vittorio Gassman, Cyd Charisse, and Yvonne DeCarlo. Two others in March, are "Rogue's March," starring Peter Lawford, Richard Greene and Janice Rule, and "I Love Melvin," Technicolor, starring Donald O'Conner and Debbie Reynolds.

For April, "Dream Wife" will be the first, with Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr, Walter Pidgeon and Betta St. John. This will be followed by "Small Town Girl," in Technicolor, starring Jane Powell and Farley Granger, and "Connie" with Van Johnson and Janet Leigh.

policy if it pays off at NT's Roxy.

The Roxy will inaugurate its year-round ice show policy a few days before Christmas, Skouras said, reopening the house after a two-week alteration period. Skouras estimated that stage alterations and marquee changes will cost an estimated $85,000. The ice show, which will feature a cast numbering between 85 to 90 persons, will last from 45 minutes to an hour, Skouras added.

Stage production, the NT president explained, will be under the general direction of Arthur Knorr, while David T. Katz will remain as Roxy executive director. The purpose of the change in policy, Skouras explained, is to make the Roxy a show-case, similar in stature to Radio City Music Hall. No decision, he said, has been made as to pricing.

Skouras said the new board of NT will meet again on the Coast Nov. 20 to decide on a dividend declaration.

He reported NT business in some areas better as compared to last year and in other territories worse. He added that the decrease was felt in the TV areas.

NT has divested itself of 45 per cent of the 90 theatres required to be sold under the terms of the consent decree, Skouras reported. He added that NT would go into drive-in operation if approval is gained from the government.

Skouras, as chairman of the research committee of the Theatre Owners of America, said that little has been accomplished by the group in the way of third-dimension films, explaining the millions needed for research is unavailable. He praised the Cinerama process, adding that a number of angles still must be worked out before its widespread adoption.

opened in St. Louis, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, but there will be no more bookings until early 1953.

Another example of greater freedom was the determination at the first screening of "The Murder" to change the title to "The Bystander." The decision was made, Boasberg said, after a brief conference, whereas formerly such a move would have required considerable contact with the studio.

Boasberg announced that the Huntington Hartford omnibus picture containing two short stories, "Face to Face," would be released in three versions. The picture will be available as a single release, or may be booked separately. Theatres with double feature policies may book each of the two stories as a single feature at different times, one being Joseph Conrad's "The Secret Sharer" and the other, "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky," by Stephen Crane. Together, the two stories run 92 minutes. Separately, the former runs 50 minutes and the latter 42 minutes.

Boasberg said RKO had fortified its position with the strongest lineup in its history. The nine productions slated for release between now and Feb. 1 represent a combined negative cost of $18,000,000, he said. Scheduled for test runs are "Blackbeard and the Pirate," "Androcoles and the Lion" and "Montana Belle." Pre-release engagements are being set for Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" and Walt Disney's "Peter Pan."

The press luncheon was attended also by Walter Branson, assistant general sales manager; Kay Norton, publicity director; Maury Segal, trade press contact, and Fred Goldberg, assistant to Miss Norton.

Dave Prince; Southwestern, under Ben Cammack, and Metropolitan, under L. S. Gruenberg.

The Eastern division now has two districts, Eastern and East Central, With R. J. Folliard in charge of the former and M. E. Lefko heading the latter. Nat Levy is division chief. The Western division, headed by Walter Branson until his appointment as assistant to general sales manager Charles Boasberg, currently is split into three districts: Midwest, under Herbert Greenblatt; Rocky Mountain, under A. L. Kolitz, and Western, under J. H. MacIntyre.

Boasberg, prior to his recent appointment as sales chief, headed the North-South district.

taxes and all other charges, (including a loss of $173,640 on the sale of capital assets). This compares with a consolidated net profit for the third quarter of 1951 of $502,205, after taxes and all other charges, (including profit of $1,690.49 on the sale of capital assets, before taxes).

Profit from actual operations—before deductions for charges and taxes—were better in the third quarter of 1952, ending on Sept. 27, than in the same period in 1951, totaling $1,474,843 in the 1952 quarter, against $1,424,688 in the 1951 quarter.

There were 3,914,913 shares of common stock outstanding last Sept. 27.

National Pre-Selling

PRODUCER JESSE LASKY, who is planning a new picture to be titled "The Big Brass Band," addressing last week's showmanship class of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, cited the help given to film picture companies by national magazines. He called to the group's attention the feature stories of pictures in production and their stars that are run by national magazines, and how these stories condition the minds of prospective movie-goers for the time when the pictures arrive in theatres.

Theatres involved are Loew's State, Ohio and Stillman; RKO's Palace and Warner's Allen, Hippodrome, Tower, Lower Mall and Fairmount. With the exception of the Fairmount, all are downtown houses.

Produced by MCA

The half-hour "live" program will be produced by MCA with Bill Gordon as master of ceremonies. Local film men will form a rotating panel to give information about current and coming attractions and to participate in a quiz for which prizes will be free admission tickets to the theatre of the winner's choice. Also appearing on the program will be any film personalities—stars, producers, directors, or publicity men —who happen to be in town. Whenever possible, clips from pictures will also be used.

It is estimated that the cost of the film-TV program, shared by the producer-theatre sponsors, will approximate $1,000 a week.

Lesser in New Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4.—Sol Lesser and Olle Nordemar, president of Art Films, Sweden, jointly announced the formation of Aurora Productions, to produce features in Scandinavia and handle the distribution of certain Lesser productions there. Nordeman, who produced "Kon-Tiki," will make two features annually.

supplied by American aid, were cited as the "difficulties which face us that could be surmounted if we keep a united front."

Recently returned from a nine-week global business tour that covered 30,000 miles and included visits to 20 countries and 25 cities in the Near East, Far East and Europe, Aboaf found that "no matter what the conditions are, war, pestilence or poverty, the people are desirous of entertainment."

Production is on the upswing in Italy, Germany, France, Japan, and India and in some cases has cost American films preferred playing time and a subsequent slight loss of revenue, according to Aboaf. He said, "The foreign market is there in a healthy condition and it is for us to do what we can to keep our business there in the face of local production and protection."

Aboaf revealed that the recent missions by Hindu and Italian dignitaries had not been favorably looked upon in those countries because of what was deemed unflattering coverage by the American press. He felt that Italy's currency head, Jaschi, might resort to restrictive measures if more satisfactory business arrangements resulting in greater Italian monies were not forthcoming. He noted the first Indian Technicolor film, "Aan," is a great success and that there is an Indian-Pakistan feud going on over Kashmir and also distribution rights. This has resulted in a ban on foreign importations primarily aimed at Indian films, but it is not expected to long hamper American film exhibition. He approvingly termed the recent French negotiations offer of $1,200,000 a good-will gesture.

Aboaf said that Universal-International was doing particularly well with its films and that the type of picture desired varied with the country. Theatre building or reconstruction is going on in many places. In Cairo the theatres burned during the January riots have been beautifully reconstructed and frequently enlarged with the aid of government finances. These are reopening within the next few weeks. In Israel where there is a stark food shortage a new 1,600 seat theatre has been built by an American firm.

Theatres Run Down

Exhibition in Japan is thriving but many of the theatres are being run down due to lack of care. The U. S. Army has released all theatres in the country except the "Ernie Pyle". Of the 3,600 theatres, 10 per cent play American films, 30 per cent play Japanese films, and the remaining 60 per cent play a mixed program. Aboaf declared conditions were "potentially extremely good" although at present there is an importation limitation due to disagreement over distribution rights by distributors. There is a great sum of money spent on the "Kachicko" or pin ball machine craze and Sunday baseball draws huge crowds but as the ball games begin early many in attendance go to see a motion picture afterward.

Federal Policies Toward Business Due for Change

Eisenhower Administration Leans to Lower Taxes, Fewer Controls, Less Interference, But Tariff Policy Could Bring Retaliation

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Barring an all-out war, business generally—and including the motion picture industry—can look for a slightly easier time at the hands of the Federal Government during the next few years. How this will be translated into specific acts affecting the film industry is still too early to say.

An Eisenhower Administration—regardless of how the still uncertain struggle for control of Congress goes — will probably mean lower taxes over the next few years, though not necessarily a cut in the admission tax. It will mean a more lenient anti-trust policy, though not necessarily any dropping of the 16mm. case. It will mean fewer controls on business, though not necessarily the complete ending right now of theatre construction controls.

An admission tax cut, a dropping of the 16mm. suit, ending of theatre construction controls are all definite possibilities—they're just not certain, part of the difficulty of translating broad trends into specific instances.

For example, a Republican administration will probably mean an initial economy wave. This, plus a natural tapering-off in defense spending toward the end of 1954, should make possible some small tax cuts. At this point, it looks almost certain that both the new administration and Congress will let the excess profits tax expire next June 30, on schedule. But not too many film industry firms have been affected by this tax.

There'll have to be a tax bill next

Interest Grows For AAA Hand In Arbitration

Proponents Say Ass'n Could Be Cost-Saver

A growing interest in having the American Arbitration Association administer the industry's proposed arbitration system is indicated in both exhibition and distribution circles. A sharp difference of opinion over the possibility of having the AAA in the picture prevailed in the early days of arbitration discussions, but it is reported that opponents and proponents of AAA participation are getting closer together, in favor of the association. As yet, no overtures have been made to the AAA nor has any advice been sought from the organization as to operational procedure.

Meanwhile, a pattern for the financing of a new arbitration system for the motion picture industry is reported to have been drawn up and to be under consideration. One of the principal obstacles in blueprinting a new system has been the matter of costs. Some

Dallas, Nov. 5. — Texas COMPO tomorrow will launch a campaign to have the state admission tax made applicable to prices of $1 instead of the 51 cents and over level now in effect. A 10-page booklet has been prepared to guide exhibitors in their approach to state legislators for suport of the change.

Find Election Night Ballyhoo No Help

Despite the ballyhoo devoted to the message that important election returns would be broadcast to theatre patrons, New York theatres, in the main, suffered a dip at the box-office Election Night, a poll of circuits disclosed here yesterday.

Along Broadway, most first-run houses reported business good for matinees while grosses declined during the evening. With the exception of RKO Theatres, most other circuits reported neighborhood business down Election Night. RKO Theatres said that the box-office was lively both during the day and evening.

Educators to Honor Film Studio Heads

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—A group of nationally known educators will honor studio heads tomorrow with a dinner and reception at the Beverly Hills Hotel for "the significant contributions" Hollywood films are making as teaching aids in schools throughout the United States.

Dr. Roy E. Simpson, California Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be host and will be joined in the tribute by many prominent educators, including Dr. Willard E. Givens, former executive secretary of the National Education Association; Dr. Mark May of Yale University; Dr. A. J. Stoddard, superintendent of Los Angeles schools; Roger Albright, director of educational services of the Motion Picture Association; members of the state board of education, and

Blame Rising Costs For Col. Profit Dip

Increased costs of production and general operations were blamed for the dip in Columbia Pictures Corp. profits for the year ended June 30, 1952, despite the record income realized by the company in the 12 month period, according to a letter to stockholders by Harry Cohn, president.

Comparing the current year's operation with previous years, Cohn pointed out that gross income for 1952 was $59,081,213, the largest in the company's 30-year history. However, the net profit for 1952, it was reported, was $802,872, compared to $1,497,814 in 1951 when the gross income was $55,368,284.

Cohn cited the increase in labor costs as an example. Said he: "The added labor costs in the industry in Hollywood alone amount to $13,000,000 annually, of which our share has amounted to $1,400,000. Unlike many other industries, an increased cost is

Public Relations Group for Canada

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Formal start was made on a proposed motion picture institute of Canada as suggested by the Motion Picture Industry Council last week in Ottawa when the Motion Picture Theatres Association of Ontario in convention here enthusiastically endorsed the project, in which a prime mover is Nat Taylor of Toronto, head of 20th Century Theatres.

Plans call for a central bureau which would work for better box-office and improved public relations on a cooperative basis to meet the new threat of Canadian television.

Grant to Coast on Studio Problems

Arnold Grant, chairman of the board of directors of RKO Radio Pictures, is expected to fly to the Coast today on RKO studio plans immediately following this afternoon's scheduled meeting of the RKO board here.

The board today is expected to appoint three new directors, filling the vacancies caused by the recent resignations of Ralph Stolkin, Abraham L. Koolish and William Gorman. Grant's mission to the Coast, delayed by the internal problems of the company in the East, is a two-fold one, to find a studio head and to map the resump-

Distribution plans will be discussed with Seymour Poe, Lesser's New York representative. No release deal has been set. Made in England, the film stars Mark Stevens.

Myers Charges FCC Is Not Encouraging to Theatre TV

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Federal Communications Commission did not give the industry much encouragement in its hopes for theatre television channels during the course of the recent theatre television hearing, Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers said today.

In a bulletin to Allied members, Myers declared he must report that in his judgment "nothing occurred to indicate that the commissioners are inclined to allocate channels for theatre television."

On the contrary, Myers went on, "most of the questions propounded and observations made seemed to be quite discouraging."

Myers said he had carefully observed the first phase of the hearing and complimented the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee on an "excellent job." He added, however, that "the fight is not lost by any means" and that the Commission would be presented in the January portion of the hearing with facts "calculated to overcome" Commission objections.

Earlier this week the FCC derided talk from some segments of the industry which labeled as prejudiced the Commission's attitude toward theatre television.

Spyros Skouras in Sydney from Tokyo

Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president, has arrived in Sydney, Australia, from Tokyo for a three-week survey of company interests and industry conditions in Australia and New Zealand, the company reported here yesterday.

Skouras is expected to meet with Ernest Turnbull of Hoyt's Theatres, in which 20th Century-Fox has interests, and other leading Australian theatremen and government officials. Discussions are also slated with Michael Moodabe of New Zeland's Amalgamated Theatres. Additionally, Skouras will address groups in his capacity as chairman of the extension committee of the World Brotherhood Movement. Following his stay in Sydney, Skouras will return to the United States by way of Europe, with a stopover in India.

Disney Sets 65 16mm. Distribution Units

Walt Disney Productions has licensed 65 distribution units across the country to handle the 16mm. films for educational, church, club and other non-theatrical users that Disney will make available shortly after Jan. 1, according to Roy Disney, company president. Carl Nater, head of Disney's non-theatrical department, will be in charge of the setup.

Four subjects running from 18 to 27 minutes in length, as well as three separate comedy shorts, are included in the first list of releases. All will be in color.

Stolkin, Corwin Sell Radio Interest

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 5.—Ralph Stolkin, Edward G. Burke and Sherrill Corwin, members of the syndicate which bought Howard Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures, have sold their 33 per cent interest in the Portland and Seattle radio stations to employes of station KOIN, Portland, and to Ted R. Gamble, chairman and partner in the operations, and Arch Morton, Seattle station manager.

An amended application for television channel No. 6 has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission announcing the sale of the stock, Gamble said. Stolkin recently resigned as president and a director of RKO Pictures following unfavorable publicity in the Wall Street Journal concerning his past business activities.

Los Angeles Leading 'Heineman Drive'

United Artists' "Bill Heineman Sales Drive" has moved into its home stretch, with the Los Angeles, New Orleans and New Haven exchanges holding down first places in the three exchange groups into which the company's branches have been divided for purposes of the drive, it was announced here by UA vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is drive captain. Chicago, Cleveland and Vancouver, are the runners-up in the three groups, respectively.

The drive will end on Dec. 6. It began on June 15.

'Andersen' Premiere For Children Nov. 15

RKO Radio will stage a special invitational premiere of Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" at the Paris Theatre here on Nov. 15 for youngsters between the ages of six and 14, children of celebrities, press, radio, magazine and TV representatives.

Plans call for a full-scale premiere, with NBC's TV puppet personality, "Rootie Kazootie," as host and master of ceremonies. The regular premiere of the film will be held Nov. 24 at New York's Criterion Theatre.

V. J. Orsinger Heads Variety in Capital

Arbitration

distribution heads have claimed that they would not give their approval to assessments similar to those specified by the court during the three-year period of the original consent decree, stemming from the case of U. S. vs. Paramount, et al. At that time, the court ruled that the involved distributors should pay up to $340,000 a year for the operation of the system.

Proponents of AAA administration point out, however, that certain factors involved in the system prescribed under the consent decree would not be included in the new and proposed plan. One of these would be no provision for an appeal board. This board cost the distributors $90,000 a year. AAA advocates also assert that there would be no need for 31 arbitration offices, a costly item in the original setup. The AAA now operates 12 offices, eight on a full-time basis and four part time. These regional headquarters could handle film cases in the various territories, it is claimed. This would eliminate the need for arbitration offices in each of the exchange cities. Under consent decree arbitration, 31 full-time offices were in operation, although some branches, such as Seattle, never had a single case filed during the entire three-year period.

While the court-decreed budget for arbitration under the anti-trust case was $340.000, the AAA did not expend more than $200,000 a year. With the appeal board tapping the till for $90,000, actual operation costs were only around $110,000 yearly.

Some leaders of both Allied States and Theatre Owners of America have shown, unofficially, a leaning toward AAA as the administrative agency, but so far they have not been able to get together on a definite formula.

year, because the increases in the individual income tax authorized by Congress in 1951 expire Dec. 31, 1953. These increases will have to be renewed at their present levels or very close to them, to keep the budget remotely near balance. A tax bill, even if it deals with individual income taxes, would give the film industry a chance to lobby for a cut in the admissions tax next year. How much success this would have is uncertain —largely because the government would be losing enough revenue with the ending of the excess profits tax. A better bet for an admission tax cut would be in 1954, when Congress will have to consider what to do about various other excises which the 1956 tax law increased and which are to expire March 31, 1954.

Better Leverage

The fact that 1954 is an election year would give the film industry even better leverage in its campaign.

Present increases in the corporate income tax rates don't expire until June 30, 1954. The outlook there would be for very slight reductions if any.

If, as appears likely at this writing, the Republicans control the House, chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee would be Rep. Dan Reed of New York who, generally, has favored excise and corporate tax cuts. If, as also seems likely today, the Republicans take the Senate, too, Senator Millikin of Colorado would head the Finance Committee. He would probably favor tax cuts at the earliest opportunity.

If the Democrats take the Senate, Finance Committee chairman George might move over to head the Foreign Relations committee, making Sen. Byrd of Virginia chairman of the finance group. Sen. Millikin of Colorado would head the committee in a Republican senate. All three senators would probably favor tax cuts at the earliest opportunity.

An Eisenhower Administration would probably try to avoid bothering business with a flood of anti-trust suits and control measures. Certainly, new anti-trust suits would be fewer for a long while, both because of the fact that the Republicans would be less likely to institute them and because it would take time for a new group of officials to get their teeth into the running of the Justice Department. But whether the Department could risk dropping suits already brought, such as the 16mm. suit, is hard to say. Certainly such a course would lay the Republicans open to sharp criticism from the Democrats.

One of the names most frequently mentioned for the post of Attorney General is Governor Earl Warren of California, whose current job has made him very familiar with the problems of the film industry.

A Republican House would undoubtedly put a damper on the House Judiciary Committee's repeated investigations of monopoly. It is likely that the Senate Small Business Committee's investigation of the film industry will be continued, no matter which party controls the Senate. The top Republican on the committee, Senator Tobey of New Hampshire, views these problems not much differently from Democratic chairman Sparkman.

The Eisenhower Administration will probably move to kill or weaken price and wage and other controls, but allocation controls, which form the basis of theatre construction controls, might be the last to go. However, these, too, might go early in 1953, especially if the Republicans control Congress. In any event, they'll certainly be relaxed rapidly and progressively.

One of the places where party control could make the most difference is in the House Un-American Activities Committee. A Republican House would give the committee to Rep. Velde of Illinois, who has been one of the most outspoken critics of the film industry and the leader in the fight to continue the Hollywood investigation.

The Eisenhower Administration, regardless of the control of Congress, would probably move toward a more protectionist tariff policy, which could very well set off retaliatory steps abroad harmful to the film industry. The Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act comes up for renewal next year, and further strings will probably be put on the program.

Changes in such business regulatory commissions as the Federal Communications Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and others will probably be gradual. Most of the commissioners have terms running for several years, and will probably hang on until the end. But some will go soon. For example, it is expected that FCC chairman Paul A. Walker, who is getting on in years, will quit at the end of this year. What sort of men General Eisenhower will pick to replace them is impossible to say.

Because of the continuing terms of most FCC members there is little reason to believe the election will have any material effect on such pending matters as industry applications for theatre TV channels and the proposed merger of United Paramount Theatres and American Broadcasting Co.

A Republican Senate might mean trouble for the film industry in one respect. Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee would be Sen. Tobey, who has repeatedly criticized motion picture "monopolies," has attacked exclusive theatre telecasts, and put pressure on the Justice Department to get films for Phonevision.

There'll probably be some revision of the Taft-Hartley law at the coming Congress, and it's not unlikely that the new law will include a change long sought by the Hollywood unions —shortening the waiting period within which new workers must join the unions in union shop studios.

one that cannot be passed on to the consumer. It does point out, however, the importance of the most aggressive policy possible, consistent with good management in the production, sale and merchandising of our product."

The Columbia president pointed out these significant factors which affected the industry during the year: The more successful motion pictures have reached unexpectedly high grosses in contrast with an economic trend that has lessened the available pocket money of the "man in the street;" the summer months witnessed a business upsurge; there has been a mounting "grass roots" effort to eliminate the 20 per cent Federal admission tax; strong newspaper editorial opposition to the government's 16 mm. suit has been voiced; there has been a notable increase in the foreign business of the industry.

The policy of Columbia, the president said, would be to continue the presentation of pictures in all categories—high, medium and low negative costs. He also stressed the growing importance of drive-ins as a source of revenue, pointing out that currently in excess of 20 per cent of all theatres are drive-ins. Cohn cited the possibility that the subscription television medium at some future time may become an adjunct to the corporation's business.

"Sky Full of Moon"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

CARLETON CARPENTER, Jan Sterling and Keenan Wynn are starred in this unpretentious, off-trail tale about a callow cowpoke on his first visit to Las Vegas that departs from a formula plot. It is well played by the trio and has appeal but sometimes wallows in sentimentality.

Norman Foster wrote and directed this with an eye towards the talents of the stars and featuring an anti-gambling slant. Carpenter comes to the big gambling town to win some rodeo events. He is shy some eight dollars for the bronco riding event and in his search for work or money enters the small gambling store owned by Wynn at which blonde and curvaceous Jan Sterling works.

Carpenter has an unusual run of luck with the "one-armed bandit" and Miss Sterling accompanies him while he tries to run up a big sum, half of which is to go to her. Carpenter's luck changes and he loses almost all of his money. Miss Sterling is fired by Wynn for reporting late to work and she convinces Carpenter to try "taking" the jackpot machine with a special drill. Carpenter cracks the machine honestly but drops the drill at Wynn's feet in the excitement and he and Miss Sterling leave town in her old car. Carpenter proposes to her but she considerately leaves him and his money. He returns, enters the contest and loses but goes back to work at a ranch, sadder but wiser.

Sidney Franklin, Jr. produced economically but there is no detraction from the story. It should be noted that drama rather than action is emphasized and at a slow pace.

Included in the cast are Elaine Stewart, Robert Burton, Emmett Lynn, and Douglas Dumbrille.

Running time, 73 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

12 More Apply to Join Pioneers

Approval of a second group of 12 applicants for membership in the Motion Picture Pioneers was announced here by Jack Cohn, president, as the committee rushed the processing of applications in time for this year's "Jubilee Dinner of the Pioneers" at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Nov. 25. New members will be inducted at the dinner, which will honor N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, as "The Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952."

Included in the second group are Robert J. Fannon, Republic Pictures; George Gullette and Henry W. Hobart, both of New York and retired; William Meinhardt, Tacme Film Service; William Onie, Oxford Amusement Co., Cincinnati; A. A. (Jack) Renfro, Theatre Booking Service, Omaha; Edward Ruby, New York; William F. Ruffin, Ruffin Amusement Co., Covington, Tenn.; John A. Schnack, Electric Theatre, Larned, Kan.; David M. Sohmer, Lippert Pictures; Dudley M. Williston, Williston Theatre, Indianapolis, and Benjamin Wray of the Film Delivery Service.

Dawson Speaks On Films, Audiences

The attitude of the upper cultural level audience towards motion pictures was termed "The Great Misunderstanding" by Mrs. Henry Dawson, who explained to an audience at the New School for Social Research here that ultra-sophisticated critics of films have misapplied critical standards derived from older and different cultures.

In her talk on "The Motion Picture and the Public," the associate director of community relations for the Motion Picture Association emphasized that American films reflect an American culture which is young and has different levels and needs.

Eight Named for 'Movietime' Tours

CHARLOTTE, Nov. 5.—Eight Hollywood personalities will visit scores of Carolina communities in the annual "Movietime, U.S.A." tours starting Sunday. They are stars Bill Lundigan, Rod Cameron, Chill Wills, starlets Kathleen Crowley, Alice Kelley, Laura Elliott, and writers Douglas Morrow and Robert Hardy Andrews.

The group will arrive here in the afternoon and will remain in Charlotte for the annual banquet and dance of the 40th annual convention of the Theatre Owners Association of North and South Carolina. They will leave Charlotte the next morning.

AA's 'Goldstein Drive' Extended

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—Sales results in bulk exceeding print availability has necessitated an extension of Allied Artist's "Morey Goldstein Sales Drive" through January. Goldstein will confer with company executives here next week.

Eastern members of Allied Artists' board of directors will arrive over the weekend to attend the meeting which will follow a stockholders meeting on Wednesday.

Wisc. Allied Leads Convention List

Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—With 106 listed thus far, Wisconsin Allied is said to lead the reservation list with the biggest delegation to attend the national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 15-17. They will have their own hospitality room at the convention, through the courtesy of Fox-Head Brewery, Waukesha.

Walter Brecher to N.Y. Rogers Post

Walter Brecher of Brecher Theatres has been named exhibitor chairman of the New York area for this year's "Christmas Salute," it was jointly announced by Abe Montague, president of Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, and Sam Switow, national exhibitor chairman.

In accepting the post, Brecher pointed out that "the accomplishments of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital are attracting to it increasing and widespread interest. This is evidenced by gratifying early returns in the public-appeal coin-box operation. While this is separate and distinct from the industry's Christmas Salute, it indicates that the public recognizes the wonderful work of the Will Rogers Hospital.

"Certainly we in the industry, especially in the New York area, can do no less than give it our wholehearted support by seeing to it that all in the amusement industry sign the Christmas Salute scroll and make a contribution to help 'Care for Our Own' during the once-a-year campaign now in progress."

Radio-TV Panel For Ampa Course

Tonight's subject for the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' class in the series of 12 showmanship lectures will be "Publicity—Not the Printed Word." Blanche Livingston, in charge of publicity for RKO out-of-town theatres, will be chairman.

On the rostrum will be Harry Rausch, vice-president of Young and Rubicam in charge of radio and television publicity and promotion; Al Hollander, production facilities manager of DuMont Network; Gordon Kinney, radio and TV manager of the Advertising Council.

Arrangements have been made with DuMont Television Network to have the students make a tour of its studios.

Federal Policies Toward Business Due for Change

Eisenhower Administration Leans to Lower Taxes, Fewer Controls, Less Interference, But Tariff Policy Could Bring Retaliation

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Barring an all-out war, business generally—and including the motion picture industry—can look for a slightly easier time at the hands of the Federal Government during the next few years. How this will be translated into specific acts affecting the film industry is still too early to say.

An Eisenhower Administration—regardless of how the still uncertain struggle for control of Congress goes — will probably mean lower taxes over the next few years, though not necessarily a cut in the admission tax. It will mean a more lenient anti-trust policy, though not necessarily any dropping of the 16mm. case. It will mean fewer controls on business, though not necessarily the complete ending right now of theatre construction controls.

An admission tax cut, a dropping of the 16mm. suit, ending of theatre construction controls are all definite possibilities—they're just not certain, part of the difficulty of translating broad trends into specific instances.

For example, a Republican administration will probably mean an initial economy wave. This, plus a natural tapering-off in defense spending toward the end of 1954, should make possible some small tax cuts. At this point, it looks almost certain that both the new administration and Congress will let the excess profits tax expire next June 30, on schedule. But not too many film industry firms have been affected by this tax.

There'll have to be a tax bill next

Interest Grows For AAA Hand In Arbitration

Proponents Say Ass'n Could Be Cost-Saver

A growing interest in having the American Arbitration Association administer the industry's proposed arbitration system is indicated in both exhibition and distribution circles. A sharp difference of opinion over the possibility of having the AAA in the picture prevailed in the early days of arbitration discussions, but it is reported that opponents and proponents of AAA participation are getting closer together, in favor of the association. As yet, no overtures have been made to the AAA nor has any advice been sought from the organization as to operational procedure.

Meanwhile, a pattern for the financing of a new arbitration system for the motion picture industry is reported to have been drawn up and to be under consideration. One of the principal obstacles in blueprinting a new system has been the matter of costs. Some

Small, Bankers Trust In New Finance Deal

Bankers Trust Co. of New York has closed a new financing deal with Edward Small, who releases through United Artists.

While the amount involved was not revealed, Harry Watkins, vice president of Bankers Trust, said yesterday that completion of the deal was an indication of the bank's confidence in the management of UA.

Canadian Industry Toasts Pioneers

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Representatives of the Canadian film industry from all parts of the country paid tribute tonight at the 50th anniversary banquet sponsored by the Canadian Picture Pioneers to six early leaders of the theatre world in the Dominion.

Those honored with special scrolls were John Chuberg of Vancouver; George Anetakos and L. E. Ouimet of Montreal; Jule Allen of Toronto; Arch J. Mason of Springhill, N. S., and the late F. G. Spencer of St. John, N. B.

Texas COMPO Seeks State Tax Change

Dallas, Nov. 5. — Texas COMPO tomorrow will launch a campaign to have the state admission tax made applicable to prices of $1 instead of the 51 cents and over level now in effect. A 10-page booklet has been prepared to guide exhibitors in their approach to state legislators for support of the change.

Find Election Night Ballyhoo No Help

Despite the ballyhoo devoted to the message that important election returns would be broadcast to theatre patrons, New York theatres, in the main, suffered a dip at the box-office Election Night, a poll of circuits disclosed here yesterday.

Along Broadway, most first-run houses reported business good for matinees while grosses declined during the evening. With the exception of RKO Theatres, most other circuits reported neighborhood business down Election Night. RKO Theatres said that the box-office was lively both during the day and evening.

Educators to Honor Film Studio Heads

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—A group of nationally known educators will honor studio heads tomorrow with a dinner and reception at the Beverly Hills Hotel for "the significant contributions" Hollywood films are making as teaching aids in schools throughout the United States.

Dr. Roy E. Simpson, California Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be host and will be joined in the tribute by many prominent educators, including Dr. Willard E. Givens, former executive secretary of the National Education Association; Dr. Mark May of Yale University; Dr. A. J. ## Blame Rising Costs For Col. Profit Dip

Increased costs of production and general operations were blamed for the dip in Columbia Pictures Corp. profits for the year ended June 30, 1952, despite the record income realized by the company in the 12 month period, according to a letter to stockholders by Harry Cohn, president.

Comparing the current year's operation with previous years, Cohn pointed out that gross income for 1952 was $59,081,213, the largest in the company's 30-year history. However, the net profit for 1952, it was reported, was $802,872, compared to $1,497,814 in 1951 when the gross income was $55,368,284.

Cohn cited the increase in labor costs as an example. Said he: "The added labor costs in the industry in Hollywood alone amount to $13,000,000 annually, of which our share has amounted to $1,400,000. Unlike many other industries, an increased cost is

Public Relations Group for Canada

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Formal start was made on a proposed motion picture institute of Canada as suggested by the Motion Picture Industry Council last week in Ottawa when the Motion Picture Theatres Association of Ontario in convention here enthusiastically endorsed the project, in which a prime mover is Nat Taylor of Toronto, head of 20th Century Theatres.

Plans call for a central bureau which would work for better box-office and improved public relations on a cooperative basis to meet the new threat of Canadian television.

Grant to Coast on Studio Problems

Arnold Grant, chairman of the board of directors of RKO Radio Pictures, is expected to fly to the Coast today on RKO studio plans immediately following this afternoon's scheduled meeting of the RKO board here.

The board today is expected to appoint three new directors, filling the vacancies caused by the recent resignations of Ralph Stolkin, Abraham L. Koolish and William Gorman. Grant's mission to the Coast, delayed by the internal problems of the company in the East, is a two-fold one, to find a studio head and to map the resump-

Sennett, Ritzes in Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—Mack Sennett and the Ritz brothers have combined in a package deal centered on a story titled "Galloping Geese," which will be offered to a major studio. This would bring Sennett back to active production as a director. The story, to star Harry, Al and Jimmy Ritz, is backgrounded in Los Angeles.

Lesser Bringing Print

Julian Lesser, president of Royal Productions, is scheduled to arrive in New York tomorrow from Hollywood with a print of his latest picture, "The Lost Hours." Distribution plans will be discussed with Seymour Poe, Lesser's New York representative. No release deal has been set. Made in England, the film stars Mark Stevens.

Myers Charges FCC Is Not Encouraging to Theatre TV

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Federal Communications Commission did not give the industry much encouragement in its hopes for theatre television channels during the course of the recent theatre television hearing, Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers said today.

In a bulletin to Allied members, Myers declared he must report that in his judgment "nothing occurred to indicate that the commissioners are inclined to allocate channels for theatre television."

On the contrary, Myers went on, "most of the questions propounded and observations made seemed to be quite discouraging."

Myers said he had carefully observed the first phase of the hearing and complimented the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee on an "excellent job." He added, however, that "the fight is not lost by any means" and that the Commission would be presented in the January portion of the hearing with facts "calculated to overcome" Commission objections.

Earlier this week the FCC derided talk from some segments of the industry which labeled as prejudiced the Commission's attitude toward theatre television.

Spyros Skouras in Sydney from Tokyo

Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president, has arrived in Sydney, Australia, from Tokyo for a three-week survey of company interests and industry conditions in Australia and New Zealand, the company reported here yesterday.

Skouras is expected to meet with Ernest Turnbull of Hoyt's Theatres, in which 20th Century-Fox has interests, and other leading Australian theatremen and government officials. Discussions are also slated with Michael Moodabe of New Zeland's Amalgamated Theatres. Additionally, Skouras will address groups in his capacity as chairman of the extension committee of the World Brotherhood Movement. Following his stay in Sydney, Skouras will return to the United States by way of Europe, with a stopover in India.

Disney Sets 65 16mm. Distribution Units

Walt Disney Productions has licensed 65 distribution units across the country to handle the 16mm. films for educational, church, club and other non-theatrical users that Disney will make available shortly after Jan. 1, according to Roy Disney, company president. Carl Nater, head of Disney's non-theatrical department, will be in charge of the setup.

Four subjects running from 18 to 27 minutes in length, as well as three separate comedy shorts, are included in the first list of releases. All will be in color.

Stolkin, Corwin Sell Radio Interest

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 5.—Ralph Stolkin, Edward G. Burke and Sherrill Corwin, members of the syndicate which bought Howard Hughes' controlling stock interest in RKO Pictures, have sold their 33 per cent interest in the Portland and Seattle radio stations to employes of station KOIN, Portland, and to Ted R. Gamble, chairman and partner in the operations, and Arch Morton, Seattle station manager.

An amended application for television channel No. 6 has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission announcing the sale of the stock, Gamble said. Stolkin recently resigned as president and a director of RKO Pictures following unfavorable publicity in the Wall Street Journal concerning his past business activities.

Los Angeles Leading 'Heineman Drive'

United Artists' "Bill Heineman Sales Drive" has moved into its home stretch, with the Los Angeles, New Orleans and New Haven exchanges holding down first places in the three exchange groups into which the company's branches have been divided for purposes of the drive, it was announced here by UA vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is drive captain. Chicago, Cleveland and Vancouver, are the runners-up in the three groups, respectively.

The drive will end on Dec. 6. It began on June 15.

'Andersen' Premiere For Children Nov. 15

RKO Radio will stage a special invitational premiere of Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" at the Paris Theatre here on Nov. 15 for youngsters between the ages of six and 14, children of celebrities, press, radio, magazine and TV representatives.

Plans call for a full-scale premiere, with NBC's TV puppet personality, "Rootie Kazootie," as host and master of ceremonies. The regular premiere of the film will be held Nov. 24 at New York's Criterion Theatre.

V. J. Orsinger Heads Variety in Capital

distribution heads have claimed that they would not give their approval to assessments similar to those specified by the court during the three-year period of the original consent decree, stemming from the case of U. S. vs. Paramount, et al. At that time, the court ruled that the involved distributors should pay up to $340,000 a year for the operation of the system.

Proponents of AAA administration point out, however, that certain factors involved in the system prescribed under the consent decree would not be included in the new and proposed plan. One of these would be no provision for an appeal board. This board cost the distributors $90,000 a year. AAA advocates also assert that there would be no need for 31 arbitration offices, a costly item in the original setup. The AAA now operates 12 offices, eight on a full-time basis and four part time. These regional headquarters could handle film cases in the various territories, it is claimed. This would eliminate the need for arbitration offices in each of the exchange cities. Under consent decree arbitration, 31 full-time offices were in operation, although some branches, such as Seattle, never had a single case filed during the entire three-year period.

While the court-decreed budget for arbitration under the anti-trust case was $340,000, the AAA did not expend more than $200,000 a year. With the appeal board tapping the till for $90,000, actual operation costs were only around $110,000 yearly.

Some leaders of both Allied States and Theatre Owners of America have shown, unofficially, a leaning toward AAA as the administrative agency, but so far they have not been able to get together on a definite formula.

year, because the increases in the individual income tax authorized by Congress in 1951 expire Dec. 31, 1953. These increases will have to be renewed at their present levels or very close to them, to keep the budget remotely near balance. A tax bill, even if it deals with individual income taxes, would give the film industry a chance to lobby for a cut in the admissions tax next year. How much success this would have is uncertain —largely because the government would be losing enough revenue with the ending of the excess profits tax. A better bet for an admission tax cut would be in 1954, when Congress will have to consider what to do about various other excises which the 1956 tax law increased and which are to expire March 31, 1954.

Better Leverage

The fact that 1954 is an election year would give the film industry even better leverage in its campaign.

Present increases in the corporate income tax rates don't expire until June 30, 1954. The outlook there would be for very slight reductions if any.

If, as appears likely at this writing, the Republicans control the House, chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee would be Rep. Dan Reed of New York who, generally, has favored excise and corporate tax cuts. If, as also seems likely today, the Republicans take the Senate, too, Senator Millikin of Colorado would head the Finance Committee. He would probably favor tax cuts at the earliest opportunity.

If the Democrats take the Senate, Finance Committee chairman George might move over to head the Foreign Relations committee, making Sen. Byrd of Virginia chairman of the finance group. Sen. Millikin of Colorado would head the committee in a Republican senate. All three senators would probably favor tax cuts at the earliest opportunity.

An Eisenhower Administration would probably try to avoid bothering business with a flood of anti-trust suits and control measures. Certainly, new anti-trust suits would be fewer for a long while, both because of the fact that the Republicans would be less likely to institute them and because it would take time for a new group of officials to get their teeth into the running of the Justice Department. But whether the Department could risk dropping suits already brought, such as the 16mm. suit, is hard to say. Certainly such a course would lay the Republicans open to sharp criticism from the Democrats.

One of the names most frequently mentioned for the post of Attorney General is Governor Earl Warren of California, whose current job has made him very familiar with the problems of the film industry.

A Republican House would undoubtedly put a damper on the House Judiciary Committee's repeated investigations of monopoly. It is likely that the Senate Small Business Committee's investigation of the film industry will be continued, no matter which party controls the Senate. The top Republican on the committee, Senator Tobey of New Hampshire, views these problems not much differently from Democratic chairman Sparkman.

The Eisenhower Administration will probably move to kill or weaken price and wage and other controls, but allocation controls, which form the basis of theatre construction controls, might be the last to go. However, these, too, might go early in 1953, especially if the Republicans control Congress. In any event, they'll certainly be relaxed rapidly and progressively.

One of the places where party control could make the most difference is in the House Un-American Activities Committee. A Republican House would give the committee to Rep. Velde of Illinois, who has been one of the most outspoken critics of the film industry and the leader in the fight to continue the Hollywood investigation.

The Eisenhower Administration, regardless of the control of Congress, would probably move toward a more protectionist tariff policy, which could very well set off retaliatory steps abroad harmful to the film industry. The Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act comes up for renewal next year, and further strings will probably be put on the program.

Changes in such business regulatory commissions as the Federal Communications Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and others will probably be gradual. Most of the commissioners have terms running for several years, and will probably hang on until the end. But some will go soon. For example, it is expected that FCC chairman Paul A. Walker, who is getting on in years, will quit at the end of this year. What sort of men General Eisenhower will pick to replace them is impossible to say.

Because of the continuing terms of most FCC members there is little reason to believe the election will have any material effect on such pending matters as industry applications for theatre TV channels and the proposed merger of United Paramount Theatres and American Broadcasting Co.

A Republican Senate might mean trouble for the film industry in one respect. Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee would be Sen. Tobey, who has repeatedly criticized motion picture "monopolies," has attacked exclusive theatre telecasts, and put pressure on the Justice Department to get films for Phonevision.

There'll probably be some revision of the Taft-Hartley law at the coming Congress, and it's not unlikely that the new law will include a change long sought by the Hollywood unions —shortening the waiting period within which new workers must join the unions in union shop studios.

one that cannot be passed on to the consumer. It does point out, however, the importance of the most aggressive policy possible, consistent with good management in the production, sale and merchandising of our product."

The Columbia president pointed out these significant factors which affected the industry during the year: The more successful motion pictures have reached unexpectedly high grosses in contrast with an economic trend that has lessened the available pocket money of the "man in the street;" the summer months witnessed a business upsurge; there has been a mounting "grass roots" effort to eliminate the 20 per cent Federal admission tax; strong newspaper editorial opposition to the government's 16 mm. suit has been voiced; there has been a notable increase in the foreign business of the industry.

The policy of Columbia, the president said, would be to continue the presentation of pictures in all categories—high, medium and low negative costs. He also stressed the growing importance of drive-ins as a source of revenue, pointing out that currently in excess of 20 per cent of all theatres are drive-ins. Cohn cited the possibility that the subscription television medium at some future time may become an adjunct to the corporation's business.

"Sky Full of Moon"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

CARLETON CARPENTER, Jan Sterling and Keenan Wynn are starred in this unpretentious, off-trail tale about a callow cowpoke on his first visit to Las Vegas that departs from a formula plot. It is well played by the trio and has appeal but sometimes wallows in sentimentality.

Norman Foster wrote and directed this with an eye towards the talents of the stars and featuring an anti-gambling slant. Carpenter comes to the big gambling town to win some rodeo events. He is shy some eight dollars for the bronco riding event and in his search for work or money enters the small gambling store owned by Wynn at which blonde and curvaceous Jan Sterling works.

Carpenter has an unusual run of luck with the "one-armed bandit" and Miss Sterling accompanies him while he tries to run up a big sum, half of which is to go to her. Carpenter's luck changes and he loses almost all of his money. Miss Sterling is fired by Wynn for reporting late to work and she convinces Carpenter to try "taking" the jackpot machine with a special drill. Carpenter cracks the machine honestly but drops the drill at Wynn's feet in the excitement and he and Miss Sterling leave town in her old car. Carpenter proposes to her but she considerately leaves him and his money. He returns, enters the contest and loses but goes back to work at a ranch, sadder but wiser.

Sidney Franklin, Jr. produced economically but there is no detraction from the story. It should be noted that drama rather than action is emphasized and at a slow pace.

Included in the cast are Elaine Stewart, Robert Burton, Emmett Lynn, and Douglas Dumbrille.

Running time, 73 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

12 More Apply to Join Pioneers

Approval of a second group of 12 applicants for membership in the Motion Picture Pioneers was announced here by Jack Cohn, president, as the committee rushed the processing of applications in time for this year's "Jubilee Dinner of the Pioneers" at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Nov. 25. New members will be inducted at the dinner, which will honor N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, as "The Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952."

Included in the second group are Robert J. Fannon, Republic Pictures; George Gullette and Henry W. Hobart, both of New York and retired; William Meinhardt, Tacme Film Service; William Onie, Oxford Amusement Co., Cincinnati; A. A. (Jack) Renfro, Theatre Booking Service, Omaha; Edward Ruby, New York; William F. Ruffin, Ruffin Amusement Co., Covington, Tenn.; John A. Schnack, Electric Theatre, Larned, Kan.; David M. Sohmer, Lippert Pictures; Dudley M. Williston, Williston Theatre, Indianapolis, and Benjamin Wray of the Film Delivery Service.

Dawson Speaks On Films, Audiences

The attitude of the upper cultural level audience towards motion pictures was termed "The Great Misunderstanding" by Mrs. Henry Dawson, who explained to an audience at the New School for Social Research here that ultra-sophisticated critics of films have misapplied critical standards derived from older and different cultures.

In her talk on "The Motion Picture and the Public," the associate director of community relations for the Motion Picture Association emphasized that American films reflect an American culture which is young and has different levels and needs.

Eight Named for 'Movietime' Tours

CHARLOTTE, Nov. 5.—Eight Hollywood personalities will visit scores of Carolina communities in the annual "Movietime, U.S.A." tours starting Sunday. They are stars Bill Lundigan, Rod Cameron, Chill Wills, starlets Kathleen Crowley, Alice Kelley, Laura Elliott, and writers Douglas Morrow and Robert Hardy Andrews.

The group will arrive here in the afternoon and will remain in Charlotte for the annual banquet and dance of the 40th annual convention of the Theatre Owners Association of North and South Carolina. They will leave Charlotte the next morning.

AA's 'Goldstein Drive' Extended

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—Sales results in bulk exceeding print availability has necessitated an extension of Allied Artist's "Morey Goldstein Sales Drive" through January. Goldstein will confer with company executives here next week.

Wisc. Allied Leads Convention List

Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—With 106 listed thus far, Wisconsin Allied is said to lead the reservation list with the biggest delegation to attend the national Allied convention in Chicago, Nov. 15-17. They will have their own hospitality room at the convention, through the courtesy of Fox-Head Brewery, Waukesha.

Walter Brecher to N.Y. Rogers Post

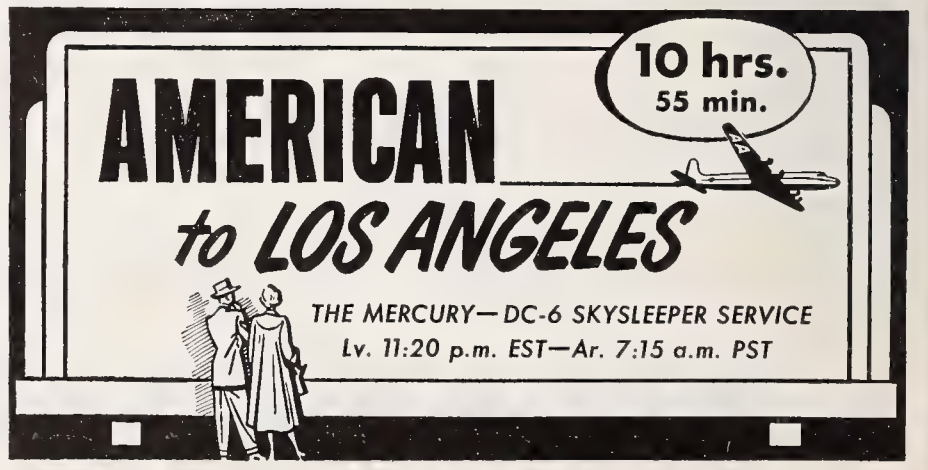
Walter Brecher of Brecher Theatres has been named exhibitor chairman of the New York area for this year's "Christmas Salute," it was jointly announced by Abe Montague, president of Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, and Sam Switow, national exhibitor chairman.

In accepting the post, Brecher pointed out that "the accomplishments of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital are attracting to it increasing and widespread interest. This is evidenced by gratifying early returns in the public-appeal coin-box operation. While this is separate and distinct from the industry's Christmas Salute, it indicates that the public recognizes the wonderful work of the Will Rogers Hospital.



"Certainly we in the industry, especially in the New York area, can do no less than give it our wholehearted support by seeing to it that all in the amusement industry sign the Christmas Salute scroll and make a contribution to help 'Care for Our Own' during the once-a-year campaign now in progress."

Radio-TV Panel For Ampa Course

Tonight's subject for the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' class in the series of 12 showmanship lectures will be "Publicity—Not the Printed Word." Blanche Livingston, in charge of publicity for RKO out-of-town theatres, will be chairman.

On the rostrum will be Harry Rausch, vice-president of Young and Rubicam in charge of radio and television publicity and promotion; Al Hollander, production facilities manager of DuMont Network; Gordon Kinney, radio and TV manager of the Advertising Council.

Arrangements have been made with DuMont Television Network to have the students make a tour of its studios.

Para. Reports 9 Months Net Is Up $458,000

Third Quarter Earnings Estimated at $4,663,000

Paramount Pictures' net profit for the first nine months of 1952 increased $458,000 over the same period one year ago, the company's board of directors was told at a meeting held here yesterday.

Consolidated earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 27, after taxes, are estimated at $4,663,000 and include non-recurring capital gains of $500,000. The earnings are equal to $1.99 per share and, excluding the capital gains, to $1.78 per share. Consolidated earnings for the first nine months of 1951 were estimated at $4,205,000 and represented $1.83 per share.

Paramount estimates earnings for the third quarter ended Sept. 27 at $1,878,000 after provision for income

Plan K. C.-St. Louis Television Channel

Plans for a microwave radio-relay route between Kansas City and St. Louis, supplying television channels, were disclosed here by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which has filed its application incorporating such plans with the Federal Communications Commission.

The proposed link would augment existing cable facilities, interconnecting Kansas City with Omaha and a new radio-relay route stretching South to Texas. At St. Louis it would tie in with coaxial cables extending

Distributors Irked By Low Attendance at Trade Shows

Exhibitor attendance at trade showings has dropped to a new low and unless the screenings get greater support some distributors may drop them completely, it was indicated here yesterday. One major company executive said that less than 50 exhibitors nationally are attending the showings and that this lack of interest might be the cause of adverse business in some localities. Current attendance, he said, is far below that of a year ago which, even then, was disappointing.

It is estimated that a national screening costs between $5,000 and $6,000, which includes screening room rentals, projectionists and publicity. In many cases, not a single exhibitor shows up.

At a recent meeting of executives of one large circuit, attended by more than 200 persons, a major company advertising manager asked how many in the room had been to the distributor's last screening. Only three men raised their hands. The advertising chief argued that it was conducive to good business to see all forthcoming product in order to prepare campaigns effectively.

Two years ago, Paramount dropped trade screenings for lack of attendance

Dismisses Dubonnet Suit Versus ASCAP

Federal Judge Henry Goddard yesterday dismissed the application of the Dubonnet Music Publishing Co., seeking to amend the ASCAP decree so as to bar motion picture companies from the music publishing field.

Harold Lasser of the Department of Justice had informed the court during yesterday's hearing here that Dubonnet had failed to submit any evidence to him, supporting its application. The submission of such evidence had been requested by the court.

FWC Operators Get Welfare Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Fox West Coast Theatres has agreed to a new contract with IATSE projectionists Local No. 162 which calls for inclusion of a health and welfare plan. George Bowser, Spence Leve (Northern California manager), and Joe Tuohey represented FWC. The projectionists were represented by John Forde, Abe Lubfin, Merv Wagner and Steve B. Newman.

At the meeting, requested by FWC, which averted strike action, it was also agreed that all FWC theatres of Northern California would grant to the various locals of the "IA" the same health and welfare benefits.

Exhibitor Forums For 20th's 'Venice'

A series of promotional briefings in every 20th Century-Fox exchange in the country has been launched by the company in cooperation with Collier's and Look magazines on behalf of "The Thief of Venice" national advertising campaign, it was announced here by Al Lichtman, director of distribution.

The meetings, to which scores of exhibitors have been invited, will detail information on the advertising barrage to be used in both magazines and explain how exhibitors may have their playdates listed in the ads to pinpoint local engagements.

Following preliminary meetings in Cincinnati, Indianapolis and St. Louis, sessions will be held Monday at New Haven, Boston, Buffalo, Albany, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Washington, Kansas City, Cleveland Chicago and Detroit.

Hughes' RKO Theatre Stock Out of Trust

Two Provisions Govern Stipulation with Gov't

Under a stipulation between Howard Hughes and the Department of Justice, Hughes yesterday was permitted to take his RKO Theatres stock out of trust, with two provisions. The theatres stock has been in trusteeship with the Irving Trust Co. since January, 1951.

One provision requires Hughes to put the theatres stock back into trust if he re-takes the stock of RKO Radio Pictures or if the new purchasers of the company's control don't pay for the stock. Under this provision, if Hughes re-takes the pictures stock, he must put that stock or the theatres stock back into trust.

The second provision stipulates that if Hughes becomes a creditor to the

Says Other Industries Adopt Film Promotional Ideas

A wealth of promotional ideas now being used in many other industries, particularly in radio and television, have been taken from the motion picture industry, Harry Rauch, Young and Rubican advertising agency vice-president, declared here last night at the weekly showmanship course held by the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers at the Hotel Woodstock.

Rauch, who is in charge of radio and television publicity and promotions, stated that in his belief radio and TV are not competitive to motion pictures, but are compatible, and they can be used to sell tickets at the box-office. Rauch stated that a million-dollar idea can be carried on a post-card, and gave as an example the recent Joan Davis junket to Hollywood—nothing new about it, he said, but it resolved into thousands and thousands of dollars worth of publicity.

Allowing the class to participate in an unexpected deal between radio and a picture company, Rauch spotted Sid Mesibov, exploitation director of Paramount Pictures in the audience, and on the spot conducted a tie-up with him on Bob Hope who is on radio for Jello via Young and Rubicam, and in pictures for Paramount.

Gordon Kinney, radio and TV manager for the Advertising Council, explained visually how advertising works on TV; Al Hollander, promotion facilities manager of DuMont was another speaker; and Ira Morais of RKO Theatres answered questions on the theatre side.

Blanche Livingston, in charge of publicity for RKO Theatres out-of-town, was chairman of the event.

Lapinere to Foreign MGM Publicity Post

Elias Lapinere will rejoin Loew's International Corp. on Jan. 1 as special publicity representative in Europe, working on top pictures only, David Lewis, regional director of Continental Europe, reports. Lapinere was with the organization before World War II. His first assignment will probably be on "Quo Vadis," it was said.

WB Troy House Reopens

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Warners' American in Troy will be reopened tomorrow as a first run. # Reviews

"My Pal Gus"

(20th Century-Fox)

RICHARD WIDMARK, Joanne Dru and Audrey Totter are starred in this highly engaging comedy that has the potentials of a box-office sleeper. While top billing goes to the stars, who do have considerable drawing power, the best laugh-getting lines are delivered by the "Gus" of the title, George Winslow, a little boy with an unchild-like, big voice who registered strongly in "Room for One More".

He is the focal point of the proceedings which concern a mother-less father-son relationship that has been appealingly set forth by writers Fay and Michael Kanin. It is the kind of film that can be exploited for its comic values, with the Winslow face and voice an asset, or for the serious side of parent relationships, which is stressed.

Director Robert Parrish has effectively interwoven a romantic sub-plot with the story which deals with the efforts of Widmark, a successful, rags-to-riches bon-bon manufacturer, to understand and love his son, Winslow. Both were left four years previous by money-hungry, brassy Miss Totter. She returns to "shake down" Widmark with the knowledge that his Mexican divorce won't stand up in court.

In the meantime Widmark has fallen in love with Miss Dru, who runs a school for children at which Winslow is happily enrolled. Widmark takes Miss Totter to court and wins a divorce but Winslow is awarded to Miss Totter and Miss Dru's reputation is besmirched by false charges and newspaper headlines. Winslow's evolution from an ill-tempered brat to a "pal", and Miss Dru's love, cause Widmark to give his fortune to Miss Totter in exchange for her signing away any claim to Winslow.

Stanley Rubin produced and has cleverly utilized several smart-looking exteriors while relying mainly on simple sets. The stars perform capably and they are notably supported by Joan Banks and Regis Toomey. Included in the cast are Ludwig Donath, Ann Morrison, and Lisa Golm.

A little exploitation should go a long way on this entertaining comedy that will strongly appeal to the family trade.

Running time, 83 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

"Kansas City Confidential"

(Associated Players & Producers—U. A.)

AN action-melodrama dealing with a perfect $1,000,000 bank robbery planned by a retired police captain, this Edward Small production contains an ample amount of physical violence and sufficient suspense for the average action devotee. Its over-length detracts from the proceedings, which, despite the colorful title, are of a rather routine underworld nature.

John Payne is starred as a florist delivery truck driver with a minor police record who becomes involved when the robbery bandits get away in a facsimile of the florist's wagon. Payne is given a vicious going over frequently in the film and one is administered by the police who pick him up. Upon recovering he vows vengeance on the hold-up gang, mistakenly convinced they have deliberately framed him.

Retired police captain Preston Foster actually master-minded the robbery. His daughter, Coleen Gray, is a law student. Payne's trail leads him to the thieves' rendezvous at a Mexican resort town where they are to divide the money. It develops that Foster actually staged the hold-up to double-cross the thieves, collect the reward, and make fools of the police force against which he bore a grudge. Meanwhile Payne and Miss Gray have fallen in love. The shapely Dona Drake complicates things but all ends happily for Miss Gray and Payne after a gun battle at the finale in which the gang perishes and Foster absolves Payne of any gangster connections.

Phil Karlson directed, from a screenplay by George Bruce and Harry Essex, based on a story by Harold R. Greene and Rowland Brown.

Also in the cast are Neville Brand, Lee Van Cleef, Jack Elam, Howard Negley, Mario Siletti, Helen Kleeb, Vivi Janis, Ted Ryan, George Wallace, and Don Orlando.

Running time, 98 minutes. General audience classification. November release.

Lease Keith's in 'Cincy'

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Shor, Inc., consisting of Rube Shore, Peter Palazzolo and associates, local circuit operators, has negotiated a lease on the currently dark 1,500-seat Keith's Theatre in the downtown sector, at a reported consideration of approximately $500,000. The house, on which City Investing Co. and J. Clarence Davies Realty Co., New York, hold the leasehold, previously was operated by Midstates Theatres. Shor, Inc., which operates the Twin Drive-in, the only outdoor theatre in the city limits, the Forest Drive-in, and the Esquire and West Hills theatres, also has acquired the suburban Westwood from Louis Wiethe, operator of the Valley Theatre in nearby Roselawn. Wiethe will become a consultant with the Shor interests. Keith's will be reopened on Tuesday.

purchasers or if he becomes a guarantor of any part of the $8,000,000 loan, which he agreed to make upon the sale of the picture company stock to the Ralph Stolkin group, then he must put the theatre stock back into trust.

In 1948, Hughes acquired 24 per cent, or 929,020 shares, of RKO stock from Atlas Corp. Upon the divorcement of RKO's theatre and picture operations in 1951, Hughes received 929,020 shares in both the picture and the new theatre company, subsequently adding almost 100,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock. The theatre shares were held in trust by the Irving Trust Co., New York, under a restriction of the RKO divorcement which permitted Hughes to retain ownership of his stock in either, but not both firms.

'Huge Potential' in Arabian Countries

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6. — American-made films are more popular than ever in the Arab-speaking countries, in the opinion of M-G-M producer Albert Lewin, who has returned from abroad.

"Hollywood films have a huge potential market there," he reported on his return from Marrakech, Casablanca and Rabet, French Morocco. Lewin completed six months' research and location scouting for "Saadia" to be filmed in North Africa early next spring for M-G-M.

"At present, most U. S., British and French companies do not dub their films shown in the Middle and Near East due to the expense involved but use Arabic subtitles. However," he said, "a very large proportion of the Arabs cannot read."

By SHERWIN KANE

REFERENCE here last week to the remarks of Lowell Mason of the Federal Trade Commission on some absurdities inherent in judicial approaches to the subjects of "conscious parallelism of action" and treble damage suits, which have loomed so large in motion picture litigation, brought earnest comment and nostalgic reflection from Abram F. Myers, general counsel and chairman of the board of Allied States Association, no stranger, it develops, to the topic.

"This may seem a dull subject," Mr. Myers observes, "in an industry where the most important events are as episodic as a frame on a film, but I can think of no more important issue for discussion and such action as can be taken."

He cites a speech he made before the National Lime Association in 1949, relating to "conscious parallelism" as applied to the pricing of commodities by the basing point system. "There is no legal difference," Myers writes, "between inferring a conspiracy to fix prices

'Should Have Tax Relief,' Legislator Tells Owners

If the 20 per cent Federal admission tax "means the closing of large and small theatres, you're going to see this tax taken off. It's as simple as that." Such was the reaction expressed by Colorado Congressman Wayne N. Aspinall to the pleas of a group of Colorado exhibitors who met with him to ask for support in their fight to obtain repeal of the levy.

Congressman Aspinall told the showmen that repeal is the relief "which I think you should have, because one of the integral parts of our civilization—motion picture entertainment—is going out the window."

Colorado exhibitors won the pledge of a vote for repeal of the tax from Aspinall as the result of the meeting which was cited as an example of the proper procedure exhibitors should use in their campaign for repeal of the tax.

The meeting, described in a statement issued through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations here by Col. H. A. Cole and Pat McGee, co-chairmen of the National Tax Repeal Campaign Committee, was held shortly

Johnston to Paris; French Pact Seen At Critical Stage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — Motion Picture Association of America president Eric A. Johnston left here unexpectedly yesterday for Paris to take part in the negotiation of a new French-American film agreement.

He had been scheduled to leave yesterday on a one month tour of seven South American countries as chairman of the government's International Development Advisory Board. The State Department announced yesterday morning that this tour had been cancelled and that Johnston instead was leaving for France "on urgent business of the film industry."

This latter statement and the fact that Johnston cancelled the South American trip in favor of the Paris trip gave rise to a feeling among some observers that the French negotiations, which have been stalled for the

Attorney Aaron Stein represented Disney at the hearing and presented as witnesses Leo Samuels, Disney sales supervisor; Charles Levy, Eastern publicity director, and Sam Gorelick, RKO Radio's Chicago branch manager.

The theatre and opening date for the Chicago run have not been set.

See No Quick Move to End Hughes' Trust

Irving Trust Gets No Hughes Communication

No indications that Howard Hughes will move immediately to take his RKO Theatres stock out of trust, pursuant to the recent stipulation with the Department of Justice, were discernible here at the weekend.

A representative of Irving Trust Co., trustee of Hughes' 929,020 shares of RKO Theatres stock, said he has received no communication from Hughes as to his intentions.

Neither has any move to resign been made by Ben-Fleming Sessel or William J. Wardall, two members of the RKO Theatres board of directors, representing Irving Trust Co. Thomas Slack, Hughes' attorney, who was here recently for conferences with executives of RKO Radio Pictures on Hughes' pledge to loan $8,000,000 to the film firm, has left for the Coast.

It was learned that the next meetand a conspiracy not to license pictures to a particular exhibitor, based on mere uniformity without any evidence of collusion."

In his speech of more than three years ago, Myers traced the beginning of the doctrine to the appropriation by the Federal Trade Commission of the language of the Sherman Act in price fixing cases in the mid 1920s, one of which was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1927 (FTC v. Pacific States Paper Trade Association.)

"Thus," he said, "there was imported into the Federal Trade Commission Act what Mr. Justice Jackson has recently described as that 'elastic, sprawling and pervasive offense' of conspiracy."

Justice Jackson, Myers said, went on to say that the "modern crime of conspiracy is so vague that it almost defies definition" and that "loose practice as to this offense constitutes a serious threat to fairness in our administration of justice." He also pointed out, Myers said, that by charging conspiracy instead of the substantive offense the prosecutor is relieved of the necessity of proving a specific intent to commit that offense; further, that it even dispenses with the "necessity to infer any definite agreement, although that is the gist of the offense."

"From the standpoint of the prosecutor," Myers said, "a conspiracy charge greatly simplifies his problem. In administrative and civil proceedings he makes no effort to prove the conspiracy by direct evidence. He merely dumps into the record everything the parties have done that can have any possible relation to the charge; and if this evidence shows that any two or more of them have been proceeding along parallel lines, he will ask the Court or the Commission to infer that they were engaged in a conspiracy. And if that inference is drawn, as it generally is, then the overt acts and incriminating admissions of one conspirator, even if committed without the knowledge or consent of the others, will be accepted as proof against all. Against this background Justice Jackson concludes that 'A co-defendant in a conspiracy trial occupies an uneasy seat.' For, as he points out, 'It is difficult for the individual to make his own case stand on its own merits in the minds of jurors who are ready to believe that birds of a feather are flocked together.'"

In his speech, Myers went on to cite paradoxes that developed as a result of dispositions of various cases and concluded that "Parallel action to be safe must be the result of sheer coincidence and then only when it occurs among monks, hermits and denizens of the jungle with no knowledge of what is going on in the outside world."

Myers writes: "I still hope that a case—not necessarily a motion picture case—which squarely presents the issue, will reach the Supreme Court and that counsel will attack the unwarranted expansion of the offense of conspiracy along the lines of Justice Jackson's observations in the Krulewitch case."

It would seem that in the voluminous litigation files of this industry such a case might be found. If so, it would be well worth the test Myers suggests for, if successful, it would result in confining the general law of conspiracy to its originally intended function—to protect and preserve competition. As Myers says, "That would afford industries that want to obey the law all the protection they need."

ing of the board of RKO Theatres is slated for December and, barring any resignations, an earlier board meeting is not expected.

According to a report, yet unconfirmed, a provision in the recent Justice Department stipulation allows a Hughes' loan to RKO Pictures and at the same time allows Hughes to take his theatres' stock out of trust if the loan is repaid within a certain period of time, said to be within one or two years.

In the event Hughes chooses to reacquire his voting rights to his theatres' stock, two board members, replacing those representing the Irving Trust Co., would be selected by him, it is pointed out. Of the six board members, one is David J. Greene and another A. Louis Oresman, a member of the Greene group which staged a lively proxy battle last January to gain board representation. It is not known at this point whether the Justice Department would allow Hughes to acquire additional shares in RKO Theatres in the event another proxy contest develops and he wishes to add to his 24 per cent holdings in the company. The Greene group at the last proxy contest owned or controlled 350,000 shares. The two remaining board members are Sol A. Schwartz, president of the company, and Edward C. Raftery, counsel to the company.

The recent Justice Department stipulation which defines the conditions under which Hughes can take out his theatres stock from trusteeship was not viewed in trade quarters as any tip-off on the possible sale of the stock. Although the stock was trusteed, it was pointed out, since the divorcement of the company, Hughes always had the power to sell the stock and fought and won a decision by the courts upholding that right, and denying it to the trustee.

Hughes acquired 929,020 shares of RKO stock from the Atlas Corp. in 1948 for approximately $9,000,000 and, upon divorcement, received 929,020 shares in both the new picture and the new theatre company, subsequently adding almost 100,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock. He sold his interest in the picture company for $7,040,000 to the Ralph Stolkin group in September. The theatre stock is currently quoted on the New York stock exchange at 3¾, but it is believed that Hughes could receive about $5 per share for his controlling interest, or approximately $5,000,000 for the entire block, if he chooses to sell. In that event, his $9,000,000 investment would result in a $12,000,000 return, or an approximate profit of $3,000,000 on a four-year investment.

The list of 15 theatres that will participate in the James Lees & Sons national sales convention theatre telecast Dec. 8 was disclosed here at the weekend by Theatre Network Television, the agency which booked the event. The following TV-equipped houses will join the first commercial telecast, which will be held between 12:00 and 1:00 P.M.:

RKO Keith's, Washington; Warner's Stanley, Philadelphia; Guild, New York; Pilgrim, Boston; Loew's State, St. Louis; Harris, Pittsburgh; Hollywood, Detroit; RKO Albee, Cincinnati; Hippodrome, Cleveland; Gopher, Minneapolis; Telenews, Chicago; Paramount, Denver; Camark, Salt Lake City; Telenews, San Francisco, and the Orpheum in Los Angeles.

The programming and promotion of the event, which will be seen by an invited audience, mainly of Lees carpet dealers, was developed by Victor M. Ratner, director of Theatre Tele-Sessions, a subsidiary of TNT.

'Andersen' Benefit Entirely Cost-free

All organizations and individuals participating in the benefit world premiere of Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" at the Criterion Theatre here on Nov. 24 are donating their services, according to Maurice Bergman, publicity chairman for the Variety Clubs Will Rogers Memorial Hospital benefit committee.

"This is a unique benefit," said Bergman, "in that the entire gross proceeds will go to the hospital. Every ticket will be paid for, and no one is collecting a penny for his or her work in behalf of the premiere."

Goldwyn is donating the film, while Charles B. Moss, managing director of the Criterion, and his staff, are giving their services free for the evening. In addition, all members of Richard Walsh's IATSE will work without pay.

Among others who will contribute their services are Radio City Music Hall ushers; National Ticket Co., Donahue and Coe advertising agency; Morrill and McDermott, typographers; and Wilbar Photo Engraving.

"In addition," Bergman pointed out, "members of the industry are buying most of the tickets."

before election at Grand Junction, Colo., between Aspinall and 23 exhibitors, many of whom had traveled hundreds of miles to be present. At the end of the meeting, during which the exhibitors presented facts and figures about their operations to show the injustice of the tax, the Congressman not only pledged himself to vote for repeal but advised the exhibitors how the industry should proceed after Congress convenes to get the tax killed.

"This is the information I've been waiting to have for some time," said Aspinall after the theatre owners had told individually of their plight. He asked for financial affidavits, pledging himself to take their case before the House Ways and Means Committee.

The meeting was organized by Robert Walker, of Walker's Unitah Theatre, Fruita, Colo. Walker had obtained a commitment several weeks ago from the Congressman, but when Aspinall heard no complaints about the tax from other exhibitors in his district he indicated that he might not consider the commitment binding. Learning of the Congressman's changed attitude, Walker traveled over the district and explained to theatre owners that if the Congressman was to be convinced of the injustice of the tax he would have to be given facts and figures in a meeting of several exhibitors.

Commenting on the meeting, the statement from Cole and McGee said: "This successful meeting in Colorado gives emphasis to something we have recommended over and over since the start of this campaign. And that is that the best and surest way to obtain a commitment to vote for repeal is for a group of exhibitors to meet the Congressman and present their individual experiences with this tax."

Goldwyn's Stand on Subscription TV

Samuel Goldwyn declared in New York on Friday that it would be at least five years before subscription TV was commercially feasible and that then pay-as-you-go TV would have a share of the motion picture market.

He denied published reports that he had said "within five years 50 per cent of the nation's theatres will be closed and the motion picture market will be shared equally by pay-as-you-go TV, regular TV and theatres."

REFERENCE here last week to the remarks of Lowell Mason of the Federal Trade Commission on some absurdities inherent in judicial approaches to the subjects of "conscious parallelism of action" and treble damage suits, which have loomed so large in motion picture litigation, brought earnest comment and nostalgic reflection from Abram F. Myers, general counsel and chairman of the board of Allied States Association, no stranger, it develops, to the topic.

"This may seem a dull subject," Mr. Myers observes, "in an industry where the most important events are as episodic as a frame on a film, but I can think of no more important issue for discussion and such action as can be taken."

He cites a speech he made before the National Lime Association in 1949, relating to "conscious parallelism" as applied to the pricing of commodities by the basing point system. "There is no legal difference," Myers writes, "between inferring a conspiracy to fix prices

'Should Have Tax Relief,' Legislator Tells Owners

If the 20 per cent Federal admission tax "means the closing of large and small theatres, you're going to see this tax taken off. It's as simple as that." Such was the reaction expressed by Colorado Congressman Wayne N. Aspinall to the pleas of a group of Colorado exhibitors who met with him to ask for support in their fight to obtain repeal of the levy.

Congressman Aspinall told the showmen that repeal is the relief "which I think you should have, because one of the integral parts of our civilization—motion picture entertainment—is going out the window."

Colorado exhibitors won the pledge of a vote for repeal of the tax from Aspinall as the result of the meeting which was cited as an example of the proper procedure exhibitors should use in their campaign for repeal of the tax.

The meeting, described in a statement issued through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations here by Col. H. A. Cole and Pat McGee, co-chairmen of the National Tax Repeal Campaign Committee, was held shortly

Johnston to Paris; French Pact Seen At Critical Stage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — Motion Picture Association of America president Eric A. Johnston left here unexpectedly yesterday for Paris to take part in the negotiation of a new French-American film agreement.

He had been scheduled to leave yesterday on a one month tour of seven South American countries as chairman of the government's International Development Advisory Board. The State Department announced yesterday morning that this tour had been cancelled and that Johnston instead was leaving for France "on urgent business of the film industry."

This latter statement and the fact that Johnston cancelled the South American trip in favor of the Paris trip gave rise to a feeling among some observers that the French negotiations, which have been stalled for the

UA, Chemical Bank

Artists spokesmen said Friday that the company would have greater selectivity and control of each production project and that all details as to story and production would be screened first by UA before being submitted to the bank.

The 10 pictures are expected to be ready for release in the latter part of 1953 and in 1954.

and a conspiracy not to license pictures to a particular exhibitor, based on mere uniformity without any evidence of collusion."

In his speech of more than three years ago, Myers traced the beginning of the doctrine to the appropriation by the Federal Trade Commission of the language of the Sherman Act in price fixing cases in the mid 1920s, one of which was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1927 (FTC v. Pacific States Paper Trade Association.)

"Thus," he said, "there was imported into the Federal Trade Commission Act what Mr. Justice Jackson has recently described as that 'elastic, sprawling and pervasive offense' of conspiracy."

Justice Jackson, Myers said, went on to say that the "modern crime of conspiracy is so vague that it almost defies definition" and that "loose practice as to this offense constitutes a serious threat to fairness in our administration of justice." He also pointed out, Myers said, that by charging conspiracy instead of the substantive offense the prosecutor is relieved of the necessity of proving a specific intent to commit that offense; further, that it even dispenses with the "necessity to infer any definite agreement, although that is the gist of the offense."

"From the standpoint of the prosecutor," Myers said, "a conspiracy charge greatly simplifies his problem. In administrative and civil proceedings he makes no effort to prove the conspiracy by direct evidence. He merely dumps into the record everything the parties have done that can have any possible relation to the charge; and if this evidence shows that any two or more of them have been proceeding along parallel lines, he will ask the Court or the Commission to infer that they were engaged in a conspiracy. And if that inference is drawn, as it generally is, then the overt acts and incriminating admissions of one conspirator, even if committed without the knowledge or consent of the others, will be accepted as proof against all. Against this background Justice Jackson concludes that 'A co-defendant in a conspiracy trial occupies an uneasy seat.' For, as he points out, 'It is difficult for the individual to make his own case stand on its own merits in the minds of jurors who are ready to believe that birds of a feather are flocked together.'"

In his speech, Myers went on to cite paradoxes that developed as a result of dispositions of various cases and concluded that "Parallel action to be safe must be the result of sheer coincidence and then only when it occurs among monks, hermits and denizens of the jungle with no knowledge of what is going on in the outside world."

Myers writes: "I still hope that a case—not necessarily a motion picture case—which squarely presents the issue, will reach the Supreme Court and that counsel will attack the unwarranted expansion of the offense of conspiracy along the lines of Justice Jackson's observations in the Krulewitch case."

It would seem that in the voluminous litigation files of this industry such a case might be found. If so, it would be well worth the test Myers suggests for, if successful, it would result in confining the general law of conspiracy to its originally intended function—to protect and preserve competition. As Myers says, "That would afford industries that want to obey the law all the protection they need."

Livingston to Aid Pioneers Publicity

Milton Livingston, Universal trade press contact here, has been appointed to assist David A. Bader, national publicity director of the Motion Picture Pioneers, on the publicity for this year's "Jubilee Dinner" to be held at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Nov. 24.

N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, will be honored at the "Jubilee Dinner" as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of 1952." George Jessel will be toastmaster of the dinner and Ned E. Depinet will be chairman.

Illinois Drive-In Files Equity Suit

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Attorney Seymour Simon has filed an equity suit, asking relief from alleged withholding of pictures from the Family Drive-in, Clinton, Ill., until 30 days after they have played the McCollum circuit's Kaye and Clintonia, both also in Clinton, in Judge Phillip Sullivan's Chicago Federal District Court.

The suit, against the eight major film companies, Arthur Nelson and the McCollum circuit, asks no damages—merely a correction of the situation. The Family, owned by the Clinton Theatre Corp., is operated by Frank Stewart, who also operates the Rivoli, Danville, Ill., and the Family Drive-in, Urbana, Ill.

Hughes' Trust

ing of the board of RKO Theatres is slated for December and, barring any resignations, an earlier board meeting is not expected.

According to a report, yet unconfirmed, a provision in the recent Justice Department stipulation allows a Hughes' loan to RKO Pictures and at the same time allows Hughes to take his theatres' stock out of trust if the loan is repaid within a certain period of time, said to be within one or two years.

In the event Hughes chooses to reacquire his voting rights to his theatres' stock, two board members, replacing those representing the Irving Trust Co., would be selected by him, it is pointed out. Of the six board members, one is David J. Greene and another A. Louis Oresman, a member of the Greene group which staged a lively proxy battle last January to gain board representation. It is not known at this point whether the Justice Department would allow Hughes to acquire additional shares in RKO Theatres in the event another proxy contest develops and he wishes to add to his 24 per cent holdings in the company. The Greene group at the last proxy contest owned or controlled 350,000 shares. The two remaining board members are Sol A. Schwartz, president of the company, and Edward C. Raftery, counsel to the company.

The recent Justice Department stipulation which defines the conditions under which Hughes can take out his theatres stock from trusteeship was not viewed in trade quarters as any tip-off on the possible sale of the stock. Although the stock was trusteed, it was pointed out, since the divorcement of the company, Hughes always had the power to sell the stock and fought and won a decision by the courts upholding that right, and denying it to the trustee.

Hughes acquired 929,020 shares of RKO stock from the Atlas Corp. in 1948 for approximately $9,000,000 and, upon divorcement, received 929,020 shares in both the new picture and the new theatre company, subsequently adding almost 100,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock. He sold his interest in the picture company for $7,040,000 to the Ralph Stolkin group in September. The theatre stock is currently quoted on the New York stock exchange at 3¾, but it is believed that Hughes could receive about $5 per share for his controlling interest, or approximately $5,000,000 for the entire block, if he chooses to sell. In that event, his $9,000,000 investment would result in a $12,000,000 return, or an approximate profit of $3,000,000 on a four-year investment.
